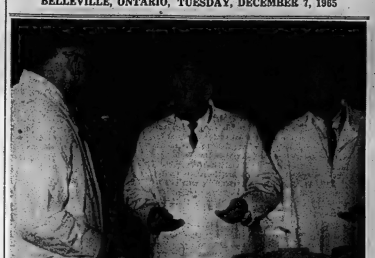
Raids had penetrated no more than 30 miles into Mozambique, which stretches 2,000 miles along the Indian ocean and varies in width from 400 miles in the north to 30 in the south.

STRIKE AT NIGHT

Other sketchy reports tell of cruel if small-scale fighting in which six - man rebel commands squads — Mondlane claims more than 2,000 men—strike at night, then vanish into the jungle to prepare new ambushes. Portuguese planes strafe villages in which guerrillas are suspected of lurking. "Elephant trap" techniques are used to disable vehicles, leaving the occupants at the mercy of waiting rebels.

These stories are reminiscent, although on a much smaller scale, of the insensate terrorism and brutal retaliation that ripped through Angola in 1961. The Portuguese won out there, temporarily at least, although rebel leader Holden Roberto has established an exile government in the neighboring Congo. Mondlane said the two uprisings were not linked.

Government informants estimated there are 30,000 Portuguese soldiers in Mozambique and 70,000 in the larger Angola territory.



Silva spoke of the difficulty of tracking down invaders who can pick their point of entry anywhere along Mozambique's 1,000-mile river-and-lake border on the north and northwest.

This beautiful white-towered city of 185,000, with its golden sands, glorious tropical colors and gleaming apartment buildings and hotels, is more than 1,000 miles from the scenes of battle. The only reminders to the visitor are occasional military contingents in battle gear.

Tomorrow: Tourists drawn by Latin naughtiness.

Sunday Movies, Sports, Lounges Given Nod in Many Municipalities

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Sunday movies and sports, cocktail lounges, ice arenas and fluoridation got the nod or the boot along with civil officials in several Ontario communities Monday.

Sunday movies were approved by voters in Harmora, 40 miles east of Peterborough, London Township, Simcoe and in Petrolia, about 10 miles southeast of Sarnia.

Sunday sports were also approved by Harmora, Simcoe and Petrolia citizens as well as in Smiths Falls, Vankleek Hill, a town about 35 miles north of Cornwall, and Ingersoll.

The community of Hanover, about 30 miles south of Owen Sound, turned down both Sunday movies and sports with 647-399 and 721-321 votes.

In the town of Delhi, northwest of Simcoe, Sunday billiards were approved 627-403.

And Palmerston, 25 miles northwest of Waterloo, voted to keep its only theatre open Friday and Saturday nights and Saturday afternoons.

Palmerston voters also approved a two - year term for council.

Cocktail lounges were accepted in Marmora and rejected, along with dining lounges, in Ridgetown, 15 miles east of Chatham.

It was thumbs down for fluoridation in both Peterborough and Lindsay.

Peterborough voters also said no to a city manager form of government, but approved a $150,000 artificial ice arena.

Chatham rejected by a 417-vote margin a proposed skating arena costing up to $217,000. In another issue, they voted for a $627,000 debenture for elementary school construction.

ODDS AND ENDS

Belleville's Garrison Badminton Club played host to men, women and mixed teams from Peterborough, Napanee and Picton for a successful meet last Saturday, winding up the affair with a dance and social gathering . . . Bowman George H. Carver is away for a well-deserved rest at Orillia and rumour has it he will try to come up with a new crystal ball on his travels . . . If Canadian boxer George Chuvalo does not win and win big on his current campaign in England he can forget about another crack at the world crown. He's got a long fight back to contention but he's got the good background to take the trip somewhat . . . Metra Secondary School's senior basketball team plays host to Albert College tomorrow in elimination play, with the winner to meet BCIVS - QSS winner for the right to represent Bay of Quinte area in the annual Queen's University tournament.

Friends and relatives of Gerry Oyer slipped down to Buffalo and Rochester recently to watch the big centre play with Portland against the AHL teams. Earlier this season it was noted that Oyer had registered his 300th scoring point in as many Western Hockey League games . . . Like something a little different in the sports line? Why not give the Belleville Bowerettes' squad a try any Thursday night at the Elk's hall. There are instructors for beginners and you could turn out to be another Robin Hood . . . The "working man's hockey leagues" are in full swing again, what with the Quinte League here on Thursday nights, Northern Electric Interdepartmental, Commercial "B" and Gas House League on Sundays and then there's the Prince Edward Northshore at Wellington and Picton.

Belleville teams are doing just fine in district OMHA play with the city representatives in the novices, Rollins' peewees, the Klansmen bantams and Ellis Printers midgets. Why not watch them in action some night and see for yourself? . . . Metro-B.S. wrestlers have an intersquad competition slated for this Friday, then comes the big invitational meet on Saturday, December 18th, with stars from Bay of Quinte district schools taking part.

NHL hero worshippers should be in for a great winter since stars like Hull, Rousseau, Howe, Mikita, Shack ? ? ? and others are all due to play there . . . Tom Lavender, starry young forward from Wellington who does his puck-chasing for Whitby Junior "B's", has fallen victim to several leg injuries lately . . . Ex-Bay Shore Wren Blair admits Whitby has a bit better club than his Oshawa Crunchem, "because they play against better opposition in the Toronto Metro League."

Ellis Juniors softballers held their season-wind-up banquet on Saturday night, celebrating another fine season for sponsor Dick Ellis, coach Harold Reid, manager Paul Russell and their boys . . . City fans will finally get a first hand look at Toronto Apple Kings when they visit Rollins Juniors here Friday night. Both clubs are looking for points since only four of the loop's six squads will make the playoffs come March . . . Moe Benoit's slapshot must still be going strong. We see where the big guy recently scored as his Toledo Blades tied Fort Wayne 3-3.

That must have been some kind of modern-day record at least when Boston Bruins had 20 goals scored against them in back-to-back games last week as Detroit downed them 10-3 and Chicago 10-1 . . . The list of top money winners in pro golf released yesterday should encourage plenty of duffers to get serious about the game. Topping the list was Jack Nicklaus with no less than $152,246 while tenth man Arnie Palmer, had $80,500, and those are figures for one year, Grandma.

A review of publication rules for bowling leagues secretaries: team scores and the top six individuals, please, and they must be sent in within 48 hours. We do stretch the rules if they are one day late but results received from leagues that bowled four, five and sometimes six days before are out of the question. Most leagues are doing fine to date, thank you . . . Chicago Hawks, currently atop NHL standings, have played only one tie game this season . . . Ex-Mac Ken Gribbons is potting goals for Port Huron Flags of the International League and Ron Main is still with the Eastern league's Greensboro entry . . . Charlie Burau's appointment as playing coach of Will's Seals came as a surprise to many. An outstanding minor-pro player, the ex-Whitby star hardly seems the rough, tough coach type.

A renowned research institute has found a unique healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids painlessly, to relieve itching and discomfort in minutes and speeds up healing of the injured, inflamed tissue.

"One hemorrhoidal case history after another reports very striking improvement." Pain was promptly and gently relieved ... actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

Among these case histories were a variety of hemorrhoidal conditions. Relief even occurred in cases of long standing, and most important of all, results were so thorough that this improvement was maintained over a period of many months.

This was accomplished with a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne) which quickly helps heal injured cells and stimulates growth of new tissue. Bio-Dyne is offered in ointment and suppository form called Preparation H.

In addition to actually shrinking hemorrhoids, Preparation H lubricates and makes elimination less painful. It helps prevent infection which is a principal cause of hemorrhoids.

Just ask your druggist for Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H Ointment (with a special applicator).

New Job For Sullivan ★★★★★ ★★★★★ Result Of Slump

Francis Doubles As Ranger Coach

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Emile Francis, who traded angry words with a goal judge and swapped punches with a fan two weeks ago, has a tougher fight on his hands today.

The scrappy New York Rangers general manager has the task of guiding the Blueshirts up the National Hockey League ladder after replacing Red Sullivan as coach Monday. Sullivan, 35, remains with the club as co-ordinator of player personnel and talent scout.

RED SULLIVAN

Francis, 39, who has rebuilt the club with a series of major trades in the 13 months since he took over as general manager, takes command with the Rangers in the midst of a nine game winless string that has dropped them back to fifth place, only two points in front of cellar - dwelling Boston Bruins.

New York has managed just one victory in the last 10 starts and only two in the last 14. Sullivan, in his third full season as coach, first blamed the officers for not giving 60 minutes of effort in every game and then backed off and took part of himself for overworking the team.

"Emile had to make a move," he said. "I was paid to win hockey games and we just weren't winning them and that's the name of this game—winning."

JOINS IMLACH, ABEL

Francis becomes the NHL's third general manager - coach —Toronto's Punch Imlach and Detroit's Sid Abel are the others.

"We're making the change with the hope we can get the club moving along toward the Stanley Cup playoffs," Francis said. "We've had a bad streak recently but we feel the club can snap out of it."

Sullivan agreed. "I think we still have a good shot at the playoffs and if anybody can do the job, Emile's the guy."

Emile's also the guy who nearly precipitated a full-scale riot in Madison Square Garden two weeks ago when he raced from his seat to argue with goal judge Arthur Reichert over a disputed call.

The ex-goaltender got into a squabble with some fans and a dozen Ranger players had to scale the glass partition to rescue their diminutive boss. The incident cost Francis, and his players $1,800 in fines.

Francis has had only limited coaching experience, piloting Guelph of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series, a Ranger farm team, in 1960-61 and 1961-62.

PETERBOROUGH (CP)— There's a bright future for New York Rangers of the National Hockey League, former coach Red Sullivan said Monday night.

In a telephone interview with The Examiner here, Sullivan said: "The Rangers couldn't put the puck into the net, and when they did, they couldn't hold on to the lead."

Emile (Cat) Francis took over the coaching job as an extension of his duties as general manager after Sullivan, 35, was shifted to become co-ordinator of player personnel and scouting.

"I'm hurt, but this happens in this business," said Sullivan. "But I can go out with my head high, because I've given my best."

He said he had not yet decided whether he will bring his wife and four children back to his home here or not.

Earlier in New York, Sullivan's wife, Mary, said: "It looks as if he'll be travelling a lot again. If he can work it, Peterborough might just as well be his home base as New York."

Basketball Results

Philadelphia 76ers trimmed Los Angeles Lakers 110-107 in the lone game in the National Basketball Association Monday night.

Wilt Chamberlain popped in 29 points as high man for the 76ers, but it was the hot shooting of rookie Billy Cunningham that spurred the Philadelphia offence. Cunningham scored 21 before fouling out.

Bygraves vs Chuvalo

Win A 'Must' For Both Fighters

By JIM CONWAY

LONDON (CP) — When George Chuvalo, Canadian heavyweight champion, enters the ring with Joe Bygraves at London's Albert Hall tonight, he will be meeting a veteran fighter who is out to prove he's no has-been.

Bygraves, 34, fought his way up to become one of the top boxers in Britain in the middle 1950s. He has had 66 fights, winning 41, during his 12-year career, but has only had three bouts in the last two years.

Chuvalo, defeated recently in Toronto by Ernie Terrell, World Boxing Association heavyweight champion, hopes a win will improve his chances of getting a match with Cassius Clay.

The fight against Chuvalo is also a big test for Bygraves. It could be an eliminator for the British Empire title.

Then, after three years, he used his sledgehammer left effectively in 36 fights, including an unsuccessful dust-up with Ingemar Johansson of Sweden, until he was reconsidered as the No. 1 challenger for the British Empire heavyweight title.

His first challenge came in February, 1957, from a cockney pewterer named Henry Cooper, now British and Empire champion. Bygraves finished the young Londoner off in nine rounds.

He was back in the ring to knock out Gerhard Zech in West Germany in November, 1961, and to [illegible] another crack at Johansson.

They met in February, 1962, but Johansson battered Bygraves into defeat after seven rounds.

The chance for a real comeback came when he fought an up-and-coming Londoner, Billy Walker, in January, 1964.

Most pundits expected a win by the more experienced Jamaican but Walker won when Bygraves was disqualified in the sixth round for low punching.

World Racing At Picton July 1 - 4

BELLEVILLE (CP) — The first major international powerboat race in Canada in five years will be held at nearby Hayward Reach, about 20 miles southeast of Belleville, July 1-4.

The seven-litre event, under rules of the Union of International Motorboating, will be open to craft with up to 4.27 cubic-inch piston displacement.

In 1960 and 1961, the Harnsworth Trophy event was held in Canada and won both times by Bob Hayward of London, Ont., in Canada's Miss Supertest.

About 30 entries are expected for the Maple Leaf Trophy competition next summer.

Mikita Bidding For Three In Row

Tops Scoring Parade

MONTREAL (CP)—Stan Mikita, Chicago Black Hawks' flashy centre, is making a strong bid to win his third consecutive National Hockey League scoring championship.

Mikita, 25, a native of Sokice, Czechoslovakia, moved to the top of the league's point-scoring race with eight points last week, including six goals.

Statistics released by NHL headquarters today show Mikita with 14 goals and 15 assists for 29 points.

Bobby Hull, Chicago's star left winger, returned to action after missing four games and scored seven points, giving him a second-place tie with Bobby Rousseau of Montreal Canadiens, last week's leader. Both have 28 points.

EACH IS A LEADER

Hull leads the league in goal scoring with 17 while Rousseau is the assist leader with 16.

The big scoring feature of the week, however, belonged to Norm Ullman of Detroit Red Wings, last season's goal-scoring leader, who scored 10 points in the Wings' three games.

He scored four goals, including three in one game, and added six assists. That boosted him into a fourth-place tie with Jean Beliveau of Montreal, each with 23 points.

Gordie Howe and Alex Delvecchio of Detroit and Don Marshall of New York are tied for ninth place with 18 points apiece.

Glenn Hall of Chicago maintained his lead among goalkeepers. In 17 2-3 games, Hall has been beaten 40 times for a 2.36 goals-against average. He also leads in shutouts with three.

Jim Young Will Play For Vikings

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Minnesota Vikings announced Monday that halback Tommy Mason will undergo knee surgery this week and will miss the final two games of the 1965 National Football League season.

Mason, five-year veteran from Tulane University, will have loose cartilage in his right knee removed. He injured the knee in Sunday's 24-19 Minnesota loss to Green Bay Packers.

For three years an outstanding halfback with Queen's Golden Gaels, Young gave up his final year of Canadian college football eligibility to try to win a berth with the Vikings.

Although he scored two touchdowns in a pre-season exhibition game and was praised by coach Norm van Brocklin, Young was assigned to the taxi squad, a group of players held in reserve in case of injury to regulars.

Rollins Win In Final Minute

COBOURG — Bursting the seams with three goals in the final minute of the game, Belleville Rollins Construction came from behind to defeat Cobourg Cougars 6-4 here last night.

The victory boosted Belleville in the OHA Eastern Junior "B" loop standings, giving the club 12 points, while Cobourg remains in the cellar, with eight.

Cobourg appeared headed for victory after trailing 2-1 in the first. The Cougars got two without a reply in the second for a 3-2 lead. Rollins tied it 3-3 but Cobourg again went in front, at 16.57, of the third.

Hagerman clinched the win with Cobourg's goalie out in favor of an extra attacker, at 20.47. Boyle also assisted on this one.

Back in the opening heat defencemen Doug Frank scored the first of two at 18.20 to tie the game 1-1. Dale Duvall helped on the play.

Potts' third - period goal, at 8.34, was on a solo effort.

Gus Bambridge fired the first two Cobourg goals, helped by Frank Godfrey on both and by Bill Ryan and Keith Boundy on one each. Gord Stevenson scored Cobourg's third marker, assisted by Brian Gillis and B. Elinesky.

Elinesky notched the final Cougar goal for the late lead in the third with Gillis assisting but that was it until the final Belleville rally.

Wa ne Brant returned to the Rollins' nets after a three-game absence and turned in some key stops, as did Cobourg's Rick Austin.

Trenton referee Dave Smith handed out only eight minor penalties, five of them going to Cobourg.

'I'm Out Of It' -- Unitas

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — "I'm out of it," quarterback John Unitas said Monday about being available if Baltimore Colts reach the Jan. 2 championship playoff of the National Football League.

Unitas wrenched his knee Sunday against Chicago Bears. He underwent surgery several hours later to repair torn ligaments and remove a cartilage from the knee.

In bed at Union Memorial Hospital, with his right leg in a cast from ankle to groin, Unitas said he will be sidelined for at least six weeks.

There had been a faint hope that the quarterback might be able to be back in shape for the title game. The Colts could earn a playoff berth by beating Green Bay Packers here Sunday.

Gary Cuozzo, understudy to Unitas the last two seasons, is the only experienced quarterback available on the Colts' roster.

Tom Matte, a quarterback at Ohio State but a halfback since joining the Colts in 1961, will practice as backstop to Cuozzo.

FIGHTER HURT

UNITAS LAID UP — Quarterback John Unitas of the Baltimore Colts sits up in his bed at Union Memorial Hospital as Harry Hulmes, team publicity man, looks at the cast put on Unitas' leg after an operation on his knee. Unitas, most valuable player in the National Football League last season, wrenched the knee near the end of the first half of Sunday's game with the Chicago Bears and will be lost to the team for the rest of the season. Ontario Senior Meet

Apollo Lifters Fare Well

A six-man team from Belleville's Apollo Bar - Bell Club competed successfully in the Ontario Senior Weightlifting championships on the weekend.

Coach Ken Carr-Brain's team consisted of Price Morris and five teen-age lifters but the youthful squad brought home one first, one second, two thirds, one fourth and one fifth.

Sudbury lifters captured most of the main honors.

Bill Hayes had a 410 pound total to take second in the bantamweight division.

Bob Walt had a total of 580 pounds for third place in the lightweight class.

Carr-Brain said that the club is currently training hard for the Eastern Ontario teen-age contest which will be held here in Belleville on Saturday, December 18. The meet will be held at the Recreation Centre, at seven o'clock.

Scoring Leader Seeks Record

NEW YORK (AP) — Pete Gogolak, Buffalo Bills' soccer style place kicker, needs only two more field goals to top the American Football League record of 27 set by Gene Mingo of Denver in 1962.

Gogolak's five field goals and two conversions Sunday against Houston Oilers have turned the scoring race into a two-way race according to official statistics released Monday.

Gogolak has 105 points and runner-up, Gino Cappelletti of Boston Patriots has 81. Each has two games to play.

Paul Howe of San Diego Chargers appears to have a lock on the rushing title with 990 yards. Cookie Gilchrist of Denver Broncos is second with 796 yards.

Hopes to Make Cross-eyed Lion Star in TV Series

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — Ivan Tors, the producer who converted a dolphin named Susy into a television star named Flipper, is hoping to do the same for a cross - eyed lion named Clarence.

Jan. 11, Tors' newest series, Daktari, will take over the Tuesday night hour occupied by Rawhide, and its star will be a full-grown big cat with eye trouble.

Flipper and Daktari grew out of a TV series Tors made 10 years ago called Science Fiction Theatre.

"Tranquillizers had recently come on the market," he recalled, "and to make one of the shows we tested them on an untamed ocelot. We were even able to put the ocelot with a tame animal and they got along well."

That started Tors' interested in animals, and he found that by giving tranquillizers to wild animals for a three - week period, he was able to get them accustomed to his presence.

"And then when we took them —or most of them—off the drug, they knew us and accepted us," he said.

This led him to part ownership of an animal farm overLos Angeles which now contains many animals—30 lions, six tigers, seven elephants, leopards and a black panther among them. They are frequently used in motion picture work. Clarence was one of six cubs the farm bought from a zoo.

"We had the top eye specialist from the University of California at Los Angeles take a look at his eyes," he said, "and he found that the cub was too old to be helped by an operation. Clarence is a wonderful animal with a good disposition."

Tors has another series up his sleeve—this one about a killer whale, which is really a giant dolphin.

"We have one who is so big that if he wanted to he could bite a walrus in half," the producer said. "But he's just as friendly and tame as Flipper. We have him in a Florida lagoon, which is closed off by a submarine net. And he is so fond of humans that he follows you around the edge when you walk there. He really needs companionship."

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Appearances can deceive, as in the case of Max Baer Jr., son of the late former heavyweight champion.

Those who think of him as the happy-go-lucky Jethro of The Beverly Hillbillies should take a closer look. That's not easy, since Max sees few persons outside his close circle of friends: mostly actors (he "I'm not fond of actor types").

Nor does Max cotton to interviews; he has eluded them in recent times. Inexplicably, he consented to a lunchtime chat, perhaps to explain why he doesn't like interviews.

"Did you see that show about Sinatra on CBS?" he asked. "Sinatra was explaining his attitude about publicity and he quoted something Bogart had told him. He said: 'All I owe the public is a good performance.'

"That's how I feel. I am damned good at what I have to do and don't try to tell me that acting Jethro is easy, because it isn't. Well, I do my job and that's it. That's all the public is going to get from me."

He has turned down the big money offers to play state fairs, night spots and so on.

HATED TOUSES

"I tried that early in the game and I hated it," he explained. "I'm not an entertainer; I can't sing or dance or tell funny stories. So people would be paying just to see me in the flesh. That is demeaning. I couldn't pay me enough to do it again."

Baer graduated in business administration from the University of Santa Clara, but he indicated that his real education came afterward.

"A friend and I spent four months travelling all over the country in freight cars," he recalled. "We lived in hobo jungles and of course we had to steal a little to survive. I mean like a can or two lifted from a grocery store."

This is something that doesn't appear in his official CBS biography. After six months in the air force, Max came to Hollywood, but not necessarily to act.

"I went into acting because I was hungry," he explained. "I mean like starving. Before that I was in bookmaking. I wasn't a gambler, really, because you can't lose paying black odds. I was doing very well until I got raided.

"After that was when I got hungry. So I turned to acting, and I made it entirely on my own; I didn't trade on my father's name. That's another reason I don't owe anybody anything. I did it all by myself."

Max admitted that the gratitude and admiration for Paul Henning, creator and chief script writer of Beverly Hillbillies after more than 200 segments. This is the fourth successful year of the series, and Max is signed for two more.

Says Bout 'Just For Laughs'

LONDON (CP) — Canadian heavyweight champion George Chuvalo makes his British debut in Royal Albert Hall here tonight, but the closest thing to music in the old concert centre should be the rhythmic beat of boxing gloves against the aging body of Joe Bygraves.

Only the formality of the ring appearance itself stands between Chuvalo and the 37th victory of his 47-fight career, at least in the general opinion of British sports writers.

Boxing writers in all eight national newspapers today give Chuvalo a unanimous decision over Bygraves, a native of Jamaica. Some predict the Canadian champion will be ready to leave for home in Toronto after only 10 to 15 minutes of the scheduled 10-round contest.

Matching Chuvalo, 28, against Bygraves, 34, and widely considered over the hill, lacks "purpose or value," says Peter Wilson of the Daily Mirror, who writes that a Chuvalo victory would be "no more than we are entitled to expect."

To add piquancy to the contest, Chuvalo's manager, Irving Ungerman, lodged a formal challenge Monday with the British Boxing Board of Control for the British Empire heavyweight title, held by Henry Cooper of Britain.

Chuvalo has hopes that a win over Cooper next year would put him back in line to challenge for the world title. The Canadian champion lost his chance by the queue when he was outpointed by Cassius Terrell in Toronto Nov. 1.

Will Hold Inquest Into Man's Death

PICTON (Staff) — A fifty-five-year-old Ameliasburgh resident and father of two was killed Monday morning when he was pinned beneath the overturned tractor which he had been driving. George James Bristow of R.R. 2 Ameliasburgh was driving the tractor on Highway 33 about three miles South of Redmerville when according to OPP of the Picton detachment the machine went out of control on the icy road and jackknifed tipping the tractor over. Local residents stated that the road conditions were very poor and covered with a glare of ice at the time of the accident. The accident took place about 10.30 a.m. An inquest into the death will be held.

Church Filled For Festival By Kiwanians

PICTON (Staff) — The Picton United Church was once again crowded to capacity last night for the annual Turkey Festival away because of lack of room for the Kiwanis sponsored second annual Festival.

The church took on an air of warmth as nine choirs of the district presented their selections of Christmas Carols and Christmas hymns. Each of the choirs presented a two-hour session of Christmas Carols and Christmas hymns. Each of the choirs participating included Picton United Church, First Baptist Church, Picton, St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Picton, Bethany Christian Reformed Church, Bloomfield, Bloomfield Baptist Church, The Salvation Army, Wellington United Church, St. Gregory's Roman Catholic Church, and St. Mary Magdalene Anglican Church.

The prelude was by Salvation Army Band under Capt. J. Johnston and A. Bevis, R.M.T. was at the organ.

Following the choirs selections the choirs sang together by Kiwanis President Carl Boyd and then the combined choirs and churches sang together. Invocation was given by Rev. R. D. Black.

According to the Carol Festival committee of the Picton Kiwanis club the event was again an outstanding success and it is planned to continue this fine program in future years.

New Reservoir Planned for Water Plant

PICTON (Staff) — The Picton Public Utilities Commission is hoping to call for tenders soon on their proposed new reservoir, part of a three stage plan to bring water facilities up to date.

Meanwhile the commission has authorized it's engineers to proceed with final plans.

Town council has already approved the required $250,000 debenture issue for the project, which includes a new reservoir, a new underground clear water reservoir and a sub-pumping station.

Kosygin Accuses U.S. Of 'Creating Atmosphere Conducive To War' In Europe

MOSCOW (AP) — Premier Alexei Kosygin has accused the United States of whipping up war tensions, arming West Germany against the Soviet Union and killing defenceless people in Viet Nam.

In a restatement of recent Soviet communist foreign affairs, Kosygin said Soviet leaders could not meet with President Johnson as long as the war in Viet Nam continues.

Kosygin's remarks, reported today by Tass, the official Soviet news agency, were made Monday in an interview with James Reston, an associate editor of the New York Times.

It was the third interview Kosygin has given to a foreign journalist since he succeeded Premier Khrushchev in October, 1964. Canadian publisher Lord Thomson and a Turkish journalist saw him earlier.

Kosygin concluded the interview with an expression of hope that war would not hang over the world—after earlier accusing the United States of "creating an atmosphere conducive to war" in Europe.

"We do not want tension built up in any part of the world," Kosygin said. "We want to bend every effort in every part of the world to achieve these ends.

"To this effort, the United States is the principal barrier. . . . "We could have The best possible relations with the American people. We value the American people's wisdom, talents and abilities — all their achievements. We are ready to learn from them to develop technology and science, and to organize production."

The rest of Kosygin's remarks followed lines made familiar by Pravda editorials denouncing the United States.

Kosygin said Viet Nam overshadows relations between Moscow and Washington.

The South Viet Nam there is a national liberation war," he said. "These people do not want to be governed by United States puppets.

"If you continue to fight there, the people will go on rising up against oppression, for their freedom and independence."

Kosygin accused the United States of "lining up people and training them down." He added: "You say this is your doctrine of peace?

"I cannot agree that you have the right to kill defenceless people.

"Everywhere, the United States is lending its support to the colonialists, to the side of the oppressors, not the oppressed. . . .

Price Index Up Almost A Point For November

OTTAWA (CP) — The consumer price index, Canada's barometer of living costs, shot up to a record 140.2 in November, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported today. Higher food costs were mainly responsible.

The index, based on 1949 consumer prices equalling 100, rose almost a full point from its October level of 139.3 and easily topped the former record of 139.5 set last July.

The November figure was 3.2 per cent greater than the level in November of last year when it had reached 135.9. Economists say the country should aim at holding its price increases to between 1½ and two per cent in a year.

DBS said prices were substantially higher for eggs, potatoes, tomatoes, celery and lettuce. There were lesser increases in fresh milk, meat beef and pork items, fish, poultry, lard, margarine, coffee, canned tomatoes, peaches and pears.

The food index, one of seven components in the total consumer price index, soared to 138.2 from 135.7 in the month. A year earlier this section was at 132.

HOUSING COST UP

Prices also rose for housing, clothing, health and personal care, and recreation and reading.

There is no precise parallel measure of family income, but the bureau's index of average industrial wages and salaries stood at 214.8 in September compared to 212.5 in August. This is also based on 1949 levels equalling 100. September is the latest figure available.

In September of 1964 the wage index figure was 204.1. It is based on a survey of wages and salaries paid in a wide range of industries employing more than 15 persons.

The food price survey in November showed meat prices had dropped from October but not nearly enough to offset the increase in other items. Prices lower were grapefruit, bananas, bacon, lamb, veal, sugar, cake mixes, powdered skim milk, onions and turnips.

Say Farm Economy Is Healthy

By KEN CLARK

OTTAWA (CP) — A government conference which ended Tuesday concluded that Canada's farm economy is in good health, with only occasional dark spots.

Experts told the federal-provincial agricultural outlook conference that high hog and cattle prices are expected to remain that way for some time to come.

Hog prices are expected to remain on the plateau until at least late summer next year is

Canada's Rural Poor Subsist On $1 Per Person Per Month

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's rural poor subsist in some areas on incomes as low as $11.71 per person per month, says a Canadian welfare council report submitted today to the federal-provincial conference on poverty and opportunity.

The 200-page report, prepared by the council for the Agricultural Rehabilitation and Development Agency, is the first major study of rural poverty in Canada.

It contains selected case histories of 230 families which were investigated in four low-income rural areas: Inverness County in Cape Breton, N.S.; Gaspé, Papineau and Portage counties in Quebec; Lanark County in Ontario; and the interlake region in central Manitoba.

Most of the families in these areas derive their income from primary industries such as farming, fishing and woodcutting, and occupations requiring unskilled labor.

The council has also conducted a survey of urban poverty in four Canadian cities, Saint John, N.B., Montreal, Toronto and Vancouver for the government's Social Planning Secretariat. Results of this survey have not yet been released at the closed conference.

Average per capita monthly income for the study families was lowest in Inverness County next with $41. Ontario's Lanark County had the highest average with $44.

The report highlights, prepared by ARDA from the welfare council case histories, give no summary conclusions or recommendations. Its purpose was simply to describe the problem.

But the research-project's director, David Woodsworth of the Canadian Welfare Council, says in an "overview" of the four regional studies:

"If there is a single conclusion to be drawn from the present study, it is that the poor are not degraded, and that there is a great deal that can be done to restore to them a just share in the life of the country."

While poverty was still "a despised condition" and many families considered it unfair and immoral for poor people to be given or accept help the study showed "few signs of demoralization or degradation anywhere in terms which these words usually connote: Sexual promiscuity, drunkenness, waste of money, deliberate damage of property or injury of persons.

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Pope Paul and the white-robed bishops of the Roman Catholic Church closed the Vatican ecumenical council under a magnificent blue sky today and declared it the greatest assembly in the history of their church.

More than 100,000 Romans and pilgrims thronged St. Peter's Square for the outdoor ceremonies ending the council which Pope John had opened Oct. 11, 1962.

Princes, government heads, foreign ministers and other dignitaries from nearly 100 nations watched as the 2,300 bishops moved in procession from the apostolic palace across the square to the steps of St. Peter's Basilica.

The Vatican published a papal brief formally closing the council and declaring it the greatest of the 21 general assemblies of the church. It said all Roman Catholics were bound to accept its decisions, which ushered in a new era for the church of reform within the improved contacts with the rest of the world.

The brief also declared invalid all arguments that had been raised against the council's decisions.

Unusual details marked the ceremony, with Pope Paul giving $80,000 to charities in five nations as "a symbol of the charity of the entire church, united around the Pope in the persons of his bishops."

The money will mean $30,000 for a hospital in Bethlehem, Jordan, $20,000 for community projects by a religious order in Argentina, $15,000 each for agricultural training in southern India and for Catholic welfare work in Pakistan, and $10,000 for Catholic welfare in Cambodia.

The Pope also wrote special messages addressed to governments leaders, intellectuals, artists, women, workers, the poor and the sick and youth.

The first stone of a new church in Rome to commemorate the ecumenical council was put near the papal throne in front of the basilica for the pontiff's blessing. The new church will be called Our Lady, Mother of the Church after a title that Pope Paul declared for the Virgin Mary as the 1964 phase of the council was completed.

The council's ending came on a major holy day honoring the mother of Christ, the feast of the Immaculate Conception.

The Vatican council, first in Roman Catholic history and the first in almost a century, issued 16 decrees seeking to renew and bring up to date much of the church's own worship and government and to make strong new approaches to everyone everywhere outside the church.

Christian unity was as much its goal as Catholic renewal.

The last four decrees were proclaimed Tuesday.

The cost of the council has been estimated at $20,000,000.

Bottomley Says Smith Is a Liar

LONDON (CP) — An off-the-cuff remark that Rhodesia's rebel Prime Minister Ian Smith is a liar and a man who can't be trusted threw Britain's Rhodesian peace offensive into confusion today.

The remark was made in Parliament by Commonwealth Secretary Arthur Bottomley during the debate Tuesday night in both houses, where the Labor government came under attack from both the left and right for its Rhodesian policies.

Bottomley told the Commons that Britain could not deal with Smith.

"It has been my experience . . . in negotiations with him that not once, but more than once, he has lied not only to me but to others too."

Indians' Plight Shown

OTTAWA (CP) — The plight of Canadian Indians, with their high death rate caused by poor health and housing conditions, was placed before delegates to the four-day federal - provincial conference on poverty and opportunity Tuesday.

The Federal Indian affairs branch recommended a 10-year crash program—part of it already under way — to bring more provincial services to Indians to include them in the mainstream of Canadian society.

It described programs already under way, but concentrated on pulling together the statistics about Indians which indicate that many are living in ghettos with poor food, light and sanitation.

The average age of death in 1962 for Indian males was 33.31 years and for Indian females 34.71 years. Excluding deaths during the first year of life, the average rises to 46 years for males and about 48 years for females.

But this is still well below the national average of 60.5 years for males and 64.1 for females.

ARE PREVENTABLE

The brief said three-quarters of all Indian deaths are attributable to the main causes—most of them preventable.

Colds or pneumonia head the list, "a lot of accidents around them come heart trouble and strokes, infant diseases, and research and social disorders such as diarrhea.

These illnesses are caused by poor living conditions and poor health habits. Among those who live, many are unemployable because of bad health.

More than 6,000 Indian families are badly in need of housing and many others are in substandard dwellings. Few can afford housing because 60 per cent of families earn less than $1,000 a year.

A 1962 survey showed that only 44 per cent of Indian homes have electricity, compared to a national average of 96 per cent. Sewers or septic tanks were in only nine per cent of their homes, running water in only 10 per cent.

"It is clear that Indian communities are deficient in utilities to the extent that minimum standards of health and decency are difficult to maintain."

Another federal brief, entitled profile of poverty, said among the general population poor housing, ill health, poor social and home environment, improper nourishment and clothing and ignorance of opportunities among young people result in a perpetuation of a "culture of poverty."

The brief said that the prob-

Hale, Happy Astronauts Await Pals

By HOWARD BENEDICT

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—The Gemini 7 astronauts, hearty and healthy after nearly four days in space, streaked on today toward their record two-week mission while Gemini 6 planned a crucial ground rehearsal for next week's attempt to rendezvous the two spacecraft high in the sky.

Air Force Lt.-Col. Frank Borman and navy Cmdr. James A. Lovell Jr. passed the 1,500,000-mile mark of their journey early today with their four-ton spacecraft working like a charm.

Gemini 7 began its 55th orbit at 4:46 a.m. EST.

Space agency officials weren't sure whether Gemini 6 would get off the ground Sunday or Monday. A computer problem in the spacecraft considerably reduced the chances of a Sunday launching.

Officials said Monday was a more likely target date. If there are additional troubles, Gemini 6 could be launched as late as Friday, Dec. 17.

REPLACE COMPUTER

The computer's electronic memory became scrambled during a test Monday, Gemini 6 spokesman said. A replacement will be flown to the spacecraft by eight astronauts aboard a T-38 jet trainer.

The two pairs of astronauts will be in formation, perhaps only inches apart, for about six hours.

Borman and Lovell shifted Gemini 7's orbital course Tuesday in a step toward a desired rendezvous in formation. Command pilot Borman fired jet thrusters to increase their speed by eight miles an hour and raised the low point of their path from 28 to 146 miles above the earth. The high point remained at 197 miles.

WILL ALTER COURSE

Later, they will alter course so both the high and low points will be 146 miles. It is at this altitude that Gemini 6 hopes to complete its final rendezvous maneuver to Gemini 7.

De Gaulle Will Be In Run-off

PARIS (CP) — President Charles de Gaulle told a weekly meeting of the French cabinet today that "naturally" he will be a candidate for a new seven-year term in the run-off presidential election Dec. 19.

De Gaulle's decision was announced by Information Minister Alain Peyrefitte after the cabinet meeting.

There had been speculation before the first election round last Sunday that de Gaulle might withdraw if he failed to get the 30 per cent of the vote plus one required for election on the first try. De Gaulle got 44.63 per cent, which sent him into a run - off with leftist Francois Mitterrand, the No. 2 man who

Spanish Charter Plane Crashes, 32 Are Killed

SANTA CRUZ DE TENERIFE, Canary Islands (AP)—A Spanish charter plane carrying vacationers home to have been mostly from Sweden crashed in a wind-and-rain storm shortly after takeoff here late Tuesday. All 32 on board were killed, officials announced.

The DC-4 twin-engine transport apparently had one engine on fire, officials said, as it struggled to climb to the Rodeos Airport on this Spanish Atlantic island.

It crashed into a house two miles from the airport.

Rescue squads found no survivors, an airport spokesman said.

The plane carried a crew of four and 28 passengers. It was operated by Spantax Airline, a charter company.

B.C. Oil Workers' Strike Is Averted Just Hours Before Midnight Deadline

VANCOUVER (CP)—One of the province's strike threats in British Columbia labor history ended Tuesday night when the oil workers' union announced it had reached contract agreement with six of seven companies in the provinces.

The danger of a province-wide strike was averted only hours before a midnight strike deadline.

Still in dispute is a three-month strike by the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers Union (CLC) against British American Oil Co. That dispute stretches as far east as Ontario.

During the last two weeks, B.C. has been in varying degrees of danger of a shutdown that some predicted would amount to economic chaos.

The oil workers had twice threatened a province - wide walkout and the B.C. Federation of Labor (CLC)—had called for a general strike to support the oil workers.

The powerful Teamsters Union said a province-wide strike would force it to call all petroleum products "hot," shutting down the majority of the trucking industry.

The union announced Tuesday night contracts have been or will be signed with Imperial, Shell, Texaco, Pacific Petroleums and Standard Oil companies.

Basis of settlement on the most important issue—jobs lost through automation—was a formula proposed by the B.C. Labor Relations Board weeks ago, just before a province-wide strike was to start.

It provides for a committee on automation, company participation in retraining and severance pay. The formula was accepted by both sides but two weeks of negotiation were needed before agreement was signed on how the formula would be incorporated in contracts.

The union announced agreement with the companies Monday but there was confusion Tuesday whether contracts should be signed before the strike deadline.

Tuesday night oil workers voted to go back to work at a meeting in nearby Coquitlam attended by an Imperial subsidiary. There was still some disagreement up to then on details of the contract.

Meanwhile, the Vancouver Labor Council (CLC) said it will ask the 110,000-member federation of labor to seek government assistance in ending the B-A strike.

Salvationists Get Ready To Man Kettles on Streets

It is with joy and thanksgiving, and music, for the service they render that the Salvationists, man the kettles once again, and enrich the Christmas scene, on behalf of others.

On Friday and Saturday December 10th and 11th, the tingle of Christmas excitement will be inspired by the familiar ringing of the bells on the street corners, and the appearance of The Salvation Army men and women in their navy blue, red trimmed uniforms.

The story of the Christmas kettle is not often told. It began on a sorrowing night shortly before Christmas in 1894. On the Pacific coast a ship was driven on the rocks by the wind. Shivering survivors were helped to shelter in a nearby Salvation Army building. There was a severe depression that year and the Salvation Army along with many other groups were hard put to care for the ship-wrecked people; in the shelter already were many impoverished seamen and homelessmen.

Soon the food supply was exhausted and the situation began to look desperate. Then one of the Salvation Army lassies, lacking out the last few spoonfuls of soup, had an ingenious idea.

Stepping out in the bitter cold, she carried the soup kettle itself to a busy street corner and set up a sign that read "Keep The Kettle Boiling", and rang a bell to attract attention. Those passing by, amused by the little sign began to drop coins into the kettle and that night there was soup enough for all.

A CHRISTMAS SYMBOL

Since the kettle has continued to capture the imagination of those who wished to give to help others in the same season, it soon came to be a Christmas symbol of The Salvation Army. For in The Salvation Army Christmas is truly the observance of the Birthday of Christ, and the giving of gifts to those who might otherwise be forgotten in part of the devotion to work in the same among the less fortunate.

Many weeks of planning go into the many Christmas activities, which are an intensification of The Salvation Army's year round effort in behalf of others.

Instruments are tuned up and traditional music rehearsed to add to the spirit of the Christmas scene.

Even with planning, last minute emergencies may arise, and as always The Salvation Army desires to stand ready to meet those needs.

You are encouraged to make your contribution to the Christmas appeal.

If you know of a needy family who will not be taken care of through any other organization would you kindly phone or write Brigadier B. Bernar The Salvation Army 146 Ann Street, Belleville. Phone 968-6834 or 962-3022.

Trend Toward Centralized Schools Is Discussed at Length in County Council

Public school education and the trend toward centralized schools, was under discussion this morning at Hastings county council as the report of the county public school consolidative committee was heard.

Madoc village Reeve Thomas Burnside in his report noted that it was the policy of the Ontario Department of Education to encourage even larger areas of school administration and the building of central schools where they are not already established.

He said the committee agreed with the department that the day of the one-room school is rapidly drawing to a close and that, indeed, any school of less than eight rooms was undesirable.

It was admitted, however, that due to sparse population in some areas fully graded schools may not be immediately possible.

But the committee felt that transportation of children to such uses for school purposes would be in many cases necessary and would be beneficial to all concerned.

MANY SCHOOLS PROPOSED

It was noted that many townships are in the midst of new school construction programs.

Sidney township intended to provide fully graded schools at Bayside and Batawa as well as at yet another still unidecided location in the southern part of the township. Hungerford is considering a central school and Huntingdon is also actively considering central accommodation. Huntingdon has begun a central school in the neighborhood of Ivanhoe.

Mr. Burnside in his report noted that a tentative plan of education memorandum to consultative committees is urging an increase in the minimum area of district taking into consideration such factors as geographic features, density of population of secondary schools and the growth and likely shifts of population in the area.

Also the department was encouraging boards to set up auxiliary classrooms for slow learners, a move which has already been made at Madoc village.

MIGHT BE FEASIBLE

Larger areas of school administration have already been an interesting topic of school board meetings in North Hastings, according to the committee report.

It was stated that larger areas of administration might be feasible and advantageous in Central and North Hastings.

The committee felt that the whole question of education needed further study before any effective recommendation could be made before council.

The committee did make one recommendation with respect to county school area No. 1 in North Hastings, comprising the municipalities of McClure, Wicklow, Limerick, Monteagle and part of Herschel.

The recommendation asked the Minister of Education to "determine the number of trustees, municipalities to be represented, and other terms of office."

The municipalities concerned agree that Bangor, Wicklow and McClure have two representatives, Monteagle two representatives, and also suggest a two-year term for the entire board and that they be eligible for re-election every other year.

Northern Reeve Gerald Caldwell does not agree that it was always a good policy to bus small school children up to 30 miles.

Reeve Don Rodgers of Stirling noted, however, that the movement for better schools would actually come from the parents who wanted better courses for their children.

"I'm glad to know that there will be special consideration in some instances," returned Reeve Caldwell. "Not all the bright students come from graded schools."

IN MEMORIAM

CATHCART, Mrs. Agnes — Who entered this rest Dec. 9, 1961.
A wonderful mother, woman and friend.
One who was better God never made.
A wonderful worker, loyal and true.
One in a million, that, mother, was you.
Just you, your judgment, always right.
Honest and liberal, ever upright.
Loved by friend and all who knew,
A wonderful mother, that mother was you.
Sadly dearly loved to be ever forgotten by her daughter and son-in-law Mr. and Mrs. Bert Johnson.

COLE — In loving memory of our dear mother Sybil Cole, who passed away Dec. 8th, 1962.
What we would give if we could say,
Mum, in the same old way,
To hear your voice, see you smile,
Sit all with you and chat awhile,
So you, who have a mother,
Cherish her with care.
For you'll never know the heart,
Of a mother,
Till you are her vacant chair.
—Ever remembered by son Bill, daughter-in-law Irene.

CATHCART — In loving memory of a dear mother, who passed away one year ago.
A loving mother was she,
And a friend to all was she,
As long as memory lasts,
She will be remembered.
—Lovingly remembered by daughter Mrs. Ruth Johnston and grandchildren Shelly, Jamie and Bruce.

MOON, Earl — Who passed away on Dec. 8th, 1962.
The rolling stream of life rolls on,
But memory lingers fond and true,
Recalls the love, the voice, the face of you.
Out of sight but never out there,
Lovingly remembered by daughter Marion and granddaughters Patricia and Sandra.

BUSH — In loving memory of a dear husband and father Gerald Bush, who passed away Dec. 8th, 1962.
Beside your grave I often stand,
And think of memories of you and you,
Silent till the sweet words come,
Rest in peace.
You'll know how much I miss you,
How much I think of you,
How I wish you were here,
Your loved one is not forgotten,
For in my heart you live,
And pray to God each day,
To meet you in Heaven.
—Wife Ivy.
Your smile will guide the way,
Your memory is always remembered by his loving daughter Lena and daughters Doris and Patsy.

COLE — In loving memory of my dear husband Sybil Cole, who passed away Dec. 8th, 1962.
If I had all the world to give,
I'd give it, that you might live,
To hear her voice and see her smile,
And greet her at my door,
To be with her a little while,
To walk with her by grave,
And leave behind my love,
To the world I could ever give,
I'd like to think where life is done,
That love is the only gift,
That she'll be standing at the door,
To meet me up above.
—Lovingly remembered by daughter Margaret, son-in-law Bill and granddaughters Kathy and Heather.

SOCIETY DEMANDING

Mr. Read said society itself is a source of extreme pressure to teenagers. "Our knowledge is doubling every 10 years. There are thousands of jobs today known only 10 years ago. The tempo of today's world is five times what it was when we were in our teens. The published, glamorized immorality is more available today. I am not saying it did not exist in our time, just that it was not as available.

"Society itself is changing completely today. In our schools we offer 100 courses whereas 15 years ago we offered 25 or 30.

"Teenagers are constantly reminded they must get more education and be prepared to get more education later. Thus more pressure is placed on the teenagers.

"There are also great pressures from within teenagers themselves, even within the most well-adjusted person. There are a host of drives he must deal with. He wants to have an independent identity, a social identity and a moral identity. He wants to be liked and respected. He wants to be a success. There is the urge for financial independence and feels the adult pressure in making adult decisions.

"We demand so much of him and yet so tragically we often remove some of the solid props that helped us fight these pressures.

"In our day there was always somebody waiting when we got home today, but, unfortunately, the working mother has become a necessity and as an educator I must point out it is a major factor in the behavior patterns of today's teenagers. A mother at home gives a measure of pressure. Remove that and we often build up even more pressure. Seventy per cent and 90 per cent of the problem teenagers come from homes where both parents are working.

"Teenagers are a wonderful part of our society. Our whole world is younger today. It is frightening in many ways and things that will be decided are beyond the bounds of our imagination. Into this world we are sending our teenagers. They are going to make a better job of our world than we did."

In other business at the meeting, Kiwanis President Brad Bradley asked for support for the Kiwanis-Firemen's dance at the Armories tonight. Admission is a toy or food or clothing to help needy children enjoy a better Christmas.

A special guest at the meeting was Edmund Bunemann of Breman, Germany. Mr. Bunemann is in Belleville visiting his brother-in-law, Kiwanis president-elect Friedel Bellstedt.

'Teeners' Modern Phenomena Which Adults Have Created

The Kiwanis Club was told yesterday that teeners are a modern phenomena adults have created.

Linton Read, Principal of Moira Secondary School, said: "We have always had young people of course, but little was ever said or written about them until recently. Now more is written, more is spent in time, money and heartache on the teenagers than on any other group.

"The average teenager — and I dislike using the word even if it is thoroughly remarkable. He probably has every minute of every day booked up with some event, yet he is always eager and willing for more.

"Sometimes he makes us angry. He is sullen, saucy, selfish, lazy, even doomed, but he is young and he is mine, and he has to be dealt with".

Mr. Read said there are four sources of pressure for modern teens: parents, fellow teenagers, society and the teenagers themselves from within; pressures which cause him to change drastically from one mold into another mold and so on.

"The parents exert pressure on him because they want him to do well. We may say it is for his own sake, but often it is for our sake that we want him to succeed.

PARENTS' PRESSURE

"Parents want their daughters to be beautiful, charming, sophisticated and moving in the best of circles. They want their sons to be strong, handsome, good sports and potential doctors and lawyers . . . and the teenager will, and must, do his best to live up to what their parents expect of them. They know they can't achieve what their parents want and yet they are under pressure to do so.

"A teenagers' peer group exerts great pressure on him as well, pressure to conform to dress and habits. In order to belong, to be "in", he must surrender to these pressures.

"To be too polite, too clean, too neat, is to be outside of the group.

"And today there is often heavy pressure from the teenage group to conform to the habits of smoking, drinking and petting with dates. On the one hand he is told these things are wrong, yet he must do them to be accepted".

Just One Little Word

TRENTON — Belleville barrister Robert Temple advanced a theory in magistrate's court at Trenton yesterday which suggested that any speed signs within the boundaries of the corporation which do not contain the word "maximum" are invalid.

Mr. Temple, arguing on behalf of a client charged with exceeding the speed limit of 30 mph on Sidney Street, said that according to the Ontario Traffic Act, signs which do not contain the word maximum, were installed in 1960. He said he believed a sign containing the word appeared at the town limit entrance to Sidney Street, but that other signs on the street refer only to "speed limit."

Town Solicitor Roderick Campbell, representing the prosecution, was not in court yesterday. He will be informed of Mr. Temple's argument and the case will be held to correct their interpretations of the law before Magistrate T. V. Wills on December 21.

Hit by Car, Breaks Thigh

TRENTON — Nine-year-old David MacLennon of 87 McLellan Ave., was taken to Trenton Memorial Hospital shortly after 8 p.m. last night, after he had been struck by a car driven by 35-year-old Everett Peake of 143 Lemoine Street, Belleville.

David, who suffered a broken right thigh, cuts and abrasions is reported to be in satisfactory condition today.

Trenton police say the youngster was on his way home from a cub meeting in King Street United Church when he suddenly dashed across the road at the intersection of Dufferin and King Streets. Narrowly missing being struck by one car, he ran into the path of the Peake vehicle.

Christians Must Concern Selves With World Needs

TRENTON — Aubrey Oldham of Ottawa, a member of the National Board of Men and a past president of the Adult Organizations of the United Church, was the speaker at Monday night's AOTS Men's Club annual ladies' night at Grace United Church in Trenton. Around 175 AOTS members from Trenton, Brighton, Consecon, Wellington and Centenary, and their wives, attended the banquet in the church parlors.

Mr. Oldham told those present that, as Christians, they must get out into the world and concern themselves with the pressing problems of the world rather than make the dollar a status symbol and devote their lives to trying to "keep up with the Joneses."

"You can't keep up with them anyhow," Mr. Oldham said. "Only their creditors can, and they have a hard time of it."

"There's no use reading your Bible unless you intend to do something about it. Too often the Christians do the praying and leave it to the communist or the 'men of the world' to do the work of the world. When they are, we should seek for power equal to our tasks, not for tasks equal to our power — if Christians, Mr. Oldham said, must have a readiness to sacrifice. The communist is not afraid to sacrifice for his cause, and the Christian must be prepared to make a real sacrifice for the Kingdom of God."

Mr. Oldham was introduced by Dieter Rolf and thanked by David Parkinson.

Ross Adams of Consecon, chairman of the district council of AOTS, installed the Trenton officers for 1962: Ben Pressen, president, Murray Thompson, vice president: Wilfred Wannamaker, secretary; Arthur Brownlee, treasurer; and Arnold Cronkwright, district council representative.

SEVERAL GUESTS

Head table guests at the banquet were Rev. Harry Davis, president of the Bay of Quinte Conference of the United Church of Canada; the president of the Grace Church club for 1964, Conrad Smith and Mrs. Smith; Taylor Franklin, past president of the provincial council, and Mrs. Franklin; Mr. and Mrs. Aubrey Oldham; the presidents of district clubs and their wives, and Rev. and Mrs. James Payton of Grace Church.

Harold Burke proposed a toast to the ladies in a humorous vein, which was responded to by Mrs. Ben Pressen.

Harold Burke also led in a lively sing-song of Christmas carols and two solos were sung by John Williamson.

Mr. Smith presented Mrs. Friesen with a cheque for $150 for improvements to the primary Sunday school classroom and David Parkinson, treasurer of the building fund committee with a cheque for $600 to go towards the church extension debt.

Devotions were conducted by Rev. Joseph Lindsay, who took as his theme the Home of Jesus. The home is still the most important factor in human society, Mr. Lindsay said, and if the home fails, society is going to suffer.

STATUETTE EXPLODES

CARACAS (AP) — A bomb, hidden in a statuette of the Virgin Mary which was wrapped as a Christmas gift, exploded Monday night and killed the wife of a government member of the Venezuelan Congress. President Raul Leoni said Communist terrorists were to blame.

The elderly pedestrian was walking on Highway 2 near his home when the accident occurred around 7:30 p.m.

Teacher's Research

Miss Ruth Silvester's study of 100 Belleville students, and her findings that although of above-average intelligence they are not achieving their capacity, is a valuable contribution to the educational research of the day.

The Belleville Collegiate teacher has pinpointed what all the seminars, speeches by educational officials and psychologists have failed to do—put what lies behind the restlessness and the failures in the upper levels of high school education today.

Reducing the problems to the personal level of a cross-section of students, Miss Silvester has produced a blueprint for the nation. As one Toronto newspaper has noted, its conclusions "could be applied to any other area of the province where students have fallen into the same study habits."

She told the Ontario Educational Research Council that nearly 60 per cent of the Grade 12 students were not approaching their capacity; In Grade 11, 30 per cent were not doing as well as they might.

Under-achievers listed their main distractions as outside jobs, sports, television, and girl or boy friends. About half the students in the study said physical problems, such as overweight, excessive height or chronic allergies, made them emotionally upset and unable to concentrate on schoolwork.

What are the answers to these problems? Psychiatrists could give some definite answers, but when all is said and done the students must work out their own salvation. Concentration on their studies rather than on television and boy or girl friends should effect an all-round improvement.

Taking a common sense look at the whole problem, the students might ponder the old adage about "pulling up one's socks." For those of above-average intelligence, as the students in Miss Silvester's study are reported to be, this would seem to be the best advice.

Setback for de Gaulle

For the better part of a quarter of a century, President de Gaulle has epitomized the very soul of France. As a soldier and statesman he has restored the country almost single-handedly to a position of influence and power.

De Gaulle in 1940 was France's man of the hour. And seven years ago, with his country racked by political turmoil, he came out of near-oblivion to put France back on the rails again. Since then he has assiduously cultivated his own personal legend, so that even as president he has failed by some 1,500,000 votes to gain the absolute majority needed for election on the first ballot.

He now faces a second ballot with his nearest rival, Francois Mitterrand, 49, a left-wing candidate supported by both socialists and communists. De Gaulle is still favored to win, but it is clear his personal popularity has suffered a severe setback.

There are suggestions that de Gaulle, his belief in a clear-cut victory shaken, might decide not to run again. However the alternative is France coming under the influence of left-wing elements, and that de Gaulle is not likely to countenance. For this reason alone he will likely let his name stand for the second ballot.

For all his failings, de Gaulle has given France a stability it had seldom known before. If, because of his advancing age, the people of France feel they need a new leader, there is no guarantee that the new man will be able to maintain the same degree of stability.

A Successful Marriage

Alexandre Dumas once observed slyly that the chains of matrimony "are so heavy that it takes two—and sometimes three—to carry them."

Thus in an age of problems—marital and others—it is encouraging to read of one obviously happy and successful marriage. And the irony of it all is that in her real-life role as the perfect wife, it was Mrs. Robert Fluor, of Pasadena, California, and not her executive husband, who developed an ulcer.

Mrs. Fluor's husband is president of the National Association of Manufacturers and president of a Los Angeles firm with a $200 million world-wide business in chemicals and petroleum. They have been married 21 years and have two sons aged 18 and 20.

Her prescription for a good marriage, especially as the wife of a top executive: "You should be a good listener and a good conversationalist. That is one of the biggest things for a good wife."

"At all odds, you must not attract too much attention or any criticism, for any criticism of the boss' wife would be transferred to his company."

Clearly, Mr. Fluor is the kind of wife any husband should be proud of.

Cold Caused by Virus, No Cure Yet in Sight
By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: Our family has just recovered from a prolonged siege of the common cold which went through the usual symptoms — a heavy cough and eventually ear infection. At the latter stage, the doctor treated us with penicillin. He diagnosed the infection as a strong virus.

All of which prompts several questions: When is a cold a virus? When does it respond to antibiotics and wonder drugs? What progress is being made toward a cure and preventive? — J. B.

• • •

I have no doubt that it was a strong virus, in the beginning, but when your doctor began using penicillin for the ear infection, some other germs, bacteria rather than virus, had climbed on the head wagon. Penicillin (as well as the other wonder drugs) is excellent in subduing bacteria. It doesn't control virus. That's why giving "a shot of penicillin" is such a fruitless approach to an early cold.

Most and probably all colds are caused by virus or by close-related germs, and not by bacteria. Once the membranes are inflamed by the cold, bacteria can invade. This is what we call a secondary infection, and it is often considers bly worse than the original cold.

Hence the time to use penicillin or any of the wonder drugs is when, or if, a secondary infection is starting to fairly work — and dirty work it can be if it spreads into the ear or lung.

• • •

As to properties in the cure of colds, I don't know of any. What we need is a drug which will be effective against viruses, and so far all efforts have been unsatisfactory in vain. A virus, although a germ, is a quite different and unier organism, and behaves in a different-manner.

Some preventive for colds, in a more hopeful prospect, since vaccines can protect against measles, viruses. Influenza (also caused by a group of viruses) now can be controlled excellently by flu vaccine, as can smallpox, polio and measles.

One great stumbling block is identifying the cold viruses, of which there are perhaps a hundred or so. Identifying the exact virus in an individual case is an intricate laboratory task, and since a single cold runs its course readily, there is no point in a sufferer going to the trouble of finding out which variety he has. But it's over before it can be identified.

However, the individual strains of virus have to be isolated and then raised in laboratory cultures before work can be started on turning them into vaccine.

How many varieties need to be included in a vaccine to make it effective? Twenty? Fifty? A hundred? Dr. Jonas Salk has said he believes that as many as necessary can be successfully blended into a single vaccine.

We may never eliminate the common cold, but I think there is good reason to hope that we will someday prevent many colds.

• • •

Dear Dr. Molner: I have a terrible pain in my right hip, and down the fat part of my leg. I have used liniments but still have the pain. What can I do?—Mrs. M. D.

It sounds like sciatica — involvement of the sciatic nerve. In such a case liniment will not help. The nerve may be inflamed, or irritated, or pinched. Consult a doctor so he can identify the exact cause and prescribe treatment.

Mrs. M. L.: You are close to 50. Your hysterectomy was done ten years ago. People at this age tend to put on weight even when they have not had a hysterectomy. When needed the operation is very helpful, but don't make it an excuse for other problems.

Strictly Personal
Astronomy—Astrology And All That
By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

A reader in Pittsburgh wants to know why the word "astrology" is used to describe the cult, whereas the word "astronomy" is used when referring to the science.

What puzzles him is why we have such words as "zoology," "zoology," "psychology," "ecology," and "geology," and yet describe the science of the heavens as "astronomy."

It is simply because "astrology" came first. The cult of foretelling the future by the stars preceded the scientific observation by thousands of years. By the time the astronomers arrived on the scene, the "scientific" name had already been appropriated by the cultists.

The same is true of our word "chemistry." Before there were any real chemists, there were "alchemists." This is a word imported from the Arabic, and means "transmuting base metals into gold." When scientific chemical research was begun, the word "chemistry" was devised as a shortened form of "alchemy."

Not only must we know the word "philosopher" is also a late comer. The earliest practitioners called themselves "sophists" that is, wise men, or men who had the ability to dispense wisdom to the multitude.

When Socrates came along, he denied that any human being truly possessed wisdom—and (following Pythagoras) referred himself instead a "philosopher," that is, "one who loves wisdom." His term succeeded in taking hold, and today a "sophist" is a person who juggles words and ideas, while a "philosopher" is someone seriously engaged in the pursuit of truth.

Words such as "biology" and "zoology" and "geology" end in "logy" — which is the Greek root for "science" or "knowledge" — because their study was not preceded by primitive attempts to interpret their secrets. They began as sciences, and not as offshots of some magical art. (Even the word "science" incidentally, is a latecomer to our language: it was known simply as "natural philosophy" throughout the Middle Ages.)

It is easy to look down upon the early astrologers and alchemists, but worth bearing in mind that they had a piece of truth by the tail. Recent studies of magnetic fields and sun-spots as well as atomic fission, have given us greater respect for the insights of these cultists.

And Freud's master-piece, "The Interpretation of Dreams" was purely prefigured by ancient dream-readers as far back as the Biblical tale of Joseph. They merely thought dreams foretold the future; Freud saw that they illumined the past — but is it not also true that whatever has deeply influenced our past will also affect the course of our future?

Pressure Groups Threaten Parks
Kingston Whig - Standard

Those who for years have been advocating the creation of more parks, and particularly of more parks in which commercial exploitation would be forbidden, have been branded as crackpots, sells - brained fanatics and so, forth. As Park News suggested in an editorial reprinted in this page last Saturday the same contemptuous treatment was accorded those who 20 years ago warned of the gathering peril; they instead have been listened to, we would not be faced with having to spend billions of dollars to undo the damage resulting from policies based on short - term economic objectives and political expediency. It is clear that, as Park News points out, the same forces now threaten our parks and considerable pressure is being exerted on our elected representatives to compromise; to use parks for this purpose and that, thus reducing those unspoiled areas which remain.

Compromise was the rule years ago with the result that commercial exploitation was permitted on an ever - increasing scale. Now there are those who argue that certain privileges granted to them in the past have become, by lengthy occupancy, rights. Some of them, indeed, argue that, since those who favor the retention of wilderness areas as they exist in nature (and not as they are "cleaned-up" and commercialized by man) are but a minority, the forest products industry should be given more territory to work, mining operations should be permitted and networks of roads through parks should be constructed.

We do not subscribe to the view that our parks should become grandiose playgrounds for citizens wanting to get away from it all, which is what some seem to think of those of us who have been urging the creation of more wilderness areas and the protection from commercial invasion of those now in existence. We see wilderness in the same light as Park News: "More than rocks and trees and water—more than scenery; the opportunity of being attuned to the continuous process of creation away from the artificialities of modern life our herit. age." We see in the same light as Mr. M. L. Heinsheimer, an American professional forester who, in a recent speech to the Society of American Foresters, said that music, art and literature do not influence men too, can mould men's minds and characters.

Masters of the Tall Story
Sherbrooke Daily Record

Once upon a time, so the story starts, tellers of tall tales were a select group of individuals who held a special place in society. They might be the court jesters who received a regular stipend to keep the monarch and his royal friends amused.

Or they might be the wandering minstrels who wandered from village to village spinning their stories with musical accompaniment, receiving their compensation in the form of donations from the villagers for the entertainment rendered.

But in modern days the art has degenerated. The wandering minstrel has been replaced by the itinerant politicians who offer their grand stories in the hope of receiving the votes of their audience.

The court jester is now heard in the traffic courts where he presents to an often unsympathizing judge his reasons for ignoring the rules of the road.

These tales must make some of the old Persian authors, considered the first masters of the greatest art of fibbing with a straight face, wish to mount their magic carpet and silently fly away.

One California traffic officer reveals some of the "fixture fix-out tales with which he has been regaled.

There was the man who said he had gone through a red light because his wife was eating her breakfast of bacon and eggs in the car and that if he had stopped suddenly "she would have spilled the plate and that would have made quite a mess."

A woman driver declared solemnly that while she had passed on a 30-mile zone speed light she only went through "between flashes."

One speeding motorist said that it was so foggy he could not read his speedometer and another said he was hurrying to a service station "before it dried up."

Thus it is not surprising that professional entertainers, complain that they are receiving poor pay and must make some jokes. An amateur can do better without even trying.

Grooms Are a Heroic Lot
Peterborough Examiner

Mrs. Priscilla Jackson of Oakland University, Rochester, has been a University Women's Club at Etobicoke that prospective sons-in-law should be thoroughly investigated by the girl's father to assure a suitable alliance. She suggests that such things as the income of the prospective groom, his present and potential position in society, his health should be considered by the watchful father.

This suggestion has the nasty implication that the groom is the major cause of marital discord. In fairness one can admit that there may be rare groom who might make a small, inadvertent contribution to marital strife, but there are a few bad apples on every tree. Grooms, in general, are a singularly heroic lot.

On reflection, perhaps singular is not quite the word to describe a married man but still, it conveys the idea. Brides, on the other hand, have notorious reputations for being fickle, madam—as proving altogether different in the cold light of marriage than they appeared in the hot light of courtship.

Wives, as any fairminded person will agree, are overly talkative, given to gossip, and have spendthrift tendencies. They take their mates unduly for granted, are possessive and seem to think of those of us who have been urging the creation of more wilderness areas and the protection from commercial invasion of those now in existence. We see wilderness in the same light as Park News: "More than rocks and trees and water—more than scenery; the opportunity of being attuned to the continuous process of creation away from the artificialities of modern life our heritage." We see in the same light as Mr. M. L. Heinsheimer, an American professional forester who, in a recent speech to the Society of American Foresters, said that music, art and literature do not influence men too, can mould men's minds and characters.

Surplus Weapons Cause Concern
Ottawa Journal

Canadians are much more careful about the disposal of surplus weapons than the Americans. There was a blazing row in Ottawa in 1950 over the disposal of light Hornet rifles as war surplus. They were considered dangerously attractive to criminal elements and "the Government, concluding that they were unsuitable for public use, ordered 2,801 which had been sold recalled.

In the United States, you can buy a working cannon, or nearcannon, over the counter, with ammunition. For instance, the Federal Bureau of Investigation was interested in, but could do nothing to stop, the recent sale of two anti-tank rifles by a dealer in Virginia but when the weapons and several hundred rounds of ammunition were shipped to an express office at Plattsburg, N.Y., near the Canadian border, the FBI phoned the Ottawa RCMP. The Canadian police appreciated the American tip and they might have been able and taken to Canada and so kept an eye on the express office during business hours with a view to following whoever might take delivery of them. It was not the RCMP's duty or job to prevent the robbery that took place at night, but there was.

An anti-tank rifle is a fear some weapon, capable of ripping through tank armor a mile from the point of fire). It is not a weapon any ordinary civilian can justify having in his possession for any order. It is not a .303 Lee-Enfield, useful for hunting and target practice. Guns of anti-tank weight and power are good only for war and mischief and should be banned. The Milwaukee Journal in protesting a U.S. dealer's advertisement of such a weapon as "ideal for long-range shots at deer and bear or at cars and trucks and even a tank if you happen to see one."

Canadians are not immune to that sort of nonsense and the tougher the check on disposal of surplus weapons the safer we'll be.

Scrap Dealer Issues Writ Against Town

TRENTON — Scrap dealer Jack Zigman Tuesday issued a writ against the town of Trenton claiming $40,000 "consideration" for his Front Street property required for the approaches to a proposed $1,000,000 bridge over the Trent Canal.

Mr. Zigman also is seeking a court injunction to halt expropriation proceedings by the town.

No date for a hearing has been set.

The writ claims that the town entered into written contract with him June 3, this year, for the purchase of his land "for a consideration of $40,000" and two acres of town-owned land at another location.

The writ further alleges that in November, the town repudiated the contract together with the monetary offer.

the United States with Canadian prices following suit.

Good prices and markets for cattle are expected to extend through 1966 and 1967 and possibly into 1968, according to one official projection, barring unforseen circumstances.

Total U.S. beef supplies for the next three years will likely be lower than in 1964 and 1965. This factor should keep prices up or increase them on North American markets. The down turn arrived after years of cattle supply increases.

DEMAND BEATS SUPPLY

In the dairy industry, butter consumption in 1966 is expected to outrun production for the third consecutive year. Per capita consumption next year is expected to drop slightly.

Milk production is expected to go up in 1966 because of an increase in the output per cow. Number of dairy cattle is declining.

The cheddar cheese industry, according to one official, will have one of its best years in 1965. Production rose four per cent to 150,000,000 pounds. Higher prices apparently had no adverse effect on consumption. A small market growth is expected in 1966.

County Council Will Build Addition to Hastings Manor, Also New Home at Bancroft

Hastings county will build a 50-bed addition to it's present county home on Highway 2, west of Belleville and also will construct a new 100 bed home in the north Hastings village of Bancroft.

Council members made the decision at Tuesday's session following the report of county home committee Reeve Goldie McIntyre of Huntingdon township.

At the same time county councillors voted to sell their county farm west of the city an option on which has been taken by the Tatham Company, Belleville land developer.

The option on 118.2 acres of the county farm must be exercised by January 18th and the sale completed by February 15th, 1966.

PURCHASE PRICE SET

The purchase price of the farm will be at the rate of $1,000 per acre with $30,000 in cash at the time of the sale and the balance secured by a first mortgage repayable by January 31st, 1968.

Total cost of the new home at Bancroft and of the addition at Belleville is estimated at $1,200,000—$300,000 for the new home and about $300,000 for the addition, including a chapel.

With a 50 per cent provincial subsidy of $675,000 available with proceeds from the sale of the farm the net cost to the county would be $475,000.

Councillors were generally agreed that increased accommodation was required for home for the aged residents, but there was some thought Bancroft was not the proper location for the new 100-bed county home.

But county home committee member Calvin White said nearness to a hospital, water and sewage and fire protection were factors in choosing the site.

WANT TO BE NEAR HOME

Another consideration for choosing the north Hastings site was that many elderly people from that section of the county object to entering the county home at Belleville because of the distance they would be from relatives.

He said this was important for elderly people.

Several councillors felt that an additional 150 beds for county home residents was not needed at this time. It was pointed out, however, that the extra accommodation would all be taken up within a few years and in the meantime the county could invest funds in the city of Belleville which had a long waiting list for entry to the county home.

Under an existing agreement between the city and the county Belleville is entitled to two-sevenths of 80 per cent of the present county home accommodation. Under this agreement the city has use of something over 50 beds at the present time.

CITY HAS NO SHARE

Belleville, however, will have no share in the new addition at Hastings Manor. It was decided that the county will bear the entire cost.

Reeve Trevor Verse McMurray felt that the decision to go ahead with the building project, council should wait until the sale of the county home is completed.

However, Thurlow reeve Clayton Hall said there was little doubt the sale would go through and in any event the farm could be easily sold.

Reeve McMurray's amendment to lay aside the building program until the farm was finalized was defeated.

The county will now engage architects to prepare plans for the 50-bed addition to the present home and also for the new 100-bed structure at Bancroft.

Formation of a County Planning Board Under Discussion in Council

Discussions on the possible formation of a county planning board were continued in Hastings county councillors yesterday but a "go slow" attitude will be adopted before any definite action is taken.

This was the decision yesterday after council members heard the report of their district planning committee and also listened to Mr. John Pearson of the provincial community planning branch.

Thurlow Reeve Clayton Hall as chairman of the county planning committee, said it was the unanimous opinion of his committee that organized planning was a sound requisite for any municipality or area.

However, he said, there appeared to be confusion on how this should be implemented.

He said the southern municipalities in Hastings seemed desirous for a joint planning. Municipalities in the Quinte Hastings were reluctant to make any firm commitment and northern municipalities were divided in their opinion.

As a result Mr. Hall said his committee was unable to make any firm recommendation on the course to be followed, and intimated that direction was being sought from council.

He noted that parts of Sidney and Thurlow are already members of the Belleville and Suburban Planning Board.

Mr. Pearson said separate planning boards were not practical to operate as rural and urban areas must work with each other.

Reeve Ernest Kells of Sidney asked if Sidney and Thurlow would be allowed to withdraw from the Belleville and Suburban Planning Board if a county board was formed.

COULD RAISE QUESTION

To this Mr. Pearson replied that the Ministers would raise the question of how the county expected to work with the city on planning matters.

Mr. Pearson said that eventually there would have to be a planning area taking in the city and the rural area and that a joint planning meeting area would probably be best.

"There is just no way of a county planning board investing a major city on its boundaries," he said.

Mr. Pearson commended the county planning committee for what it had done and said it had gone far enough for either one of two courses of action. 1. It could initiate discussions with the city, or 2. it could continue as a planning committee with the view of determining how the individual municipalities stood with respect to subdivision control and then at the end of another year take a look at formation of a county planning area.

ONLY PAY BILLS

Reeve Kells said there would be no benefit from a planning board unless there was sub-division control. "We've belonged to the Belleville and Suburban Planning Board for 10 to 15 years and have received no benefit except to help foot the bills."

Mr. Pearson said there should be sub-division control for all rural areas within 50 or 75 miles of a large urban centre as partial control creates more problems than if there was no control.

In such cases property owners "on the other side of the line" can take the advantages of the two areas working together.

Reeve Rodgers moved that the county planning committee continue for another year and work toward a uniform building by-law and explore the subject of sub-division control.

The motion carried.

Council Will Protest Charge For Autopsies

Hastings county council will ask for clarification from Belleville General Hospital of that institution's intention to make a special $25 charge to the county for each autopsy performed.

Announcement of the intended charge was made known to county council yesterday in a letter from the hospital administrator.

Today council was told that the $25 hospital charge in connection with the performance of autopsies was actually for use of hospital facilities. Pathologist and other autopsy fees range between $60 and $75 and are paid separately.

Marmora reeve William Shannon suggested that the county protest the "proposed $25 additional charge for use of hospital facilities in view of the fact that the county is a joint owner of the hospital.

To serve with sandwiches to your callers Mary Moore gives two Christmas cookie recipes today: Cherry Kisses and Butter Pecan Cookies.

COOKIES FOR CHRISTMAS

In our Western civilization Christmas cookies enjoy a cherished spot in our baking plans. Each year at this time I try to excel my previous year's efforts.

Butter Pecan Cookies, tested by my helper Shirley, are a cross between shortbread and Swedish thumbprint cookies and will keep well and are delicious.

Cherry Kisses are meringues with coconut and cherries in them. They are pretty and popular. Their primary virtue is to extend and vary your lazy susan full of cookies. But if you keep them for more than a day or two, store in airtight container for they tend to crumble if treated roughly.

Both of today's recipes are easy for amateurs to make. The note that in the Butter Pecan Cookies you may use margarine instead of butter and white sugar instead of brown.

WEDNESDAY

Dinner Menu

by Mary Moore

Meat Pie (see Tues.); Mustard Relish or Chili Sauce; Shredded Red and Green Cabbage with Cole Slaw Dressing; Applesauce; Doughnuts; Tea.

BUTTER PECAN COOKIES (4 dozen):

1 cup butter or margarine, 2/3 cup light brown sugar (or white), 1 egg yolk, 2 cups sifted all-purpose flour, pecan halves, or quartered maraschino cherries or sliced jujubes.

Cream together butter and sugar until light. Beat in yolk. Stir in flour and chill dough 1 hour. Shape in 1-inch balls. Place on ungreased cookie sheet 2 inches apart. Press with back of floured fork in one direction to flatten. Top with pecan half or quartered maraschino cherry or jujube slice. Bake at 375 deg. Fahr. 10 to 12 minutes until barely tinged at edges. Cool on cake racks. Store in airtight container.

CHERRY KISSES (croesant meringues — 5 dozen.)

3 large egg whites, 1 cup granulated sugar, ¼ teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1¼ cups desiccated coconut (one 6-oz. package), 16 maraschino cherries cut in eighths.

Add sugar and salt to egg whites and beat until very stiff. (This took 9 minutes in my electric beater.) Fold in vanilla and coconut and half of the cut up cherries. Butter and dredge with flour 3 cookie sheets. Drop meringues from wet teaspoon 1 inch apart on prepared cookie sheets. I had 60. Top each with ½ maraschino cherry. Do not push it into meringue. Bake at 300 deg. Fahr. 25 to 30 minutes or until barely tinged with gold —a pale biscuit color is ideal. With spatula gently remove from pans (they do not stick) and cool on cake racks. These should be served within 24 hours.

NOTE:

Our minister fasted one of these at our neighboring assistant minister's home. Later he said it exploded in his hand — so if you do keep these overnight be sure they are tightly covered. They were terrifically popular and pretty and dissolve like snow in the sunshine . . . but they are not durable.

Optical Employees Enjoy Party

On Friday evening the Social and Sports Club of the American Optical Company held its annual employees Christmas banquet and dance at the Crow's Nest.

A turkey dinner was served by the ladies of Branch 99 of the Royal Canadian Legion to approximately 220 employees and guests. Mr. Bruce Montgomery asked the grace. A moments silence was observed for two members who had contributed a great deal to the organization in previous years, Mrs. Alice Reid and Mr Boyd Findlay.

At the conclusion of the banquet, Mr. Earl Moon, president of the club of 1965, introduced Mr. Paul Siegmund, assistant plant manager, who was master of ceremonies at the banquet. In an amusing and interesting manner Mr. Siegmund reviewed some of the activities of the past year. Mr. H. J. Fitzgerald, vice - president and general manager reviewed the company's progress through 1965 and outlined some of the plans and programs for 1966. He thanked the Belleville employees for the major contribution they have made to the company in 1965.

The following are the officers of the Social and Service Club who were responsible for the annual banquet and dance.

Powder Rooms for Girls Available in Pool Halls

TORONTO (CP) — They're putting powder rooms in the pool halls . . . or rather, in the billiard academies now that the fair sex has moved in.

Women have made the snooker scene. The Canadian Billiard League, which claims to be the first professional snooker league in Canada with eight men's teams, is hoping to have a women's division in operation within a month.

At the Golden Cue Academy in Scarborough, two women members of the league showed the girls can rank with the best in this traditionally male sport.

Gisele Maurice, 18, popped a bank shot into the corner pocket hard enough to make your teeth rattle. She repeated the performance, just to show it was no accident.

Mrs. Georgina Krachan, 58, and grandmother of five, pocketed a few more to show Gisele wasn't unique.

Scotty Krachan, president of the billiard league and an old-time player in Dundee, Scotland, says the league's women's division will be rolling in less than a month "if we can get the girls to overcome their shyness."

The women "will really surprise you," he says. "They take a little longer to get the idea, but when they do, watch out. They're deadly."

OLD TROUPER RETURNS

LONDON (CP)—Jessie Matthews, a British movie actress of the 1930s and now the star of a radio soap opera, is to make a come-back in films. She will have a singing role in the movie adaptation of Lost Empires, J. B. Priestley's novel about the oldtime British vaudeville theatres. The film will be directed by Victor Saville, who directed Miss Matthews' pre-war successes.

Girls Told How to Win Court Case

BOSTON (AP)—Okay, girls, if you're going to court, throw out that ostrich-feather hat, tone down the lipstick, lower the high heels and take off those fancy black stockings.

First, he says, don't be cute and coy.

And if there is any question of honor or innuendo of unchastity, meet it with a "showing of spirited resentment, rather than attempts at smiling wit or smirking repartee."

In general, he said, too little attention is given to the conduct of a witness in the courtroom and in the vicinity of the courtroom as well as in the witness box.

Women in divorce cases, for example, are advised to be modest and sedate rather than flashy and flamboyant.

". . . Rouge and lipstick, if used, should be at a minimum. Jewelry, except a few simple trinkets, ought not to be used . . . fancy stockings are to be avoided," Dangel said.

He said if a witness is falsely accused of a wrongful act, falseness or affectation in dress, speech and behavior tend to support the credibility of the accusation.

TARGET NOT MET

MONTREAL (CP)—The Red Feather campaign in Montreal collected $2,453,931 in its 1965 appeal, but fell short by $96,000 of its objective. This "gives us cause for deep concern," said T. R. Meighan, president of the fund drive.

Successful Living

Voice Quality, Tone Important Factors

DEAR DORIS: I am a retired preacher. When I was 40 my mother said my voice did not sound right (I was trying to sing.)

So I found that my wife's singing teacher, by just having me practise scales, placed my voice from my throat to the top of my mouth, and developed a good carrying tone, for singing and talking.

I inquired why a priest was taking singing lessons. Ans: just so he could talk strong and correctly.

It seems nine out of ten people talk from their throat (sideways — east and west — as the teacher said); not up and down (north and south.)

I think a carrying, pleasing voice is at least half the battle. — H.W.H.

DORIS CLARE

DEAR H.W.H.: Couldn't agree more. And it's not only preachers who profit by well-rounded, carrying voices. Anyone in touch with the public — and that's nearly everybody, at one time or another — affects others by the tone and quality of their voice.

Actors, people who make speeches, people who talk on the telephone, people who wait to go across with other people — should all listen to their own voices (on tape, mayhap?) Or get their best friend to tell them how they sound.

A voice teacher, or even a book on speaking properly, should be the next resort for more than a few.

* * *

DEAR DORIS: My boy friend is very shy and so it is only when he is drinking that he will really talk to me. Please do not think he is an alcoholic because it is very seldom that he is drunk. A couple of months ago we were going steady but we broke up.

Well, last weekend when he was drinking he asked me to go back with him. I told him to ask me when he was completely sober. He phoned me twice and started to ask and he even got one of the other boys to ask.

When he is drinking he means everything, he says but the next day he doesn't remember what he did say so I have to remind him. I do want him back very much. Tell me, am I being too stubborn or should I give in? — DRINKING PROBLEM.

DEAR DRINKING PROBLEM: You're making it tough, aren't you? He did call you in all sobriety — but he surely needed help from you. Many a girl has helped out a shy suitor. Throw him a life line when he's sober — and let's hope that's most of the time!

* * *

DEAR DORIS: My girl friend and I have been playing hockey on the streets for quite some time, since it is the most reasonable place. Recently one of our neighbors called the police because we were making noise. Now we are not allowed to play hockey. What should we do? — ANXIOUS.

DEAR ANXIOUS: Go to the city recreation director or the police station and ask for suggestions about where you can play hockey. You may find that the open road is not a reasonable place after all. But surely neighborly people would not expect you to grow up in complete silence!

Susanna's Family Fare

BLOCK CANDLES

Dear Susanna: I thoroughly enjoyed your compliment ary pamphlet Wax on Wax, and want to thank you. Since I didn't include a hint when I wrote for it, I'm redeeming myself now. For those among your readers who are new to candle making, here are two of my own suggestions:

To make a square candle from four blocks of paraffin as it isn't necessary to melt the wax and pour it into a mold. Instead, merely warm and soften one side each of two blocks of wax and clamp them together. Make a groove for the candle wick and lay it firmly in place — be sure it is taut. Now add the other two blocks of paraffin wax to form a square.

When icing this type of block with additional liquid wax, don't attempt to start to heat the wax until it has cooled to the point where a film has formed on top. Of course if the wax becomes too thick while working with it, it may be reheated slightly. When you begin to frost your candle block, pretend it is a cake, and use a large, broadbladed knife. — Mrs. Z. Findlay.

Dear Susanna: Like most children, mine always count the days until Christmas. Each year we make a special calendar page for the month of December. We rule a plain sheet of white paper or cardboard into squares and insert the numbers from 25 to 1, — yes, we start with the number 25 and work down to 1. As each day passes, the first, second, third and so on is crossed off. At a glance the youngsters can see how many days are left.

Ps. If it's the 11th day in December, then the only unmarked numbers remaining are from 15 to 1 . . . my how the excitement mounts. — Mrs. N. Drews.

The original countdown! — SUSANNA

Ann Landers

Hairy Mary Says Soul Outshines Moustache

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Phooey on you for your reply to the young man who asked what to do about his girl friend, a brilliant young psychology major who had everything—including a moustache.

You said he ought to suggest that she bleach it or have it removed permanently by a specialist. Your advice was cruel and thoughtless. Excessive hair is a medical problem and should be overlooked. Would you think it good manners to comment on a receding chin or a limp?

If a young woman is brilliant and charming and appeals to the intellect, a mature man AIN LANDERS should be able to look right past her moustache and see the beauty of her mind and soul. I am deeply disappointed in you.—HAIRY MARY.

DEAR MARY: Sorry I let you down, Doll, but most men can see better than they can think.

True, excessive hair may be the result of a chemical imbalance in the system but that doesn't mean it should be overlooked. A girl who hides a beautiful soul and a brilliant mind behind a moustache makes the receding chin or the limp artificially difficult for young men who are in search of a beautiful soul and brilliant minds.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a 22-year-old college student whose world has just crumbled. Last night the 21-year-old girl I'm in love with told me all about herself. I was so ill this morning I couldn't make my 9:00 a.m. Class.

Arletta and I have been going together for six months. She is beautiful, gay and behaves like the model young woman on any campus.

Last night she told me that she had given herself to a boy she went steady with in high school. They had talked about marriage and he persuaded her that she was foolish not to live life to the limit. They went together five months and broke up when he moved to another city.

I thought I wanted to marry Arletta but now I'm not sure. If she was able to fool me so completely will I ever be able to trust her? And how do I know hers were not others?

Please help me. I'm sick with grief. — LIKE DEAD.

DEAR LIKE: Better write off Arletta. The way your mind is operating you'll have her pictured as the town's Number One streetwalker within a week.

Did she ask you for an affidavit of your purity? If so, would you have been able to produce one?

Love is forgiving. It is sweeping people for what they are. You are unable to do this, so do both yourself and Arletta a favor and find a white-flower girl. (And lots of luck, Bub.)

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Our son Donald is 13 years old. He thinks my husband and I are being unfair because we insist that he take turns with his sister doing the dishes.

Donald says a 13-year-old boy should not be asked to do sissy stuff around the house. He is afraid some of his friends might hear about it and make fun of him. My husband and I want to be fair. Will you give us your opinion? — CENSORED.

DEAR CENSORED: There is nothing sissy about doing dishes. This is a household chore, just like emptying the trash, making the beds and scrubbing the floors. Chores should be done by both boys and girls without resentment or complaint.

When necking becomes petting, watch out! To learn how the smart girl keeps both her dignity and her boy friend, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Necking and Petting — And How Far To Go," enclosing with your request 25 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

THE LITTLE WOMAN

"Oh, yes! I'm sure he'll be honored to serve on the clean-up committee!"

U.C.W. Meetings

WHITE'S U.C.W.

WHITE'S DISTRICT — Mrs. George Bilham was hostess to the ladies of White's U.C.W. on Wednesday afternoon for their regular meeting with the president, Mrs. Lorne Hunt, in charge.

Mrs. Jeremy Palmer was in charge of the devotional service. Mrs. Glenn Meyers gave a reading.

The nominating committee was named. It was decided to pay the balance of the allocation. A Christmas meeting will be held on Wednesday evening, December 22nd at 7:30 p.m. at White's Church. Each member is to bring a donation of food to make up a basket for a needy family. This takes the place of an exchange of Christmas gifts.

Mrs. W. Jeffery and Mrs. Earl Meyers prepared the program. Readings were given by Mrs. George Bilham and Mrs Earl Meyers. A contest of nursery rhymes was enjoyed.

No nagging backache!

She used to be bothered by backaches and tired feeling. When she learned that irritation of the bladder can cause backache, nervousness and tired feeling, she took Doan's Kidney Pills. Smart girl. Doan's Pills stimulate the kidneys to help relieve this condition causing the backache and tired feeling. Don't be miserable with backache. Doan's Kidney Pills may help you, too. You can depend on Doan's. Now large size saves money.

AREN'T SO BAD

SAINT JOHN, N.B. (CP)—Maj. P. J. Ney, founder of the Commonwealth Youth Movement, says today's youth is not as indolent, backward or morally corrupt as some critics have made out. "I think that when they are given an honest and sincere leadership, the youths of today are every bit as good as their predecessors," Maj. Ney said in an interview. He arrived here Monday from England.

Susanna's Christmas Decor Ideas

WHAT HAVE WE HERE?

Half a dozen Rudolphs riding barley sticks in a brandy glass?

No wonder they call him Red Nose! Regardless of his reputation, he's now an established member of Santa's entourage — no way fight it!

Let's get him right out on the coffee table in the living room and watch the young types gravitate toward him when they come to call. He'll brighten their eyes and tingle their tongues.

We have a pattern for this pet to which you are most welcome — in return of course, for a handy hint or two from you of your very own! One doesn't even have to be able to sew to construct these wee lads.

A Rudolph head can be cut out and glued together before Dancer has a chance to twinkle his toes. A few scraps of red, white and black felt mounted on a red and white barley stick will add up to a delectable holiday ornament and treat, all in one.

Of course, there's always a paper doll or two in the crowd, and some of you more advanced designers may wish to create a bit on an ornate base.

One suggestion is a round, flat piece of white styrofoam into which the candy sticks are inserted upright in a circle — leaving room in the centre for a large, glittery pine cone or other tinselly ornament. What do we have now? A fancy, festive merry-go-round if I ever saw one. —SUSANNA

RAINS LEAFLETS

MILAN, Italy (AP)—Leaflets protesting agents' fees and the closing of a factory rained down on the jeweled heads of society women Tuesday night at the opening of La Scala's opera season. A white-tie and high-fashion crowd of 3,200 had filled the house to capacity and was listening to the opening act of Verdi's La Forza del Destino when a clamor broke out in the upper balcony.

DISTRICT WOMEN'S INSTITUTES

SIDNEY SOUTH W. I.

Sidney South Women's Institute sponsored a successful Christmas family night on Friday evening. Mrs. Douglas Reid was chairman and Mrs. H. Holmsby was in charge of the music for this event in the Aikens Community Hall. The children of the community contributed readings, piano duets, accordion selections and a clarinet solo as well as singing to this program.

The under eight - year - olds heralded Santa's visit with a chorus of "Jingle Bells" with sleigh bell accompaniment. Santa treated each child to candy and a gift. This program was prepared by the branch directors, Mrs. Findlay Scrimshaw, Mrs. Jack Caddick, Mrs. Carl Moon and Mrs. Ted Aikens. Each Institute member brought a Christmas gift to be given to a patient in a Cobourg hospital. Refreshments were served, bringing a happy evening to a close.

Kiwanis L.A. Views Slides

On Thursday evening the Kiwanis ladies' auxiliary held its last meeting of the year at the Kiwanis Centre. This took the form of a pot-luck supper. The tables were tastefully decorated with the Christmas theme. Many of the members had brought a guest with them.

The president, Mrs. Don Hickson, welcomed the group and each member introduced her guest.

Following grace said by the president, Mrs. Hickson, the ladies helped themselves to the dishes prepared by the members of the auxiliary and served amorgasbord style. Following dinner Christmas carols were sung with Mrs. A. S. McConnell leading the singing and Mrs. Robert Bruin assisting at the piano.

A short business session followed. The president, Mrs. Hickson thanked the members for the many dolls they had dressed and which were on display. The dolls will be turned over to the members of the Kiwanis club to assist their Christmas toy project and will be distributed at Christmas time.

Instead of exchanging gifts this year a collection was taken up and the money will be used for the Kiwanis toy project.

A blood donors' clinic will be held in December and the Christmas party for the White Cane Club will be held at the centre on December 14th.

The special program for the evening was a journey to Copenhagen, Denmark, and a visit to the Holy Land via an armchair travelogue. The trip was taken by Mrs. Earl Denyes and Mrs. Kenneth Denyes, who were introduced to the members by Mrs. John Marsh. Mrs. Earl Denyes has been an active member of the Woman's Institute and has served for 20 years on the Belleville Fair Board.

The trip was organized by the United Church and there were 47 travellers in the party. The colored slides were taken by Mrs. Kenneth Denyes and Mrs. Earl Denyes was the narrator.

The party travelled by plane and the first stop on the trip was at Copenhagen, Denmark. From there they journeyed by plane to Cairo, Egypt and a trip to the pyramids was made in a most unique way, via camel's back. From Egypt they travelled to Jordon and then crossed the Jordon river to Israel, from there to Damascus and Jerusalem. Views of the tomb where Jesus was placed after the crucifixion and a visit to the Dead Sea and the Sea of Galilee were shown. Some particularly beautiful shots were of the sunrise over the sea of Galilee. The journey took the travellers to Athens and they viewed many of the beautiful and historic spots of Athens.

Mrs. R. Lumbers thanked the speakers for their account of their trip and a gift of appreciation was presented to each of them.

GORDON'S CONCERNED

HALIFAX (CP)—Donald Gordon, CNR president, said Tuesday night he is "concerned about the long delay" in implementing the recommendations of the MacPherson royal commission report on transportation. He told guests at the annual Atlantic Ports Day dinner that the report contains the formula for a "coherent national transportation policy."

WANTS HALL SAVED

TORONTO (CP) — Former governor-general Vincent Massey has joined opposition to the proposed sale of Toronto's old city hall. Metropolitan Toronto council is considering an offer of $5,000,000 from the T. Eaton Co. for the building. Mr. Massey said Tuesday in a letter to Metro Chairman William Allen: "For many years it has been not only a landmark in Toronto but the veritable symbol of Toronto and has been treated as such."

Dorothy Batcheller Tells How to Bone Your Turkey

By JEAN SHARP
CP Women's Editor

TORONTO (CP)—If your family will stand for it and you'd like to change Christmas dinner a little, there are several interesting ways to prepare a turkey without altogether upsetting tradition. Or you might even substitute a duck or goose, Mrs. D.J. McKinnon of Belleville Dorothy Batcheller, home economics director for the Poultry Products Institute, says, for example, you can bone a turkey, stuff it and serve it so that it will slice like a loaf of bread. And anyone who has boned a fish can bone poultry, she adds.

"The main thing is to use a good sharp knife. The average housemaker doesn't. You're far more apt to cut yourself with a dull knife because it slips."

You slit the skin down the back with the knife, then with your fingers scrape and push the meat off the back and ribs around on both sides to the breast bone.

Disjoint the wings at the shoulders and thighs at the hips by twisting the limbs out of their sockets. Insert the knife into the joint and cut the connecting tendons. But be careful not to cut through the skin.

Lift out the rib cage. Lay the bird skin-side down and spread the skin and meat out flat. Mound stuffing on the meat. Draw the sides of the back together, fasten with skewers and lace with clean string.

Shape the bird into its original shape. Only the wing and leg bones will be left. Place fi breast up in a roasting pan and roast as usual.

BASTE IN SOYA SAUCE

"You can baste a turkey with soya sauce and oil to give it a lovely brown color," Miss Batcheller says. "Butter it when you put it in the oven and during the last hour baste it with about one cup of soya and one-half cup of salad oil or melted butter.

"Or you might try a pinch of cinnamon in the bottom of the pan. It doesn't give a taste of cinnamon but brightens the taste of the turkey.

"Or try a coating of dry mustard and butter. Rub just a little into the turkey at the start.

"Orange juice is another flavorful thing to pour over a turkey.

"No matter what you use, don't baste too often or you will lower the oven temperature and slow your cooking."

Miss Batcheller says she doesn't usually stuff a duck, but puts a peeled orange, apple and some celery and onion in it for flavor. You can do the same thing with turkey.

She says goose, duck and turkey are all best roasted in a moderately slow oven about 325 degrees. With the exception of goose, they are all roasted uncovered on a rack in a shallow roasting pan.

DRAIN FAT

"For goose put water in the pan for the first hour and prick the skin with a needle around the thighs and breast to allow fat to escape. Cook it covered to steam out the fat, then drain it well and after the first hour cook it uncovered.

"If a duck is eviscerated, examine the body cavity to be sure it is drawn clean. Wash the duck thoroughly inside and out. Dry and rub the inside of cavity with salt. Sew or skewer to close the opening and roast uncovered at 325, allowing about 30 minutes a pound. Duck is cooked when the meat is tender and no red tinge shows in the juice when the meat is pricked with a skewer or fork."

Miss Batcheller also suggests a cherry stuffing which calls for one tablespoon of butter, two tablespoons of chopped onion, four cups of fine soft bread crumbs, one - half teaspoon of salt, one teaspoon of poultry seasoning, one-half teaspoon of celery salt, a dash of pepper and one 15-ounce can of pitted cherries.

Melt the butter in a pan, add onio and cook slowly for five minutes. Add onion and melted butter to crumbs and seasonings and combine thoroughly. Drain the syrup from the cherries and save it for basting the duck during roasting. Add drained cherries to the crumb mixture and mix together carefully so the fruit is not crushed. It makes enough for a four-pound duck.

Communism Losing Ground In Middle East, Lost Last Official Foothold in Sudan

AN AP News Analysis
By ROY ESSOYAN

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—Communism, which has suffered heavy blows in Indonesia, Africa and other parts of the world recently is losing ground in the Middle East.

The Communist party lost its last official foothold in the Arab world when it was outlawed in the Sudan last month. It now is illegal in every Arab country.

Despite the impression the Arab world is pro-Communist—an impression magnified by the sometimes spectacular socialist experiments of Egypt, Syria and Iraq—the Arabs have always been wary of communism.

Communism was fine, some Arabs apparently felt, as a political theory or doctrine and several of them recognize China.

But the Arab attitude toward communism has been a good example of "double-think" since President Gamal Abdel Nasser of Egypt outlawed the Communists for military aid and opened the Arab world to communism in a big way

76 Killed In Safe Driving Week

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

At least 76 persons were killed in traffic during Canada's Safe Driving Week, Dec. 1-7.

The seven-day total soared past last year's 60 fatalities and the nine-year annual average of 57 deaths recorded by the Canadian Highway Safety Council.

The council, hoping "weather, watchfulness and increased attention" by pedestrians and motorists would limit the toll at 25 deaths, earlier predicted 50 persons would be killed in traffic between 12:01 a.m. EST last Wednesday to midnight Tuesday EST.

But the first three days alone saw 36 deaths recorded and the council's prediction was shattered at midnight Saturday when the toll increased to 52.

Ontario led the country during the week with 34 traffic fatalities compared with 28 in 1964.

Both Prince Edward Island and New Brunswick completed the second consecutive safe driving week without a traffic death.

Nova Scotia had three deaths this year, up two from last.

Manitoba reported two traffic deaths, up one from 1964, and Saskatchewan had four persons killed last Saturday to exceed last year's one-day total by three.

Alberta's one road death was a sharp drop from 1964's five while British Columbia's 11 was eight more than last year's total for the week.

William Hamilton Baits Royal Family on Expenses

By JAMES F. KING

Since then, Hamilton has been baiting the Royal Family on royal expenditures—with Princess Margaret his favorite target.

"I get accused of being a republican and a crypto-Communist," says the tall, fair-haired son of a coal miner. "I am neither."

In fact, the 48-year-old Labor MP who represents the Scottish coal - mining district of West Fife says quietly he is in favor of the monarchy.

"It is accepted that countries have to have a head of state, and as we have a queen there is not much point in switching to a president who would perform the same functions.

"What I want is for the institution of the monarchy to become less expensive."

Hamilton, former army officer and history teacher, says he is sure many MPs share his views on royalty but are afraid to speak out.

HALF DOUBT SPARE

"In fact, I think the country is divided into about 30 per cent of royalty worshippers, 30 per cent of active opponents, with those in between really indifferent to the doings of royalty."

The Royal Family over the years but recently the criticism has brought livelier headlines.

The Wilson government Tuesday night dismissed Hamilton's complaint about the expense of Princess Margaret's recent tour of the United States by saying it would cost British taxpayers about £20,000 ($80,000).

James Callaghan, chancellor of the exchequer, gave the figure in a written statement so there was no opportunity for debate in the House of Commons.

Hamilton says the tradition that members of the Royal Family do not answer criticism is outmoded. "I would be delighted if Princess Margaret decided to answer my criticism of her."

Hamilton, who speaks in a soft voice, says all he wants to do is to modernize the Royal Family — "staff" Buckingham Palace with people who know what goes on in the world."

"I think the only members of the Royal Family whom the state should continue employing are the Queen, Prince Philip and I suppose eventually their children.

"There is no doubt in my mind that Princess Margaret regards herself as a private citizen."

He thinks the princess, who has a considerable private income, should give up the royal allowance of £15,000 she draws during the next month or two.

DEADLY TEST — Surface to air HAWK missiles are prepared for launching in a test firing exercise on South Viet Nam's Ky Hoa island, eight miles north of the Chu Lai air base. The HAWK (Homing All the Way Killer) is capable of making a kill even if it misses the target by 30 feet.

Wilson Comes Under Fire For Refusing to Impose Oil Embargo on Rhodesia

By HAROLD MORRISON

LONDON (CP)—Prime Minister Wilson came under attack from both Liberal and left-wing only Labor members Tuesday as he refused to impose an oil embargo against Rhodesia or even to halt a British tanker carrying 12,000 tons of oil to the breakaway colony.

But Speaker Horace King came to his support in the Commons by rejecting a Liberal bid for an emergency debate on the issue, saying members knew the tanker — British Security—was on its way Monday and should have raised the issue then.

When several left-wing socialists rose to offer the Speaker advice on his ruling or to argue that they could not raise the issue earlier because Wilson made his position clear Tuesday, King said he needed no advice and would entertain no further argument.

Wilson's position on oil appeared all the more puzzling in view of sharp economic action he has taken in other fields to weaken the Ian Smith regime.

OWNED BY BP

The British tanker is owned by British Petroleum, in which the British government has a controlling interest. Wilson maintained there are tankers from other countries on the high seas. There would be no point in banning British oil if Ian Smith can get oil elsewhere. Iran and Kuwait have already imposed embargoes. A British official said later United States exporters still ship their oil into Rhodesia and this is a factor in the British position.

When critics pointed out that the United Nations has virtually ordered an oil embargo, Wilson countered that, among countries which supported the UN resolutions have not yet begun to enact the terms of the resolution.

He argued also that an oil embargo at this stage might induce Rhodesia to cripple oil supplies to neighboring Zambia. Supplies to Zambia had to be safeguarded before an embargo could be imposed.

Later, an informant said Wilson likely will raise the oil problem when he confers with President Johnson Dec. 17. This informant suggested the U.S. government is having difficulty getting Texas oil men to support any American oil ban against white-ruled Rhodesia.

THREATEN BREAK

The 28 African members of the Organization for African Unity, including the nine Commonwealth members, have threatened to break off diplomatic relations with Britain by Dec. 15 if Wilson does not crush the Smith regime by that date. British officials have pointed out to the Commonwealth members that they would jeopardize British financial aid by such a move. Even so, there is growing conviction in Whitehall that some of the members will break relations on that date.

The argument raised by these officials, however, is that the crisis will be short-lived with the prospect that the Smith regime may be brought down by gradual economic strangulation that becomes more effective during the next month or two.

Crude oil production in July was 26,064,366 barrels, a gain of almost five per cent from the 24,742,105 barrels produced in July of last year, the bureau of statistics reported Tuesday. July output of natural gas was up 4.4 per cent over the previous July at 99,453,559,000 cubic feet.

De Gaulle's Rule Did Not Produce Blow to Destroy Hard Core of Communism

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The world's reaction to Charles de Gaulle's failure to win re-election on the first ballot is in effect an indictment of a policy that shrouded a basic weakness of French politics. Seven years of de Gaulle's rule produced no body blow that could destroy the hard core of communism in France.

Almost dismissed is the significance of Mitterrand's own showing of almost 32 per cent of the votes cast against 43 per cent for de Gaulle. Mitterrand had the full support of the Communists, Socialists and Radical Socialists. The 1962 parliamentary elections showed that the Communists had the support of about 25 per cent of the voters.

NO DECLINE SEEN

French diplomats tend to dismiss the Communist vote as "traditional" and "always there, but ineffective." But it is one reason for the Paris-Washington split that forced de Gaulle to "go it alone" in the nuclear field.

For many years the U.S. refused to give France certain military nuclear equipment and access to certain nuclear secrets, fearing this knowledge and equipment might eventually fall into the hands of the Communists.

While it is unlikely that a Communist could win the French presidency even after de Gaulle fades into history, the strength of the Communist vote underlined the importance any ambitious candidate who might otherwise fall by the wayside. De Gaulle dazzled the French politics by the sheer weight of personality, enhanced by an aura of mystery surrounding his personal presence. He is the hero who liberated France and raised it from political chaos.

But as de Gaulle acknowledged at the outset of his campaign, the wounds he's drawn papers say it, only delivered a crushing blow to his pride and defeated the myth of infallibility.

It appeared from the vote that the future of French democracy can be sustained only by a man of great influence who can sweep virtually all or most of the non-Communist support into his embrace. Amid all his achievements, de Gaulle's greatest failure is that he has not yet prepared the way for an adequate successor.

Miss Jewett To Spend Time In Writing

TORONTO (CP)— Pauline Jewett, defeated in the May, 8 federal election in Northumberland riding by former Conservative trade minister George Hees, says she will spend the next six or eight months writing about her experiences in the House of Commons.

Miss Jewett said the writing may be a book or series of magazine articles of reflections on the political process in Ottawa.

Miss Jewett said she has received several teaching offers from universities and next fall she probably will return to full-time teaching.

Before election in the 1963 House as a Liberal, Miss Jewett lectured in political science at Carleton University in Ottawa.

Man Arrested After Girl Returns Home

VANCOUVER (CP) — A 58-year-old man who police said was drunk when arrested was held for questioning Tuesday night after a sick eight-year-old girl told police she had spent the night in the room of a man who gave her money.

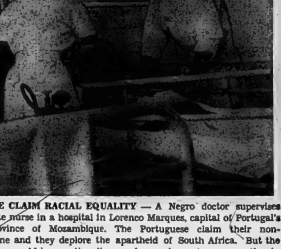
Lori Taylor, subject of a frantic police-civilian search since she disappeared Monday, walked into a house near her home and was recognized as the missing girl from a picture flashed on radio.

Lori takes medication three times daily for a cerebral palsy and epilepsy condition. It was feared she would suffer a collapse without the medication.

Officials said the girl did not appear harmed. Neither did she show signs of discomfort during 24 hours without her prescribed medication.

Her mother, Mrs. Irene Taylor, said:

"I never expected to see Lori again, not after she'd been missing for such a long time. Lori was very upset and tired, but she's okay."



WENT TO STORE

The father, Cpl. Don Taylor of RCAF Station Comox, came home to Duncan after search for his daughter, who disappeared on a trip to a corner store.

Lori's brother, Chris, 6, came home with a dime in his hand. He told his grandmother, who was looking after the children, while their mother was at work, that a "real nice" man had given it to him and told him to go home.

He said the man led Lori away by the hand.

After the girl was found police said Camelia Wong, 17, told them she saw a man enter the house where she lives bringing Lori there. He told Camelia the little girl was a friend of his.

PORTUGUESE CLAIM RACIAL EQUALITY — A Negro doctor supervises the work of a white nurse in a hospital in Lorenco Marques, capital of Portugal's East African province of Mozambique. The Portuguese claim their non-racialism is genuine and they deplore the apartheid of South Africa. But the Portuguese also oppose African nationalism and expect greater co-operation in future, especially in defence, with Rhodesia and South Africa.

Apartheid Quickly Forgotten When South Africans Enjoy Saucy Mozambique Nightlife

Portuguese Mozambique's white rulers dislike South Africa's apartheid but share its opposition to the spread of African nationalism. The country's own brand of racial attitude is described in this story by a Canadian Press reporter.

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN

LOURENCO MARQUES (CP) South Africa's racial gospel takes a bad beating in the saucy nightclubs of Mozambique, left next-door neighbor.

When the dance delights and the shoulder-straps snap, South African tourists tend to forget their straitlaced ways and Prime Minister Hendrik Verwoerd's strict apartheid — racial separation.

Portuguese Mozambique authorities estimate that 200,000 South Africans come to Lourenco Marques each season to enjoy the sun, the beaches, the nightclubs, the Latin naughtiness and the free-and-easy ways of a non-racial society.

They make whoopee in the night spots cheek-by-jowl with dark - skinned African patrons and all join in applauding the black and white dancers.

Fun-seekers from land-locked Rhodesia also heed the call of Mozambique and the entrancing Indian Ocean breezes. Some 80,000 holiday-makers from that white-supremacist land come to Beira, north of Lourenco Marques, each season.

This is only one way in which Mozambique profits from its richer white - ruled neighbors. Significant revenue also comes from harbor fees and from the wages of the 200,000 Mozambique Negroes who work in South Africa.

"We regard apartheid with abhorrence but we feel the interests of these three countries are linked inevitably," said one informant.

He expects greater co-operation, in the future, particularly in defence matters, among the three who despite their differing approaches to racial matters are united in opposition to the spread of African nationalism.

REBELS IN NORTH

The Portuguese seemed anxious to convince a Canadian visitor of two things:

—A rebellion in northern Mozambique has not caused restlessness among the native population here.

An official led the visitor on an eerie tour — long prowl through the native quarter on a Saturday night, in total darkness except for flickering lights from palmbots (huts) along the road.

Sure - footed women treaded homeward in the darkness with laundry and 50 - pound water cans on their heads, stepping easily in the ankle-deep sand.

The official stopped to exchange a few jokes and guffaws with an African barber, doing business in an open-fronted hut in the tropical night.

The atmosphere certainly seemed friendly enough but, as one observer later remarked, the mood of the Africans could change in a flash.

The official maintained, however, that the Portuguese enjoy a happier relationship with the Africans than any other European. Many thousands of peasants had come from Portugal since the Second World War and now worked alongside the Africans in equality, not on the master-servant basis so well known elsewhere.

There seemed, in any event, an amicable division of labor in the steamy night clubs. Black girls danced in the chorus while a white girl was in the anchor position with a striptease.

Summing up Mozambique's attitude to the racial question, a companion recalled a proverb allegedly coined by an African: "God made the white man and God made the black man, but the Portuguese made the mulatto."

Tomorrow: Some animal myths exploded.

GIFT FROM SANTA — A huge, gaily - wrapped Christmas parcel was the central theme of the Northern Electric Company float in this year's Santa Claus parade. It turned out the parcel contained an automatic washing machine which was a gift for the Belleville School for Retarded Children. The washer was presented to the school on behalf of Northern Electric following the parade. The picture shows school principal Carson Stratton and several of the children receiving the gift from Santa Claus.

Pinch Hitting

By GARRY ALEXANDER
Staff Sportswriter

If the average hockey fan was surprised at the sudden firing of New York Ranger coach "Red" Sullivan earlier this week, he probably had select company.

Sullivan himself may have been the most surprised of all.

According to a Montreal writer, the Peterborough redhead was bubbling over with enthusiasm for the Rangers' playoff chances when the club played in that theatre last Saturday.

"A young, skating team that might finish as high as third in the league standing," was the way Sullivan spoke of his charges, despite the fact they were in the middle of a slump at the time.

He called Bob Nevin "the best right wing in the league, more valuable to the Rangers than Gordie Howe is to Detroit or Bobby Rousseau to the Canadiens."

Still bubbling, he said "Jean Ratelle is playing real good hockey and Eddie Giacomin, my rookie goaltender, has proven to me that he is in the league to stay."

Hardly sounds like a man who had any inkling that two days later he would be relieved of his duties as coach and placed in a travelling job with the official title of "co-ordinator of player personnel and scouting."

Either that or as columnist Dink Carroll says, "Maybe Sullivan has been attending the method school of acting in New York when he wasn't in the Gardens."

Sullivan continued with his rundown of the team by saying that Red Selling was a little unhappy because he was having difficulty adjusting to a forward position after being used on defence last season.

He also admitted that the defence was "a little shaky, but there is a right defenceman in our organization I can call up if things get worse instead of better."

But he did not blame the slump, which had the Rangers slipping from third to fifth while winning only two of 14 games, on the defence... Lack of scoring was the fault, he felt.

"Red" said his players were getting lots of scoring chances but could not put the puck in the net. "The breaks are going against them but if they keep on getting their shots on goal the tide is bound to turn," he offered.

Either he had been quoted as contemplating some line changes; had at one point blasted his players for not giving their best, then had changed his mind, apparently, and blamed the slump on himself, saying, "I have been working them too hard."

That hardly sounds like Sullivan. His claim to fame as a player was w-o-r-k, spelled with capital letters. He has asked for the best from every player, a complete 100% effort at all times, since taking over as coach in December, 1962.

There are hockey players who don't believe in this moth dedication and if there are some of them in the Bleecker garb, you can bet they and "Red" would not exactly love each other.

This is hardly enough to get a man fired in most cases. Punch Imlach of Toronto is undoubtedly the toughest man in the league when it comes to working the guts out of a player, yet he remains as bossman of the Leafs.

Imlach, however, is also general manager, as well as coach, so he would have a little more power. There would be no one waiting near the bench for the players to run to if they were unhappy with the coach.

Francis has made it clear since becoming manager of the club in October, 1964, that it was "his team."

He traded away players by the bundle, brought in new ones and brought up youngsters, who must feel strongly toward the same Francis. After all, a number of the players were quoted last week as saying they would do the same thing again after just being fined a total of $1,800 for going into the crowd to assist Francis in a squabble with a goal judge and some fans.

Such loyalty can do wonders for a hockey club, if they maintain it, that is, after Francis gets down to the business of managing and coaching.

Francis voiced his opinion as to what was the matter with the club prior to the big switch and perhaps he will be able to get the club moving again and into the playoffs.

However, from this part of the woods it appeared Sullivan was getting much from the material he had to work with over the past couple of years.

Youth is the prime asset of the Rangers now but the powers-that-be gave Sullivan a short time with this youth.

There's a lot of hockey between now and March to find out how much more Francis will be able to get from the players.

Could well be that "Red" is just another in the long line of victims of that old cliche: "Somebody has got to go, it might as well be the coach."

Chuvalo Beats Resilient Bygraves

★★★★★ Judged Clean Winner

By CARL MOLLINS

LONDON (CP)—George Chuvalo, convinced that the transatlantic route is the best way back into strong contention for world heavyweight boxing honors, made a start here Tuesday night by beating a combative Joe Bygraves.

The Canadian heavyweight champion was judged the clear winner of a 10-round match at Royal Albert Hall in which the older Bygraves displayed an unexpected resilience under Chuvalo's bruising fists. Chuvalo fought the last half with blood in his eyes from a cut on the forehead to gain his 37th win in 47 pro fights.

Chuvalo, heading home for Christmas in Toronto a reported $10,000 richer, plans to return in the new year to seek out any takers for his general challenge to British heavyweights.

Specifically, he wants Henry Cooper because taking the Londoner's British Empire title would fit into his plans for an eventual crack at Cassius Clay, current world titleholder.

Chuvalo, who lost his place in the queue for Clay by dropping a decision to Ernie Terrell in Toronto Nov. 1, believes conquering all comers in Britain would renew his claim to a world title fight. He now is No. 3 in Ring ratings.

DISCUSSES AMBITION

"I'm keen to fight Clay," Chuvalo said after beating Bygraves. "It's always been my ambition to win the world heavyweight title. When I give up that hope, I'll quit the ring.

"Clay doesn't like a fighter who gets inside. I'm that kind of fighter. I'm sure I can upset him."

In the meantime, he and his manager, Irving Ungerman, expressed little interest in a proposed fight against Argentina's Oscar (Ringo) Bonavena in New York or Toronto.

Chuvalo, 28 and 207 pounds, found Bygraves "a very durable, tough fellow," contrary to pre-fight predictions that Bygraves would be easy pickings for the Torontonian.

"I was a little wary of the British rules and didn't want to get disqualified. This prevented me from going all out, as I usually do."

Bygraves, born in Jamaica 34 years ago but based in Britain throughout his 13-year boxing career, behaved bravely before Chuvalo's axe-like rights and jolting lefts.

Chuvalo staggered Bygraves in the second round, punched him halfway across the ring in the eighth and drove him reeling against the ropes at the final bell.

BYGRAVES GETS APPLAUSE

But Bygraves, who had trimmed down to a fit 209½ pounds from 238 a month before the fight, remained mainly upright and his stubbornness won applause from the home crowd of 4,000.

Both fighters were warned more than once by referee Harry Gibbs for butting heads—activity that cut Chuvalo above the hairline in the second round and again in the middle of the forehead in the fourth.

But in the eighth, Chuvalo came back to hammer Bygraves halfway across the ring on to the ropes. Chuvalo rained four rights and two heavy lefts on Bygraves, who survived to clinch until the bell.

In the last two rounds, Chuvalo landed solid blows but his attack weakened slightly with fatigue and under the blood-letting left jabs to his cut forehead.

The Associated Press gave the first, second, third, fourth, sixth, eighth, ninth and 10th rounds to Chuvalo, with the fifth going to Bygraves and the seventh drawn.

Rangers Face Rough Schedule

Start With Hawks

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Emile Francis hopes, no doubt, to find out tonight whether New York Rangers play better for him or Red Sullivan.

Francis took over the Ranger coaching duties Monday after Sullivan was dismissed in an effort to cut short the tailspin that sent the club into fifth place in the National Hockey League standings.

Francis, also Ranger general manager, gets a chance to bring the Rangers out of a slump in Chicago tonight when they meet the league-leading Black Hawks in one of two scheduled games.

The last-place Boston Bruins clash with the second-place Canadiens in Montreal in the other game.

NOT THE BEST TIME

Francis, 30, didn't pick the best time to assume the coaching job.

Following tonight's game, the Rangers move to Detroit for an engagement Thursday against the Red Wings, then return home to meet the Wings Saturday afternoon and Toronto Maple Leafs Sunday night.

The Rangers, after an impressive start, have been able to win only one of their last 10 and two of their last 24 games.

But they have a fair chance against the Hawks. Chicago has lost four and tied one of their nine games at home this season.

The Hawks' home record isn't impressive when their road record is considered—nine wins and one loss in 10 games.

Another factor that could help the Rangers is the possibility that Bobby Hull will not be in Chicago lineup. Hull, the league's top goal-scorer with 17, suffered a muscle spasm of the back in Sunday's 6-2 victory over the Rangers.

MILD BACK STRAIN

"He has a mild back strain and contusions on his chest," Dr. Myron Tremaine, Hawk team psychician, said Tuesday. "He might be able to play Wednesday but it is very unlikely."

Montreal coach Toe Blake is a little wary about the Habs' game against the Bruins, who are winless in their last five games. The Bruins have beaten the Montrealers twice and tied once in four games.

Blake will have to sit out one player. He has 17 men, not including defenceman J. C. Tremblay, who suffered a charley horse Nov. 27 and may be missing another couple of weeks. The player limit is 18 plus two goaltenders.

Dick Duff, laid up a week ago with a shoulder injury suffered in a practice session, is a doubtful starter.

"Duff didn't practise too well, so I won't make up my mind until game time," Blake said. Left winger Don Marcotte of Niagara Falls Flyers of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series will get a try with the Bruins tonight. Marcotte, 18, has scored 16 goals in 18 Junior games this season.

Russians Start Tour This Week

The Russians will open with a match against Canada's national team at London, Ont., Friday night, the first of five scheduled meetings between the two clubs prior to the opening of the Colorado Springs invitational tournament.

They will make their only visit here Dec. 18 for a match with Toronto Marlboros of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series. The juniors will be bolstered by several OHA stars.

Rough Rider Directors Not Talking

OTTAWA (CP)—Directors of Ottawa Rough Riders football club met Tuesday to talk over the coaching situation and announced afterward "the meeting was not conclusive."

A brief statement put out by the Eastern Football Conference club said other meetings would be set "to investigate the matter more thoroughly."

Coach Frank Clair, who came under fire in some circles when the Riders went into a tailspin late in the season and were knocked out in the eastern final by Hamilton, still has two years to run on a three-year contract. It is worth about $20,000 a year.

Italy Ends Scotland's Cup Hopes

NAPLES (Reuters) — Scotland's World Cup hopes were shattered Tuesday as its controversial defensive tactics failed against Italy, which won 3-0 to enter the final stages to be played in England next year.

The forward to make many changes by injuries and the late failure to pass a fitness test of Willie Henderson, lined up with eight regular defenders in their team.

Though the Italians were a well-drilled team and were worthy of their victory, they looked far World-beaters and a more regular and methodical Scottish team might have won.

Su Mac Lad Retired From Track

The 11-year-old trotting gelding was driven once around the track to the cheers of 14,017 fans and then stripped of his racing gear.

Su Mac Lad, purchased by Irving Berkemeyer for $25,000 in 1959, retired with total earnings of $854,268. He set track records of 2:00 minutes at both Roosevelt and Yonkers and won the Roosevelt International classic twice among his many stakes triumphs.

Harness Racing

List Top Money Drivers

NEW YORK (AP) — The growth of harness racing is signified by the release today of the top money-winning drivers by the Harness Racing Institute. For the first time 10 men have won in excess of $500,000.

Billy Haughton, who appears to have the title sewed up, leads the list with earnings of $598,840. Stanley Dancer, last year's winner, is second with $520,479.

He is followed in order by Joe O'Brien, formerly of Alberton, P.E.I., $780,290; Bob Farrington, $712,877; Del Insko, $636,114; John Chapman, $627,003; George Sholty, $619,470; Ralph Baldwin of Lloydminster, Sask., $614,782; Rod Gilmour $589,347 and Frank Ervin, $505,808.

Brenchley New Toledo Coach

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)—Edgar (Chimy) Brenchley, dismissed Saturday as coach of St. Catharines Black Hawks of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series, has accepted an offer to coach Toledo Blades of the International Hockey League.

He started work Monday.

Brenchley coached the Blades a few years ago and took them from last place to the playoffs.

By accepting the job, Brenchley turned down an offer to remain in the Chicago Black Hawks organization as a scout.

Peterboro Rink Tied For Second

Mrs. A. E. Horsburgh's rink from Mount Royal, Que., won both its games and picked up 51 points to lead the 32-rink entry. Mrs. Horsburgh defeated defending champion Martha Boone of Toronto.

Tied for second with 49 points were rinks skipped by Cynthia Gough of Quebec City and Lorraine Selkirk of Peterborough.

Five rinks were tied with one win and a tie and 40 points each.

They were Marjorie Armstrong of Oshawa, Peg McKeen of Winnipeg, Glad Laidley of Lindsay and Peggy Dixon of Glenview, Ill.

Myrtle McCartney of Peterborough skipped her rink to a win and a tie and 37 points in the knockout competition.

Hull May Not Play Tonight

CHICAGO (AP)—Bobby Hull of National Hockey League-leading Chicago Black Hawks may miss tonight's game here against New York Rangers because of a strained back.

"He has a mild back strain and contusions on his chest," Dr. Myron Tremaine, Hawk team physician said Tuesday. "He might be able to play Wednesday, but it is very unlikely. He is taking heat treatments but still has a difficult time straightening up."

Hull played the entire game Sunday but coach Billy Reay said his back bothered him when the game was over.

The injury was Hull's second of the season. He missed four games from Nov. 21 to Dec. 1 with a twisted knee. Since he returned to the lineup last Wednesday, the Hawks have won three straight with Hull contributing two goals.

Hull has 28 points, sharing second place in scoring with Montreal's Bobby Rousseau behind Hawk Stan Mikita who has 29.

CHAMPION DRIVER WON'T WORK ON HIS OWN CAR—Bob McLean, a transplanted Australian, won Canada's auto racing championship in this Lotus 23. But McLean, a professional mechanic in Vancouver, won't work on his own car. His mechanic is an enthusiastic amateur, a man who makes his living as a television technician. McLean says he doesn't like to know too much about the car he drives; it takes his mind off the race. (CP Photo)

Canadian Champion

McLean Brought Title, Attention West

By LESLIE MILLIN

VANCOUVER (CP)—Bob McLean takes his life in his hands about once a week, in season.

He wraps them around a tiny steering wheel and a stubby gearshift and is transformed from a mild - mannered mechanic into Canada's champion auto racing driver.

His hands — fleshy, well-muscled and bread, in contrast with the rest of his slim, frame —seem to have an independent spirit, crouching on the table in front of him like a pair of cougars or stretching and flexing as he talks in a quiet, even voice about motor sport.

McLean, a transplanted Australian, brought the Canadian driving championship to the West this year for the first time. He wrested it from eastern drivers by a steady bulldog of points, by careful driving with the intention of keeping the car together as long as possible.

"Nine races count toward the championship," he said after he won it, "and we entered nine races.

"It's a good thing for the sport that the championship has come west. There was a tendency before for eastern drivers to ignore western races. They won't be able to do that any more."

BROTHER KILLED

McLean's interest in racing goes back to his teens in Melbourne when he and an older brother watched a few motorcycle races and decided to have a track at it themselves.

Their progress was encouraging and their mother bought them a "works" Norton, a motorcycle specially prepared for factory entry in races.

Bob's brother was killed racing it.

"I wasn't there," McLean says. "The race was in another state and I was at home. After that Mother said no more racing."

He quit the two-wheelers but later saw something that affected him deeply: Stirling Moss winning the Australian Grand Prix in a Maserati, a race driven in the smooth, seemingly-effortless Moss style.

After moving to Vancouver in 1957 McLean watched a few sports car races, reflected on the relative safety of cars over motorcycles, and decided to race his MGA.

He rolled it during his first race, escaped injury even though the car had no roll bar, and had several months while the car was being repaired to reflect again on the safety of sports cars.

Repairs to the MGA cost him $666.66 and a lot of time but didn't keep him from returning to the tracks.

TOOK COURSE

He went to England for a course in advanced driving, brought back a Formula Junior Cooper and campaigned successfully with it on the West Coast.

As racing emphasis shifted toward the sports-racing classification, McLean bought a Lotus 23 and it was in this that he won the Canadian crown.

During its first year, however, it had so many mechanical problems he came close to selling it, and it was only his innate determination that made the McLean-Lotus combination into a winner.

"If I start to fall behind in a race, I put pressure on myself first — to concentrate harder, drive closer to the limit," he says. "That's cheap.

"Then I start using the brakes harder if I have to, because they're relatively cheap and easy to repair. After that the transmission gets worked harder, and finally — if I have to—the engine."

"I don't like to know too much about the car I drive. It can cause you to worry too much while you're racing and take your mind off concentrating on the race.

"Also, I don't want the preparation of my car to be just another greasy job for a mechanic — that's why my mechanic is an enthusiast, an amateur, a man who makes his living as a television technician."

McLean is 32 years old, father of a daughter and son, the latter called Robert Stirling after Moss. He believes he has five years of racing left before his sight and reflexes lose their sharpness.

He says it is the pursuit of "the unknown" that keeps him going.

"If I could pick up a newspaper the day before a race and read that I had won it—or not won it—I don't suppose I would continue racing. But I can't. So I do."

Picton Whips Kingston 12-1 In Lakeshore

PICTON — The league-leading Picton Seaboards fattened their scoring marks by whipping Kingston 12-1 here last night in OHA Lakeshore Intermediate action.

Moe Hunter scored three goals and helped on one to lead the pack. Roland Berry, who also had an assist, Ron Weese and Sam Mulholland each netted two goals. Jim Guernsey and Leo St. Dennis collected one goal and two assists apiece while Claude Schrader had the other goal. Larry Pero gained four assists, George Jarslin, Fred James and Gerry Kennedy two each, Jim Slade and Neil Houlding one.

Kingston took five of eight minor penalties.

COACH SIDELINED

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Fred Glover, player-coach of Cleveland Barons of the American Hockey League, will be out of action four to six weeks with a torn cartilage.

Brown Ties Record Two Seek Catching Title

NEW YORK (AP) — Jim Brown of Cleveland Browns has virtually clinched the rushing championship and scoring crown in the National Football League but there is a lively battle for the pass catching title between Dave Parks of San Francisco 49ers and Pete Retzlaff of Philadelphia Eagles.

Brown has gained 1,450 yards in 12 games and his 20 touchdowns, tying Lenny Moore's record of last year, give him the scoring lead with 120 points. Parks has caught 62 passes for 1,006 yards and Retzlaff, veteran tight end of the Eagles, has grabbed 60 for 1,119 yards. Rudy Bukich of Chicago remains the leading passer in standings based on several different categories.

SWAP PLAYERS

BALTIMORE (AP) — Baltimore Clippers of the American Hockey League obtained forward Ed Lawson from Minnesota of the Central League Tuesday in exchange for George Konik.

Bill Quits Coaching

End Of Warwick Hockey Era?

By JOHN SHORT

EDMONTON (CP)—Bill Warwick once boasted he had not lost a tooth in 16 years of hockey.

He retired from the game in 1958 after a serious nasal injury, then lost two teeth and several thousand dollars operating an Edmonton night club.

Warwick, now 41, returned to hockey this fall as coach of Edmonton Oil Kings, a junior club playing in the Alberta Senior Hockey League. He succeeded Buster Brayshaw who quit because of ill health.

But after a couple of months Warwick decided to give it up and hockey may have seen the last of this spunky, controversial figure.

He is advertising sales manager for a twice-monthly magazine called Go which tells where to go and what to see in Edmonton.

It's fitting that Warwick should be employed by a publication with that name because he was always a go-go sort of hockey player.

He played junior hockey in Regina in 1941-42 and stepped up to senior amateur competition with New York Rovers the following year before graduating to New York rangers of the National Hockey League.

He moved to Cleveland Barons of the American League in 1944 and made several stops in minor-pro circuits before returning to amateur ranks with Penticton Vs in 1952.

Bill combined with brothers Grant and Dick to lead the British Columbia team to an Allan Cup championship in 1954 and the world title in 1955. Bill scored twice as the Vs blanked Russia 5-0 in the deciding game of the world tourney in Germany.

Two years later the crest had passed and the brothers sold their one profitable restaurant in Penticton and moved to Trail, B.C., where they caught on with the Smoke Eaters.

But much of their magical drawing power was gone and they stayed only one season before moving to Kamloops, B.C., for the 1957-58 season.

Late that season Bill was struck in the face by a stick-wielding opponent and suffered the nasal injury that forced him out of hockey. At the time Bill's face had had "about 400 stitches" but he still had all his teeth.

Then a couple of years ago he tried to break up a scuffle in his restaurant and out went several teeth, an incident that bothers him more than all the cuts he suffered while playing.

Another thing that bothers him is the Warwick reputation for what some critics have called dirty play.

"We made some people mad at us and we got upset at some people," he says. "But we never played dirty—just rough and tough."

And until he decided to give up coaching that was the sort of hockey he was trying to teach the Oil Kings.

Hoop Finals In Winnipeg

WINNIPEG (CP)—The 1966 Canadian senior A men's basketball championships will be held in Winnipeg for the first time, it was announced Tuesday.

It will be a double knockout tournament if two eastern and two western teams participate but a single-round affair should there be more entries.

Rochester Drops Two In Row

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Punch Imlach caught Rochester Americans on an off-night. The coach of Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League went to Quebec City Tuesday night to watch his farm club play Quebec Aces in an American Hockey League game.

Imlach was seeking defencemen for his sagging Leafs. The Americans were after a win following their 5-3 loss to the Aces Sunday. They lost again 5-4.

Meanwhile, Baltimore Clippers won their third consecutive game, a 5-4 victory over Providence Reds.

The Clippers are 11 points behind Quebec in the Eastern Division and have four games in hand.

It was the second loss in a row for the Americans, whose defensive staff has caught the eye of the Leafs.

After a scoreless first period, Quebec took a 2-0 lead on goals by Claland Morison and Wayne Hicks. Mike Walton narrowed the lead for Rochester before Hicks scored his second goal of the night.

Ken Schinkel scored two goals, including the winner late in the third. Ray Cullen added two more and Marc Dufour the other.

Review of Watts Riot Fails to Give Answer

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—The review Tuesday night on CBS Reports of the Los Angeles disturbances in August failed to add much to the average newspaper reader's knowledge of the frightening Watts riots.

The hour-long program was devoted primarily to reshowing some of what cameras Bill Stout called "the incredible scene" of a civil war waged on the streets of a big, modern city.

The question to which the program promised an answer was the outbreak of violence, a arson and looting a riot or w revolt—was answered almost perfunctorily. It was a revolt, said the narrator. But obviously the real answer is much longer, much more complex than that.

It was hard for the program to fix the blame, but it tried to reflect many points of view, from the police and the mayor to the Negroes.

It reflected, too, an apparent breakdown in the leadership in the Negro community. Indeed there certainly was evident a raw and almost hysterical hatred of white men in some of the interviews.

The program included portions of an interview with Daniel Moynihan, former assistant labor secretary and a student of the Negro situation. He finds that Negro family life is breaking down. He stressed the importance of finding jobs, for Negro males who, he said, never got over the depression of 35 years ago.

ABC's P Troop is really Sergeant Bilko transported to the post-Civil War West. It also bears a resemblance to those wild, broad comedies of the silent movie day. But as a combination, it works, and most weeks it is a fast, funny and raucous show.

Forrest Tucker who plays the cavalry sergeant is as adroit a con man as Phil Silvers ever was, but considerably less noisy and devious.

It may be a show primarily for the young audience, but on most Tuesday nights, its the brightest thing in its time slot.

Recommended tonight:

"I felt very bad watching the riots on television," he told his audience. "I felt I was a writer, and as a writer, in the tradition of Jack London and Frank Norris, I should be informed about what was going on. But I wasn't.

After the fires were out, Schulberg went down to Watts. He found devastation "like he found devastation "like nothing I had seen since the blitz in London." He also discovered a social struggle like an onion—"a ghetto within a ghetto within a ghetto."

STARTED CLASS

Schulberg found a base of operations at the Westminster Neighborhood Association, an agency sponsored by the Presbyterian Church. He began conducting a writing class every Tuesday for a handful of young Negroes. As part of the course, he wanted to show On The Waterfront in a local theatre.

Schulberg said he also discovered there was no hospital, and public transportation was virtually nil.

"I found not one of the things they did for community self-respect," he told the group that included actors Kari Malden, Tony Francisca, Fred Gwynn, Mark Goddard, actresses Diana Lynn, Nancy Olson and Hope Lange.

Schulberg said as a starter they could give money. And they did. The rustle of cheques was substantial enough that a bus might be bought to provide transportation.

But money isn't everything, as one of the Westminster workers explained. "People have to feel involved," he said. It became apparent from the fervor of the meeting that at least one segment of the world was paying every intention of doing so.

SMALL CLUB IS BEST

Bond Producers Making Millions

LONDON (CP)—The producers of the James Bond movies calculate they will be millionaires twice over from the proceeds of the first three films in the series.

The men with the golden touch are Harry Saltzman, born in Sherbrooke, Que., and his American partner, Albert (Cubby) Broccoli, who teamed up four years ago to make Dr. No, first of the Ian Fleming novels to be filmed. Saltzman has a home at Cap d'Ail and Broccoli has apartments in London and Nice.

The movie was an immediate box-office smash and launched the rugged Scottish actor Sean Connery into world fame as Bond. It was followed by the even more successful From Russia With Love and Goldfinger. It has been calculated that the three movies, which cost $8,000,000 to produce, are harvesting $30 per hour in cinemas around the world.

Saltzman and Broccoli had a share in the films' profits as well as being paid salaries and expenses while producing them. All previews were made partly at Toronto, near location in the West Indies and Europe.

The latest Bond adventure, Thunderball, has its London premiere in late December.

Movie Colony Trying To Help Negroes in Watts

By BOB THOMAS

CHRISTMAS TREES

SPRUCE — Trees for sale. Priced reasonable. Phone 962-4350 after work is done. Also for sale, secondary disposal plant which has high priority, the rebuild of the C.N. Lawrence Plant in the west end of the village, and the installation of water and sewage in the west.

Mr. Burnside said he did not believe that the village was responsible for more than 10 per cent of the trouble, at Moira Lake, but for public relations reasons, if he or other, the secondary disposal plant should be built. He said the Ontario Water Resources Board had been contacted to give an estimate of the cost, if the present plant was taken over, to connect the plant built and operated by them. To date no word has been received on this.

Mr. George Devolin, chairman, reported for the Public School Board, referring to the need of a three-room addition. When the school was built there were nine teachers with a pupil enrolment of 285. Today there are ten teachers and a present enrolment of 353 pupils. The new addition has been approved by the Department of Education and will be built in the village council. The Municipal Board has yet to give its approval. Mr. Devolin stated that was hoped that the addition would be ready for the reopening of school in September.

Mr. Harry Roscoe reported for the Centre Hastings High Board that last Saturday's carnival had been a successful one and that out of 16 pupils who wrote, 14 passed examinations, three had been 12 graduates. He mentioned the increase in attendance at the school. In 1964 there were 400 pupils, and this year 534 pupils. With this increase in attendance he felt that an addition to the school would have to be built in about five years.

Village Needs Election for One Councillor

MADOC — Election for one councillor will be held next Monday, December 18th. Candidates for this seat are Mr. Grant Brest and Mr. J. M. Caverly.

Reeve Tom Burnside was again elected by acclamation as were Councillors Clive Barton, Bruce White and Cecil Bird. Harold Dafoe, a member of the 1965 council was nominated, but stated he did not intend to qualify on account of personal reasons. Harry Roscoe was also nominated for councillor, but did not qualify. He is the village's representative on the Centre Hastings High School Board.

Clarence Farrow was re-elected by acclamation to the Hydro Commission.

Miss Olive Ashton remains as village clerk. She acted as chairman for the meeting.

Reeve Burnside in his remarks gave a review of the year's work in the community. The two new bridges built on Nos. 7 and 14 highways, at a cost of $103,000, and the new paving and sidewalks $250,000 at a cost of $50,000 to the village was between four and five thousand dollars. Future work is the rebuild of the secondary disposal plant which has high priority, the rebuild of the C.N. Lawrence Plant in the west end of the village, and the installation of water and sewage in the west.

Mr. Burnside said he did not believe that the village was responsible for more than 10 per cent of the trouble, at Moira Lake, but for public relations reasons, if he or other, the secondary disposal plant should be built. He said the Ontario Water Resources Board had been contacted to give an estimate of the cost, if the present plant was taken over, to connect the plant built and operated by them. Lions Hold Ladies' Night

NAPANEE — At their Christmas party and annual Ladies' night held in the Superior banquet hall Monday evening, members of the Lions Club and their ladies heard a timely address given by Arthur Duncan, public relations officer for the Bata Shoe Company, and past - president of the Frankford Lions Club. "Home for Christmas" was his theme, and he urged everyone to be at home for that one day of the year if it was at all possible.

"You do not know how many hearts you are breaking if you stay away from home on Christmas Day," he said.

His address was filled with humor, and he guided entertainingly from the dooms of Patience Strong and Edgar Guest.

The speaker was introduced by Jack Pearson, chairman of the program committee, and thanked by Dr. Douglas Galt. The hall was appropriately decorated for the festive season, with lighted trees and other Christmas decorations. Following the turkey dinner the guests went to the Legion hall and danced to the music of records supplied by James Bosley of a local TV service.

Hayward Reach Will Be Scene Of Title Races

PICTON (Staff) — Mayor H. J. McFarland has scored again, in lining up the seven-litre "world's limited power boat championship," to be held here July 1 to 4 inclusive. Officials of the Prince Edward Yacht Club have announced that they have completed arrangements with the Canadian Boating Federation, to have the first major international race to be held in Canada (since the Harmsworth trophy races were held here in 1960-61), brought back to the county. The scene of the races will be the famed Hayward Reach, named after the late Bob Hayward who piloted Miss Supertest.

A new trophy, sponsored by a Windsor, Ontario, group, will be called the "Maple Leaf," and the race is expected to be even bigger than the Harmsworth as a sporting event because there will be many more entries. The race is for boats with motors up to 427 cubic inch capacity. There are three boats known to be eligible in Canada alone with about 20 in the United States. There are also many European boats eligible. The Prince Edward Yacht Club has full rights on the race, which will probably be the biggest event in this area for 1966.

At an informal meeting early this year in Toronto, Mayor McFarland discussed the future of power boat racing with Charles Speers, year commodore of the Canadian Boating Federation and put in a bid for Picton when he learned that the world's limited power boat championship was being considered as a possible successor to the Harmsworth race. Months of correspondence between the mayor and CBF officials led up to the reality of a successful bid by the Prince Edward Yacht Club.

Christmas Boxes Packed For Shut-ins

NAPANEE — Miss Gesseker's Sewing Class of Trinity United Church met Monday evening at the home of Mrs. Wendell Burns and packed Christmas boxes for shut-ins and for patients in the local nursing homes.

Officers for the year are as follows: Mrs. Wendell Burns, president; Mrs. Frank Hutchinson, 1st vice-president; Mrs. Jessie MacLean, 2nd vice-president; Mrs. Raymond Fretts, secretary-treasurer, with Mrs. Donoughus as her assistant; Mrs. Jesse MacLean, correspondig secretary; Mrs. Harry Milling, chairman of the buying committee, with Mrs. Clifford Farnsworth and Mrs. Moffat as members, and Mrs. A. D. Mayhew in charge of packing and mailing.

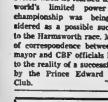
Brought to Trinity United Church after Church Union this class is a continuation of the Sunday School class taught by the late Miss Lilith Gandier in St. Andrew's Presbyter i an Church, and has kept alive the practices which she began. A missionary in Italy is kept supplied with the things he can afford for himself and his family, as his salary is a mere pittance. Meetings are held twice a month, and each meeting is a work meeting, with members sewing, knitting or quilting. The class is independent of any parent body, and contributes privately to needy families of all denominations. At Christmas time they remember the sick and the aged.

Although the class is affiliated with Trinity United Church, it always has members from other denominations who delight in doing practical missionary work.

Officer Says Cars "Death Instruments"

NAPANEE — The tragic results of traffic accidents were brought home to the members of the Napanee Rotary Club at their luncheon meeting Tuesday. Constable Gordon Oliver of the O.P.P. was the speaker and showed a film depicting car accidents and their horrible results. He spoke on the special necessity of care in driving at this busy season, stating that most accidents were due to excessive speed or to impaired driving. He spoke of the motor car as an instrument of death. Since its introduction in the United States over 1,000,000 people had been killed in car accidents, he said.

Efforts are being made to show the film in the Napanee and District Secondary school.



Constable Oliver is a native of Napanee who has lived in Belleville since he was two years old. He joined the OPP 12 years ago.

The speaker was introduced by Chief of Police Harry Bean and was thanked by Jean Dougherty. President Donald Hogarth was in the chair.

COLLECT OLD BIBLES

SACKVILLE, N.B. (CP) — Mount Allison University has obtained a "Breeches Bible," the English translation of 1560 which calls Adam and Eve's fig - leaf clothing "breeches," to the Harmsworth race. Months of correspondence between the mayor and CBF officials led up to the reality of a successful bid by the Prince Edward Yacht Club.

Napanee Mayor Appoints Slum Survey Committee

NAPANEE — All members were present for the fortnightly meeting of the Napanee Town Council Monday evening, Mayor Lorne Smart welcomed a delegation from the Ratepayers Association and the question of the town dump and the newly installed incinerator was fully discussed. He made it clear that he welcomed all such discussions and visits from private citizens with problems.

Reeve Claude Knight reported that finances were in a healthy condition, with all complaints except welfare and public works well within their budgets. A total of $5,628 was approved for attendance of members, and the customary $150 was approved for the mayor for out-of-pocket expenses.

Councillor Asselstine, chairman of the welfare committee, reported the heads of 13 families on relief, with 44 dependents, and nine single persons. A total of $2,541 had been expended on welfare, 80 per cent of which will be met by the provincial government on a grant basis.

The mayor named a special committee to survey the problem of slum conditions in the town, and especially the poor and inadequate facilities. Councillors Reid, Woodcock and Asselstine comprise the committee.

Dr. A. E. Fyffe was reappointed to the Napanee and District Secondary School Board for a two-year term.

APPROVAL GIVEN

Approval was given to the plans for street lighting for the new subdivision. It was presented by Councillor Holmes.

Two readings were given to a bylaw for the proposed sewer for number two highway to the Palace Road, and on the Palace Road to the town limits. Water pipes laid down there is already in use.

A request of the town employees for an increase in pay was referred to the public works committee.

The plan to continue the three-year program of cleaning the sewers was approved. The first year's work by the Quinte Sewer Service has been completed satisfactorily.

Approval was given to continue surveying the new Rollins subdivision on the Belleville Road, with special attention given to the problem of getting rid of the surface water. W. J. C. Clark, operator of the pumping stations and the sewage disposal plant, reported on the trouble during the recent heavy rainfall and the steps he had taken to deal with the trouble.

GRANT APPROVED

Considerable attention was paid to matters pertaining to the holiday season. Wayne McLean, chairman of the committee of the Jaycees which had sponsored the successful Santa Claus parade, stated that he was unable to bring in a full financial report, but said that there would be a deficit and appealed for assistance. Council approved granting up to $100 once the full report was presented.

The customary $100 was granted to the Salvation Army for its work in caring for the needy at the Christmas season. Mayor Smart appealed to all members of the council to assist in tracing cases of need in the town. "We do not want anyone in Napanee to be cold or hungry or without shelter at Christmas time," he affirmed.

The interest from the Wright estate is to be donated privately to needy ladies of the town, by approval of council, on motion of Councillor Asselstine.

Council approved a plan to co-operate with the Public Utilities in a competition for the best decorated homes and store windows. Details of the classes and the prizes to be awarded will be announced as soon as the plans are worked out.

These will be formulated by the Public Utilities, the Parks and Recreation Committee, headed by councillor Donald Reid, and the mayor.

Safe-crackers Damage Two Offices

NAPANEE — Napanee police are still investigating two early-morning break-ins in town, when two places of business were entered and damaged. Nothing of value was taken, and police are of the opinion that both were the work of amateurs.

The culprits entered the premises of Glenn Herrington, dealer in farm implements and trucks and attempted to open the safe. They succeeded only in ruining it. They removed the hinges and chipped the cement casting. An axe and valve re-facing machine were evidently used in the bungled job. An unlocked soft drink machine was smashed, and drawers and cabinets had been ransacked and the contents strewn everywhere. The would-be safe crackers entered by a rear window.

On the opposite side of Centre Street, they gained admission to the Lasher Feed Mill by breaking a glass in the front door. Again nothing of value has been missed. Here, also, the place had been left in disorder, with the contents of cabinet and drawers scattered everywhere.

Jeffery, Mrs. Ritchie Ketchuson, Mr. and Mrs. Jerrym Palmer and Mr. and Mrs. Casey Ketchuson were among those who attended the social evening at Aiken's Church hall on Wednesday evening to honor Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Spafford on the occasion of their 50th wedding anniversary.

Mrs. Eric Jones opened her home on Thursday afternoon for an executive meeting of Whitey's U.C.W. to plan the programs for the year. Those who attended were president, Mrs. Lorne Hunt, treasurer, Mrs. Lawrence Dafoe and Mrs. George Bilham.

Mrs. Donald Anderson and children of Peterborough spent a few days with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Mallory.

Deseronto News

Salvation Army Holds Christmas Tea, Bazaar

DESERONTO — The Home League for the Salvation Army outpost in Deseronto has only a handful of members, but their industry and enthusiasm enabled them to make a proud showing at the annual bazaar and tea in the citadel of the corps in Napanee last Saturday. Mrs. Strafford Claus, Mrs. Carmen Foster,- and Mrs. Mary Fraser were in charge of the booth which was quickly cleared of a great variety of articles. They sold aprons, linen table accessories, knitted socks and mittens and Christmas decorations, all of their own make, in addition to baked goods and candy from their own kitchens.

It was a strategic day for a bazaar, the day of Napanee's Santa Claus parade, with shoppers crowding the Citadel most of the afternoon. Mrs. Envoy Frank Phelps welcomed the guests, and Mrs. H. H. Langford, widow of the Public Utilities manager, and Mrs. Lorne Smart, wife of the mayor, poured tea. Mrs. Walter Herrington accepted the admission fee.

Mrs. Norman Dupont, Mrs. Walter Peterson, Mrs. Stanley Yallup and Mrs. David Winters looked after the wants of the guests who were seated at small tables. Mrs. Clara Hillis, Miss Harriett Hannah, Mrs. Leslie Cooper and Mrs. Roy Babcock replenished the plates with sandwiches and small cakes, and saw to it that there was plenty of hot tea.

Mrs. Menzo Grooms and Mrs. Clarence Toomer were in charge of the candy sales, and the "touch and take" articles. Aprons, and all sorts of sewing were sold by Miss Nettie Bennett and Mrs. Jack Martin. Mrs. Madeline Clark supervised the sale of the Christmas table, and the cooked food table, in charge of Mrs. William Peterson and Mrs. Orval Babcock, was cleared of its good things in no time.

Arrangements for the very successful afternoon were made by Mrs. Norman Dupont.

HO IN CHINA

WASHINGTON (Reuters) — Ho Chi Minh, president of North Viet Nam, is on a visit to Peking to confer with Chinese leaders, presumably about Viet Nam war, diplomatic sources reported here Monday. They said there was no immediate indication what had resulted from his trip, but they speculated it might have something to do with the prejudice of peoples to help in the Viet Nam war.

Decking Halls With Holly Costs Canada $100,000

By VERN LACEY

VICTORIA (CP)—The $100,-000-a-year business of decking Canada's halls with holly seems headed for its most festive Christmas.

This was the word along British Columbia's holly belt — sour'r of the country's entire holly harvest—as growers sharpened their sprig shears to fill record orders from Eastern Canada.

Some Eastern holly hawkers have increased orders up to 25 per cent over last year, says Gil Rumley, manager of the Vancouver Island Holly Growers' Association.

"About 85 per cent of our market will go to Ontario, Quebec and the Maritimes."

The rising popularity of the (traditional) red - berried Christmas decoration may put growers in an almost unprecedented predicament, he says.

"I think we're going to run short of holly."

His prediction—not shared by all growers—is unusual in an industry that normally clips only as much as required, and leaves the rest on the tree until next Christmas.

Even with a shortage, there is little chance of an increase in the holly price, he says.

"Independent growers (outside his association) won't raise their prices."

He cuts an average of 600 to 700 pounds of holly a day off his four-acre farm — big by holly colony standards — and some of it is making inroads on the United States market, normally supplied from Oregon. His holly will go to Boston and Cleveland, as well as Montreal and Toronto.

What holly belt growers — roughly 100 acres on southern Vancouver Island and the mainland Fraser Valley — worry about keeping Canada decorated, talk is circulating of expanding the Canadian market to Australia and New Zealand.

Charles Carter, provincial horticulturist, says the suggestion was made to him privately by an official of the federal trade and commerce department.

The view is that holly, traditional with Christmas for the English-speaking world, would sell there. Neither country produces holly itself.

"With the rapid transportation now available for delivery, it is definitely possible.

"White Commonwealth" Force In Zambia Said Menzies' Peace Plan

By COLIN FROST

LONDON (AP) — President Kaunda of Zambia has urgently renewed his request for British troops to guard the Kariba dam, sotgrital flash-point of the Rhodesia crisis, political sources said today.

They added he apparently has modified his earlier insistence that British forces should guard both sides of the dam, which straddles the Zambian-Rhodesian frontier.

Instead he would be satisfied with a British force on the Zambian side of the frontier as long as he is given an assurance that they will move into Rhodesia at the first sign of any threat to the dam.

Kariba, a huge man-made lake on the Zambezi River, supplies power to Zambia's copper belt. It is jointly controlled by Rhodesia and Zambia but the generating plant is all on the Rhodesian side.

Britain already has placed aircraft and men on the RAF Regiment—infantrymen in air force uniforms—in Zambia but has been reluctant to provide ground troops on Kaunda's terms.

PRESSURE IS ON

Now it seems the pressure is on. By some accounts Kaunda told Prime Minister Wilson that without British military support he will be obliged by more extreme members of his cabinet to accept an African force intent on invading Rhodesia.

The Financial Times reported that the British government is considering a plan to guard both sides of the dam with a "white Commonwealth" force.

It said this plan would be put to Kaunda and Rhodesia's rebel Premier Ian Smith by Sir Robert Menzies, the Australian prime minister who is the Commonwealth's elder statesman.

Indonesia Willing to Negotiate

JAKARTA Reuters — Indonesia is willing to negotiate its dispute with Malaysia, Foreign Minister Subandrio said today.

Negotiations would be held with representatives of Federation members Malaya Sabah, North Borneo and Sarawak, and with Singapore and Brunei, the official Antara news agency quoted Subandrio as saying.

He declined to say when talks would be held or at what level.

Election Becomes Hot Talk

By DAVE McINTOSH

OTTAWA (CP)—An alleged telephone call by Forestry Minister Sauve to an Iles-de-la-Madeleine judge on election day became a hot topic at Acting Prime Minister Martin's press conference Wednesday.

Mr. Martin was asked whether Mr. Sauve, now in Rome, had telephoned the judge in the forestry minister's Iles-de-la-Madeleine riding Nov. 8 to have two Conservatives detained in jail.

Mr. Martin said he had heard about the matter but hadn't read the newspaper account in question.

However, he added, there was a well-established legal procedure for anyone to take if he contends irregularities occurred.

Judge Joseph Dugray of Grindstone, Que., has told reporters that Mr. Sauve telephoned him "at least twice," on election day to protest the release of two men from jail to vote. They had been charged that day with threatening a Liberal and one of them subsequently pleaded guilty and was fined $50.

HE'S QUESTIONED

Mr. Martin was asked whether the government plans an investigation.

"I know nothing about the situation," he answered.

A reporter then asked whether it was "still" the government's view that cleaning house should be left to the Opposition and not to the government itself.

Mr. Martin said there are well-known legal remedies to deal with a question involving an allegation against a member of Parliament.

He added that he wouldn't want to leave the impression that the matter wasn't being looked at by the government.

"Is it?" he was asked.

Mr. Martin said he had made only an "observation."

Meanwhile, National Director Richard Thrasher of the Conservative party said the Conservatives have launched an investigation into the Iles-de-la Madeleine election. No decision had yet been taken on whether to ask the courts to nullify the contest, won by Mr. Sauve by

500 Deck Officers Strike

MONTREAL (CP)—Some 500 deck officers of the Canadian Merchant Service Guild (CLC) went on strike at 12:01 a.m. EST, a CMSG spokesman reported today.

The strike, which affects about 170 ships belonging to 18 companies in the Lake Carriers' Association, began one hour after adjournment of a meeting between representatives of both sides in the office of C. E. Poirier, a mediator for the federal labor department.

Robert Cook, the guild spokesman, said picket lines will be set up as soon as possible.

"We don't think the companies made a serious effort," he said. "We put forth all sorts of formulas but none were acceptable."

Both sides are to meet again today at 10 a.m.

Mr. Poirier, who was appointed Tuesday by Labor Minister MacEachen to serve as mediator in the seven-month dispute, was chairman of a conciliation board which recommended last Thursday that the association should sign a new labor contract similar to one the guild has with Upper Lakes Shipping.

PROVIDES RAISE

The Upper Lakes provides for a wage increase of 17 per cent over three years. The association has offered the guild five per cent a year over the same period.

The deck officers, however, are insisting on the 17 per cent increase for a three-year contract which was the majority

Independent African Countries Change Minds

By REUTERS

Some independent African countries appear to be having second thoughts about a walkout decision to break off diplomatic relations with Britain if Ian Smith's Rhodesian regime is not crushed by Dec. 15.

They are also taking a deeper look at their second major decision: The formation of an all-African military force to smash the white regime in Rhodesia. The decisions were reached by foreign ministers at an emergency conference of the Organization of African Unity in Addis Ababa, Ethiopia. The 34 countries, including nine Commonwealth members, acted in face of the Smith regime's unilateral declaration of independence Nov. 11.

But in French-speaking Africa, President Maurice Yameogo of Upper Volta said Wednesday the OAU conference had no authority to make a decision on such an important matter as Rhodesia. He said the attending foreign ministers could only make recommendations to their heads of government.

WENT TOO FAR

In Tunisia, pro - government newspapers said the Addis Ababa conference went too far in its ultimatum to London.

President William Tubman of Liberia repeated a statement he had made before the decision was taken, namely, that Britain should be given time to handle the Rhodesian crisis, "since Rhodesia is still a British colony."

Reliable informants in Lusaka said Wednesday Zambian President Kenneth Kaunda is warning other African leaders about the difficulties involved in a diplomatic rupture with Britain.

Zambia is one of the nine African countries that have been granted independence by Britain but belong to the Commonwealth and still receive large amounts of British aid. The other eight Commonwealth countries are Gambia, Sierra Leone, Ghana, Nigeria, Uganda, Kenya, Tanzania and Malawi.

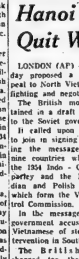
Would Ask Hanoi To Quit War

LONDON (AP) — Britain today proposed a 12-nation appeal to North Viet Nam to quit fighting and negotiate a peace.

The British move was contained in a draft message sent to the Soviet government.

It called upon the Russians to join in signing and circulating the message among the nine countries which attended the 1954 Indo - Chinese peace parley and the Indian, Canadian and Polish governments, which form the Viet Nam Control Commission.

In the message, the British government accused the North Vietnamese of stepping up intervention in South Viet Nam.



The British government charged, too, that North Viet Nam also has lately been speeding and increasing the flow of military equipment and men southward to aid the Viet Cong forces.

A third accusation in the British message said North Vietnamese forces, "on a constantly expanding scale, are violating the neutrality and territorial integrity of Laos."

SENT TO JAIL

OWEN SOUND (CP) — Dalmer Ray Ducker, 26, was sentenced to three months definite and two months indefinite in jail Wednesday for criminal negligence.

FIRST CALL with Bonanza

North Stars Retired

TRENTON — Should old acquaintance be forgot . . .

And so, to the strains of Auld Lang Syne, the RCAF North Star went the way of all veterans who have served their country.

Yesterday was the end of an era for four-engined piston driven aircraft in the RCAF transport service.

At a ceremony in No. 10 hangar, RCAF Station, the durable North Star was officially retired, in an atmosphere such as a close knit family experiences from the loss of a dear and trusted friend. Since the Korean war it had become a faithful workhorse and crews learned to respect and depend on. Until the larger Yukon came along "it was the daddy of them all," as one veteran airman affectionately referred to it.

HAVE GONE EVERYWHERE

In 18 years of flying the North Stars originally purchased for the air force amassed some 300,000 hours in service. Those aircraft have been to all points of the earth—from the deep cold Arctic, to the hot desert sands and dense jungles of Africa, to the Orient and "down under" in Australia. They were called on to carry millions of pounds of freight and tens of thousands of passengers.

RECEIVES LOG BOOK

When full military honors were accorded this venerable transport the log book containing the record of the North Star making the last flight—from Toronto to Trenton yesterday—was handed over to Air Marshal W. A. Curtis, former Chief or the Air Staff. The turn he presented it to Station Trenton for safe-keeping.

Others who played important roles in this part of the retirement proceedings were

Must Talk First

OTTAWA (CP) — A federal inquiry report today recommended that the CNR should be denied the right to introduce controversial crew runthroughs without first negotiating them with its labor unions.

Mr. Justice Samuel Freedman of Winnipeg, reporting on his public study of CNR runthroughs at Nakina, Ont., and Wainwright, Alta., gave his backing to a revolutionary labor principle that the introduction of job-slashing technological changes should no longer be the exclusive right of management.

His report says the runthroughs, which reduce freight train stops by working them crews over longer runs, are a justifiable improvement in railway operations. But he is sharply critical of the way the CNR introduced them against mounting employee resistance.

When the CNR began its runthroughs at Nakina and Wainwright on the weekend of Oct. 15, 1964, more than 1,200 engineers, conductors, trainmen and firemen "booked sick" in what Mr. Justice Freedman describes as an illegal strike.

The work stoppage, which virtually crippled CNR operations across the country, ended after Labor Minister MacEachen agreed with a CNR proposal that a full inquiry be set up. The railway cancelled the runthroughs pending the inquiry report.

Mr. Justice Freedman's 63,000 word report was made public today by Mr. MacEachen who said the judge "had a struggle with one of the key economic and social problems of our day"—automation and technological change.

The minister said the report recommends "important innovations" and will receive careful consideration.

The judge said there is no doubt under present law that the CNR had the right to introduce the run-throughs. But he urged that this right should be

Canada Hopes NATO Avoids Questions of Divisive Nature

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadian policy at the NATO ministerial meeting in Paris next week is to keep the boat from rocking any more than is necessary," External Affairs Minister Martin said Wednesday.

He told a press conference that Canada has no specific proposals to put before the meeting and that "questions of a divisive character, unless urgent, shouldn't be pursued to a decision."

Later, informed sources said the Canadian government feels that the Viet Nam crisis has so damaged international relations around the world that the best thing to do is to sit tight for the time being.

The sources said there can be no progress in relations between the United States and Russia unless and until there is some way of hope in the Viet Nam situation. Thus it would be pointless at NATO to decide on some new approach to Russia.

Furthermore, officials say nothing can be done about West Germany's "understandable ambitions" — Mr. Martin's phrase — to share in nuclear planning until German Chancellor Ludwig Erhard meets President Johnson. And that won't be until after the NATO conference.

For the same reason, the meeting is not expected to come to any agreement on how to go about seeking a treaty with Russia on the prevention of the spread of nuclear weapons. This involves the German question.

However, it was written is expected to raise the subject at the Dec. 14-16 meeting.

He leaves today for London for talks Friday with Prime Minister Wilson and other British cabinet ministers, mostly on the Rhodesian question. Mr. Wilson will be here Dec. 18 after his meeting with President Johnson.

In Paris, Mr. Martin will also have his usual bilateral exchange with Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville of France.

He said they will discuss such matters as cultural affairs, possible French purchase of planes and the proposed economic mission to France by Canadian businessmen.

Mr. Martin conceded that there are differences of view between France and Canada on various questions but that integration of NATO forces in France did not.

The French would be more tragic than to see NATO become "more disunited." France's "presence" in NATO was essential to the alliance.

Authorities said Mr. Martin's main work at the meeting will be behind the scenes, especially in trying to round up more financial support for continuation of the United Nations force in Egypt.

The minister has said Canada will continue to serve in the UN missions in Cyprus, Kashmir and the Punjab. He will have talks in Paris with the Greek and Turkish foreign ministers on the Cyprus situation.

Order Second Gemini Craft Launched Ahead of Schedule

HOUSTON (AP) — Gemini 6 launch crew received orders today to prepare for a Sunday morning firing and completion of the first U.S. space rendezvous one day ahead of schedule.

Preparations at Cape Kennedy were 24 hours ahead for launching of a Titan II rocket that will propel Gemini 6 in pursuit of astronauts Frank Borman and James Lovell in the Gemini 7 spaceship.

Borman and Lovell will prepare for the space chase today by manoeuvering their craft into a circular orbit 185 miles above the earth. This is desired position for the rendezvous.

The two spacecraft will meet in the sky, if there are no hitches and complete a space first by flying in formation.

Other than by sneezes by Borman, there were no problems aboard the Gemini 7, which was hurtling along toward a 14-day endurance record.

Gemini 7 entered its 72nd orbit at 7:58 a.m. EST.

Borman and Lovell, informed of the rapid progress made by the Gemini 6 rocket and spacecraft crews, expressed their pleasure.

The Gemini 7 now is orbiting in a path ranging from 146 to 196 miles high.

Flight Director Chris Kraft said he preferred going Sunday if possible "because the earlier we do the better chance we have of achieving the rendezvous with Gemini 7. The longer it is in the air the better the chance for something to go wrong."

The Gemini 6 astronauts, Navy Capt. Walter M. Schirra Jr. and air force Maj. Thomas P. Stafford, are to chase Gemini 7 across the sky and try to manoeuvre within a few feet, perhaps a foot or two. Success would be a historic space feat that would shove the United States past a significant milestone on the road to the moon.

The space ships are to fly in formation at 17,500 miles an hour for about six hours. Gemini 6 is to stay in space only one or two days, depending on when rendezvous is completed. Gemini 7 will return to earth Dec. 18.

Council Members Ready To Vote on Formation Of County Health Unit

A vote on the formation of a county health unit was expected to be taken today by Hastings county council following an all-afternoon discussion on the matter on Wednesday.

If the county health unit is passed it is expected that the city of Belleville would be included in the organization.

The decision to lay the vote over until the end of the current council session came late in the afternoon when it was sensed that several councilors wanted still more time to consider the matter.

This is the third time in recent years that formation of a county health unit has been discussed in council.

NEVER CAME TO VOTE

Several years ago a special committee investigated but the matter never did come to a vote.

Then two years ago there was another try but opposition rose against formation of a health unit.

Early this year the provincial minister of health, Hon. Matthew Dymond while on a visit to the Belleville area reiterated that another try be made for a health unit and a special committee of Hastings county Clayton Hall as chairman with Mrs. Reeves William Shannon, Calvin White, and Warden Fred Beckett was appointed to again investigate the matter.

Yesterday Reeve Hall made the committee report, which recommended the county agree in principle with the formation of a county health unit in conjunction with the city of Belleville.

OPINION CHANGED

Although the health unit was defeated solidly two years ago, many council members feel there is a chance of its carrying this time around.

Mr. Hall in his report said that a joint county - city health unit would require a staff of one medical officer of health, five sanitary inspectors, 15 nurses and a clerical staff of three. The population of the county rural area would be about 74,000 - the net costs would be expected to range between $1 and $1.20 per capita.

The county's share of the cost would be subsidized by per cent by the province while the city would receive a grant of from $.75 to $1.15 per cent of its share.

Reeve Hall said the committee felt the county would be too small in population to operate its own health unit. He said the city which now operates under part time M.O.H. and a local board of health, would be glad to turn to form a health unit with the county.

Summing up Mr. Hall said that although the committee felt there would be an increase in costs over the present health services given a much higher standard of service would result.

The committee also felt that the county should co-operate with the Ontario Department of Health in formation of a health unit.

"Much has been said recently of regional government and the need for reform of our municipal system," concluded the Thurlow reeve. "It is our opinion that unless the county lives up to its responsibilities in providing needed services our existence (as a council) will be doomed."

Two members of the Wellington Dufferin county health unit, chairman Archie Beattie, and Medical Health Officer Dr. B. T. Dale, appeared before the committee to speak on the unit in their area.

OUTLINE WORKINGS

Mr. Beattie outlined his unit's financial program, while Dr. Dale told of the health program being offered.

He said his unit served 65,000 people and he considered himself as a "community doctor" with the responsibility to behave as few ill people as possible.

He said his program ranged from pre-natal and post natal care, immunization, dental checks, and regular health checks for all the population.

Early diagnosis of chronic conditions meant that in person cons could be sent to their own physicians for treatment and greater chances of complete recovery.

Dr. Dale said that in his county he was "lucky" that he is setting up a home care service with nurses and required staff being provided.

The service is operated separately from the health unit and the cost is covered by the Ontario Hospital Services Commission.

The advantage is that the cost per day per patient is reduced from $20 or more charged hospitals to $4 or $5 and results in fewer persons being admitted to hospitals.

A Toronto man today lost his driver's licence for six months for leaving the scene of an accident at Bayside that caused $700 property damage.

N.E. Workers Refuse to Join Labor Congress

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—North ern Electric Co. Ltd., employees Wednesday turned down a proposed merger of their independent association with the Canadian Labor Congress by a 416 to 340 vote.

Ronald Nelson, a district representative of the Northern Electric Employee Association, said the result was "disappointing, but being a democratic organization its the people's choice."

The vote upset the association executive's bid to disband the NEEA and become Local 1859 of the CLC. It was not immediately known whether the result in London will affect similar votes planned for Northern Electric employees in Montreal and Belleville.

Harry Simon, CLC director for Ontario, said the merger was defeated by a combination of employees who want to retain the company union and the independent United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers of America, who are trying to win bargaining rights at the plant from the NEEA.

There are about 1,200 production workers at the plant and not all are members of the association.

Canadians Eat More Cheddar Than They Are Able to Make

Who Would Be Cheese?

While welcoming the delegates to the Central Ontario Cheese Makers' Association convention yesterday, Alderman Lloyd Donald noted the importance of the connection between the cheese industry and "the city of Belleville." He recalled that in his travels throughout Europe and the U.S., Belleville was known as a "country of good Canadian cheese."

Alderman Joss added that he thought it quite in keeping with this atmosphere to have a spokesman for the cheese industry on Belleville's city council.

Who knows? Belleville voters in future municipal elections may elect candidates from the cheese villages: said Donald, and laughed the Canadian success in this year's International Cheddar Competition in England as proof positive that Canadian cheesemakers are among the finest anywhere.

DAIRY SHOW PRAISED

Other speakers discussed the various factors which are conducive to the higher grades of cheese being produced by Canadian cheesemakers. It agreed that this year's Empire Dairy Show was the "best ever."

to confirm the report. The Financial Times said the force would be intended to reassure South Africa against any possibility of Zambia calling in African troops and provoking a racial crisis across the Zambesi.

(Reuters quoted Salisbury quoted British sources as saying that Britain would welcome any moves for a "white Commonwealth" force to guard the dam, though there are no plans to make such a move itself and had not approached other countries to do so.)

All 36 member nations of the Organization of African Unity broke diplomatic relations last week to break off relations with Britain unless it crushes the Rhodesian rebellion by Dec. 15.

CONGO WILL HELP

The Congolese government, which fought a bloody civil war in South Africa to quell the rebellion in the northern Congo, said it will help Britain if it is prepared to contribute troops and make its airports and military facilities available for action by the OAU against Rhodesia. In return, Zambia, Tanzania, Uganda and Congo-Brazzaville have agreed not to give assistance to the Congolese rebels, a government statement said.

A break in relations with the OAU states could have serious consequences for Britain. The organization's nine Commonwealth members withdrew their sterling holdings from London. But this would not necessarily terminate all trade and trade relations.

Despite the threat, the British government has ruled out military action against Rhodesia and is still relying on economic sanctions to bring the rebellious regime to its terms.

The theory is that as sanctions begin to bite more moderate elements will come forward in Rhodesia to form an alternative government.

Two days of sanctions support Rhodesia from the sterling area, an almost total ban on trade and a ban on payments of British pensions and salaries to Rhodesian nationals.

BACK SMITH

Smith said in a nationwide address in Salisbury Wednesday that Rhodesia would retaliate with a sharp reduction in British imports, which now amount to about £200,000,000 ($105,000,000) annually.

He said Rhodesia would insist on payment in advance and in foreign currencies other than sterling for goods delivered to neighboring Zambia and Malawi. Both are landlocked, and Zambia depends on Rhodesian railways to get its copper exports to the sea.

The Rhodesian prime minister announced plans for a government plan to expel the more than 400,000 Zambians and Malawians working in Rhodesia if the British sanctions result in unemployment.

But I think of you dear Arnold.
Never a day that comes our way,
But I wish you could share it with me.
You were my love, your memory is dear.
Please God just let him know,
That we love and long to see him.
We loved and miss him so.
Our home is broken hearted,
For he has travelled far,
To his heavenly eternal home.
Sadly missed by wife.

Donna Waite, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Waite at Hilton, holds "Tiny" a 44-year-old pony. The pony was purchased from Ringling Brothers in Belleville when it was only five.

Park Operator Wants Govt. to Increase Fees

TORONTO (CP) — A private park operator told a legislature select committee on conservation Wednesday that a recreation area administered by the Metropolitan Toronto and Region Conservation Authority is driving him out of business.

George Hodgson, owner of Payjune Park in Pickering Township, 20 miles east of Toronto, said the authority's Greenwood conservation area is in open competition with him.

Mr. Hodgson said he acquired his park nine years and has been losing steadily since.

Each person using Mr. Hodgson's park pays a 35-cent admittance fee. The conservation area charges 50 cents for each car regardless of how many persons are in it.

He asked that admission prices to conservation areas be increased and that they pay full assessment on all holdings.

44-year-old Pony Enjoys Life of Riley On Farm Near Hilton

By WM. W. REID

Tiny, a 44-year-old former circus pony, in the words of owner Gerald Waite, "is the most unusual pony ever born".

Living on rolled oats and molasses when you are 44 years old may not appeal to the average person, but to "Tiny," it's a pretty good life. "Tiny" is a retired circus pony. In fact she retired from the circus 39 years ago, when she was just five years old. Today at 44 she is reputed to be the most elegant Shetland pony anyone in the Brighton district has ever seen.

The pony is owned by Mr. Waite and his family near Hilton, north of Brighton. In 1926 Mr. Waite's father was in the market for a pony for his children. When he heard a circus in Belleville was going to sell some of its ponies, he had a friend select "Tiny," who appeared to be gentle, intelligent and in good health. The pony was then five years old.

Thirty-nine years later "Tiny" is still gentle, and intelligent, and while her health is not all it could be, she is in pretty good shape and seems to enjoy life.

Her diet now consists of rolled oats and molasses and some chaff. Hay and coarse grains are now too difficult for her to eat. Mr. Waite can remember when Tiny liked nothing better than to wait at the roadside until a Model T ford happened along. She would then entice the driver into a race, and Tiny usually won. Drivers got to know the pony and looked forward to the "race".

She performed a number of tricks, and often, when she tired of riding children on her back, she simply sat down on her haunches and the children slid off. Children still enjoy riding her at the Waite farm, but Tiny now tires more easily. However, she still has a number of tricks to betray herself from riders. If sitting down doesn't work, Tiny will trot along at a peculiar bobbing gait which bounces her pleasent, er up and down to such an extent he decides walking would be more comfortable.

The pony sleeps in the barn at night, but if she happens to become hungry, she will open the door separating her part of the barn from the feed bin by twisting a turnbutton with her teeth. After she has eaten, or had a drink, she will go back to her own part of the barn, and usually lock the door behind her.

GATES NO PROBLEM

Gates offer no problem to Tiny either. The Waites developed several ways of closing gates around the farm, but Tiny always figured out a way of opening them, and usually of closing them after her.

Exch fall Tiny develops a long coat and by the end of December often resembles a large black bear more than a Shetland pony. She became quite ill in 1961 and the family believed Tiny would not pull through, but she did. Soon, she was in as good health as ever. Her next big ordeal was in the year are April and May, when she switches from winter to summer feed.

If Tiny is off at one end of the large field near the Waite home, one of the family need only to open the gate near the driveway and the pony comes at the trot.

Gerald's father used to ride Tiny to round up the cows, and once an angry bull nearly finished both Tiny and Mr. Waite Sr. That time, the family dog came to the rescue and both the pony and Mr. Waite were back to normal in a day or two after being patched up.

Children of the area, all of whom now are adults, liked to hitch a two wheeled cart to Tiny, who would take them off to Little Lake from Dundonald for a picnic.

Thus at the unbelievable horse age of 44, Tiny is still enjoying the life of a family pet. Perhaps, as she munches a tender bite of grass in a field among the Southumberland hills, Tiny recalls her long youth in the circus circuit nearly 40 years ago.

SUDBURY (CP)—One of Canada's biggest, longest, most expensive and—sometimes — violent union battles is winding up here in the unaccustomed atmosphere of peace and quiet at the ballot boxes.

The voting should settle—at least for a time—the see-saw tug over control of the country's largest individual labor unit, the 15,000 miners and smelterers employed by International Nickel Co. of Canada in this Northern Ontario area.

In three days of voting that end at 2 a.m. EST Friday, the workers are choosing between the United Steelworkers of America (CLC) and the independent International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers (Canada), which lost its long - standing certification to the Steelworkers three years ago.

The stakes are high. Apart from prestige and the fact that a win would double Mine-Mill's Canadian membership, the big Inco local has a dues potential of $1,000,000 a year. Both unions have shovelled out money heavily in organizing and propagands, and the struggle is regarded as the most expensive in Canadian labor history.

HAD TOUGH FIGHT

Mine - Mill, which organized the nickel belt region about 20 years ago, was shoved out of Inco by the Steelworkers in 1962 after a long and hard-fought battle marked by frequent violence. The margin was a razor-thin one of 13 votes.

Mine - Mill has hung on to its 2,200-member local at Falconbridge Nickel Mines Ltd. in the district and this year thrust back a bid from the much bigger and wealthier steel union to take it over. Meanwhile, it prosecuted the Ontario Labor Relations Board with more than 7,000 membership application cards from Inco workers to qualify for a new vote there.

To get the vote, it needed cards from 40 per cent of the eligible workers. To win, it must poll more than 50 per cent of the eligible voters.

Balloting under supervision of the labor relations board began Tuesday morning and will run through into early Friday to give all shift workers a chance to mark ballot. Voting has been reported heavy. The count will be made Friday and could be announced late that day.

In contrast to the skull-thumping of the earlier fight, the windup period has been ultra-quiet with no hoopla, a three-day period of silence on propaganda in advance of the voting, imposed by the board, has contributed to peace. Both sides have been wary of getting disqualified for violations.

Woman Pleads Guilty to Shoplifting

The mother of nine children who said she could not always control her impulses to shoplift, today was warned she would be sent to jail on charges of theft from Belleville stores.

The woman — police said her husband had left her — pleaded guilty before Magistrate T. Y. Wills to stealing a dress from Zeller's on Front Street and skeins of wool from the suburban Ritway shopping centre. Total value of the goods was close to $25.

(It was the latest in a series of such cases. In recent weeks in which Magistrate Wills has jailed the culprits — after allowing them time to arrange family affairs. Earlier in this morning's court, he jailed a young Bellevile woman for five days for theft at Ritway).

Testifying on the Zeller's theft, city detective William Warring said the accused woman gave him a statement admitting the thefts.

He quoted her: "I can't seem to help it in a way."

"I don't want to take these things," the woman herself told the magistrate.

Magistrate Wills gave her the lecture customary weeks grave to settle domestic matters

"If you want to wait until after Christmas tell me next week," he added. "But you are going to spend a few days in the jail."

China and Disarmament

Communist China is the big political enigma of our time. Because of its belligerent and intransigent way in the Peking government has been estranged by other countries, to the extent that it does not have representation at the United Nations. It has supplanted Russia as the country the West fears most.

Would China be any more understanding, any friendlier, any more disposed to seek close relations with the West if it were admitted to the world organization? It is debatable.

As recent reports from China indicate, one of the chief amusements of the people are the frequent campaigns of hate against the Americans. From a very early age young Chinese are indoctrinated in the ways of anti-Americanism. For good measure, members of the militia do their bayonet drill with sandbags which are supposed to represent the "imperialists."

With a nation so efficiently brainwashed as China the question of its representation in the United Nations is merely academic. There are 700,000,000 Chinese and it may be asked how many of them are aware even of the existence of the United Nations.

Such questions come to mind in considering Canada's latest approach to the problem. Ottawa reports say this country is seeking to establish some form of diplomatic contact between the United Nations and China. It feels that China must be persuaded to take part in the world disarmament conference in 1966 or 1967.

China has now gone so far along its own path of political evolution that it is difficult to put much faith in the ideal of disarmament. China's agreement to any such conference is more likely to make much difference one way or another. Would China ever keep its side of any disarmament agreement? Would Peking ever permit inspection of its vast territory to ensure such an agreement was being honored?

The same question would apply to other nations.

The question of diplomatic contacts with China and the issue of disarmament may be related. However, the only sure thing about these twin problems is that neither is anywhere near solution.

Planning Needs

The possibility—on a long-term basis—of Hastings County forming a planning board reflects the acceptance of regional planning as a desirable trend in any consideration of city and urban growth today.

County representatives are uncertain how to implement this concept, and no action is being taken at present. However, the fact that the question was raised at all is significant, for there is no question that without proper planning orderly growth cannot be guaranteed.

As Thurlow Reeve Clayton Hall put it, organized planning is "a sound requisite for any municipality or area."

John Pearson, of the Provincial Community Planning Branch, was more specific. He said that eventually there would have to be a planning area taking in the city and the rural area and that a city-county planning area would probably be best. There was no way, he added, of a county planning board ignoring a major city on its boundaries.

The ultimate make-up of such a board and the extent of its mandate will itself require detailed examination by county and provincial officials. Meanwhile, the county planning committee will continue for another year.

Township Vote

The people of Ameliasburg township set an excellent example of community awareness by turning out in force to vote last Monday.

Nearly 70 per cent of the electorate of 1,850 cast their votes for a reeve, three councillors and two school trustees.

Returned for a second term as reeve was Harold Bonter, who polled 756 votes to win over Fred Evans who received 516 votes.

For one reason or another, a 100 per cent ballot is virtually impossible. When 50 per cent or more go to the polls, as in Belleville, there is cause for satisfaction. When nearly 70 per cent, or 1,272 out of a possible 1,850, give their decision, there is no need for fear that interest in community affairs is on the wane.

Gallic Charm

As a television operator from French Canada, it seemed appropriate that Miss Lessard should win the Miss Congeniality award. In Quebec there is a Gallic charm about the people that makes the visitor want to return. And there is a warmth in their manner—and in their voices—that may be encountered nowhere else in Canada.

So Mademoiselle Lessard's success does not surprise us.

"Loose translation: "Step on it—we've got an extra lap to go!"

To Your Good Health

Head, Stomach Rebel So Reduce Drinking

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: Please help me before I am thrown out of my happy home! My husband is a businessman and entertains quite often. Until about six months ago I was able to keep up with him and his drinks. Now all I can stand is about four drinks and then I know I must stop or suffer headaches and stomach trouble all the next day.

He says I should have my head examined, but I just can't let that drop the way I used to. He claims I am just acting, and that I should be happy that at least he takes me seriously. Since he reads your column every day, I hope you can explain that I'm not acting. — Mrs. M. H.

* * *

A long time ago I read a suggestion that the first time someone asks you to have a drink you don't want, say no. If he insists, you are then entitled to kick him in the shins.

There is no more justification for insisting that people drink more than they want, than there is for insisting that they eat more food than they want. Why would your husband like for you to insist that he eat two breakfasts every morning?

Medically speaking, it is obvious that your system is rebelling at the amount of alcohol you take aboard. You wouldn't be quite bright, if you refused to heed the signs. It is impossible to expect that if you keep on drinking excessively you'll presently have more serious ailments than just the hangovers and stomach upsets.

I also can't see why he should object if, when you have had enough, you switch to plain unadorned water. Or what's wrong with letting a drink sit on the table untasted if you don't want it?

But most of all, I can't see how your husband has any reason to lose his perspective. A little bit of straight thinking on his part should end the whole problem.

If not, just say no. You owe it to your health.

* * *

Dear Dr. Molner: I have periods of depression, am very nervous and can't think sensibly. My doctor has suggested that I be hospitalized, but I am afraid. How long should this take? I would like so much not to always feel tired and nervous and depressed. — Mrs. H. E. C.

Why be afraid of the hospital? Obviously your doctor feels that you should have thorough observation, probably both physically and emotionally, to determine what is bothering you. Perhaps he can't tell how long you would have to stay, until there are results of the tests. Then again, perhaps he can estimate the probable length of stay. Ask him. But don't be afraid.

* * *

Dear Dr. Molner: I have kerchitis again. Could you tell me something about it? — G. S.

It is irritation of the eyes due to lack of enough moisture — lack of tears to lubricate them. This may be associated with a decrease in mucus secretion elsewhere, as in the mouth and nose, (as in Sjoergren's disease), and it may not be easy or possible to correct the problem.

However, the use of bland oil drops or "artificial tears" in the eyes will keep the membranes moist and comfortable.

Mrs. V. P.: I can't go so far as to say that infectious mononucleosis never recurs, but it usually doesn't.

Lesson From The Iroquois

Hamilton Spectator

We salute the Iroquois — true Canadians.

Through history, they have been a proud people. Today they can feel even prouder. Almost alone in dignity, common sense and contempt of hypocrisy, they stood Monday in Montreal before the Royal Commission on Biculturalism and Bilingualism and gave them — perhaps for the first time — a fine, cold scent of fresh air.

In the whole interminable B and B exercise in futility, the Indian has come up at last to give it the loudest horselaugh. "The white society has one culture", the Caughnawaga Defence Committee told the Commission, "the pursuit of more possessions and power. The French Canadians are now making it clear that they are abandoning their sub-culture of enjoyment, ease and frivolity to enter the subculture of the successful British".

Common mind the touchy, juvenile nationalism of children and bannerwavers; forget the pretentiousness and obsequious apologies of those who don't even understand what the Canadian background is, and care less, and hand the palm to this laudable Iroquois band from Quebec.

The only bilingualism they are interested in, as they should be, is Iroquois and English — the latter to earn a living on this continent. They want to keep their "own culture of dignity and respect while the white man can retain his more fragile and confusing code".

The Iroquois may well dream of their great past. They are réhists. And who were the first rebels here anyway, long before outsiders whose descendants loolie each other on platforms in the Montreal performance of who came out before whom?

The Iroquois, of course. Maybe it's too bad it didn't stay that way.

Listening In

Victoria Times Colonist

Because a number of United States senators are convinced that wire-tapping by federal agencies and police departments is a common nationwide practice, not an isolated phenomenon, they will seek legislation at the next session of Congress to curb such invasions of privacy. Pity! And just when science seemed to be returning mankind to the days of caveman or more farmhouses and everybody listened in — sometimes chipped in — to circulate the news of the parish.

Strictly Personal

Politics Is Dehumanizing Factor in Life

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Purely Personal Prejudices: When we read an author, our first obligation is to find out what he means, not what we would have meant had we written the book.

I am always puzzled by the phrase, "national integrity," which a country often applies to itself when it wants to engage in bellicose action — for a nation, being an abstraction, cannot have any "integrity"; only persons have integrity.

Speaking of nations, in all forms of international competition, the rivals get along beautifully and have much respect for each other — whether it is chess, tennis, bridge or musical contests; it is only in political competition that the rivalry is bitter and intractable, which may indicate that talent is the very thing that politics, like mob power is the dehumanizing element.

It is one of the frustrating paradoxes of persuasion that a man who is entirely wrong can be made to change his position more easily than a man who is half right; possession of a part of the truth is often the greatest obstacle to achieving the rest of it.

No doubt some witty existentialist has already said before me that Descartes' famous formula, "I think, therefore I am," is a classic case of putting Descartes before dee borne.

(This pun on his name reminds me that so many famous foreign names are commonly pronounced in English; for instance, Leibnix should be rhymed with "wipe mitts," Freud should rhyme with "Hoyt" and not with "Lloyd," Picard should rhyme with "see dard" and not with "sick bard," and Daimler, the German automotive inventor, pronounced his name loud the car that bears it) to rhyme with "dime," not with "dam" or "dame.")

It is a blessed hour when friends on more than the fingers of one hand, you are not counting friend.

A man who earns the reputation of working hard can loaf for a long time without anyone being aware of it, or looking askance at his reputation builds up credit over the years just as surely as a bank account, and many men are living bankrupts off the fame of that investment.

Watching the shifting planes of Barbra Streisand's face on a television show recently, I was suddenly struck by the truth of Karl Kraus' observation: "A woman who cannot be ugly is not beautiful," and then realized why so many actresses with unchangingly lovely faces are not truly beautiful.

Traffic Jam

Windsor Star

Time was when the slogan for affluence was a "chicken in every pot." Nowadays, in London, England, it seems to be "a garage for every car." Traffic conditions in London are so acute that stringent measures are needed. A committee has recommended that ownership of a car would be illegal unless the applicant for a vehicle licence could prove he had suitable accommodation for a garage or off-street parking space.

Educated Folk Seldom Bored

Hamilton Spectator

So long as the major part of education is based on routine memory, learning capable facts by rote, churning over and regurgitating a selection of the thoughts of dead great men, and penalizing originality and imagination, so long will liberal education elude us and the tribute to it be nothing more than lip service.

It is not enough that a person should know from memory the chemical composition of a rose, or be able to recite the numbers of Beethoven's symphonies, he must appreciate their beauties, whether he lives in today's world or tomorrow's.

* * *

The chief virtue of liberal education is that it provides full opportunity for the expression of originality. Such a thought is frightening in these days. It smacks of educational anarchy, far from the narrow ways of conformity with their medieval-like rigid adherence to "what it says in the book" and nothing more on pain of penalty.

If education encourages adventurousness in young minds and praises the spontaneous pursuit of knowledge, wherever it is found, then it will be liberal, and until then it can be added, if it were it would not be necessary to provide "outlets for idealistic energies"; these would be generated naturally.

The art of living can be learned, but it cannot be taught. When our education system offers full scope for individual expression and provides for the virtues of humor, courage and initiative, then it will be liberal. And then, too, the fears of gloomy prophets who foresee a future world filled with idle loungers can be discarded in favor of a more rational view.

Fashion and the Princess

Cornwall Standard-Freeholder

After Americans had gone all-out to give Princess Margaret a rousing welcome and the warmest of welcomes on their part of the United States, one small group spoiled an otherwise perfect picture of friendliness and hospitality.

This week, Women's Wear Daily, largest fashion paper in the States, says Princess Margaret's styles are "too old and too matronly . . . skirts are a bit too long" . . . continues in part: "The hats are scaled way too large and are so old-fashioned as fussy . . . the accessories . . . too big, too bulky, too outdated."

The paper also criticized the Princess for wearing cotton print sundresses in the country, with pearls and a town handbag. It claims her heels are too high and declares, "hat for coat . . . mob-eaten, ratty . . . it just has to go."

We believe the American paper has shown extremely bad taste in levelling such carping criticism against the Queen's sister. At best, life of a royal celebrity like Margaret is a tedious one. Members of the Royal Family are ever in the public eye. Dress is not the most important aspect of their lives, although, naturally, they must give it a great deal of thought.

If the pretty Princess chooses to dress the way she does, that's her business and such petty censure is rude. Perhaps Margaret doesn't like American women's high fashion, but if she does, we think it is unlikely she would "pan" them.

The fact the criticism came on Margaret's first and eagerly anticipated visit to the U.S. makes the situation even more distasteful. Moreover, it is an example of bad manners.

Anyway, why should self-styled fashion writers in the United States feel they have the right to tell the Princess, or any other visitor from another land, what she should wear. Such a paper surely cannot be held in very high regard.

Bad Advice

Hamilton Spectator

Acting on bad advice from their chiefs, some 90 per cent of the Indians on the Six Nations reserve stayed away from the polls during the recent election.

Claiming they already have a government of their own, the hereditary chiefs importuned their people to ignore the election.

If there was a motive it could only have been publicity or a silent protest.

Neither succeeded in accomplishing anything.

The condition of the Indian minority is pitiful. Everybody admits it but a handful refused to exercise their franchise does nothing to alleviate the situation, or change it.

General trend of farm conditions in Hastings County was a favorable forecast 1945, Limefair, country agricultural representative stated in his annual report to the Hastings County Council at its closing session. The cost of agricultural production has increased somewhat and this was due largely through higher wages being asked by farm labor and because of the fact that for two years the county had small grain crops.

Election

Mr. Martin had announcements to make about Rhodesia, sugar beets and holidays for civil servants.

He said Canada's ban on imports of Rhodesian goods will be extended to cover 90 per cent of these commodities with embargo on imports of ferrochrome, chrome ores and concentrates, asbestos and m eat. Imports from Rhodesia were valued at $4,300,000 in 1964.

"Effective economic action should be taken to bring to an early end the illegal situation in Rhodesia," the external affairs minister said.

"The Rhodesian situation has created a serious threat to Commonwealth unity and African stability."

Events of the last week had underlined the need "to end the crisis as soon as possible by non-military means."

Mr. Martin said he has asked Commonwealth countries in Africa to take no action which would impair Commonwealth unity.

"Members of the Organization of African Unity, including Commonwealth countries, have threatened to break diplomatic relations with Britain unless the illegal Rhodesian government is deposed by Dec. 15.

Mr. Martin also said public servants will get 3½ days off for the Christmas and New Year's weekend—half of Friday and all day Saturday, Sunday and Monday.

In reply to a question, Mr. Martin said he is sure Prime Minister Pearson is acting in a "constructive progress" on cabinet changes during his Caribbean holiday.

A report said there has been criticism because Mr. Pearson has been away during important financi1 decisions.

"His absence in no way impairs his currency and interest in this country," Mr. Martin said.

Mr. Pearson had had important talks on vital matters in Jamaica and would do the same in Trinidad and Tobago before his return to Ottawa Dec. 16. He was not only serving the "national interest" but was entitled to a well-earned rest.

The first men's bonspiel of the season will be staged at the Curling Club on Saturday and the draw has been arranged so shuffle curlers can spend the evening at home with their families but Dawson Boyd, in charge of program, has arranged for an evening of entertainment and no doubt many of the curlers will pass up the home stand. U.S. Unlikely To Get New Interceptor

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Pentagon decision to thin out U.S. air defenses may have doomed any air force hopes for a new, super-fast interceptor jet.

A leading candidate for the role al "improved manned interceptor" has been the 2,000-mile-an-hour YF-12A, unveiled to the world by President Johnson with great fanfare in February, 1964.

Several prototypes have been built, but the YF-12A has not been ordered into production.

Defence Secretary Mcnamara has decided to disband 37 squadrons of jet fighter interceptors—F-101, F-102 and some F-106.

This still "will leave 20 air force interceptor squadrons in operation to defend the United States, if need be. For the most part, these squadrons are equipped with F-106 jets.

As part of the slimming down of the air defenses, 18 batteries of Nike-Hercules and ~~Nike~~-missiles will be removed. These 18 batteries currently are protecting 16 cities of the United Air Command.

Some of these bomber bases are being closed as the U.S. force of 630 long-range jet bombers is to be reduced by about 40 planes during the next five fiscal years.

OTTAWA (CP) — The United States embassy announced Wednesday that Harmon Air Force Base in Newfoundland will be closed by Dec. 31, 1966.

The base, near Stephenville, is one of the three the U.S. obtained in 1940 from Britain in exchange for 50 old destroyers. Newfoundland was not then a Canadian province.

Rich Zambia Had No Cares Till Rhodesia Tipped Cart

By KENNETH L. WHITING

LUSAKA (AP)—Zambia, the richest copper nation in Africa, stands to suffer as an innocent bystander because of Rhodesia's lily-white minority regime, and it feels its African neighbors do not understand its problems.

Zambia is so rich in copper export earnings that it is unable to spend at least a fifth of them for development. But few other countries, gained independence so lacking in native professional talent, education and social services.

Most other predominantly-Negro African states became independent with deficit budgets, few known resources and dismal prospects.

Several, in Ivory Coast, Nigeria, had developed tribal rivalries. Others, such as Kenya and Tanganyika, faced white settler problems while still others, including Togo and Dahomey, were too small and poor to support their populations.

Zambia, formerly Northern Rhodesia, had none of these problems when it became a republic in the British Commonwealth 11 months ago.

HAS COPPER RESERVES

It has immense copper ore reserves, plenty of arable land for a comparatively small population and only about 600 white farmers.

It was so rich it could decline to pick up Britain's grant-aid ($28,000,000) independence gift. Sources here said Zambia is unlikely to draw on these funds during Britain's present sterling difficulties.

Zambia has between £50,000,000 and £60,000,000 in foreign exchange on hand compared with £150,000,000 for South Africa.

The Lusaka government is trying to use £2,000,000 on development projects each month but lack of skilled manpower and contracting capacity has slowed this spending.

"This country had nothing ahead but success and prosperity until Rhodesia created independence," said one Western diplomat.

CONTROL IS LIMITED

"Now Zambia is jammed in a situation over which it has limited control and everybody else wants to get into the act."

Zambia is a country four times larger than the United Kingdom in Central Africa bounded on the south by Rhodesia, Malawi on the east, Angola on the west, The Congo to the north and northwest, Tanzania to the northeast, Mozambique in the southeast and a strip of South Africa in the southwest.

Worst, it could lose vital electricity from the Rhodesian-controlled Kariba Dam which powers the copper industry. Or Rhodesia could cut Zambia's main railway route to the sea. Or, at best, Zambians can expect rationing of gasoline and other petroleum products and a possible loss in sales of copper as well as a shortage of imported consumer goods.

COMPLICATE DEALINGS

Exchange controls imposed that month have already complicated financial dealings in Zambia.

Ironically, the country which could profit most from British and Commonwealth "sanctions" against Rhodesia is South Africa.

More than half of Zambia's imports now come from that republic. But Rhodesia is a high-cost producer of manufactured goods and has lost Rhodesian and Commonwealth preference for imports. This means South Africa can now most hurt both Zambia needs and at better prices than Rhodesia.

Zambia's leaders say that if Rhodesia cuts the railway, emergency measures such as an airlift to the coast through Dar es Salaam would be little more than a stopgap. One said:

"Our economic activity would be crippled."

President Kenneth Kaunda would like nothing better than British troops to enter Rhodesia immediately and put down the "evil government. Barring that, he expects Britain to safeguard electric power for Zambia's copper belt.

Eastern Star Chapter Holds Annual Party

A short business meeting was held with Mrs. Wynne Tomlinson, worthy matron, and Mr. Herbert Tomlinson, worthy patron, presiding.

All retired to the main hall to enjoy the social part of the evening.

Miss Irish Lobocs, dance instructor, and 14 of her pupils put on a fine show, much enjoyed by all.

Refreshments were served with the highlight of the evening taking place when huge sparklers held by four lady officers, each in turn, were handed two plum puddings, on fire, held by two men members, dressed as chefs, followed by four more lady officers with huge sparklers, circling around the tables, with just the lights from the huge Christmas tree in the background, which was most delightful, effective and different.

To the tune of "Jingle Bells" and "Here Comes Santa Claus" this jolly old man himself arrived, and with his helpers gave out gifts to all present.

A few carols were sung, bringing a most enjoyable evening to a close.

GILLINGHAM, England (CP) — The soccer captain of a Kent junior school has been banned by the county school league because "he" is a girl. GIVES PAPER ON SASKATCHEWAN

Mrs. Charles Wilson discussed education in Saskatchewan, and Mrs. Roy Irvin read an article prepared by Clarence Chard on the province of Saskatchewan. The name is Indian and means "big water". In the early days the prairie sod was ploughed by ox-n. Near Estevan are soft coal deposits and at Prince Albert are large lumber mills and plywood factories. The province has oil wells, potash deposits and an abundance of white fish in the lakes. The new south Saskatchewan Dam at Outlook, when completed, will have a lake 130 miles long. It will be used for irrigation and electric power.

Mrs. Percy MacMullen, friendship list secretary, read a letter of thanks from Mrs. E. Coombs, Abbots Leigh, England for Christmas parcels. Mrs. MacMullen said she had sold almost 90 souvenir conference booklets for the A.C.W.W. penny fund.

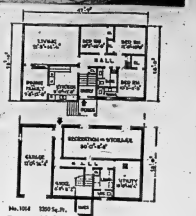
Mrs. Roy Tucker, A.C.W.W. convener, read an article from the Countrywomen magazine and gave a brief account of a jumble sale in western Australia. The penny jar was passed by Ralph Tucker.

The January meeting will be held on the 6th at the home of Mrs. Vernon Harry and the delegates will present their reports. The summary day for the hat course is December 7 at Stirling Community Hall. Achievement day for 4-H Clubs is at Nicholson College in Belleville on December 11.

LETTERS FROM FOSTER-CHILD

Two letters from the foster-child in Germany were read by Mrs. Wilhelm. From the money gift which he received he was able to purchase trousers for himself and his brother. It was authorized to purchase a Canadian souvenir to mail to him at an early date.

The euchre parties will begin on Friday evening, January 7 at the school house, with the citizenship and education group in charge.



The Christmas program was arranged by Mrs. Malcolm McMullen and Mrs. Vernon Harry and opened with three carols with Mrs. Philips Conley playing an organ accompaniment.

Mrs. J. R. Donohoe read the motto on the Golden Rule, prepared by Mrs. Don Donohoe. Mrs. Roy Bush read a Christmas reverence. Mrs. Gerald Brooks displayed the millinery fashioned by members of the hat course. Mrs. M. McMullen conducted a song contest based on Christmas carols.

The home economics and health group under the direction of Mrs. John Kane and Mrs. Charles Wilson served refreshments. A card party at the school house on Friday evening closed the Institute activities for 1965.

HOME OF THE WEEK

No. 1014 1200 Sq. Ft.

Here is a home designed especially for a lot which slopes to the left — or if built in reverse, with a slope to the right. Note the split level entrance with short stairs to both floors. If not required the upper washroom could be eliminated. This space could then be used for enlarging the bathroom and closet. The layout of the upper floor is excellent. Because of the sloping lot, a rear exit (at grade level) could be arranged, and lighting in the basement rooms simplified. Construction is a combination of Brick Veneer and Frame, but instructions for building in all Brick are supplied.

Standard Blueprints for this Design No. 1014 cost $15.00 for the first set, and $5.00 for additional sets. They are available in Canada by return mail. (Ontario residents must remit 5% Sales Tax). Now available at this Newspaper Office (or from the address below) is our new Design Book entitled "Suburban and Country Homes designed for Canadians", price $1.00 tax free. This edition includes Information on Cost of Building and Financing in Canada, Heating, Insulation, Constructional Details, etc., plus many outstanding new designs — Ranch, one and half storey, split level, two storey colonial, and duplex homes. Also included in this book are full details on how to order blueprints.

U.C.W. Meetings

DESERONTO U.C.W.

DESERONTO — The home of Mrs. W. Cochrane of Main Street was the scene of a pleasant Christmas meeting last Tuesday afternoon when 18 members of the afternoon unit of the UCW listened to gratifying reports of the year's work, heard Mrs. William Sills give the devotional period, with Christmas as its theme, and afterwards enjoyed a program befitting the festive season, including the singing of well-loved carols. During the social hour following the meeting refreshments were served by Mrs. Cochrane, Mrs. Cole, Mrs. Lather Gaylord, and Mrs. Mable Fettis.

The ladies were particularly gratified to learn that their bazaar had been such a financial success, and were pleased with the report of the committee that 22 Christmas boxes had been packed for the shut-in's of the church, 16 for those in town and those in the Hastings County Home.

Successful Living

Bride Should Invite Estranged Family

DEAR DORIS: Twenty years ago I was married by court order. I was in my teens, he was nearing 40; and the magistrate gave this order: "I leave it to you to decide. Marry her or go to prison."

Mr. family disowned me completely. Not a single person from either family came to the wedding.

It was not until last year that my mother consented to my visiting her — in another province — and to this day I receive letters from only one member of my family.

Now I am planning on being married again, to a minister. He feels that we should invite every member of both our families. I feel it would be better to be married quietly and send announcements later. I'd love to have all of them there, but this would seem like asking for wedding gifts, from some who have rejected me for so long.

Have I the right? Would it not be regarded as an imposition? — ANXIOUS TO PLEASE.

* * *

DEAR ANXIOUS: Yes, you have the right — if you have the courage! An invitation does not oblige the receiver to send a gift, unless he or she accepts.

A letter to your mother, first, should express how much you have missed them all, remind them of how young you were when those unhappy things happened, and ask for a new deal.

Then brace yourself for anything. A family who would disown a daughter when she needs them most, is unpredictable. Good luck!

* * *

DEAR DORIS: To "No Baby" I would like to say a few words.

I have a brother who also is 11 years old. He is in bed by nine p.m. and does not protest.

At this age the rest is important for good health. As they grow older they lose sleep and often do not catch up on it. Why not be glad to get the sleep now while you are young?

Acting 11 years old will help remedy the situation. — BIG SISTER.

* * *

DEAR BIG SISTER: Writing in is a kind, sisterly act. Perhaps when No Baby turns 11 — or soon thereafter — going-to-bed time will get a little later? You'll remember that she is sent off at eight or eight-thirty, "no matter what!" (Canadian child care experts recommend about 10 hours of sleep a night for children from 10 to 12 years — keeping in mind that the amount of sleep needed varies with the child.)

* * *

DEAR DORIS: In answer to "Ring Bearer" I also have a suggestion that could possibly do, if she doesn't want to wear Rob's ring with a massive piece of tape around it.

She could suggest to him that she could buy a ring more suitable for work — perhaps a black diamond or a signet ring in her size — as possibly it would be an imposition to ask or suggest to him to do it. After hours she could wear his other ring if he wanted that ring worn. — AN ARDENT READER.

* * *

DEAR ARDENT: It's a thought. But how do you suppose Rob would feel about this? It his signet ring is massive and messy, she could do what other girls have done — wait for an engagement ring!

* * *

DEAR DORIS: Every day of my life I'm afraid to awake for the day ahead of me. I was married before when I was very young. It was to a wonderful person. But over a difficult period of hardship a divorce was granted.

Now I've been married five years to a heartless man. He doesn't have one friend, as nobody can get along with him. He loves the children but hates me and is cruel to me.

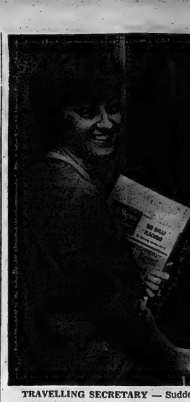
I was wondering if I should stick the marriage out, as I'm young and I have so much love to give the right person. God can't keep punishing me for my not understanding and failing my first marriage. — HELP NEEDED.

* * *

DEAR HELP NEEDED: God is not punishing you. No one expects you to endure the unendurable. Talk things over with the counsellor at the Family Counselling Service of Hastings County and Belleville, 63 Moira Street, Belleville.

* * *

DEAR DORIS: I am too particular. I would rather not go out at all than take out a homely girl. The trouble is that the girls I do go for reject me because I'm not handsome and am a quiet sort.



Do not tell me, Doris, that old tune about women caring more about personality than looks. My experience proves different. I admit I have a different — good — personality, but no gift of the gab or Bob Goulet exterior. In fact, I'm skinny and ugly. — FOURTH YEAR VARSITY.

* * *

DEAR VARSITY: Since your own standards eliminates all but the most beautiful of girls, I'd say it's poetic justice. What you need is to get your values straight.

* * *

(Is it better to put up with misunderstandings, or to begin talking things over? Let Doris help you see the light.)

TRAVELLING SECRETARY — Sudden trips to various parts of the world are part of the job for Marthe Charlebois, secretary to Pierre Dupuy, commissioner general of Expo 67. Secretary Has Interesting Job, Lots of Travel

MONTREAL (CP) — Marthe Charlebois has a job that would be the envy of just about any secretary.

In the last two years she has been to Mexico, Japan, France, Spain, Algeria, Morocco, South America and Scandinavia.

Miss Charlebois is secretary to Pierre Dupuy, commissioner general of Expo 67, the world's fair to be held in Montreal in 1967.

She is on loan from the external affairs department, for which she has worked since 1958, and has been Mr. Dupuy's secretary since 1959 when he was Canadian ambassador to France.

"I was very lucky," Miss Charlebois says. "I was available when the Paris post was open and I haven't stopped since. I'd recommend the department to anyone who wants to travel."

Everything to do with Expo eventually ends up on Mr. Dupuy's desk, she says, explaining the excitement of being secretary to the man at the heart of things.

"It's very stimulating watching the exposition being built right from scratch and right under your eyes."

The Montreal-born secretary says she prefers the unexpected and dislikes long-term planning.

"Mr. Dupuy's trips are never planned in advance. He just drops them on you unexpectedly —that's what makes it so interesting."

While on trips she is kept busy making appointments, handling reservations, answering mail that catches up with them and taking care of itinerary changes that crop up.

But busy as she is, she has found time to study Italian, hoping that Rome will be the next post when her term with Expo is over.

Club Activities

KINETTE CLUB

The Kinette Club held its Christmas meeting Monday night at the home of Barbara Christie. A hot turkey dinner was served to 16 Kinettes and three guests.

A plaque was presented to Rose M. Belanger on behalf of the Kinettes for her six years loyal service to the club.

Toys and groceries have been collected for Christmas boxes which will be distributed later this month to needy families.

A few games and a sing-song of Christmas carols were enjoyed. Santa Claus, and his helper arrived in high spirits and distributed gifts.

The marriage will take place on Saturday, January 8, 1966, at 11 a.m. in the Church of St. Michael the Archangel, Bellerville.

The girls of Phi Pai Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi are busy these days. Topics under discussion at the meeting on December 6 were a turkey raffle to increase funds, a Christmas party on December 13, and help for a family.

Speaker for the evening was Rev. A. Leader of Christ Church on Coleman Street.

Miss Pat Rupert thanked the speaker and refreshments were served.

Request Runs Into Criticism By Blacks

JOHANNESBURG (AP)—A South African official who urged all white married couples between 20 and 25 to have a baby to celebrate the Republic Day anniversary next year is running into criticism.

Michiel Botha, deputy minister for Bantu (Negro) administration said white couples should "give a white child to this wonderful country of ours" to celebrate South Africa's fifth anniversary as a republic May 31.

"This call of the master race to give a white child to the republic next year has an unpleasantly familiar ring for those who remember the exhortations to the German people during the years immediately preceding the last war.

"We ask the minister why he has singled out 25 per cent of the population to produce babies to celebrate the fifth anniversary of the republic."

South Africa has about 3,500,000 whites in its total population of 17,000,000. The rest are Negroes, coloreds (mixed blood) and Asiatics.

Botha, father of seven, said if 427,000 white couples have babies in 1966, there will be an average of 1,145 babies born each day.

"I will leave town," muttered one obstetrician.

Susanna's Family Fare

'S NICE

Dear Susanna: This is praise of two empty plastic bottles with screw top as a substitute for the electric heating pad — over which it does have advantages.

Filled with appropriately hot water, a half gallon bleach bottle is a grand foot warmer. It needs no wrapping, can be pushed around by the foot to warm up all the foot area of the bed, find the soles of the feet adjust nicely to its form and bulk. One can forget about it and go to sleep. No need to stay alert to "unplug" as there is no dependence on electric outlets, or on placement of outlets. In a tenement house no number of such heating bottles will overload a circuit.

The quart size, even the kitchen detergent ones, give gratifyful warmth when one is taking a nap in a coolish room. Often I lay a couple of quart sized ones on a cushion under my stockinged feet with a light cover over all to trap the heat while I sit knitting — as I do suffer from cold feet when inactive. N.B. The tops must be properly screwed on of course.

My family has also found that when out on a hunting trip and staying in a cabin which only boasts one stove and a fireplace, that the gallon size is unexcelled for warming up the frosty, cold, sleeping bag. — Heat Lover

Dear Susanna: When washing my mom or my daughter's washable pleated skirts, I run a quick running stitch around the bottom of the hem, fasten it the pleats in place. Makes ironing much easier. — Mrs. Wm. Clothier

3 good reasons for giving Foamtreads this Christmas

In other words, Foamtreads are made to last for a very long time. For example, we have a guarantee against sole separation.

Other reasons for giving Foamtreads this Christmas include: sensible prices; quiet leather out-soles; non-rolling heels; and handsome styling.

Children's $2.98—$3.98, Women's $3.98—$4.98, Men's $3.98—$5.98.

HOLIDAY MEAT PIE

Due to my British ancestry grandmother deep meat pies play a special role in our Christmas festivities. I have Executive Chef Salvarola of Aft Canada to thank for the basic idea of today's masterful meat pie. I served it as the only item of a main course for Sunday dinner and accompanied it with a big tossed green salad and Devil's Food Torte (see December 13th).

Notice that I have used 4 or 5 ready-prepared ingredients to speed up assemblage of this important pie.

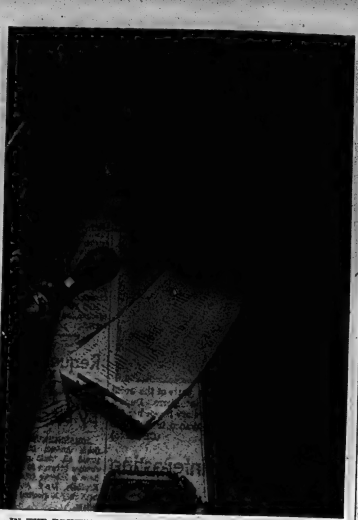
HOLIDAY VEAL AND HAM PIE (Serves 6, 8 if on buffet)
English Pastry:

3 cups unsifted all-purpose flour; 1 tablespoon single-acting baking powder; 1½ teaspoons salt; 1¼ cups good quality shortening (divided); ¾ cup hot water; 1 tablespoon lemon juice; 1 egg yolk.

Filling:



2 pounds lean shank veal cut into 1" pieces; ½ pound smoked lean cottage roll or ham; 3 hard-coked eggs, sliced; one 10-oz. pouch-pak frozen peas in butter sauce, barely thawed one 8-oz. can whole oysters or ½ pint raw (optional — see below) one 10-oz. can mushroom pieces and stems (OR ½ lb. scrubbed sliced mushrooms plus ¾ cup water); 1 slim carrot cut into thin round slices; 1 slice lemon chopped; 1 chicken bouillon cube; 1 cup boiling water; ½ teaspoon salt; ¼ teaspoon pepper; ¼ teaspoon mace; ½ tablespoon rosemary; 1 cup rich gravy (OR 1 more cup boiling water and 1 more chicken bouillon cube)

Make pastry by sifting together the flour, baking powder and salt. Cut in half of the shortening until size of peas. Melt remaining shortening in hot water. Stir into flour mixture, then stir in egg yolk and lemon juice until blended. Chill covered until firm.

Select a large baking dish. I used a Corning Ware buffet server 10" in diameter by 4" deep. Use about ⅔ of pastry to line sides. This dough is pliable and you can pick up large lump and press it to sides to line them or roll it out in long strip. Now add filling: put in half of raw cut - up veal - half of ham, all of the hard - cooked egg slices to make one complete layer. Add mushrooms and liquid, oysters and liquid if used (omit oysters if in doubt about your guests likes and dislikes). Add peas and carrots in a single layer then chopped lemon. Sprinkle with salt, pepper, mace and rosemary. Add remaining veal with ham on top. Pour over hot water in which chicken bouillon cube is dissolved. Roll remaining dough to ¼" thickness making 1" larger all round than your baking dish. Gash top attractively. Place over filling and seal and crimp edges. Brush top over with 1 egg yolk beaten with 2 teaspoons cold water. Bake at 450 deg. Fahr. for 10 minutes. Cover loosely with foil and bake at 300 deg. Fahr. for 3 hours. If crust is browning too much switch foil closer to top edge and reduce heat to 250 deg. for last 1¼ hours. Four and twenty ingredients baked in a pie!

Widow Takes Over Job Running Radio Station

OTTAWA (CP)—When Frank Ryan, one of the Ottawa area's most successful businessmen, died last March, his radio station and 100-acre Kilreen Farm were left without a boss—but not for long.

His widow, Kathleen, quickly moved into the driver's seat and hasn't had time to look back since.

She is president of CFRA Broadcasting Ltd., and although she describes herself as "little more than a titular head" because the station is run by employees, she plays a definite role.

An early riser, she can be found most weekday mornings in the station's executive offices planning a $200,000 expansion and sorting material for the Notebook show of Ottawa valley chit-chat she broadcasts twice weekly.

From the showplace farm, Kay Ryan also exhibits harkney ponies, prize Aberdeen Angus cattle and Suffolk sheep. She recently drove to victory her 10-year-old hackney pony, Westrigs Charmaine, at the Ottawa Winter Fair. The pony has won 13 grand champion ships in Canada and the United States.

A sister of former mayor Charlotte Whitton, is an honors economics graduate of Queen's University, Kingston, Ont., Mrs. Ryan had a wide range of hobbies and business pursuits before and during her marriage and is well-equipped for her new roles.

Frank Ryan died just two months after his unsuccessful bid for the mayor's chair in the 1964 civil election. His widow hasn't tried her hand in politics —yet.

Three Women, One a Canadian, Make Life a Little Simpler For Delegates of 117 Nations

By TOM HOGE

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — Seated before a long table in the UN's bustling main lounge, three women with keen memories and a command of a dozen languages make life a little simpler for delegates of 117 nations. One of the three is a Russian - born Canadian, Nina Tessier.

From 9:30 a.m. each weekday until the last debate ends, sometimes past midnight, the three take in a ceaseless flow of phone calls from capitals around the world. By microphone they page the delegates wanted, in Spanish, Swahili, and numerous other tongues.

UN headquarters lacks space to provide separate quarters for each member. The big lounge overlooking New York's East River serves as a combination of office and club for the delegates while they are in the building.

Mrs. Tessier, Maria Glasz of Poland and Monique Denis of France are listed as delegates' aides. The vague title fits their role of answering service, social secretary and house mother.

Calls come in at the rate of one every seven seconds during the midday rush. Relaying them is only part of the job. New delegates often ask where they find a good restaurant. A diplomat who has lost a button usually turns to the aides, who also keep needle and thread handy.

IT HURTS

Recently, one veteran envoy hobbled in to Mrs. Tessier holding out a swollen finger.

"Nina, I have a splinter," he complained.

"Then you should go to the clinic and have it removed," she replied.

"No, Nina, I want you to take it out."

Sometimes I feel like a mother with a lot of chicks," she says.

Mrs. Tessier, a svelte brunette who was born in Georgian princess but now is a Canadian citizen, has served as an aide for 17 years. Her daughter, Thamar, is a training officer for UN aides.

LIKE FAVORS

A couple of years ago, Mrs. Tessier's daughter was operated on for a slipped disc and lost a good deal of blood.

When Soviet Ambassador Nikolai Fedorenko heard about it, he sent three bottles of robust Georgian wine to the Tessier home. Enclosed was a note.

"Nina Alliolova, I cannot think of anything that will build up the blood of your daughter as much as the wine of your mother country," said Fedorenko's note.

Green-eyed, blonde Manuela Serra was in this section before she was transferred last year. An Italian countess by marriage, she was born in Tangier, a city of Belgian and French parents. The first language she spoke was Swahili.

After 18 years behind the paging table, Countess Serra knows most of the delegates and their characteristics.

SHE COULD TELL

"I could tell when an envoy walked into the lounge how he was feeling. Sometimes when I saw one was particularly weary I would wait until he had time to unwind before passing on a message that wasn't urgent.

"But most messages were urgent, so they seemed. After all, the lounge is the heart of the house. Action takes in the Security Council or General Assembly often reflects spadework done here.

In times of stress, the communication lines between the lounge and the outside world sometimes get crossed.

When the Korean crisis broke out in 1950, the Security Council suspended as emergency session that delegates could get in touch with their home governments. The envoys of Nationalist China and India, who had booked calls to Taipei and New Delhi, raced to the booths to find out when contact was announced.

"They picked up their phones and began raging out their reports," recalled an aide, "only to find that they were talking to each other."

POLITE THEM

During the hectic days of the simultaneous Hungarian and Suez crises in 1956, one sympathetic was broadcast that pitted delegates millling about the lounge.

Countess Serra had received a call from Moscow for Arkady Sobolev, then chief Soviet delegate. Dazed from lack of sleep, she picked up the microphone.

"Ambassador Sobolev of the United States, Ambassador Sobolev of the United States," her weary voice came over the speaker system.

Sobolev arrived on the run.

"Manuela, you're tired, you had better go home," he grinned as he entered the booth.

HELP CHILD

At the height of the Suez crisis, the side service interrupted a torrent of urgent diplomatic messages to help a dying Israeli child.

"A ham operator called me to report an appeal from Tel Aviv for a serum obtainable only in New York," said Mrs. Tessier.

Cutting in on the public address system, Mrs. Tessier asked for a member of the Israeli mission. She kept repeating the call until a delegate was located.

"We cleared an outside line for him, while he tried to trace the source of the serum," she said. "Less than three hours later, it was bound for Tel Aviv.

"I have always felt proud that even in time of great strife, the UN could find time to save the life of a child."

Susanna's Christmas Decor Ideas

CHRISTMAS CRACKERS

Who cares if this mammoth Merry Christmas Cracker named Jack isn't meant to crack. His isn't even meant to fizzle. In fact he's so beautiful he can justify his existence merely by hanging onto the front door, draping himself across a huge mirror, or sitting up on the mantle.

His young brother however, is more of a utility type, although every bit as handsome. These smaller versions have a three fold purpose. (a) As table decorations for a lovely dinner party. (b) With the addition of a printed name he doubles nicely as a place card. (c) As an elegant individual holder for the contents of those dime store Christmas crackers — one per guest.

As in the case of the other items described in our special Christmas column, instruction sheets are available in exchange for one of your own special year-round ideas, suggestions, criticisms or hints. You should have such a choice! As always, the expense involved in making these goodies is almost negligible.

Briefly, our Big Boy is constructed from a hollow roll of fairly heavy cardboard, covered with red tissue paper. One yard each of red and white nylon net is then wrapped around with eight inches extending at each end. When this is cut in strips it forms a curly fringe to which a sprinkling of sequins may be added. Tie everything with two bows made from left over Christmas ribbon and wire a rosette of red berries and miniature pine cones in the centre of each. Our small version is identical except that the base is made with old faithful himself — an empty cardboard toilet tissue roller . . . and to all a good night! — Susanna

Bachelor Lists Traits He Hates in Dates

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Some of the women who write to you asking for advice should look in a mirror.

I'm a bachelor, 28, college educated, successful in business and I enjoy life. I have a city apartment, a country home, a new car, a boat and two or three dates a week. And I think I know something about ladies.

ANN LANDERS

I've made a list of negative attributes — let's call them the Dirty Dozen. Print them if you think they will help.

I can't stand women who:

1. Smoke on the street.
2. Smoke while driving a car.
3. Drink too much and get loud and sloppy.
4. Wear stretch pants and shoes that don't hide the foot strap.
5. Forget to shave their legs.
6. Wear three-storey hair-dos and spray them with cement.
7. Paint themselves up like for Halloween.
8. Make up their faces and forget they have necks.
9. Wear high heels with slacks and shorts.
10. Chew gum with their mouths open.
11. Neglect their nails.
12. Wear girdles that make them look like bowling boards from the rear. — CHICAGO BACHELOR.

DEAR BACH: Here's your Dirty Dozen, and now, if any of you babes have a list, I just might print it.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I was intrigued by the remarks of the woman who said she had lost her son when he married. He went over to his wife's side of the family.

This is right down my alley because I have four married sons and I haven't lost any of them. Each of my sons has a lovely wife and wonderful children.

When I invite them to my home for dinner I ask which evening suits them best and I offer them a choice of three. I don't allow my daughters-in-law to bring flour or help with the dishes. They are guests in my home and I want them to enjoy themselves and consider dinner at my place a night out.

I believe every wife should learn to manage her own family affairs. I have never offered any advice to my sons' wives and I can't recall that any of them ever asked me for my.

My system has worked beautifully and it should work well for others. If you print this letter please don't give any clue to my identity. I don't want to brb. Just sign me — PERMANENT MOTHER OF FOUR SONS.

DEAR PERMANENT MOTHER: I'm sorry you won't let me print your initials. If anyone deserves the right to brag, Honey, it's you. But here's your letter and mum's the word. (P.S.: I'll bet you're the best mother-in-law in Garden Grove, California.)

* * *

Confidential to KISSIN' KIN IN A DILEMMA: First cousins are not permitted to marry in some states. I would be more concerned with his excessive drinking, however, than with the fact that you are cousins. It may be his stomach, dearie, but if you marry a boozer it will be your headache.

* * *

Confidential to COULD KICK MYSELF: The trouble with most 'Mos is you have to tell 10 more to cover up the first one. Tell the girl you fibbed and take your lumps.

Unsure of yourself on dates? What's right? What's wrong? Should you? Shouldn't you? Send for Ann Landers' booklet "Dating Do's and Don't," enclosing with your request 35 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Horticultural Soc. Yule Meet

STERLING — Mrs. Percy Craighead was hostess for the Christmas meeting of Stirling Horticultural Society, with 25 members in attendance.

Mrs. H. West and Mrs. R. Warner provided a large array of Christmas novelties, candles and gift wrapped packages which gave the large dining table a festive air. They explained the procedure for making these novelties.

Mrs. Floyd Armstrong, president, was in charge of the meeting and gave a vivid picture of her recent holiday in England. Roses, dahlias and mums are beautiful in England and the speaker gave many suggestions for arrangements of plantings in home gardens. She showed views of places of interest which she and her husband had visited.

Selections were read by Mrs. West and Mrs. Warner. Mrs. Harry Clarke displayed a blossom from one of her unique plants.

Mrs. Ray Rose read the correspondence. It was decided to purchase a quantity of Horticultural Trillium stickers.

Mr. R. B. Belshaw gave a full report of the autumn activities and reported that a few trees had been broken.

The hostess and her committee served refreshments and Mrs. H. Clarke thanked all who made the evening a success.

Viet Nam War Causes Paralysis in East-West Relations Officials Declare

By ARCH MacKENZIE

WASHINGTON (CP) — The latest Soviet acts appear to confirm the paralysis which the war in Viet Nam has caused in East - West relations, analysts suggest.

The impact of the growing war also has cast a shadow over Western relations.

Russia has announced a five-per - cent increase in defence spending and taken a harder line toward the U.S. on the specific questions of Viet Nam and West Germany.

These are being interpreted as Soviet realization that it can do nothing to end the war now, without drawing more criticism from China.

WANT TO CONTINUE

The evidence from the battlefield and elsewhere shows North Vietnamese determination to fight on for a long time and that it intends to match in its own way the steady increase of American military might in South Viet Nam, drawing from its own manpower resources and using Soviet and Chinese aid.

Thus, the long war which had been taking shape all year has become a fact, diplomats say gloomily, with no hope anywhere that anybody can do anything about it.

Militarily, it means that U.S. forces will continue to swell. The present level of around 17,000 will grow perhaps as high as 350,000 or even 400,000 men, reliable quarters predict.

Pressure will increase on President Johnson as the 1964 congressional elections next November draw closer for more bombing in the north and perhaps even in Laos and Cambodia to cut North Vietnamese supplies of troops and men and thereby save the lives of American troops.

APPREHENSION APPEARS

There is growing apprehension as well that the American role in another major Asian land war—perhaps bigger than Korea—revives substantially the hazard of another direct Chinese intervention.

The question is how much its leaders will take, or whether they will remain content to urge on North Viet Nam and show extreme caution themselves.

At least as important, say observers, is the impasse to which the war in Viet Nam has led prospects of better relations with the Communist world.

The key is an agreement to curb or ban nuclear spread which Russia's latest mood now makes more dubious than ever. But time is limited, say observers, and the next logical U.S.-Soviet steps in the absence of any nuclear agreement are vitally programs to find the nuclear means to ward off nuclear attack by missiles.

Once such programs are begun or completed, another major step in nuclear escalation has been taken and nuclear disarmament is that much more difficult, it is argued.

SEEPED ELSEWHERE

The poison of Viet Nam has seeped elsewhere too — into hopes of relaxing trade with the European Communist bloc, into relations with other Eastern countries and even into the Atlantic Alliance where it has created friction among Washington, Paris and London.

It affects the nuclear role to be given to West Germany within NATO. As the Soviet line hardens, West German arguments could gain strength toward obtaining a larger share in the making of decisions despite considerable reluctance among the Western allies.

CHILLIWACK, B.C. (CP)— Automation is moving into the nut business.

Nut farmer John F. Spencer of nearby Rosedale has conducted two experiments in his 30-acre farm and has reported success with each one.

The latest innovation is the use of a helicopter which hovers over the trees. The downward blast from its rotors send the nuts cascading to the ground.

The same job has been done in earlier years by men who spook each tree to dislodge the filberts. The helicopter harvested 17 acres in about two hours, a job Mr. Spencer said would have taken five people three days.

After the filberts are on the ground, a second Spencer innovation comes into play.

A huge vacuum cleaner rolls among the trees and scoops up the nuts, replacing two men and hours of backbreaking labor.

And the nuts—about one ton to the acre—are on their way to market for Christmas—almost untouched by human hands.

Canada May Bargain for Water Supply

WASHINGTON (CP) — Canada may bargain for trade concessions in United States markets if it ever decides to share its vast supplies of water, John Turner, parliamentary secretary to Resources Minister Arthur Laing, said today.

Mr. Turner told a national water conference sponsored by the U.S. Chamber of Commerce that no decision about exporting water will be made until Canada decides its water needs are met and a surplus is available.

"We want to protect our potential for growth into the reasonably foreseeable future. This growth will depend on water. We don't want to export our water now only to find later that we have imported your problems."

But, he said later, "if someday we can agree to the sharing of this continent's water by offering some of our water for export, we might want at that time to insist that if water is to be considered as a continental resource, markets should also be considered on the same basis."

SUGGESTS TRADE

"We might wish to export water not for money (as we sold power under the Columbia River treaty) but in return for access to your markets."

Discussing recent U.S. drought problems and proposals for diverting Canadian water to the U.S., Mr. Turner said "you may be spawning a myth that you are running out of water.

"The problem may be not so much that you have too little water, but that you may not be husbanding or distributing the water you have. We in Canada are just as guilty. The issue may be as much the management of water as a shortage of water."

He said industries in both countries must tackle water pollution problems or the public will pressure governments to step in.

'Go in Peace' Says Pope Closing Ecumenical Council

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Pope Paul, a windblown figure in white against the dark-grey stone of St. Peter's Basilica, Wednesday brought Roman Catholicism's greatest general council to an end with three simple words: "Ite in pace"—go in peace.

The pontiff spoke with upraised arms as he faced the 2,400 bishops, assembled for the last time in council.

With this the Vatican ecumenical council—four years in preparation and three in session—passed into history. But it left Roman Catholicism with a blueprint for modernization bound to occupy the church for decades, even centuries, to come.

In his final speech at a ceremonial closing in St. Peter's Square, the Pope said he hopes the council's work will renew not only the church but all the world.

He published a papal brief officially closing the 21st council in the 2,000 years of Roman Catholicism. In it the Pope described the council as the greatest ever held, whether in size, in subjects treated or in the needs it met.

BIND ALL CATHOLICS

He declared the council's decisions binding on all Roman Catholics.

The Pope celebrated mass. Princes and presidents, rulers and duchesses were among special delegations sent by almost 100 countries to witness the splendor of the council's final moments.

Places of honor also went to the 39 Protestant, Anglican and Orthodox observers who sat in the council through its months of work.

Pope Paul mentioned them and "citizens of the entire world."

As for mankind in general, the Pope said:

He said his greeting went also to "men who do not know us, men who do not understand us, men who do not believe us."

North Star

North Star flying veterans, crew member Sgt. V. F. Pawliuk of 3338 Regina Crescent, Hilton and F/L John A. (Bud) Sinclair of 1 Coleman Street, Trenton, pilot, with nine years total time serving with North Star units.

Air Commodore R. J. Lane, the air officer commanding Transport Command at Trenton, introduced Air Marshal Curtis and other service and civilian dignitaries.

Air Commodore E. D. Ross (retired) at the head of Transport Command between 1958-61 during those years the Stars' operation and development, was visiting as a guest along with Canada's vice president Curt Flochman and Rolls-Royce Ltd., vice president and general manager E. G. Acheson.

HOWE'S "BABY"

Birth of the North Star was encouraged by the late C. D. Howe who announced plans for its development in the House of Commons in 1945. It was a combination of a Douglas DC-4 and the DC-5 airframe, powered by British Rolls-Royce Merlin engines. TCA laid down the specifications for its building. Mrs. Howe was present when the first aircraft went into service.

However, its performance became a political issue in 1949 during the general election. In this it criticized the aircraft because the government which had fathered it was returned.

The North has proved its persist in repaying those who fought to save it. It proved its worth when Canadian servicemen, often involved in peacekeeping in the colors of the United Nations, dispatched to trouble spots across the world. It stood out in the Korean campaign in 1950 when airlift commitments called for round trips and endurance over land and water exceeding distances up to 15,000 miles, in all kinds of weather.

FAITHFUL WORKHORSE

Again it drew notice as a faithful workhorse supplying Canadians with the UN force during the Congo crisis. Then came jobs requiring dependability in the Congo, Yemen and Cyprus and the North Star always produced reliable transport in that order. As a mode of record there was never a loss of people or cargo carried in nearly two decades of operations which included globe-circling undertakings.

It has been replaced by the larger, longer range Yukon and Hercules turbo prop carriers.

As a matter of interest the best one of the three remaining North Stars in service with the air force will be turned over to the government's Northern Affairs agency. It will likely continue to be flown throughout the Arctic while the others are kept for spare parts.

recommendation by the conciliation board Dec. 2. They also demand that the increase be retroactive to June 1, 1965, when the last contract expired. Deck officers are now paid $500 to $700 per month.

The strike follows a seven-day waiting period after the release of the conciliation report.

Negotiations between the guild and the association broke up last Saturday because deck officers on several vessels had quit their jobs after giving the required 48-hour notice.

The board of marxime trustees, which has jurisdiction over the guild under an Act of Parliament of February, 1963, ordered the guild to tell the deck officers to return to work. The guild complied and negotiations resumed Wednesday.

The association, through its spokesman, has said it cannot accept the recommendation of the conciliation board on signing a contract similar to that with Upper Lakes. As one spokesman put it, this would amount to a contract "negotiated by 10 per cent of the industry being imposed on 90 per cent of the industry."

of the watchdog party-state control committee to unspecified duties within the party's policy-making central committee.

The apparent demotion, announced at a session of the Supreme Soviet (parliament)—today, may have been brought about partly by persistent rumors that Shelepin had ambitions for high-ranking office, observers said.

His powerful committee, set up under Khrushchev in 1962 to check into all aspects of community and state administration, has been replaced by a new more broadly-based body which will confine itself to ensuring that government decisions are properly carried out and that state funds are not squandered.

Shelepin is the youngest member of the Kremlin's ruling body the 12-man party presidium. He apparently retains his post in this group.

Labor laws now provide that once it signs a contract, a union cannot legally strike unless the specific provisions of the contract are violated. Management, meanwhile, is free to any changes it desires in working conditions.

"The present situation which permits management to make unilateral changes in working conditions during the contract period is a manifest inequity which clamors for attention and correction," the 57 - year - old Manitoba Appeal Court judge said.

Manitoba Blames Federal Policies For Poverty In Canada

OTTAWA (CP) — Past national policy has been blamed for poverty in Canada.

The Manitoba government made the charge Wednesday in a brief submitted to the federal-provincial conference on poverty and opportunity.

It said that since Confederation, government has played a vigorous, positive role in national expansion but hasn't been sufficiently concerned with regional disparities "and the social inequalities that inevitably grew out of that development."

Only in recent years had Canada become conscious that these were serious obstacles in economic growth. With this realization of the links between ideals of social justice and requirements of economic progress "has come understanding of the need to reformulate traditional national policy in Canada."

This policy would have to deal effectively with the plight of the urban poor and with regional disparities that were at the root of farm, non-farm and even urban poverty.

SEES DANGER

Continued primary concern with "national economic aggregates" rather than balanced regional development could be dangerously divisive since it would intensify the disparities in income and employment between the regions, the brief said.

"What is needed now is a comprehensive and co-ordinated national policy of regional and social development as the essential means for eliminating avoidable poverty. . . ."

A report to the conference said some 1,300,000 Canadians have a permanent physical disability and have to be poverty-stricken to get government aid.

The profile on disability said 51,671 persons qualified in January this year under the Disabled Persons Act for an average $69.43 a month.

"Last year, nearly 10,000 persons were turned away because their disability was not assessed as total or permanent though many were severely handicapped," said the report by the federal government's special planning secretariat on poverty.

Another 567 applicants were "not quite poor enough," to qualify for the maximum aid of $900 a year.

The report said 223 died before a decision was made on their applications.

HEALTH IS WORST

Another federal report said health conditions among the native people of the Canadian north "are still among the worst in the world."

Average lifespan of a native woman in the Northwest Territories is 21, against 63 for an outside Canadian. For a man in the territories, it is 38. For another Canadian male, it is nearly 60.

The report said Canadians in low income groups have more disabling illnesses and less health care than other groups.

One of the problem was at its worst among Canadian Indians and Eskimos. Eskimo mortality rates were three times the national averags.

Housekeeping Daily Chore For Astronauts in Space

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Gemini 7 astronauts Frank Borman and James Lovell face a housekeeping problem that would make any good housewife throw up her hands in disgust.

Home for two weeks in a cramped spacecraft with a living area far two men no larger than the front seat of a small foreign car. Anything loose floats aimlessly and weightless.

To make matters worse, Borman and Lovell are not allowed to dispose of anything in space. What went up must come down.

Housekeeping is a daily chore for the high-flying space ship. This means stuffing any trash or storing cameras and other experiment equipment used during a busy day circling the globe.

And from what they have told ground controllers, they seem to be running a pretty tight ship.

FIND MORE SPACE

"It's amazing how the space-craft seems to be getting bigger and bigger," command pilot Borman said. "Either we're losing weight or we're getting used to it."

The astronauts harbor no doubt they can master the stowage problem by using every nook and cranny in the craft. Several times before the flight they surveyed the cabin inch by inch converting unused space into storage bins, drawers and pouches.

They do not want to find themselves in the cramped shape the Gemini 5 crew of L. Gordon Cooper and Charles Conrad Jr. did at one point during the latter part of their eight-day flight.

"We were up to our eyeballs in maintenance and equipment and everything else," Cooper reported.

The Gemini 7 crew heeded the words of Cooper and reviewed stowage procedures several times, at various make-believe stages of the flight.

Propose Plan

MONTREAL (CP) — A plan for peaceful coexistence between two rival union groups was proposed Wednesday at the opening of a Quebec Federation of Labor (CLC) convention. QFL President Louis Laberge proposed a plan to eliminate rivalry between the QFL and the Quebec-based Confederation of National Trade Unions.

Cut in Bomber Fleet by 1971 Is Opposed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon's reported plan for a deep cut in the United States long-range bomber fleet by 1971 has met formidable opposition in Congress.

Senator Richard B. Russell, chairman of the Senate armed services committee, objected to any such bomber reduction. He also opposed any scaling down of U.S. defences against Soviet bombers.

Sources indicated that the defence department intends to retire about two-thirds of its force of 630 B-52 and B-58 jet bombers during the next five years.

This would leave about 250 later model B-52s, greater in range and equipped with more powerful engines than the earlier models. All of the supersonic B-58s would be phased out.

MAY BE LINKED

The action may be linked to a reported intention to propose an advanced bomber which would be an adaptation of the controversial TFX now under development as a fighter of the future.

A number of fighter-interceptor squadrons are due to be eliminated by mid-1968. In addition, various Nike - Hercules anti-aircraft missile units are to be disbanded.

This suggests that top U.S. authorities now downrate the significance of the Soviet bomber threat in an era of emphasis on missiles in both the Soviet Union and the United States.

The United States is believed by U.S. officials to enjoy a 6-to-1 edge over the Russians in long-range bombers and about a 3-to-1 margin over the Russians in long range missiles.

The cut in bombers and air defences was signalled in data supplied to congressmen amplifying on McNamara's announcement Monday that 149 more bases would be shut down, reduced or consolidated.

Lion Coward, Chicken Brave, Bull Elephant Is Henpecked

Many of the jungle's wild animals are cowardly, set foreclose, says Mozambique's information director, in this interview with Joseph MacSween, visiting Canadian Press reporter.

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN

LOURENCO MARQUES, Mozambique (CP)—The lion, so-called king of the beasts, is a lazy coward compared with the humble domestic hen.

Practically everybody, except the birds, has heard stories about snakes hypnotizing birds. It's really the other way around — the birds bamboozle the snakes.

The elephant has such contempt for a snooping lion that he'll step on the cat rather than alter course to walk around him.

Male elephants are henpecked by their bossy wives, who consider the bulls so stupid they can't be trusted with any responsibility.

The fearsome leopard, another coward, sneaks around at night and will attack a human —preferably a child or old lady —only in starvation or desperation.

These are some of the eye-brow-raising findings of Joao Augusto Silva, Mozambique information director, who, camera in hand, has been studying the lords of the jungle for years; moving among them on foot.

In his book Gorongosa, named after a Mozambique national park, Silva sets out to explode some animal myths although he concedes it will be a tough job considering the "crushing prestige of 400 years of literature."

"The myth that wild animals are ferocious is a very old one and it is not merely in one book that it can be destroyed," says Silva. "To bring this about would require many years, of revision."

The dangers of the jungle are far less than those of any large city, says Silva.

ABANDON YOUNG

"In the bush everything is simple. No animal will attack except in abnormal circumstances. Apart from these not common occasions an attack is as rare as one man assaulting another for no rhyme or reason."

Barring up his thesis that all wild animals are timid, sensitive and suspicious, Silva says that even "the lioness, contrary to what is generally believed, is not dangerous to man, not even when she is with her cubs."

"When chased she will run away, abandoning her young. This unbelievable fact can be proved in complete safety with a car and, although it is difficult to believe I must add that the experiment can be performed quite safely on foot. If, from some distance away, we run towards a mother lioness, gesticulating and shouting, she will take to her heels, abandoning her young. . . .

"Among wild animals cowardice, weakness and selfishness in the face of danger are fairly frequent. The female baboon when chased will brutally free herself of her young, desperately clinging to her baby, so as to escape more rapidly.

"Others, on the contrary, will show a stoic courage in spite of their manifest unselfish motherly love perhaps because the life of this bird usually ends tragicly, in a casserole dish."

BIRDS ARE CLEVER

According to popular belief the serpent possesses a fatal hypnotic power over birds and, indeed, there is a charming Portuguese poem about how the Child Jesus once saved a nightingale in such circumstances.

But the fact is that birds have worked out a strategy for luring the snake away from their nests, says Silva. Apparently helpless, fluttering, chirping frantically, the bird - prey causes the snake to strike again and again.

"This game, which is cunningly controlled by the bird, is repeated while the snake is gradually taken away from a particular place. Then the bird that during all this time has appeared irresistibly fascinated by the serpent takes flight and disappears. . . . In this way, a snake rarely succeeds in catching a bird."

Perhaps you thought the bull elephant was boss. This, too, is a trustful ef-ewEsh.

"The elephant society is matriarchal and so it is the females who lead the herd. Probably due to the fact that they are more actively vigilant, it is they who sound the alarm and initiate the withdrawal, retreat, defence or attack. . . .

"At the tail end of the moving herd the large males appear, as if sleepwalking, their movements as light and silent as shadows. Their every gesture is one of politeness, modesty and caution."

Silva confirms one widely-held belief—that animals can sense or smell fear in the human, and then may be encouraged to attack.

"It seems that it is not only in man that one finds individuals who are only courageous in the face of weakness."

B.C. Racing to Provide Enough Power for Expanding Economy

By H. L. JONES

VANCOUVER (CP)—In power potential British Columbia is probably the richest province in Canada.

But now she's in a power-short position, in a race against time to keep pace with her vast industrial development of the 1960s. She needs still more electrical energy to unlock a vast but untouched storehouse of economic wealth.

Power experts estimate that fully developed, her myriad of mountain-spawned rivers could produce up to 1,000,000,000 kilowatts, each representing 1.34 horsepower in terms of energy.

Up to now she has barely tapped this potential. Her 1965 power-producing capacity was in the order of a mere 2,000,000 kilowatts.

And the demands of great new pulp mills, mining activity, new communities and other ventures, spelling prosperity in the billions, brought the possibility of power shortages and even brown-outs during the next two or three years.

Electric power is the key to the industrial future of the west coast province and time is vital. But time is on her way.

TAP BIG RIVERS

Two giant power and flood-control projects, eventually to cost more than $1,000,000,000 and produce a combined total of more than 5,000,000 kilowatts already are under way. They are harnessing two of B.C.'s mightiest rivers, the Peace and the Columbia.

It will be late 1968, however, before the first power from the northern Peace flows into the provincial power grid. And at first it will be a mere 680,000 kilowatt trickle of the Peace's eventual 4,000,000 KW potential.

Until then the B.C. Hydro and Power Authority, the government agency now producing and distributing 90 per cent of the province's power, faces the prospect of four anxious years, trying to match supply to ever-growing demands.

Power from the 645-foot-high, 2,500 - foot - long Mica Dam, only generating installation to be built on the Columbia in the south under a power-flood control treaty with the United States, isn't due until some time after 1973. The Columbia could eventually contribute an estimated 4,500,000 KWs of electrical energy, including future ancillary projects.

MAY SPEED PROJECT

B.C. Hydro estimates B.C. industry now consumes 20.6 per cent of the province's power output. By 1970 the industrial consumption will be more than 40 per cent at the present rate of increase.

Additions have been and are being made to existing thermal installations. Hydro already is purchasing up to 70,000 kilowatts a year—at a cost of $1,500,000 to $2,000,000 annually—from the Aluminum Co. of Canada. The power is in excess of the company's needs for its aluminum-producing plant at Kitimat on a coastal inlet 100 miles south of the Alaska Panhandle.

But this may not be enough. Hydro recently said power-generator installation schedules for the Peace may have to be speeded up. Three of the first five sets of power-generators are due to produce power at the $73,000,000, 600-foot-high, 1¼-mile - long Portage Mountain dam near Hudson Hope by October, 1968. Two other sets, due the following year, now may have to be installed sooner. The project will eventually have 10 sets of turbine-generator units.

FISH CAUSE PROBLEM

One of the province's other major rivers, the Fraser, is included in future power-flood control plans and probably could produce 1,000,000 kilowatts or more. But the Fraser is rich in fish. Any talk of dams anywhere on the river brings protesting delegations to the governor's door. Experts are working on the problem but say the solution may be years off.

In 1965 B.C.'s total peak load power production was 2,042,382 kilowatts, no more than 700,000 from 1964. It compared with 8,289,000 KWs available in highly - industrialized Ontario and 6,300,000 KWs to meet Quebec's 1965 needs.

Presently Portage Mountain's 2,300,000 kilowatt capacity is flowing along with another 650,000 KWs from an earlier dam downstream, and pressuring mica is at its near-capacity 2,000,000 KWs. B.C.'s power-producing capacity by 1975 should be about 8,000,000 KWs.

Additional power - producing projects on the Peace, Columbia and other rivers will later boost that total much higher.

Public power came to B.C. in 1945 with creation of the B.C. Power Commission by a Liberal - Conservative coalition government. The policy was continued and expanded by Premier Bennett when his Social Credit administration took office in 1952.

UTILITY ABSORBED

In 1961 the Bennett government took over the privately-owned B.C. Electric, biggest power - transportation utility in the province. BCE was merged with the power commission to from B.C. hydro and Power Authority.

At the same time the government took over all Peace River surveys made by the Peace River Power Development Co., an adjunct of the interests controlled by the late Swedish multi-millionaire Axel Wenner-Gren. This company, under a tentative agreement with the government, was planning to draw the Peace for power.

Thus began Mr. Bennett's controversial "two-river" policy. Work on the Peace under the Hydro and Power Authority had already begun when treaty negotiations were finally settled on the Columbia treaty with the U.S. Under the treaty B.C. got an advance lump-sum payment of $274,000,000 (U.S.) for sale to the Americans of Canada's 50 per cent entitlement to extra power generated south of the border as a result of storage dams in Canada.

Premier Bennett declared this payment, plus interest and another $70,000,000 U.S. payment for flood control, would grow to more than $500,000,000, enough to pay for all three Columbia dams and half the cost of generating facilities at mica by 1973.

Peterborough Is Test Area For New Boy Scout Concept

PETERBOROUGH (CP) — This city has been selected as the test area for a new concept of the boy scout movement that may become general throughout Canada, it was announced here Wednesday.

The new program, which boy scout officials say is designed to keep pace with changes in society, will be tested for a year in the Peterborough district.

If it is judged successful in attracting and serving the scout-age boys in the area, it will be carried out on a national scale.

Details of the program are to be given here Dec. 14 when national and provincial scout councils will meet with Peterborough district officials.

The new plan results from a study of the national program committee of the Boy Scouts of Canada and marks a departure in many ways from the traditional boy scout program.

Included in the new program are:

—Greater use of outside resources, other groups and individuals.

—Closer linking with community life.

—New badges, with achievement and challenge badges replacing the present grade and proficiency categories.

—New series of awards, with Pioneer, Voyageur and Pathfinder replacing the present second class, first class and Queen's Scout.

—Greater opportunity for members to pursue their own interests within the program rather than conforming to a standard program.

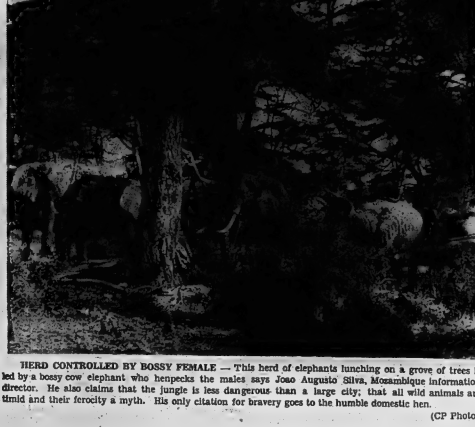
Professional Ranks Grow At Faster Pace

OTTAWA (CP) — Professional ranks in Canada grew at a faster pace between 1951 and 1961 than any other major occupational category, a labor department survey shows.

In 1961 there were an estimated 634,000 persons working in the various professional occupations: Engineers, lawyers, doctors, clergymen, nurses, musicians, journalists and teachers.

This was 84 per cent higher than the 388,000 listed in these occupations 10 years earlier.



In the same period the number of manual workers rose only 12.7 per cent, clerical workers 45 per cent and sales personnel 41 per cent.

Biggest numerical gain among professionals was posted by school teachers—to 170,000 from 105,000.

Sharp employment declines occurred in primary industries during the 1951-61 survey period. Agriculture jobs dropped to 669,000 from 830,000, off almost 20 per cent. The number employed in fishing, hunting and trapping skidded to 27,000 from 33,000, lower by 20 per cent. Logging dropped by 21 per cent, to 80,000 from 101,000.

MOURNED TOO SOON

SOUTH CERNEY, England (CP)—The vicar of this Gloucestershire town was shocked when friends telephoned his wife to sympathize with her on his death. On checking, Rev. Phillip Stacey found The Church Times had published his obituary after the death of a different Phillip Stacey.

HERD CONTROLLED BY BOSSY FEMALE — This herd of elephants lunching on a grove of trees is led by a bossy cow elephant who henpecks the males says Joao Augusto Silva, Mozambique information director. He also claims that the jungle is less dangerous than a large city; that all wild animals are timid and their ferocity a myth. His only citation for bravery goes to the humble domestic hen.

Pinch Hitting

By GARRY ALEXANDER
Staff Sportswriter

Slightly out of season, we agree, but here goes a belated shot at the local ball season, 1965 vintage.

This agent traded a scorebook for a K.O.H. gown (ugh) just as most local league players were reaching a climax.

The hustling young Point Anne squad crowned quite a stir and picked up plenty of fan support while racing from a fourth place Commercial Softball League finish to the playoff crown.

Meanwhile over on the Belleville—and District front, Bloomfield came through in the finals to defeat a good but sometimes thin and erratic Ellis Junior squad for the playoff marbles. Depth was likely the difference here. Those two squads gave district fans some great ball over the season.

So, for a change no team won both the schedule and playoff in their leagues this season.

Now what about the future?

The B. and D. winter meetings along about March 1 should prove interesting and perhaps fiery.

Seven teams participated this year with five of them in the playoff hunt until the end. The other two were well down but the tail-end Madoc crew was the only one of the seven to go on to capture an OASA Provincial crown.

The Madoc youngsters should be back in '66 with a playoff contender. Ellis Juniors lose several key men and coach Reid faces some rebuilding but there is sufficient junior material available to again field a strong entry.

Bloomfield and Trenton always field scrappy squads and if they return will likely be right up there in the midst of the playoff scrap. Tweed Lombards are in the same position. I for one hope to see Wally Moffat's boys back, with a healthy Blaine Hooley, despite some contrary rumors.

Trudeau Motors found player help down Napanee way and we understand there are several other players there who would look good in this league. They should be back in full force.

Robert Temple has announced that the Bobcats will return to the fray here, so the city itself may well have three entries. It is to be hoped that the player talent available will turn out and the loop could be stronger than ever before, with from six to eight entries.

Stirling is a big question mark. The club had a rough year and team brass vowed "We'll not be back here," after disagreeing with league action re forfeited games late in the season.

We have always claimed and still do, that no one club is bigger or more important than the league as a whole—and that goes for any team in it from city or district, a first-place contender or a cellar-dweller.

The B. and D. executive admits to making mistakes this season, mainly in not seeing down clearly certain rules, etc. It always happens. Everyone understands everything at the pre-season meetings but wait until it applies to their club!

The executive attempted to make the best of the situations as they were without favoring any clubs but a team or two attempted to take advantage of loopholes to aid their own cause, thus hurting the league overall.

The executive had the final word, like it or leave it, and the day that it does not will mark the end of the league as such.

An executive body that contains no team representatives in a voting position should be a must. It is not fair to team managers, coaches or sponsors, no matter how honest, to expect them to take an objective view of a matter that would eliminate their own club from play. Some vote all out for their own club while others lean the opposite way trying to be fair.

There are enough honest persons around, not connected with any club, to form a solid executive body to back the top four.

And speaking of the top four, President Frank Insley, Vice-president Harold Bawden who regretfully resigned over a conflict of interests, Secretary Clifford Belch and Treasurer Allan Sills, are to be congratulated on their efforts.

We mentioned the mistakes earlier but you can bet they would not be repeated if any of the same men are returned to office. Bawden is out of the running since he has already accepted the presidency of the local Umpires' Association.

Whatever clubs are represented will have to look a long way to fill the seats of any of the other three should they not return.

And Belch has said he will resign in order to work with a minor team here and in his capacity as an OASA executive.

For the sake of softball it is hoped Belch can be kept active on the B. and D. executive. His 100% fairness and effort are needed by every club.

And another matter, we understand there is "fire down below" in the Umpires' Association, a fire that has been smouldering for some time and the B. & D. League's five-year contract with the umps has run out. There's likely to be more heated action than many suspect come spring ball meeting time.

Boston Charity ★★★★★ Blues Tie Hawks

Habs Whip Bruins To Gain Top Share

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Boston Bruins continued their campaign of charity to the other teams in the National Hockey League Wednesday night by dropping an 8-3 decision to Montreal Canadiens, and at the same time gave up their claim to having the Indian sign on the Habs.

BOB ROUSSEAU

In their last six games, the Bruins have managed only one tie while giving up 41 goals and scoring only 15.

But, while playing doormat to the rest of the league, the Bruins had managed two wins and a 4-4 tie against the Canadiens in their last four meetings.

In the only other league game Wednesday night, New York Rangers made general - manager Emile Francis' debut as a coach partially successful by batting Chicago Black Hawks to a 2-2 tie, allowing Montreal to climb back into a leadership tie in the league with the Hawks.

The Canadiens poured in five goals in the second period to smother the Bruins in a wide-open but loosely-played game.

BRUINS START FAST

DENNIS HULL

* * *

Dean Prentice gave the Bruins a 3-1 lead early in the second period, but then the roof fell on them.

Claude Larose, John Ferguson, Henri Richard, Duff and Bobby Rousseau banged in second-period goals for Montreal. Ralph Backstrom and Richard finished the onslaught in the third period.

A short-lived fight blew up in the third period when Boston's Reg Fleming and Duff started throwing punches. Duff was given a double minor penalty as the aggressor and Fleming a single minor.

Don Marshall's goal midway in the final period enabled the Rangers to tie the Black Hawks in a sloppy game.

Bob Nevin scored the other New York goal while Bill Hay and Dennis Hull scored for Chicago.

FIRST MOVE WORKS

He replaced rookie netminder Ed Giacomin in the nets for the first time this season and used veteran Don Simmons, who had worked only a total of seven minutes prior to Wednesday night's game.

Simmons was a superlative operator on several occasions, stopping scoring star Bobby Hull once on a breakaway and halting Doug Mohns' solo effort late in the final period.

Challenges And Claims

British Fight Scene Activated

LONDON (CP) — Henry Cooper, British and Empire heavyweight boxing champion, is reported ready to give George Chuvalo a crack at the title here in February—if the price is right.

A barrage of challenges, claims and counter - claims issued by British heavyweights and their handlers Wednesday includes a kernel of encouragement for the Canadian champion's aim to get at Cooper in the new year.

"He (Chuvalo) can have his Empire chance in February if we have the right cash terms," said Jim Wicks, Cooper's manager.

The Toronto heavyweight, intent on working his way back into contention for the world title via British conquests, outpointed Joe Bygraves in a 10-round fight here Tuesday.

Wicks, while making passing reference to Chuvalo, congratulated on a challenge to Blackpool's Brian London, a three-time loser to Cooper but said to have the interest of Amer-

"May Seem Illogical"

Namath Unfit For Army

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Army concedes "it may seem illogical" that quarterback Joe Namath, signed by New York Jets of the American Football League for $400,000 to play professional football, should be found unfit for military service.

But, says the army, as a professional football player Namath has doctors and trainers to look after his every ailment and practice.

"In the military service, these conditions would not necessarily be present.

"In Viet Nam, for example, the life and safety of his comrades could depend on Namath performing his duties under extremely adverse conditions."

The explanation appeared in a memorandum circulated in the army among members of Congress in anticipation of criticism because Namath has been declared not physically fit to serve in the military.

The memorandum says that in the course of a pre-induction medical exam in New York Sept. 15, doctors, including an orthopedic specialist, decided that a knee condition made Namath unfit for military service.

Unbeaten Young Canadians Get Test

International Foes

By WALTER KREVENCHUK

WINNIPEG (CP)—Mid-term examinations have arrived for Canada's young national hockey team.

Stalls developed in 75 hours of practice and an undefeated sweep through 17 exhibition games will be tested in the crucible of 13 matches against top-flight international opponents.

FRAN HUCK

* * *

The first is Friday night in London, Ont., against the world champion Russian Nationals, who haven't been to a Canadian unit since 1961. Other dates are with Czechoslovakia, Sweden, Finland and the United States.

Coach Jackie McLeod, who took the Canadian reins in September, has been looking forward to these clashes for a chance to assess progress made with a roughe laced squad whose average age is 22.

WILL SHOW NEEDS

McLeod said the international contests will show exactly what action is needed before the 1968 world championships in Ljubljana, Yugoslavia, March 3-12. He said Canada must do well in the championships to regain prestige lost through fourth-place finishes in 1964 and 1965.

The club's scoring leaders in a romp of 16 victories and two ties through intermediate, senior, intercollegiate and minor professional foes were centres Roger Bourbonnais, Fran Huck and Rick McCann.

McCann, 21, a native of Hamilton, contributed nine tallies to give the trio 33 per cent of the Nationals' scoring punch to date.

McLeod said one of his early problems was a "surprising" lack of knowledge of fundamentals" by some of the team's 10 new players.

"But they've come a long way," said McLeod, praising the forechecking of Morris Mott, the SJHL's most genuine mauler in 1964-65, and Billy MacMillan, 22—a left winger from Charlottetown.

McLeod, "disappointed" with the power play, has been a little more cheerful since the arrival of George Faulkner, 31, a defenceman from Harbor Grace, Nfld. "I think he'll be the key in the power play."

"Coming along wonderfully" are newcomers like Ted Hargreaves, SJHL scoring champion in 1962-63 converted to wing from centre; Mott and Harvey Schmidt, a defenceman, and Wayne Stephenson, 20, a goaltender from Winnipeg Monarchs of the Manitoba Junior League.

The team's veterans of international competition include defenceman Terry O'Malley, Paul Conlin, Gary Begg and Barry McKenzie and forwards Bourbonnais, Marshall Johnston and Al McLan.

Wally Boyer Finally Gets NHL Shot

TORONTO (CP) — Wally Boyer will get into his first National Hockey League game here Saturday after seven years slugging it out as a professional in the minor leagues.

He was scheduled to join the Leafs today for a workout, replacing left-winger Larry Jeffrey, who will take over Boyer's place with Rochester Americans of the American Hockey League.

Joe Crozier, general manager of the Americans, said Wednesday Boyer is one of the most under - rated players in the game.

Punch Imlach, Leaf manager - coach, said he asked for Crozier who had been his best centre and he named Boyer.

Said Imlach: "That was good enough for me. Boyer deserves the chance. He has been with Toronto for years, but he just couldn't crack our lineup at centre ice.

Gonzalez Confident

Emile Griffith Favored

NEW YORK (AP) — Manuel Gonzale saw his name on the Madison Square Garden marquee for the first time Wednesday.

"This is a dream come true," said the 26 - year - old welterweight boxing challenger who can't read or write but can make out "Griffith vs. Gonzale."

"I beat him before and I can beat him again—I know I can do it," said the Texan from Odessa.

The oddsmakers think differently. They have made welterweight champion Emile Griffith a 14-to-5 favorite to win the 15-round title match Friday night.

Gonzalez a former cotton picker who has been fighting pro 8½ years, won a split decision in a non-title 10-rounder with Griffith at Houston last Jan. 26.

Griffith said he has a simple plan to beat the challenger.

"I'm going to keep after him and make him fight.

"He likes to stic kand move. He doesn't make any kind of a fight. If he makes any kind of a fight, he'll fall.

"This time I'm going to make sure of winning. I can't take any chances."

NAMED MANAGER

TORONTO (CP)—The University of Toronto Wednesday announced commissioning of Canadian Bechtel Ltd. as project manager for its new medical sciences building. The building, part of a multi-million-dollar program to expand the university's faculty of medicine, is expected to be ready for occupancy in September, 1969.

Colts Put Unitas On Reserve List

BALTIMORE (AP) — Baltimore Colts placed injured quarterback John Unitas on their reserve list Wednesday, making it official he will miss the remainder of the season and the National Football League playoff game.

Unitas already had been eliminated from playing against Green Bay Packers Sunday or at Los Angeles the following Saturday when the Colts wind up their regular schedule.

Unitas said Monday "I'm out" of the championship game. Torn ligaments in his knee were repaired and a cartilage removed after he was injured in the Colts 13-0 loss to Chicago Bears last Sunday.

Rod Seiling Sent To Minnesota

CHICAGO (AP)—New York Rangers of the National Hockey League assigned Rod Seiling today to their Minnesota farm club in the Central League.

Seiling, 21, will join Minnesota Rangers immediately and will be used at left wing.

"Rod hasn't had too much ice time with us," said general manager-coach Emile Francis, "and he'll get plenty of that in the Central Hockey League. No doubt Seiling will be back. He's far too good a hockey player to stay in the minors."

In 16 games with New York this season, Seiling scored three goals and collected five assists for eight points.

Nobis Bids Really Go Into Orbit

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

The bidding for Texas linebacker Tommy Nobis now has gone into orbit.

The price hasn't gone up but the news has astronauts Frank Borman and James Lovell Jr. being read the latest developments on the battle between the National and American Football Leagues for Nobis' services as they zoomed around the world Wednesday in their Gemini 7 capsule.

"Oh good," said Borman, "I thought he was going to Atlanta. I hope he comes here (Houston not orbit)."

Nobis, meanwhile, was at a handball court in Austin, Tex., remaining noncommital about whether he would join the Oilers or Atlanta Falcons, who made him their No. 1 choice in the National Football League draft.

SIGN CHOICE

The AFL's Buffalo Bills, meanwhile, were the only team in either league to sign a draft choice Wednesday, although a host of free agents were grabbed.

Buffalo signed its No. 17 selection, Bowling Green tackle Bill Stewart.

Miami of the AFL signed four free agents: End Wesley Mathews, linebacker Paul Shrago and tackle Bud Casey, all of Northeast Oklahoma, and fullback Charles Barnhart from Southeast Oklahoma State.

The NFL's Dallas Cowboys signed two free agents: Defensive end Roy Evans of Kentucky and kicking specialist Charles Durkee of Oklahoma State. Minnesota signed free agent Bob Miranda, Santa Clara halfback, to an NFL contract.

The Handguns

At the Quinte Marksmen's shoot this week, Reg Sprackett had top score of 257.

Other marks were: Don Parks 243; Dick Charlton 242; Walter Mosom 236 and Cliff Smith 232.

Big Business

Thoroughbred Handle At New High

By BEN WARD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Toughest job at Canadian racetracks this year, aside from picking winners, was counting all that money. A record $186,826,335 slid through the parimutuel windows.

It was the 16th straight year in which betting on the thoroughbreds reached a new high. Last year it was $161,515,131.

The figure is separate from harness racing on which totals are not completed until January. In 1964 the harness tracks took in more than $163,000,000.

Provincial betting records toppled this season in all six provinces with thoroughbred tracks—Quebec, Ontario, Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia. There are none in the four Atlantic provinces.

A Cross-Canada Survey by The Canadian Press also showed that 14 of the 18 tracks in operation set betting marks of their own, despite generally poor weather that plagued every province except B.C.

The exceptions were Toronto Greenwood and Fort Erie in Ontario, and Lethbridge and Lake McGregor in Alberta, all of which missed their 1964 records by a nose. They also reported the worst weather.

B.C. FORGES AHEAD

B.C. bettors were in especially good form, turning up in record numbers to lay $22,934,312 on the line, up almost 20 per cent from the $19,226,105 they wagered last year. The season there covered 118 racing days, a gain of five from 1964.

Of the national take, about $134,700,000 was pocketed by winners. The track operators, who are allowed nine per cent for purses and profits, grossed about $15,300,000; the provinces came away with about $11,500,000 on their varying tax rates and the federal government collected about $5,500,000 for supervisory services. They include film patrols, saliva tests and RCMP surveillance.

Ontario, as usual, accounted for 60 per cent of the betting. Its three tracks took in $101,272,209 with Toronto Woodbine's record clip more than offsetting slight declines at Fort Erie and Greenwood. Last year, in an identical 136-day season, Ontario fans backed their choices with $99,464,915.

The only thoroughbred racing in Quebec is at Montreal's Blue Bonnets which had to buck a transport strike and a gas station limit. But it boosted its betting to $15,787,423 from $15,562,205. The season was unchanged at 42 days.

PRAIRIE BETTORS BUSY

On the Prairies, the nags did even better than the crops.

Assiniboia Downs at Winnipeg, Manitoba's only track, counted $8,410,626 to eclipse the previous record of $8,249,994 set in 1962. Last year the figure was $8,328,963 on the same 42-day season.

Officials said it was the best season since Assiniboia opened in 1958 with attendances swelled largely by U.S. fans from North Dakota and Minnesota points just across the border. Special days were arranged for U.S. communities.

Saskatchewan's three tracks had a mutuel handle of $2,440,261 to surpass the 1964 record of $2,188,728. Alberta's six collected $18,482,004 compared to $16,744,394.

There was an 18-day season in Saskatchewan, same as last year, while Alberta had 90 days, up two. The Western Canada Racing Association said the buoyant economy and an improved calibre of racing boosted betting interest.

A new $3,000,000 clubhouse and track at Vancouver's Exhibition Park paid off in style, adding nearly $3,460,000 to the handle there.

BETS BOOSTED — For the 16th straight year punters set a record in wagers at Canadian tracks. In 1965 bettors sent $169,926,335 through the windows and the winners got back $134,700,000. The rest went to track operators, taxes and costs of government supervision. Figures do not include harness racing. Of the 18 tracks racing thoroughbreds in Canada, 14 set betting records of their own despite generally poor weather. (CP Newsmap)

Houston Stops League Leaders

HOUSTON (AP) —Houston Apollos scored four times in the second period Wednesday night en route to a 7-3 Central Hockey League victory over the league-leading Minnesota Rangers.

Minnesota jumped off to a 1-0 lead with only 56 seconds gone in the first period, but Houston rookie Jim Patterson scored twice in the initial frame to give Apollos the lead.

Ron Boehm scored early in the second period to knot the score but Houston broke the game open with four straight goals, two by Bill Ingalls and one each by Bill McCreary and Gerry Kell.

McCreary's second score of the night was Houston's only goal in the third period. He was matched by Bobby Plager's shot in the waning minutes of the game for Minnesota.

Help Canadian Football

Metras Likes Common Draft Suggestion

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — John Metras, who claims more graduates as professional football than any other Canadian university coach, said Wednesday universities in this country are "not interested in putting kids in pro leagues."

On that point, the coach of the University of Western Ontario Mustangs agreed with a statement Tuesday by Pat Mahoney, president of the Canadian Football League, But, Metras, who has spent 31 years in Canadian college football, took exception to Mahoney's suggestion that scholarships would be an answer to indifference toward the game.

"Our universities want to have as good football leagues as possible and we want to develop good football teams and talent," Metras said in an interview. "But our prime purpose is to develop men to help Canada grow, not football players to help the Canadian Football League grow."

LACK INTEREST

Mahoney told a University of Alberta (Calgary) Dinosaurs football banquet Tuesday that Canadian universities show an acute lack of interest in pro football by their indifference in promoting it among their players. He added that colleges in Canada do not particularly care how many of their players play professionally.

He suggested scholarships for Canadian universities.

Said Metras:

"It's not the lack of scholarships that is keeping football players away from university in Canada. It's lack of academic standing. I don't think (Mahoney) knows what goes on in Canadian universities. There is lots of money in the form of bursaries if the boy has academic ability. . . .

"I'd love to see the names of all the Canadian football players at American universities. I bet 30 per cent of them weren't able to get into Canadian universities."

FAVORS COMMON DRAFT

Metras said the number of Canadian boys going to American universities to play football would be cut down if the CFL would accept a common draft of all Canadian boys playing college football in Canada and the U.S.

This way, Canadian pro football teams, which direct Canadian boys to American universities and then claim them when they graduate, would not be so anxious to have them leave the country if they were likely to be drafted by another Canadian pro team, Metras said.

The Ontario-Quebec Athletic Association, he said, has suggested a common draft to the Canadian pros through the Canadian Intercollegiate Athletic Union.

"If they (the pros) took heed of our suggestion they'd be doing something to help the game."

Cardinals Outbid Bombers

WINNIPEG (CP)—Winnipeg Blue Bombers of the Western Football Conference are having problems keeping homebrew players at home — mainly because of the money.

St. Louis Cardinals of the National Football League have signed Gordon Brown, 23, of Winnipeg, a star end of Okla homa Sooners in the Big Eight Conference.

"We just couldn't match what the Cardinals offered him," Bomber coach Bud Grant said Wednesday.

Brown, attending Oklahoma University on an athletic scholarship, is reported to have received a $6,000 bonus for signing with the Cardinals.

Nationals Tie St. Louis 3-3 On Late Goals

WINNIPEG (CP)—Canada's national hockey team came up with a pair of third period goals to gain a 3-3 tie with St. Louis Braves of the Central Professional League in an exhibition hockey game Wednesday.

St. Louis went ahead 2-1 in the first period and added another in the second before the Nationals became untracked.

Cupit Boys Share Early Golf Lead

PALM BEACH GARDENS, Fla. (AP)—A pair of Texas brothers with hot putters and two other professionals fired nine-under-par 63s Wednesday and took the lead after the first round of the $125,000 PGA national four-ball championship.

Jacky Cupit, 27, of Dallas, and his brother, Buster, 28, of Longview, birdied seven holes to move into the tie.

The team of Paul Bondeson of Palm Springs, Calif., and Larry Mowry of Portland, Ore., collected seven birdies and an eagle in their 32-31-63 round over the same course.

Trailing by one stroke at 64 were Ross Coon Jr. of Newport, R.I., and Bob Crowley of Weston, Mass.

Six of the 107 two-man teams seeking $20,000 first - place money carded 65s.

TIE FOR HONORS

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Cardigan Bay and Race Time finished in a dead heat for Aged - Pacer - of - the - Year honors in an annual poll conducted by the U.S. Trotting Association. Results were announced Wednesday. Cardigan Bay, the nine-year-old gelding imported from New Zealand last year, and Race Time, Castleton Farm's four-year-old, each collected 33 votes.

REMOVE OLD POISON

VICTORIA (CP) — Enough poison for thousands of murders was turned over by the provincial museum to the public works department for disposal,it was a 75-pound sack of arsenic, formerly used in taxidermy.

A group of adults sitting around a fireplace one night last week started reminiscing about their school days. And it suddenly struck them that they had something in common.

They'd all been snooty, miserable teenagers.

One was an engineer, another a lawyer. Three were housewives with reputations as charming hostesses. It was probably as well adjusted a group as you would find anywhere.

But when they looked back honestly, the worst years of their lives were those between 13 and 20 — the "golden years" of popular songs and pocket novels.

"You could give me a hundred thousand dollars, but I still wouldn't want to live those years over again," said the engineer. "You never worry as much in your life again about being rejected by others."

We moved the year I turned 14," said one housewife. "I not only had to make new friends but had to take the adjustment into high school, a far bigger school than the one I'd known. It seemed immense."

"I'll never forget my first dance," said the lawyer. "My mother forced me to ask the daughter of a friend of hers to go to the school dance and I lay awake for several nights wondering how I could get out of it. I think the poor girl felt just as badly."

LONELINESS GREATEST FEAR

This conversation intrigued me so much that I set a small survey in motion. Several friends helped to ask 50 teenagers the question: "What do you fear most in your daily life?" All but two included one word: loneliness.

"Here's how a 15-year-old Winnipeg girl described it.

"I think the thing I'd hate worst would be to lose my friends. I know what it's like because my best girl friend whom I'd known ever since we started to school moved away last summer.

"All of a sudden I had nobody to phone me at nights. We used to be on the phone at least an hour every night, swapping stories that we heard, discussing boys at school or just plain talking.

"My father let me phone her once long distance but nearly hit the roof when I stayed on the line for 10 minutes. After that we wrote long letters. I've made new friends since the fall, but I know what it's like to be lonely."

Ten of those answering the question, all under 16, said the worst year of their lives so far was one in which they moved with their families.

A Calgary girl, also 15, felt the most strongly about it.

STICK IN ONE PLACE

"When I have a family of my own," she said, "I'm going to see to it that we stick in one place until the children are through their teens. Maybe there should be a law about it."

"The crazy thing is that most adults I know say they'd give anything to be my age again. If they only knew how miserable we can be."

I think it wouldn't be so bad if you moved just before school and had a readymade group of friends in your class. We moved just after the summer started and I arrived in Calgary not knowing anybody.

"You can't even imagine the feeling. All I could think about were the friends I'd left behind and I'd get a choked - up feeling every time I did. Finally two girls came up to me one day when I was walking to the store and asked whether I'd like to go swimming.

"I was so grateful to them that I almost cried on the spot. But I hope my children never have to go through a month or two of loneliness like that."

Finally, I took the results of our little poll to a friend who's a psychologist and asked him for his reaction.

"At no time in your life do you feel things as deeply and sensitively as you do in the years before you turn 20 or 21," he said. "It varies with the individual, but is true as a general rule."

"A lot of this explains the popularity of groups like the Beatles. Their fans see them as fellows who've rejected the rest of the world before it can reject them, young fellows completely free of their parents or other adult authority."

"Their kind of music is reassuring too, loud music that doesn't require a great deal of concentration but establishes a group mood easily. And it is music that the adult world does not share.

"They call the teen years the best years of anyone's life," he concluded. "From all the evidence I've seen that's true unless you're living them."

"So if any of your readers feel they're going through a miserable period, let them know they've got lots of company. It is something that once hit all MPs."

NASSAU FANS

Many thanks for all those who wrote after the column on George Symonette. I never dreamed that George, who plays and sings almost exclusively in Nassau, had so many fans up here.

And I can pass on one piece of news about George. He's planning to come to Canada for a brief tour in about a year. It could be you'll have a chance to see and hear him in person.

U.S. Wanted Il Duce Kept Out of War

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The United States urged the late Pope Pius XII to threaten Mussolini with excommunication in a last-minute effort to keep Italy out of the Second World War, it is disclosed in Vatican documents being made public.

The documents say U.S. Ambassador William C. Bullitt was told by Papal Nuncio Valeri in Paris that such an action would be ridiculous, however.

The session between the U.S. ambassador and the papal nuncio in May, 1940, only a month before Italy entered the war, was described as so stormy that at one point Bullitt jumped to his feet and threatened to walk out of the room.

The documents from the Vatican archives, published in a book called The Holy See and the War in Europe, also say France had suggested excommunication of Mussolini and even papal denunciation of Hitler.

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet news agency Tass charged Wednesday that evidence exists pointing to collusion between Roman Catholic leaders and the Nazis in the murder of 6,000,000 Jews during the Second World War.

The charge was part of a long article on the Roman Catholic Church in connection with the end of the Vatican ecumenical council.

"A great number of documents, published recently in different countries, points to an actual collusion between Catholic leaders and Nazis in the physical extermination of 6,000,000 Jews," the official Soviet news agency declared. It gave no examples.

PLEDGE MILLIONS

MONTREAL (CP) — Canadian companies have committed themselves to a total expenditure of $4,000,000 on participation in the 1967 Montreal world's fair, Commissioner - General Pierre Dupuy of Expo 67 said Wednesday. He told 178 delegates attending an Expo conference of Canadian business and industry that 863 companies are taking part in the fair, 70 of them on an individual basis.

Oil Pollution Killing Ducks Says Officer

KINGSTON (CP)—Oil pollution is killing waterfowl along the shore of Prince Edward County on Lake Ontario, conservation officers said Wednesday night.

George Warren, county conservation officer, reported finding 50 dead ducks and several seagulls and loons unable to fly because their feathers were matted by oil.

He and other officers were sent to the area Wednesday to investigate a hunter's report that he shot several birds covered with oil.

The pollution exists in the form of sheets of oil up to an acre in size, Mr. Warren said on the shore eastward from Smith Bay, 15 miles west of here, the officer reported.

Mr. Warren said there has been a marked increase in pollution during the last week, while several ocean-going freighters awaited passage through the St. Lawrence Seaway.

Movie Colony Getting Real Taste of Royalty

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The film colony is getting a taste of royalty this season—first, Princess Grace, Monaco, and Lord Snowdon; now, Princess Soraya.

The former wife of the Shah of Iran has been here to visit old friends—it's her sixth visit —and, incidentally, to stimulate her acting career. She made her debut in an Italian-made film, Three Faces of a Woman, which turned out to be a hard-earned education.

Does she really want to act?

"Yes, I am very serious about it," said Soraya. "I am looking very carefully for another script. I could do. I did not have very good luck with the first one, and I don't want to make the same mistake."

HIRES KURT FRINGS

Soraya has hired as agent the man who piloted Elizabeth Taylor's career, Kurt Frings. The princess' favorite star is Shirley MacLaine, though she doesn't necessarily mean to emulate her. "You can't copy anyone else's career."

Soraya now lives in Munich, where her father retired after his diplomatic service. He was Iranian ambassador to Rome.

She has not returned to Iran since her divorce by the shah after a childless marriage.

"I would like to go back," said Soraya. "I speak the first 12 years of my life there, and I have many pleasant memories. Perhaps I will return next year."

BOAT RUNS GAUNTLET

A British-built enclosed lifeboat has been tested in a fire burning at 1,000 degrees centigrade for six minutes.

Bundy Resigns As Johnson's Special Aid

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (AP) The White House announced Wednesday the resignation of McGeorge Bundy as President Johnson's special assistant for national security affairs. The future of the job was left cloudy.

Bundy, 46, will leave the White House staff Feb. 28 to become president of the Ford Foundation at a reported salary of $175,000 a year. His present salary is $28,500 a year.

Press secretary Bill D. Moyers, in announcing Bundy's forthcoming departure, said Johnson wrote Bundy a handwritten note accepting the resignation "with genuine regret."

Costumes, Sets Are Delight In Danny Thomas Special

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — Danny Thomas, in his first NBC television special of the season, returned to the scene of his happiest show biz haunt last year — a sweet, innocent, nostalgic place he insists was "the wonderful world of burlesque." But there wasn't much material to produce laughter.

Lucille Ball enjoyed climbing around in a leopard skin music as the native temptress in a spoof of White Cargo, but was wasted even when she was somersaulting around the rood of the theatre on wires.

Jerry Lewis wore a pair of false buck teeth in two pretty dull sketches and his liveliest moment came when he accidentally lost his uppers.

NBC's king-size western, The Virginian, currently rules the early evening Wednesday schedules. But some nights it seems there has to be a lot of padding to stretch a tired little story over 90 minutes.

It's hard to get through the program, the writers started with the murder of a woman, tossed in another killing, and, at one point, sent the hero off on a picnic with the girl to take up some more slack.

The plot could have been wrapped up neatly in a fast-moving half hour.

It was a big night for Sheldon Leonard, actor, and executive producer of NBC's I Spy.

First, he appeared as a comedy candy butcher in Thomas's special. Then, he turned up as a villain in the next show, I Spy.

Recommended tonight:

A Charlie Brown Christmas, CBS, 7:30-8:30 EST, special holiday program based on the cartoon characters of Charles Schulz.

Complete Plans For Santa Claus Parade

CAMPBELLFORD — Final arrangements are being made to hold the Santa Claus parade in Campbellford on Saturday, December 11. This is the 15th parade in Campbellford. It first one held under the chairmanship of F. M. Rutherford, at that time councillor in the municipal council of which Ernest Aythart was mayor.

The pattern originated at that time has been followed in the years since, and the annual affair is looked forward to each year.

A goodly number of bands are participating as well as floats from outside areas and local efforts. For an afternoon of fun it is hoped a large crowd will see the Campbellford parade.

Seymour Twp. Council Choice Is Altered

CAMPBELLFORD — Seymour township returning officer Gilbert Stephens found an error in tabulating the results of Monday's election, making a change in the choice of councillors.

On Tuesday, Mr. Stephens discovered that a deputy returning officer in polling division No. 8 in the Community hall at Trent River, had in error transposed figures for Councillors James Gaucher and Maurice Brunton. First returns from the polling subdivision gave Mr. Brunton 75 votes and James Gaucher 61. The figures were transposed and when corrected gave James Gaucher 75 and Maurice Brunton 61.

The previously reported total Brunton 436 and Gaucher 428 when corrected were changed to Gaucher 440 votes and Brunton 422.

MORE .....ran din

Of the three councillors to be elected two newcomers, Alex Rutherford and Neil McCulloch, received the higher number of votes, leaving the third seat in council to two of the incumbents, either Brunton or Gaucher. When the results were finally declared James Gaucher was the third member of council and after experiencing a temporary success Brunton found himself in fourth place in the race for three council seats.

BOY SCOUT ACTIVITIES

MOIRA VALLEY EXECUTIVE COUNCIL

MADOC — The December meeting of the Moira Valley Council was held at the residence of Dr. George Mullin, secretary of the council, on Tuesday, December 7th.

Those present were the DC, Joe Irish and his wife, DCM Pearl Irish; ADC Gordon Russell; DSM Ernest Harvey and President Rev. H. Thompson. Also attending this meeting were the chairman and treasurer of the Madoc Group committee. Rev. David Potter and Mr. Ed Hyde along with their two leaders, CM Ed Hill and SM Tony Owen.

In the president's opening report, he spoke at length on the Regional Conference held in Bowmanville last Saturday in which the county and District Commissioners also attended. At this conference the report of the district's yearly activities were presented. Much information was given on the new Rite master and Program. A film entitled "The Real Security" was shown to inform those present of the kind of world we lived in. Scouting must have a new appeal to attract the modern Buckstahl. An address upon one's morals and things done in the past can be used again in the future.

DISCUSSION PERIOD

Discussion took place concerning new meeting nights and more parents taking an active interest in the movement and training for Boys. Good leaders could always take more training.

Courses were planned for each district to take place next year for Cub and Scout leaders. Responsible persons to be informed of the various training dates coming up.

The Investiture ceremony will be held on a district level so that many local people can take an important event in the life of a Scout.

Coming events for 1966, included the Barn Dance Variety Meet, held this year in British Columbia. A Jamboree will be held in Reykjavik, Iceland, in July and another in Japan in August. The 50th anniversary of the Wolf Cub movement will be observed throughout Canada and districts are called upon to remember this milestone in the movement. It was recorded that both the radio and press were always glad to receive news on the movement. Publicity is still a good advertisement for Scouting.

VARIOUS REPORTS

The secretary presented his monthly report, which was accepted. District Commissioners gave their reports and visits to various groups throughout the area. DC Irish presented registration cards to each person.

In the business, letters and discussion took place on Scouting with the handicapped, the draft agreement re Les Scouts Catholique, the report of the Regional Commissioner, winter programming, good deeds and necessity to report monthly badge progress to the District Commissioner.

Madoc group committee chairman, Harry Pollard, reported on the lack of support re committee members and for the urgent need for more leaders for the large pack of boys who meet every week.

A pot luck supper banquet will be held after Easter to appoint a new committee with the hope that new parents will show a little more interest in the training and needs of this community youth work. In the meantime, the present committee will hold its meetings on the second Wednesday of each month, inviting four leaders to assist in the council.

Light refreshments were served by the hostess.

FOUND BY AMATEURS

The Kodachrome color photography process was discovered by two American musicians who experimented in their hotel rooms while on tour.

Retired Supervising Assessor, Income Tax Department.

ASSETS PURCHASED IN WIFE'S NAME

Many taxpayers have the erroneous idea, that if they transfer revenue producing assets to their wife or purchase stocks and bonds in their wife's name, she will be the one responsible for the income tax on such investment income.

This is not correct as Section 20 of the Income Tax Act, states that the husband must report on the income on any asset he transferred to his wife or purchased in her name, as long as he lives or she remains his wife, and he remains in Canada.

A taxpayer who operates a business or is in a profession is not permitted to include in his expenses any salary or wages he pays to his wife. On the other hand the wife receiving income in the form of salary or wages does not have to file a return, if this was her only source of income. The taxpayer is allowed to claim as expenses the wages paid to a son or daughter.

If the taxpayer is one of two partners who operate a business on an equal share basis and the taxpayer's wife is employed by the partnership, then she must report one half of her salary, and the other half must be added to the husband's income. This is done when the wife's 1/2 of the salary s charged as an expense against the partnership.

If a husband and wife operate a business as partners and the wife has no personal capital invested in the business, then the entire income from such partnership is deemed to be taxable in the husband's hands. To divide the profits between them the wife must have had capital in the business, received from other sources than her husband.

For a personal reply, enclose a self-addressed, five cent stamped envelope, plus 25 cents for each question.

Question 1: My wife and I operate a small variety store, and we have no outside help as we run it ourselves. The business is in my name. Can I deduct the money my wife takes from the business as an expense?

Answer: NO.

Question 2: I purchase bonds on a payroll deduction plan and have them in my wife's name. I was told I had to report the interest received from the bonds on my income tax return. Is this correct?

Answer: Yes.

THANK YOU

I want to express my thanks to everyone who helped elect me to the Council of Thurlow Township. To the electors who voted for me, to the many fine people who worked for me, goes my sincere appreciation. May I wish you a Happy Holiday Season.

Crippled Ship Heads For Port After Pounding

LONDON (AP)—The crippled Greek freighter Costantis was reported heading under her own power today for a rendezvous with a tugboat after a night of drifting awash in stormy seas.

Rescuers found the body of one of three crew members who went overboard when gale-driven 40-foot waves battered the ship about 300 miles southwest of Ireland. Another crew member was picked up alive, the third is missing.

The 7,200 - ton freighter, escorted by three ships, was expected to make for Falmouth, England, after the rendezvous. She was believed to have 29 men still aboard.

The Queen Mary, with 1,000 passengers aboard, apparently resumed her voyage to New York after changing course and going to the scene to stanc by the Greek ship.

The freighter was expected to meet the tugs Atlantic and Utredt some time today.

The 81,000-ton Queen Mary, with 1,000 New York-bound passengers, changed course Thursday night and went to the scene after the Costantis radioed for help. The huge liner circled the stricken freighter for three hours with her searchlights illuminating the scene.

SWINGS BOATS

The Mary's lifeboats were swung out and scramble nets were draped down her sides. But her captain radioed London: "Consider any attempt to abandon ship in present conditions would be suicide."

After the British freighter Surrey Trader and the Swedish ship Store Vultkan arrived, the Queen resumed her course for New York. Then the Costantis line said the liner returned to the Costantis in response to an urgent appeal from the freighter captain.

One report said the Greek ship called for help after water entered a hold too fast for the pumps to handle it. There was no indication what started the trouble.

The freighter's lifeboats were reported smashed. She was lying stern down with her hatches open, drifting in a northwest wind.

The Costantis was reported on a voyage from Bremen, Germany, to a port in the United States.

Minister Should Resign

-- Diefenbaker

By STEWART MacLEOD

OTTAWA (CP) — Conservative Leader Diefenbaker said Thursday that if election irregularities are proved in Hes-de-la-Madeleine, Forestry Minister Sauve should resign from the cabinet.

Meanwhile, said Mr. Diefenbaker "two or three other ridings are receiving attention." He said one of the ridings is Shefford, in Quebec, where a Liberal candidate won when the service vote came in. He did not identify the others.

Mr. Diefenbaker said a press conference—on the eve of his departure for a 10-day cruise in Caribbean waters. What he would expect Mr. Sauve to make an examination of all the statements made about alleged irregularities in the Nov. 8 general election. And if the statements were substantiated, Mr. Sauve, "in the interests of good government, should resign."

Judge J. E. Dugray of Grindstone, Que., has said that Mr. Sauve telephoned him on election day to protest the release of two men from jail to vote. They had earlier been charged with threatening a Liberal. There were also allegations that some road foremen had been laid off because they voted Conservative.

Mr. Diefenbaker, commenting

Begin Bargaining On Arrangements For Sharing Taxes

OTTAWA (CP) — Working from a comprehensive report on estimated future revenues and spending, the federal and provincial governments today begin the opening rounds of bargaining that next year will result in a probable re-writing of tax-sharing agreements.

They will discuss a background report of the tax structure committee set up at a federal - provincial conference in the spring of 1964.

The end result of the bargaining will determine how well both levels of government are able to meet their responsibilities for economic development and increased education costs.

Acting Finance Minister Sharp is chairman. Premiers Jean Lesage of Quebec, Duff Roblin of Manitoba and W. A. C. Bennett of British Columbia are representing their provinces, and finance ministers or treasurers the others.

Their conference began Thursday with Mr. Sharp forecasting continued economic growth next year, but expressing concern at inflationary trends. A communique said his view was concurred by the provinces.

"A good deal of concern was expressed about this," Mr. Sharp said after the meeting.

The economic review was part of confidential pre-budget discussions started last year by former Finance Minister Walter Gordon.

They are intended to help all governments prepare their budgets with some indication of the factors that might influence decisions by the others.

Mr. Sharp said continued expansion depends on more productivity which in turn depends upon how much the labor force produces.

Although this meant that further capital investment was needed, he saw no need to adopt new incentives to manufacturing industries.

Mr. Sharp said none of the governments expressed fear that there might be a lack of capital available in the United States as a result of U.S. restrictions on investment in foreign countries.

While there is always only so much money available, "there is no need to think there will be any gap unfilled," he said.

Mr. Sharp said control of construction programs is a major weapon to control inflation and the governments had discussed ways to harmonize efforts in this area.

Mr. Lesage said any curb on construction would not result in restrictions at Expo 67 or in related developments in undeveloped areas.

"The thing we have to do is avoid disorderly growth by sudden leaps, and any other further sudden increase in prices and wages."

Mr. Roblin said it is important the federal government have "sufficient leverage" to develop policies to support all regions.

Mr. Bennett called on the federal government to announce its policy on aid to universities in line with the Bladen report which recommended increased grants for university construction. He also asked that mental and tuberculosis cases be included in hospital insurance.

Informants said Mr. Sharp reiterated Prime Minister Pearson's recent statements that a federal-provincial conference is planned for early next year to determine how the federal government can best contribute to education.

Exhaust Peace Efforts Ere 'Other Hard Steps' In Viet Nam Says LBJ

WASHINGTON (CP-AP) — President Johnson says he will exhaust every peace effort "before other hard steps are taken" in the Viet Nam conflict.

A few hours after Britain sought Russia's support for an international appeal to North Viet Nam for peace talks as soon as possible, Johnson defended the United States role in Viet Nam in a telephone speech Thursday from his Texas ranch to the AFL-CIO convention in San Francisco.

Both Russia and North Viet Nam, however, again blamed the United States for expanding the war. (U.S. planes Thursday subjected North Viet Nam to the heaviest bombing attacks since the raids started 10 months ago.)

State Secretary Rusk said at a Washington press conference that China has been giving substantial assistance to North Viet Nam and if there is to be a U.S.-Chinese "confrontation" it is a problem which the Chinese themselves must face.

The president:

"We are going to meet our commitments" in Viet Nam.

Johnson said:

President Johnson did not specify what the "other hard steps" will be when he said:, "I am sure this week we will exhaust our efforts for peace in detail. Our efforts to communicate our desire for peace have been met with silence from some, with propaganda from others, but the entire question of our interests to meet without conditions, has responded to a full-scale move in Peking—remains completely negative."

The president's words appeared only referred to two British peace appeals in the last week. The U.S. efforts through diplomatic channels to bring the Vietnamese war from the battlefield to the conference table — in the last few days, Johnson said, "I have reviewed with top advisers the situation in Viet Nam. We are carefully studying how we can best continue in time back that aggression. We are all determined to do all that is necessary."

He added:

"At the same time, we are equally determined that every prospect for peace be exhausted before other hard steps are taken."

EXPLAINS STAND

Johnson said the United States is in Viet Nam "because for all our shortcomings, for all our failings as a people, the people, we remain fixed on the pursuit of freedom as a deep moral obligation that will not let us go."

Noting that "nothing, perhaps appears so contradictory to the cause we serve as the use of force to obtain it" the president added that "unchecked aggression against free and helpless peoples can be a grave threat to our own freedom—and an offence to our own conscience."

Rusk in his Washington press conference reaffirmed U.S. support for British peace proposals, saying the Russians knew if a conference were called "there would be pressure to be prepared to work diligently

Cannot Treat Smith As Rhodesian Leader Wilson Tells House

LONDON (Reuters) — Prime Minister Wilson told Parliament today Britain is prepared to discuss any proposal to solve the Rhodesian crisis made by Ian Smith as a private individual but not as a head of an illegal regime.

He said the British government could not deal with Smith except through the governor, Sir Humphrey Gibbs.

Gibbs, who dismissed Smith and his cabinet after the Rhodesian regime seized independence Nov. 11, is not recognized by the Salisbury authorities.

"We cannot engage with these men nor can they be trusted for the return to constitutional rule with the task of leading Rhodesia along the paths of freedom and racial harmony," Wilson said.

"Mr. Smith has ill in his power to end the hardships his illegal actions have brought to his country.

"He can do this through the governor, but he, cannot dictate terms to the governor, nor can he be treated as a leader of the Rhodesian people."

Smith, like any other private person in Rhodesia, was free to make representations to the governor, Wilson said.

"If the governor, in his discretion, forwards any such submission to Her Majesty's government, " will be considered," the prime minister told the Commons.

When Smith's regime indicated to Gibbs "their acceptance of the lead for a return to constitutional methods," The British government would be glad to welcome those assurances, particularly any proposals for dealing with the mechanics of returning to constitutional law, he noted.

Civil Servants May Strike Over Pensions Integration

TORONTO (CP) — Government opposition on integrating the Canada Pension Plan with municipal schemes could result in a one- or two-day strike of civil servants across the province, union leaders warned Thursday.

Following a statement by Municipal Affairs Minister Wilfred Spooner that "there shall be integration," Harold Wrightman, business agent of Local 79 of the Canadian Union of Public Employees (CLC), said:

"If I had my way CUPE people would call a one- or two-hour strike of public employees. I'm sick and tired of having bargaining rights legislated away."

He said a general strike would be the only way to demonstrate to a government, grown dictatorial because of years in power, that it has gone too far.

Grace Hartman, president of the Ontario branch of CUPE, said she didn't "altogether disagree" with Mr. Wrightman's strike proposal.

General strikes are being talked about in many locals because the provincial cabinet of the general whittling away of collective bargaining rights, she said.

In a press conference Thursday, Mr. Spooner said there would be no choice between integration and the "stacking" system favored by some municipalities.

"I have no choice," he said of the municipalities. "It is the government's decision that there shall be integration."

Mr. Spooner's statement was in apparent conflict with an earlier statement Thursday by Premier Robarts, who said that as far as he knew municipalities who operate pension plans outside the provincial scheme would be free to "stack" the Canadian Pension Plan as they saw fit.

However, after the premier and his minister discussed their different views, Mr. Spooner again repeated his position without change.

He said the government would bring out legislation in due course if necessary to force integration of provincial plans with the federal scheme which takes effect Jan. 1.

The unions argue they should be permitted to negotiate any alterations in existing pensions plans.

The government's policy hinges on the provincially-run Ontario municipal employees retirement system, a pension plan introduced in 1964 that now covers about 23,000 municipal employees. A further 17,000 employees, mainly in Ottawa, Hamilton and Metropolitan Toronto, are still covered by separate schemes operated outside OMERS.

John Osler, CUPE lawyer, said injunctions will be sought against any municipality which votes for integration.

Meanwhile, a writ was filed Thursday on behalf of 8,000 employees of Ontario Hydro to prevent integration of their pension plan with a national plan.

On Wednesday, Toronto city council voted to approve "stacking." Mayor Philip Givens said Thursday the city believed it had a choice.

"It appears now that we don't," he said, adding that the hasting now is between the unions and the province. Municipalities are creatures of the province and must do as they are told, he said.

APPOINTMENT LIKELY

MONTREAL (CP) — J. A. Robert, director of the Quebec provincial police, said Thursday if it is "quite likely" the QPP will appoint a liaison officer with the Ontario provincial police force in Toronto. He said the possibility of such an appointment is being studied in the context of moves to streamline co-operation between the two forces and to cut time and red tape.

Forces Feeling Pinch

By DAVE McINTOSH

OTTAWA (CP) — The armed forces are beginning to feel the manpower pinch.

Informed sources say the defence department's planned reduction in military personnel has accidentally got out of hand to the extent that the forces' combat effectiveness is being damaged.

Officials attribute this accident to a booming economy and say the problem of skilled manpower in the country as a whole is accurately reflected in the armed forces.

Commercial airlines, for instance, have raided the RCAF for pilots, with a good deal of success. Some infantry battalions are below strength. There is a possibility that some destroyer operations will be curtailed because of a shortage of experienced crews.

So serious has the situation become that Air Vice-Marshal Edwin Rehoo, deputy chief of personnel at defence headquarters here, has been sent across the country to try to persuade more servicemen to re-enlist as their terms expire.

DRIVER QUITS

Defence Minister Hellyer's driver has quit the RCAP to take a higher-paying job as a chauffeur in civvy street.

Mr. Hellyer attained 10 months ahead of schedule his target of reducing the numerical strength of the armed forces by 10,000 to 110,000 men.

Officials said the strength was supposed to level out at this number but that it is still falling rapidly and may be down to 107,000 by next summer.

Lt.-Gen. Frank Fleury, comptroller - general of the armed forces, said recently:

"One reason recruiting has been poor is the high level of employment. . . . I don't think we have ever seen an employment situation such as we have now.

AREN'T ATTRACTIVE

"There is no doubt whatever that in the present state of the (manpower) market, the pay and career prospects of a regular are not likely to look attractive to a young man of 17 or 18 years of age in comparison with what he can get on civvy street."

Astronomer Calls Flashing Light Across Sky a Fire-ball

PITTSBURGH (AP)—A brilliant light flashed across the sky late Thursday, raining burning bits of matter across several mid-western states and southwestern Ontario.

"It undoubtedly was a fireball," said Dr. William P. Bidelman, an astronomer at the University of Michigan.

A spokesman at the U.S. defence department said first reports indicate it was a natural phenomenon. All aircraft, missiles and the like are accounted for, he said.

Fireballs are bits of stone or metal that rain from the sky at all times of the year, Dr. Bidelman said. A fireball is a brilliant meteor. Any piece or fragment that survives the flight and impact is called a meteorite.

Whatever it was, it attracted a lot of attention. Persons in Pennsylvania, Ohio, Michigan, Indiana, and parts of Ontario said they saw brilliant flashes of light blazing across the sky at dusk. Some reported they saw fiery objects plunge to earth.

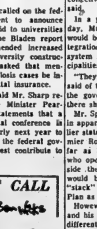
In Ontario, sightings were reported as far north as Barrie and as far east as London, Ont. A sighting was also reported at Sault Ste. Marie, Mich.

Police began receiving reports of small fires in widely separated areas. Fires were put out and, extensive searches were made, but there were no reports of significant findings.

Near the village of Kecksburg in Southern Pennsylvania, volunteer fireman Roy Howard said he saw several blue flashes "like an acetylene torch" close to the ground.

Other persons said they saw the flashes.

State troopers and air force personnel tramped through the area for hours with geiger counters. They said they found nothing and called off the search.



At Elyria 20 miles west of Cleveland, Ohio, firemen said they found 10 small grass fires burning in a small area, and they quickly put them out with garden hoses.

Mrs. Ralph Richards, who lives nearby, said she saw a fiery object the size of a volleyball fall among some trees just before the fires broke out.

The U.S. Coast Guard in Detroit got a report of an airplane down in the Detroit river that sometimes Detroit and Windsor. Boats searched and found nothing.

Just south of Lapeer, Mich., deputies checked reports that an unidentified object fell into a field.

Sheriff Kenneth A. Parks of Lapeer County said his men found some pieces of shiny metallic foil, each four to six inches long and about a quarter inch wide. But he said similar material was found in the same area about two years ago.

"How many does that leave?"

Space Craft in Perfect Orbit, Systems Click With Precision

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—With instructions from James Lovell's 12-year-old daughter in hurry home for Christmas, the Gemini 7 astronauts sailed through their sixth day in space today while Gemini 6 was moving prepared to blast off in pursuit Sunday.

Lovell and his space partner, Frank Borman, remained in excellent spirits and physical condition as their cramped spacecraft soared on well past the 2,000,000 - mile mark of their planned 14-day journey.

All Gemini 7 systems clicked continued to perform better than any previous manned ship or, billed by the United States.

Gemini 7 entered its 85th orbit at 4:40 a.m. EST.

Space agency officials decided Thursday that Gemini 6 preparations were proceeding so smoothly at Cape Kennedy that navy Capt. Walter M. Schirra could fly the craft as early as Dec. 15. Schirra and Stafford are to take off at 9:54 a.m. EST to begin trackdown of Gemini 7. Gemini 6 will start out about 1 200 miles behind Gemini 7 and through a series of orbit-building manoeuvres will gradually close the gap over a 103,000-mile course.

A perfect flight would bring the two vehicles within a few feet of each other about 3½ hours after Gemini 6 launching.

To prepare for the visit from Gemini 6, Command Pilot Borman Thursday fired jet thrusters to shift Gemini 7 into a new perfect orbit in which both high and low points were almost precisely 185 miles above the earth. This is the desirable path for the rendezvous attempt.

At Cape Kennedy, Schirra and Stafford easily passed a five-hour physical examination Thursday. Checks on their Titan II rocket and spacecraft continued without a hitch and the astronauts planned a simulated rendezvous flight Saturday.

Health Unit for County And City Is Approved in Principle on Record Vote

Nobody Blamed For Two Deaths In Police Chase

BLIND RIVER, Ont. (CP)— A coroner's jury Thursday night attached no blame and made no recommendations in the deaths of two teen-aged boys killed Nov. 5 during a highway police chase near Spanish.

The five-man jury said Gerald Alfred Berube, 17, was killed when he was struck either by a provincial police cruiser driven by Constable Grant McPhail of the Spanish detachment, or by a car driven by Peter Zarichny, also of Spanish, or both.

It said Gerald Turnell, 15, also killed when he was struck by Constable McPhail's cruiser.

Evidence showed the boys were walking east in the westbound lane of Highway 17 about four miles east of Spanish at 3 p.m. when they were struck from behind by the cruiser.

It will possibly be a year before the unit is brought into operation, but formation of a county health unit is contingent with the city of Belleville was approved in principle yesterday by Hastings county council.

The vote 22 to 11, was one of the rare recorded votes taken in the county council body.

Approving formation of the county health unit were T. Armstrong, Fred Beckett, Clayton Brooks, Thomas Burnside, J. Bush, C. Caldwell, D. Card, S. A. Carr, Ed Cunningham, G. S. Deroche, Thomas Burnside, A. Ketcheson, C. Long, G. McLarney, Don Rodgers, C. McKinray, V. McMurray, Ray Moran, Wm. Shannon and Calvin White.

Opposing were R. C. Graham, Delbert Harvey, Burton Morton, Wm. O'Brien, F. Peever, C. Thompson, J. Wilkes, M. Irwin, Ernest Kells, Wm. McCrea, and G. Hughes.

VISITED MANY UNITS

The vote on the county health unit was delayed until Thursday following the report earlier in the session of a special committee.

The committee, headed by Thurlow Reeve Clayton Hall visited several county health units in the province and recommended formation of a Hastings unit on completion with the City of Belleville.

Currently the city is operating a health unit with only a part time Medical officer of Health but costs are not subsidized by the province. The city is reported anxious to enter a health unit with the county.

There was little discussion Thursday prior to taking of the health unit vote.

Reeve Lew McMurray wanted to know whether the county or the city would be the administrative body and what county representation there would be in the organization.

He was told that there would be a joint county city board, but that the county would be the administrative body.

"It would be the end of next year before the unit would be operating," Reeve Hall told council. "We want to go slow and takes lots of time deciding on personnel before the unit is put into operation," he said.

Mrs. Lottie Brooks, Brighton, Dies in Hospital After Crash

TRENTON — A former Trenton woman, Mrs. Herbert (Lottie) Brooks, died in Trenton hospital Thursday afternoon around 2:45 p.m., after the car she was driving on Highway 2 was struck in the day had been in a collision with a light truck driven by 72-year-old Charles Anderson of R. R. 2 Carrying Place. A team of doctors and nurses worked in vain to save the woman's life after she was brought to the hospital around 10 a.m. Blood was brought in from Toronto for transfusions.

Mr. Anderson a well-known nurseryman, suffered a broken leg in the accident, and his 15-year-old son Peter was treated at the hospital and permitted to return home.

Mrs. Brooks, who was the former Lottie Green of Trenton, had worked in the Trenton Memorial Library for several years. Her husband, a chartered accountant, Mrs. Brooks and two teen - aged children, Brian and Linda, moved to 14 Lakeview Heights, Brighton, a few months ago.

Mrs. Brooks is also survived by two other children, Ian of Kingston and Brenda, (Mrs. Philip Watson) of Mount Hope.

Sgt. John McKendry of the OPP detachment at Brighton assisted by Constable R. Deck investigated the accident.

The Anderson truck was ditched on the west side of the highway, 200 yards Gilbourne Restaurant, and Mrs. Brooks' car came to rest after the collision in the east bound lane.

Mrs. Brooks' body is resting at the Weaver Funeral Home in Trenton. Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

Receive Cost Estimates For New Bridge at Trenton

TRENTON — Trenton council met last night in one of the last sessions for the year. Among other things the council passed a resolution by the terms of which each councillor was paid his annual stipend of $1,000. (The mayor receives $2,000, in monthly instalments.)

Council also passed a by-law to lay cost estimate proposals, prepared by engineers, for the total cost of the new bridge before the Minister of Highways. Tenders for the job, costing around a million, will be opened by the H.O. officials on December 22. Since the details of the bridge is expected to pay 75 per cent of the construction costs for the bridge itself, council's cost estimates will be compared with contractors' estimates before departmental approval is forthcoming.

Council learned last night that the Department of Transport would not approve a counter-by-law enforcing the posted 15-ton limit on the old bridge. The department letter said that the 15-ton limit had been imposed when the bridge had wooden decking. Now, the paving portion has steel mesh decking, and is able to support "highway loading."

But what exactly is "highway loading" in tonnage, Councillor Ross Burtt wanted to know. He suggested that the department be asked to state one paper what tonnage the bridge would support.

At least keep that letter on file in case something falls down through it sometime," agreed Councillor Jim Gould.

The department will be asked to "commit" itself and the "highway loading" limit will replace the present 15-ton limit notice.

MUST DEFEND SPORTS

The "people" having voted in Sunday sports, council now finds itself with a "tiger by the tail."

By the Lord's Day Act, a by-law must be passed defining what sports are to be permitted, and in what areas they may be played.

"Where do we draw the line?" asked Councillor Edward Todd. "How about snooker? Isn't that just as important to some people as hockey or baseball? What about bowling and other sports."

Leave it wide open," suggested Councillor Paul Ferris.

At a short council meeting between Christmas and New Year's council will pass the necessary by-law.

Councillor Todd read a report for November by Fire Chief Cecil Ellis and thanked the members of the protection services and property committee (of which he was the chairman) for their co-operation during the past year.

Councillor Todd reported that the fire hall was kept in good shape by the fire department (in spite of the age of the building), but he said all was not well in the marekt building. Uninsulated hot water pipes in the rear room of the building keep this room "boiling hot," said the councillor, while in the police quarters at the front of the building, "everyone's freezing."

An investigation of the market building will be made and recommendations made to the 1966 council regarding the heating problem. This year's council will pay for the painting of the two cell blocks.

PARKING RESTRICTIONS

Councillor C. V. Graham relayed word on parking restrictions from the traffic committee, of which he is chairman and both signed by council. Effective, no parking will be permitted on the south side of Hawley Street from King Street to Ontario Street; (2) no parking on the south side of Dundas Street East, between Sidney Street and Byron Streets, will be restricted to one hour in the period from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m., Monday to Saturday, to keep traffic "on the move."

Councillor Joseph Gould, bowling enthusiast, himself, thanked the members of 1964-65 councils for their co-operation and made a recommendation that all parking meters in the town be overhauled. He also suggested that a log system for each meter be instituted, so that a check may be kept on when each needs cleaning and servicing. Another suggestion was that the subsidy to the police department, for parking purposes, be discontinued, and the money used for keeping the meters in repair. Many of the meters are now worked by the councillor, and needed replacing.

Clerk Comptroller O. W. Larry told the council that deputy re-turning officers and poll clerks who worked in this year's municipal election would have to be paid "the minimum wage" for the 12-hour day worked by some and 14 hours by others. However, he said council might run into trouble if it tried to pay a straight $1 and hour, and suggested that DROs be paid $18 and poll clerks $12 . . . and the free lunches provided by the latter be considered as part of the minimum wage regulations.

Boxing Day, Monday, Dec. 27, was proclaimed by council as a public holiday. The town office staff will be off duty Friday, Dec. 24, to Monday.

Council voted to enter into a legal agreement with Jack Zigman local scrap and metal dealer, for the operation of the landfill area for 1966.

Mr. Zigman salvages scrap from the landfill area.

Town engineer Eric Aldersey reported on a recent municipal engineers' conference on the legal aspects of municipal engineering, from which he said he had returned "better equipped to help keep the town out of legal entanglements."

Man Arrested Working Under Assumed Name

BROCKVILLE (CP)—Police said Thursday that Hans Schouls, 37, of Brockville was arrested Wednesday night in Vancouver and charged with theft after disappearing from his wife and four children here March 20, 1964.

Police said Schouls, former organist and choirmaster at Bethel Christian Reformed Church here, was charged in connection with the theft of $1,000 from Ault Dairy Products Ltd. here where he had been employed as an accountant in 1964.

Police also said Schouls had been living in Vancouver for one year, working in a linen factory under the name Harvey Slater.

Schouls' car was found abandoned in Kingston April 1, 1964, and police then said they feared he had met with foul play.

Belleville Student Fined and Suspended By Teachers' College

PETERBOROUGH (CP) — Three Peterborough Teachers' College students were suspended for one month Thursday after they were convicted on a theft charge and fined $25 each.

Police said Michael John Millan, 24, and Winston Goodall, 21, both of Kingston, Ont., and Richard Day, 21, of Belleville, stole ashtrays, beer glasses, salt shakers and a chair from two city hotels.

Many Letters Handled at Post Office

TRENTON — Gordon Hanna, the manager at the Trenton Post Office says his staff has handled more than 60,000 letters and cards since Christmas mail deadlines were announced. No count has been kept of the number of parcels handled.

The last mailing date, with guaranteed delivery, for provinces outside Ontario is December 13 and all local mail should be in the office by December 17, Mr. Hanna says.

Since many parcels and other mail is being put in the post office wrongly addressed, Mr. Hanna asked mailers to address their mail legibly and to include a return address on the outside, so that if it is undeliverable it can be returned.

INVESTIGATING THEFT

Plainclothesman Sidney Vickers of the Trenton police force is investigating the theft of a television set from the Yolles Furniture Store on Dundas Street.

The set, valued at $125, disappeared from the store sometime between Tuesday and early yesterday morning.

As there was no break in at the store, police suspect a "customer" walked out of the store with the TV during shopping hours.

NO RUSH

William Hoole Jr., at House and House Hardware, local distributors for vehicle licence plates, says there has been no rush on locally issued 1966 plates for passenger cars, station wagons and motorcycles since they arrived on sale, December 6. Expiry date for 1965 plates is February 28.

The 1966 plates have blue lettering on a white back ground, and prices are unchanged from last year.

Licences for commercial vehicles and trailers go on sale March 1 and the expiry date for 1965 plates for these is March 31.

Despite Plan for New Bridge, Frankford Wants To Retain the Old One

The Ontario Department of Highways is planning a new bridge over the Trent River just south of Frankford, but residents of that village still want the present bridge to remain.

Frankford reeve Ray Morran, told county councillors yesterday that the highways department had intimated that when the new bridge is constructed the present structure would be taken out.

But he said this would cut Frankford in two and would leave no access to the Frankford village park."

He said the highways department should return the old bridge to the county "in good shape."

Warden Fred Beckett and deputy reeve Jack Bush of Sidney also hoped that the old bridge would remain in place.

Stirling reeve Don Rodgers took the same stand. "We just can't re-locate a road and ruin a village," he said.

WOULD BY-PASS VILLAGE

The proposed highway bridge would cut diagonally across the Trent River just south of Frankford and in effect would by-pass the main section of the village.

Discussion on the Frankford bridge took place following the report of the county roads and bridges committee given by committee chairman Ernest Kells.

The report, listing both current and proposed work on county roads, brought a complaint from Marmora township reeve, John Wilkes, who said he could see no reference in the report to roads in his township.

"You would think that Marmora was not in the county roads system at all, it's disgusting," he said.

Mr. Wilkes said the standard of the Corbyville Road north of Marmora village should be upgraded and asked if the county needs study would include this artery.

ADMITS ROAD BAD

County road foreman Andrew Anderson said the Cordova road was included in the needs study and was shown to be critically deficient. He said the road was scheduled for development road funds.

Reeve Kells said the road would be up for discussion by the roads committee before the end of the year.

Reeve William Shannon of Marmora village also had criticism of the Cordova Road stating that it was disturbing to note that the Peterborough section of the road was up to good standard.

The road report said the approaches to the new Stoco bridge were now completed with the exception of the hard surface to be laid next year.

Construction was also in progress on the Waddingham bridge near Lonsdale with expectation that it would be open for traffic before the end of the year.

PROGRESSING

Also the new James Street bridge in Stirling was well underway and it also was expected to be open for traffic before the end of the year although some of the completion work would have to be delayed until next year.

The boundary bridge south of Actinolite had been strengthened to allow passage of heavy trucks; the cost of the work amounting to about $4,500 to be recovered through the Ontario Department of Agriculture as an ARDA project.

Tenders for the re-grading of another 2.59 miles of the Glen Miller development road south of Frankford on the east side of the Trent River will be called next spring with plans for paving of both north and south sections next fall.

STUDY COMPLETED

The county roads needs study has now been completed by consultants C. C. Parker and Associates and it is hoped the finished report can be ready for presentation to council at the January session of council.

Reeve Don Rodgers questioned the validity of the county road system claiming that there appeared to be some overlapping among the three roads systems — municipal, county and highways department — with the county system in the middle.

He felt that villages in some instances were being penalized as the county roads system and cited the example of his own village which in the past five years had paid about $50,000 to the county for roads while only $12,000 had been spent by the county on the one mile of road in the village.

EASY TO CRITICIZE

Reeve Shannon of Marmora village echoed the same ratio of costs pertained to his village. He admitted, however, that it was easy to criticize.

Warden Fred Beckett replied that the county roads system had been greatly upgraded in recent years. One of the big benefits of the county roads system was that they brought business into the villages, he said.

Tyendinaga Reeve Charles Long said the county roads committee when planning road work had to look at the whole county picture. He felt the county engineering department could be of great assistance to the municipalities in helping to educate by municipal road men to better higher standards.

Clarke T. Rollins, M.A. for Hastings East, stressed the importance of the municipalities in co-operating and helping to maintain the county roads system.

APPOINTMENTS NAMED

At the conclusion of the session appointments for 1966 were made to the various county high school boards.

The appointments were as follows: Bay of Quinte District, Alfred Wickett; Belleville-Trenton, Bernard Hust, Central Hastings, Elmer Wood; Stirling-Tweed, Lorne Thomas, Eldorado, Jack Anderson, and North Hastings, Charles Hust.

Beer Outlet Store Being Built in City

A new Brewers Warehousing Company retail store to replace the present store at the lower end of Front Street south of Dundas, is being constructed in the city.

The new store costing $80,000 is being built to the rear of the present store and when the new building is completed the existing outlet will be taken down.

The building under construction by Hugh Murray Ltd. extends back to Pinnacle Street and when the present structure is taken away the front area will be paved and landscaped.

During November building permits for a total value of $437,000 were issued by city building inspector Grant Sickle.

The biggest permit was for the construction of the new Public Utilities garage and warehouse at the corner of College and Sidney Streets at a cost of $217,000.

Permits for ten new dwellings for a total of $10,900 were issued as well as for industrial additions for $21,887.

May Raise Milk Prices Cent a Quart

Higher operational costs for Quinte district milk distributors are expected to force the price of milk up another cent in Belleville and Trenton.

A member of the local distributors group said today that responses from outlying distributors in the local group would have to be received before any decision on price increase could be made.

The delivered price of milk in Kingston and Peterborough was increased from 26 to 27 cents per quart.

Dairy Princess Praises British Promotion Work

Promotion of dairy products in the United Kingdom is far superior to the similar program in Canada, Dairy Princess Ruth McKinney told fifty cheese producers yesterday.

Easily the most attractive speaker of the two-day Central Ontario Cheese Makers' convention, Miss McKinney's charm and eloquence captivated her audience as she related her impressions of the U.K. Milk Publicity Council's accomplishments.

Recently returned from a three-week tour of the British Isles, the Dairy Princess suggested that a small variety of products to sell, coupled with a greater population concentration, could partially account for the success enjoyed by U.K. dairy promotion. U.K. advertising expenditures is controlled by one body, she added, rather than by several, as in Canada.

Miss McKinney, of Erin, Ont., who is promoting Ontario dairy products at home and abroad, plays a full-time role as Dairy Princess acting as an intermediary between producer and consumer.

EMPHASIZE CLEANLINESS

The emphasis of the remainder of the Cheese Maker's session, held in the Hotel Quinte on Pinnacle Room, shifted to the more immediate problems encountered by the cheese makers in production processes. Echoing the sentiments of R. H. Gillan, a first-day speaker at the convention, Mr. J. White, president of the Ontario Cheese Manufacturers' Association, urged that meticulous "housekeeping" and sanitation in individual cheese factories is imperative. Mr. White suggested that buttoless, pocketless uniforms should be worn by everyone directly involved with making of cheese and, indeed, with any food production.

In the same vein, Mr. Gildner, manager of the New Dundee Co-Operative, outlined various measures which, if taken, could ensure the cleanest possible conditions in and around the cheese factory. Mr. Gildner was quick to point out that rodents and insects enjoy cheese as much as do humans.

Others who spoke at the Thursday afternoon gathering were: J. M. Bain, director of Milk Products Division, Provincial Department of Agriculture; H. C. Arnold, president of the Ontario Cheese Producers' Marketing Board, Belleville; J. L. Baker, Dairy Commissioner, Provincial Department of Agriculture and Clarke T. Rollins, M.P.P. for Hastings-East.

Sclerosis Body Names More Officers

At a general meeting of the newly organized Belleville Chapter of the Multiple Sclerosis Society of Canada, held yesterday at the Corby Public Library, Mrs. William Tatham was elected vice-chairman with Mr. Bernard Fox of Trenton, treasurer and Mrs. Donald Wynne, secretary.

In outlining chapter administration to the new group, Mrs. Doreen Konrads, executive secretary of the Society's Ontario Division, suggested that consideration be given to the formation of committees and urged the new executive to become familiar with the other health and service organizations in the area, pointing out that co-operation among agencies prevents duplication of effort and leads to greater community services.

Anxious to begin work without delay, Mr. Gerald Joyce, new chairman, called for the formation of a visiting and public relations committee with Mrs. Les Steele and Mrs. R. Mc. Howell named chairmen.

Many more volunteers are needed and further information may be obtained from the secretary, Box 516, Belleville.

Members Not Returning To County Council Bid Farewell by Associates

Hastings county councillors at the conclusion of their final 1965 session yesterday bade farewell to members who will not be returning next year.

Both for one of the retiring members it was possibly the briefest farewell on record and for another it was both brief and farewell.

A week or so ago Reeve Guy Hughes of Tweed had decided to retire from municipal life and although nominated at the village nomination for another term declined to qualify. Neither did other men named for the position and a new nomination meeting was necessary.

The meeting was held Wednesday night and Reeve Hughes was again nominated, but at the time of county council adjournment Thursday afternoon still had not made up his mind.

ONLY QUALIFICATION

But that night he decided to qualify and when his was the only qualification for the office, he was acclaimed reeve for another term.

For Bancroft Reeve Gordon Groves this last council session was both first and last. Mr. Groves became reeve during the past summer on the retirement of M. J. McAlpine, but lost out to former reeve E. M. Sexsmith in the village election two weeks ago.

However he is not discouraged and said that some time in the future he may be back.

Other county council members who will not be back next years are Tyendinaga reeve Charles Long, 12 year veteran of the county body; Bancroft deputy reeve Mrs. Audrey Sexsmith; Deseronto reeve Clayton Brooks, and Rawdon township deputy reeve Burton Morton.

MANY CHANGES

Warden Beckett said there had been many changes in the county since he first entered municipal politics in 1954. In 1954 the county budget was $500,000 and by this year had jumped to $1,600,000.

Mrs. Sexsmith said the decision of county council to locate their second county library at Bancroft would be a great benefit to the village. She also expressed her pleasure at council's decision to form a county health unit.

Gem, Mineral Club Studies Equipment

Wednesday evening was meeting night for the Quinte Gem and Mineral Club, and approximately 40 members and visitors met informally in the Metal Shop of the Ontario School for the Deaf. President Perc. Pilcorning opened the meeting and quickly dispensed with the small amount of business. He commented on the change of date for the meeting and the fact that new members and visitors were able to attend who were not able to turn out for Tuesday meetings. It was decided that the Club would stick to the second Wednesday of the month for at least one more meeting.

The President then introduced Walter Robbin, a Belleville school teacher with whom he has had a number for many years. Walter was described as a "professional amateur" since he has been studying the art of lapidary for a long time.

Mr. Robbin brought along his own lapidary equipment as well as many samples of gem-stones which were in the various stages of completion from rough rock to beautiful finished cabochons. The Club members listened and went to Walter's description of the various processes which were necessary to produce a finished product.

The January meeting will be on a different level when the members will learn something about radio - active and fluorescent minerals and rocks. Geiger-counters and fluorescent lamps will be available for the members to use to check over their own collections if they wish.

Soviet Policy

Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin makes most of his public pronouncements on east-west relations and the world situation generally in interviews with overseas newspapermen.

If it were not for these exchanges, the official Soviet viewpoint would scarcely get across these days. Since Mr. Khrushchev was deposed, the news from Moscow these days is positively dull.

No longer the grand Khrushchevian tirades, such as "we will bury you" (the west, capitalism et al), the occasional visits to the United Nations to bang a shoe or two while threatening dire consequences to anyone who attacked the communist world, or the tours of satellite capitals to bolster the morale of the socialist camp, and of the Soviet interior to urge the country's flagging agriculturalists and communes to greater efforts.

Today, more than a year after he fell from grace, Mr. Khrushchev lives in almost complete obscurity. Such are the ironies and peculiarities of the Soviet political system. In Stalinist days, who knows what his fate would have been. Yet it was Khrushchev himself who took the edge off the terrorist policies that marked the regime of the old dictator.

To return, though, to Premier Kosygin, here is a man who speaks occasionally to foreign newspapermen and makes veiled threats that somehow do not carry the same weight as the statements of his predecessor.

In his latest remarks, made in an interview with James Reston of the New York Times, Kosygin also accused the United States of arming West Germany against the Soviet Union, and of "creating an atmosphere conducive to war" in Europe.

The latter sally is certainly news to most of us. Europe has been quiet for a long time now. The division remain in Germany, but neither side appears willing to tilt up trouble. Russia tried it once—during the time of the Berlin airlift—and found it did not pay. Today, the NATO organization still protects the Western world, and the Soviets seem in no mood to create further trouble.

Perhaps Kosygin's most hypocritical comment was this one: "Everywhere, the United States is lending its support to the colonialists, to the side of the oppressors, not the oppressed."

Such a statement of course is absurd, in the light of Russia's own colonialist record. The Hungarians and other satellite peoples of Eastern Europe can all testify to the truth of this. Indeed, if it were not for the Western powers and NATO, the Soviet empire might now extend all the way to the English Channel, if not beyond.

So There!

Peterborough Boy Scouts have been given a neat lesson in deportment and good manners—by the Girl Guides.

In a letter to her local newspaper one of the Guides, a young lady with the glorious-sounding name of Katharina Heilingbrunner, laid it on the line. Her words could have wider application than the situation she described.

"I was rather disappointed," wrote Miss Heilingbrunner, "that the Girl Guides were not mentioned in the story about the Santa Claus parade on November 27. Although the day was very cold, the Guides were dressed in such a way as to proudly display their full uniform, whereas the Scouts found it necessary to be so muffled in thick, warm clothing as was possible. Also, they (the Scouts) took advantage of the floats by riding on them rather than keep them free for children.

"The Guides were proud to do their job as they were glad to be of service in any way. Even when there was no thought of reward, many were daunted to see the Scouts accepting refreshments served after the parade, seemingly unaware that there were girls in the group who had not been served yet."

So there, Scouts of Peterborough, and others of your generation elsewhere who may sometimes appear to be lacking in consideration and respect for members of the opposite sex.

Economic Footnote

Pressure (upwards, of course) on costs and prices, strained industrial capacity and shortages of skilled labor and materials are warning signals which must be noted.

R. P. McFadden, president of the Merchants Bank of Canada, is authority for that statement. Sounds ominous.

We ought to endeavor to correct this dangerous economic situation.

What conditions do we need to create?

Firstly, we presume, a downward pressure on costs and prices.

Then an industrial productive capacity well beyond our needs.

A surplus of skilled labor.

And a surplus of materials.

Having created a situation just the reverse of that which today worries the economic experts we avail, we presume, be in clover.

All those desired conditions once prevailed. Back in the thirties.

Canadian TV Newest Target Of Parliamentary Barbs

By RICHARD JACKSON
From The Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — There seems to be a slow swing in the thinking of some members of Parliament concerning television in Canada.

For many years it has been the custom when Parliament was sitting, for members to take frequent swipes at the CBC and its programming, particularly when some individual program had managed to anger a dozen or so belligerent bees.

The fact that the CBC receives large sums of money from the public coffers — around $100,000,000 this year, for example — allowed the MP's to sound off self-righteously "on behalf of the constituents."

The advent of the Board of Broadcast Governors and the emergence of private television stations on a fair scale have broadened the field, however, and the CBC no longer has to take all the bumps.

This is because the BBG is responsible to Parliament through the secretary of state, over all radio and television in the country.

This line of control gives MP's the privilege of bringing up matters concerning private TV in the House of Commons, or outside it.

A case in point is the statement made late last week by David Orlikow, MDP member for Winnipeg North.

The fairly early critic of the CBC, Mr. Orlikow has now swung his guns around and is taking direct aim at a vengeance, at private television.

QUESTION OF RENEWALS

Specifically, he claims that many private radio stations are living up to promises they made to the BBG to encourage Canadian talent before they obtained their licenses.

He even got assurance from State Secretary Lamontagne in Parliament that the stations would have to justify the promises they made before they got their licenses.

But now the BBG has announced that the stations will not even have to appear at hearings starting the next Feb. 1 and that they simply will be notified of any complaints.

Mr. Orlikow's plan, but maybe Mr. Orlikow and some others like him will manage to change that decision. After all, Parliament meets on Jan. 18, and that will leave time enough for Mr. Orlikow to get cases and put on the pressure — in the most widely-publicized forum in the land.

Probably one of the major complaints of the MP's is that the private stations have taken every opportunity to dodge or by-pass provisions concerning Canadian programs and talent in their programming.

They do manage to meet regulations about the percentage of Canadian content, but do it barely and by using British products, which are allowed half-credit.

CANADIAN TALENT

The more serious complaint concerns the use of TV to encourage Canadian talent.

The CBC is still the network which uses the greatest bulk of Canadian talent and technical talent in serious programming.

The private stations have been more than willing to push all their Canadian "talent" to presentations of folk-singers and rock and roll groups. They do have little appeal to Mr. Orlikow and his colleagues.

So despite the MP's latest, of course, requires a steady run of locally-produced drama, and despite the CBC does not put on enough to keep a great number of actors working.

One wag has even put it this way — the TV network, with its profusion of American dramas shows, probably did a place more Canadian acting talent than the CBC, because there are more Canadians acting in the U.S. than in Canada.

That may be a fit far out, but it underlines the point that there are no sincere efforts at all in Canada to justify them staying here if they are good enough to get to make a steady living at it.

But he may start thinking it over. It may be significant that he has taken the pressure off the CBC and has started applying it to the CTV stations.

Following the political philosophy of his party, perhaps he will suggest that in government should start subsidizing the second network as well.

But only perhaps.

It will be interesting to hear what he has to say.

Wanted—A Few Coyotes

Kingston Whig - Standard

It is amazing really, when it comes to the facts of Nature, how wise man is after the fact. The study of ecology — or the balance of nature — is the best illustration of this. Wherever man has begun to build his cities, his industries and his farms, his first thought has been to rid the areas of what he has described as varmints or undesirable species! Never a thought given to the roles that these creatures have been assigned by Nature. But he is learning; indeed, he is learning how wasteful and how detrimental to even his own environment has been his ignorant meddling.

There are many examples which could be cited, but the coyote will suffice for now. Years ago, when this continent was subject to the advances of the intrepid pioneers, the coyote was given the status of "destructive predator — a menace to man's economy" and so coyotes were slaughtered in the hundreds of thousands, usually by means of poison. Today, however, there are people in many areas who wish that the coyote was back, plentiful in number for the control of rodent prey is wreaking havoc.

In Arizona, for example, the rodents have all but wiped out the stately, universally-known saguaro cactus. In one test, 1,600 plants were set out in the desert but within two years all but 30 were dead, killed by rodents seeking the water stored in the plants. Now people are talking about "re-introducing" coyotes to fight the rodents. Nature's scheme of things, of course, the coyote was the natural enemy of rodents. But man intervened, and so the rodents seized control; now, it would be exceedingly difficult to find enough coyotes to do the job necessary to save the saguaro.

It's a pity which has been repeated many times in many other aspects of this fight for survival. Seemingly enough, in this age of old struggle, man has proved to be the most ignorant of all animals. Only in recent years has man accepted that fact, but it is entirely possible that the lesson has been learned much too late.

The Isolation Of Ottawa

The Globe and Mail

It is interesting to observe Canada's national railway finally facing the truth and pulling the plug on its Look-Ottawa-a-branch-line on Canada's national capital.

Let us face it. Canada shares with Pakistan and Brazil the curious distinction of maintaining a capital geographically isolated from the real business of the nation which is done where people are.

This has given to Ottawa — and, indeed, to the governments that have functioned out of it — a quality of isolation and unreality. It is essentially, for all its beauty, a one - business country town, the business being government. In spite of frantic and sincere efforts at selfimprovement it has almost no cultural life. True, there is the National Gallery, and it is giving it a new building; but the gallery is, after all, far from being one of the world's great art centres. They are trying to create a theatre; but can they sustain it? The real theatre of performers is in Montreal and Toronto, and that is where the good ones will go. Ottawa's view of TV's cultural wasteland was confined until March, 1961, to two channels — one English, one French — controlled, naturally by a creature of government. At least now they have been wired for several sounds (only two of three being C.B.C.).

To Your Good Health

Cancer Not Inherited, But Can Run in Family

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: Is cancer hereditary? There has been cancer in my family as far back as my grandmother, and down to my father and two of my aunts. — Mrs. L. J.

* * *

The question is rather difficult, but I can give you a yes-and-no answer.

Should you expect to have cancer because an ancestor or relative had it? The answer is no.

But should you be extra careful if relatives have had cancer? The answer is yes — for some kinds of cancer.

Hereditary is not an all-or-nothing influence. But if your ancestors for 500 years have had black hair and dark eyes (or blond hair and blue eyes) you are just about certain to be like them.

However, if both of your parents had diabetes, you have a strong chance of it, but not a certain one. And if only one parent or only one side of the family had it, your chance of diabetes is less.

Cancer rarely is truly hereditary, although in some types there is a "familial tendency," and only occasionally can it be clearly hereditary. Remember that there are many kinds of cancer, and they don't all follow the same rules.

Studies over several generations show that certain cancers tend to appear more often in families. Cancer of the breast, cervix and rectum seem to have hereditary tendencies.

Yet cancer of the lip (chiefly caused by chronic irritation) and others of that type show no sign of heredity. People whose fathers die of lung cancer probably will not get lung cancer if they quit smoking!

A certain type of highly malignant cancer of the eye which occasionally attacks children has been established as hereditary — even though the parents may not have had such malignancy. Heredity sometimes builds up the intensity of its influence.

When one identical twin develops cancer in some organ, the other twin will do the same in about nine times out of 10 — yet their parents may not have had cancer in that organ. The twins, in such cases, have inherited a tendency, or a weakness, although they haven't inherited the disease.

For practical purposes, if a number of your ancestors, or family have had cancer of various kinds, it doesn't mean that you will have cancer too. Greater susceptibility? Perhaps, yes.

And for some particular kind of cancer, as mentioned in the foregoing, you have a stronger chance of developing it, and therefore should be examined a little more regularly.

The big question with cancer is not whether you develop the disease, but whether you detect it soon enough to have it treated.

* * *

Dear Dr. Molner: Is there a law that a child must be four years old before he can have his tonsils out? — T. K.

No, certainly not. But there's plenty of common sense that says tonsils shouldn't be removed unless they need it.

* * *

Dear Dr. Molner: Four months ago I had my old upper teeth removed and now have a plate which is pushed rather high under my nose. I have a salty taste now, and my nose is constantly itchy. Could the pressure of the plate cause this? — M. H.

I question whether pressure of the plate itself is causing this and wonder whether it may be a sensitivity to whatever adhesive you use to hold the plate in position. Discuss this with your dentist.

Students' Sex In Doubt

Oshawa Times

The shaggy, stringy and often dirty effeminate tresses seen on some adolescents today are coming in for condemnation in schools across the nation. Many school principals have issued the ultimatum: get a haircut or get out.

Some students in the United States are going to court in an endeavor to retain their hirsuteness and say their constitutional rights have been violated. Regardless of their rights, shouldn't any school teacher have the right of knowing whether his pupils are male or female and be able to determine that fact by sight?

It was stated that Beethoven, Frans Liszt and George Washington had long hair but at that time they at least kept it looking clean and combed which is more than can be say about our black leather-jacketed and side-burned gentry.

Three Texas College students after the warning cut their hair and then when going off campus on Beatle wigs which they say gives them strength and fortitude to face the public. We wonder if they ever gave much thought to how many of their type have been hired to hold down responsible positions.

The Guelph Mercury draws attention to the Yorkville area in Toronto, a haunting place of this type the police find persons of shaky character, marijuana and heroin users and in general many unsavory persons. Those who believe long hair for males combined with hair dye, bona, bracelets, ear-rings even lipstick are signs denoting their masculinity are often classified and typed in somewhat uncomplimentary terms. There is general small likelihood of being chosen for a position that requires very much knowledge no one where they must meet the public.

Bonn's Claim to Nuclear Status

The difference between politicians and people was again vividly underlined last month, when Chancellor Erhard of West Germany called upon NATO to end its "unjust nuclear discrimination" against his country.

While West Germany doesn't seek national control over nuclear weapons, Erhard said, "we do demand a full nuclear participation just because we are a divided nation."

This strikes me as a fantastic request. Why should West Germany want to get into the nuclear arms club? Obviously nothing would be gained from a military or strategic viewpoint; in the nuclear outlook, West Germany's role would be trivial, marginal and irrelevant.

Most of the German people know this. Many of them have become devout pacifists, especially among the younger people, who have realized how the past generations of militarism have reduced Germany to impotence. They want no part of war, weapons or "balance of power" that has never been able to keep the peace in balance.

But politicians see these things differently. They want membership in the club, for reasons of status and influence and self-importance. They want the right to participate in any international suicide pact that is formed. They want to go out, if go out they must, with a bang and not with a whimper.

Although proud of themselves as "pragmatists" and "realists" most politicians are divorced from the realities of life. They no longer think in terms of people — which is the only reason for political life in the first place — but in terms of alliances and strategies and influence. Politics is a "game," and the fact that the "pieces" are living human beings is usually subordinated in the players' desire to win.

This is unrealistic, especially today, for the very idea of "winning" has become obsolete. If there is one thing we can be absolutely sure of, it is that no one will "win" the next war, but everybody will lose. It is this overwhelming fact to be out of it. For the people, if not the politicians, recognize what is called the "N factor" in nuclear weapons — that is, the more nations possessing them, the greater chance that someone will set off a blast. This is statistically inevitable, and the most frightening thing about nuclear proliferation.

To speak of "unjust nuclear discrimination," as Erhard does, is like asking for the right to help spread bubonic plague. No clear war is per se unjust, nor to refuse to wage it is the distinguishing mark of the just man.

Robert William Thomson, an English inventor, patented the pneumatic tire 70 years ago today—in 1845—but rubber was at that time too expensive for the invention to be practical. A self-educated man, Thomson also designed an electrical detonator for blasting-powder, a fountain pen, the first portable steam crane, the first prefabricated hydraulic dock and a steam-powered engine on soft rubber wheels which was the first workable tractor.

Police Warn Against Damage to Decorations

City police today warned they would deal "severely" with any culprits caught damaging Christmas decorations in Belleville suburbs.

In recent days there has been a growing number of complaints from private citizens that roadside have been stealing lights and decorations from lawn Christmas trees.

Some of most of the depredation is the East Hill — whose residents traditionally go for expensive exterior decorations in a big way.

Police blame much of the damage and loss on juveniles.

They have appealed to parents to discipline offspring suspected of the thefts.

"Otherwise, we'll have to deal with it ourselves," said a senior officer. "And we'll deal with it very severely."

The implication was that culprits will be hailed into magistrate's court on a criminal charge.

Officers on night patrol have been ordered to give the situation full attention.

Restrict Management's Right to Change

By BEN WARD

OTTAWA (CP) — Restriction of management's right to make changes affecting workers' jobs was recommended Thursday to the federal government.

The proposal was made in the Heenan report on the CNR's controversial run-throughs until it has negotiated with its operating unions on the issues involved.

The judge went on to apply the principle to "similar situations in general."

He said present law, under the unamended heading of clauses for attention and correction."

His 45,000-word report is the result of a year's study of the run-throughs at Nakina, Ont., Redditt and Capreol, Alta., which touched off a nation-wide CNR work stoppage when they were introduced in October, 1964.

BOOKED SICK

More than 2,800 conductors, engineers, trainmen and firemen "booked sick" in protest. The walkout ended when the federal government agreed to a CNR proposal that a commission of inquiry be set up. The railway cancelled the two run-throughs pending the inquiry's report.

Labor Minister MacEachen said in issuing the 163-page report that the Manitoba Appeal Court judge "has thrown a great deal of light on the implications of technological change for workers directly affected, for management, for communities and for government."

There was no immediate reaction to the Freedman report from railway unions but one official said "we're certainly not unhappy with it." A formal statement was expected today.

Long Johns Forever!

Hurrah! Hurrah!

Long Johns are making a comeback.

Astronaut James A. Lovell in doing his space striptease Monday, has given the Long John a real shot in the arm.

I've been worried for a long time now about the decline in popularity of the Long Johns, but now, with Lovell sliding around in space clad in his LJs (not to be confused with LBJs) they will be the "way out" thing to wear.

LJs need to be worn by everybody. I remember going down the street when you would look in the back yards and everyone's clothes line would have two or three pairs hanging out to dry. But these times are changing. Men, like women, are not too interested now in whether or not they are warm. Fashion is the thing.

A man could freeze to death in some of the stylish winter clothing on the market today. Sure, LJs aren't stylish. Sure, they look crude. But they are warm by golly.

Lovell is sure to start a new fad now. Teenagers will be turning in their Beatle hair cuts for LJs. December will be declared National Long John Month. Millions of people will march on Washington demanding better LJ prices. There will be a mass exodus of people moving from the warmer climates to our climate so they can wear their LJs in comfort. Those that cannot afford to move from hot climates will wear them anyway. Some will roast to death but it will not matter, they will die in style. That is what counts.

LJs will replace watches as retirement gifts.

Psychologists and sociologists will make millions writing books on the LJ and its sociological aspects of the LJ revolution. They will sit at their typewriters, wearing LJs, and say the masses are being duped by a fraud.

The John Birch Society will refuse to wear LJs claiming it is part of the International Communist Conspiracy.

Instead of a two-car man, we will have a two-LJ man. Those who care about their appearance will have a different color for every day of the week.

There will be LJs for every occasion. Sportswear LJs, casuals . . . the whole gamut of fashion.

Our social rating system will be revamped. There will be great distinction between the first generation LJwearers and second generation LJ-wearers.

For the wealthy, there will be LJs with diamond buttons and mink lining.

The cold war will not be cold anymore.

Today's enemies will get together as a matter of economics. Their battle will be LJ vs. LJ.

The law of supply and demand will be the only thing that matters.

The demand will far outstrip the supply. The price of LJs will skyrocket. As man - to - man combat is outlawed, nations will look to solve the problems. A world body will be formed to manufacture enough LJs. It will be under the directorship of Hal Banks and Jimmy Hoffa, both well known men of great organizational ability.

The United States will import Chinese workers to manufacture LJs. Armament factories will be reconditioned to manufacture the LJs needed.

They will put LJs in CARE packages.

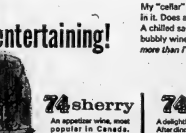
Universities will offer degrees in Long John Engineering. A graduate would be known as Harry Banal, L.J. He would hold a place of honor in the society.

The United Nations, in a special meeting of the Security Council, will agree unanimously that LJs are for men only. Think what this means!

Women again men will find there place in society. They will have a role of their own . . . Long John wearers.

There is nothing else left.

Women have invaded the golf courses, elections and curling rinks. They even smoke pipes and cigars now and buy Playboy Magazine.



But they will not be allowed to wear LJs.

Man will have regained some of his lost prestige.

As in everything that is good, some people suffer from it. There will be those who cannot handle the role of LJ-wearer. They will be "hooked" by the LJs. But they too will be taken care of by LJs Anonymous.

If only Astronaut Lovell knew what he was starting.

One thing about it, LJs will make men keep their traps shut. That should be worth something.

PREDICTS INCREASE

The tightening supply of money may result in a small increase in mortgage interest rates above the 7¼-per-cent level now being charged on some loans, D. E. Kerlin, president of Montreal Trust Co., told a Toronto press conference Thursday.

SET RECORD

The provinces collected a record $606,522,100 in taxes from the sale of gasoline and other motor fuels in 1964, the bureau of statistics reported Thursday. The figure was up 14.4 per cent from 1963 collections of $530,335,500.

ONTARIO SALES DECLINE

Value of department store sales in Canada in the week of Nov. 27 was 4.7 per cent higher than a year previous, the bureau of statistics said Thursday. But sales were down fractionally in Ontario.

County Council Concurs in Resolution

Members of Hastings county council feel that students in elementary and high schools should receive more instruction in mortgage interest rates above the 7¼-per-cent level now being charged on some loans, D. E. Kerlin, president of Montreal Trust Co., told a Toronto press conference Thursday.

And they've even gone so far as to concur in a Huron county resolution asking the Ontario Minister of Education to have instruction on government procedure introduced to school curriculum.

However not all members were sure that instruction in government procedure was not already in the schools curriculum with several stating that such instruction was being given in their local schools.

But other members, particularly Reeve Verve McMurray of Tudor, said the lack of knowledge of government procedure on the part of school students was shocking. He said this lack of knowledge extended even to university level.

Priceless Retort Saved Day for Older Mom

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I appreciated your letter to the 42-year-old woman who became pregnant. When her child was small she was constantly being mistaken for his grandmother and it was embarrassing. Something similar happened to me and I'd like to tell you how I handled it.

ANN LANDERS

I was 40 years old and had two children in high school when my third child was born. No one was more surprised than I. When I took the baby out in the perambulator people used to stop me and say, "Oh what a darling baby. Your grandaughter? I replied, "No — my sister. Mom let me take her out for some air."

The astonishment on their faces worked wonders for my morale. I hope others will try it. — BJC.

* * *

DEAR BJC: An answer like yours can be priceless in a crisis. Thanks, Sister.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Here I sit in the classroom looking over the exams of 30 students. My school day will end in 30 minutes and I'll go home to my 67-year-old mother. I mustn't be late because Mother worries.

I was one of those dutiful daughters who stayed home to comfort my widowed mother when Dad died. That was 11 years ago. I am 33 now and the sole breadwinner for the family. After rent, food, utilities and doctor bills there is little left.

But my real problem is that I feel trapped! I can't tolerate Mother's whining, her criticism of my clothes, my hair, my friends. If I am a half hour late from school she questions me as if I were a child. I have suggested he that she get a job. Her health is good and she could work. Not only would it help financially but it would give her an interest in living. She cries and says I am ungrateful.

I have been offered a fine position out West. Do you think a new environment will help? If I take it Mom will move with me. What should I do? — CRACKING UP.

* * *

DEAR CRACKING: Accept the offer and insist that your mother take a part-time job when you get out West — even if it's only baby-sitting a few hours a day.

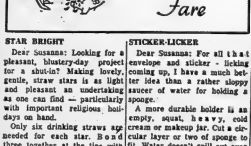
It takes two to create the problem you have — a domineering mother and a daughter who allows herself to be dominated. So throw away the crying towel, Girl. It's now or never.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Twelve of us girls belong to a bridge club that meets every Tuesday afternoon.

We draw for partners to give every girl a fair chance at the prizes. There's a first prize and a booby prize. The highest and the lowest couples cut cards for these prizes so everyone gets a fair break.

Yesterday one of the best players in the club drew me for a partner. She took me aside and said, "I know you are a poor player, so just play your usual rotten game and we'll win the booby prize."



I resented this but I said nothing, which I'm afraid, led her to believe I bought her scheme. The cards were miserable and I was nervous, although I actually did my best. It turned out to be my "usual rotten game." We won the booby prize. Now I feel like a crook. Please tell me what to do if I draw this partner again. — OUCH.

* * *

DEAR OUCH: If you played your best you need not feel guilty. If you drew this dame again, however, make it clear that you plan to try for the first prize and you hope she will, too.

* * *

Liquor can ruin your mind, your body and your life. To learn the booby traps of teen-age drinking, write for Ann Landers' booklet, "Teen-age Drinking," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped, envelope.

STAR BRIGHT

Dear Susanna: Looking for a pleasant, blustery-day project for a shut-in? Making lovely, gentle, straw stars is as light and pleasant an undertaking as one can find — particularly with important religious holidays on hand.

Only six drinking straws are needed for each star. Bend three together at the tips and put clear cement to form a large flat triangle. Repeat with the other three. Lay one triangle upside down on top of the other and glue in place where the straws touch to form a six-sided star. Lovely just as it is, or spray paint it, or dab with cement and sprinkle with gold powder or glitter. Very delicate for hanging by a ribbon in the window or for decorations when trimming the tree. — N. S. N.

STICKER-LICKER

Dear Susanna: For all that extravagance and sticker - licking coming up, I have a much better idea than a rather sloppy remover of water for bolding a sponge.

A more durable holder is an empty, squat, heavy, cold cream or makeup jar. Cut a circular layer or two of sponge to fit. Water doesn't spill over the edges and the weight of the jar keeps this type of moisture from slithering while being used.

My twin teenage daughters each keep moisteners on the back of their desks that are made from those large, pretty, pastel hair spray metal caps. Much lighter than the jars of course, but they are fine for an occasional task of sticking to be done . . . look very attractive, too. — Wendy Wheeler

Lovely Lounger

Printed Pattern: 4937: Misses' Sizes 10, 12, 14, 16, 18. Size 16 long skirt 3¾ yds. 35-inch top; 2 yds. 35-in.

Send order to Anne Adams, care of Pattern Dept. The Intelligencer 60 Front St. W., Toronto 1, Ontario.

Crippled Children Benefit

WASAGA BEACH, Ont. (CP) Mrs. Mary Dyce, 85, started an anti-poverty campaign in this resort town 20 miles northwest of Barrie when she bought a $2,000 tablecloth in Florida.

The cloth is embroidered and appliqued on sheer linen and portrays Leonardo da Vinci's painting of the Last Supper.

She charges $1 to the public to see the cloth. The money is placed in a box for needy children and Mrs. Dyce then adds an equal amount from her pension.

She donated money to crippled children funds and to Indian children in Northern Ontario.

Garden Club Gives Help

TORONTO (CP)—It will be a brighter Christmas for 22 Ontario health and welfare institutions because of the Garden Club of Toronto.

Members of the club formed a 100-woman assembly line and in two and a half hours turned out 136 Christmas floral arrangements.

A fleet of club members' cars delivered the holiday decorations to such institutions as the Ontario Crippled Children's Centre, the Cerebral Palsy Institute and the Canadian National Institute for the Blind.

A delightful dessert party was held on December 8th under the convenorship of Mrs. M. F. L. Jones, who greeted the guests at the door. The dessert and tea tables had been tastefully decorated by Mrs. Murfey James, in a seasonal motif.

Mrs. A. S. McConnell and Mrs. Ben. Fessler poured tea and coffee from a table centred with a beautiful white tulle Christmas tree. Mrs. O. Haine was in charge of the table which was laden with delectable desserts.

It is hoped that this will become an annual event at which the ladies of the Parish will become better acquainted and newcomers will be made to feel a part of Parish life.

President Mrs. H. Crowe thanked all those who had helped to make the party such a success and expressed the hope that all would return in the new year to commence another successful year.

Successful Living

Reckless Driver Shows Immaturity

DEAR DORIS: Bart and I have been engaged for two years. My problem is his driving. He does not concentrate, goes too fast, does not care about the lives of his passengers or the pedestrians; and drives when he is drunk.

I am able to obtain a driver's licence but have not because he has made me unsure of my own driving, through his recklessness. Bart will not listen to me or anyone else, when we try to tell him to be careful.

We have had many fights over his driving, but always make up. Please tell me, Doris, how can I put an end to his bad driving and our repeated fights? I am 18 and he is 23. — ENGAGED BUT?

DORIS CLARK

DEAR ENGAGED BUT: A self-indulgent daredevil who even drives when drunk is too adolescent for matrimony. Get your driver's licence and head in the opposite direction.

You are still too young to stand up to this madmen the way he needs to be stood up to.

* * *

DEAR DORIS: I have noticed two letters regarding long hair. One was a young boner whose mother didn't want her to cut her hair, but who wanted to be free of the work involved with long hair. The other was an older girl, who liked her long hair, but found it too heavy to hold curl.

Your answers were good advice, as usual — but you didn't mention hair pieces or switches! At a reasonable cost, particularly since summer, hair pieces, popular switches and hairpieces, a reputable hair store will make these items for the owner. Just be sure the hair is shining clean before cutting.

At a cost of under $15, my daughter and I enjoy the use of a large cluster of curls added to our party-hairdos, made from her hair only about eight inches long. A friend has had a lovely switch, about two feet long, made for her daughter after her first haircut, and is saving it for future use. — TO HAVE AND NOT.

* * *

DEAR TO HAVE: Fine idea — even a teen-ager (of 18 or 19) might call for very special occasions. I'm told that in some parts of Canada the cost might be more than $15. Even so, a human hair switch costs $50 or more.

* * *

Confidential to YOURS TRULY!: There is no magic formula for getting a boy to ask you for a date! But nothing beats good cheer and friendliness for making such a thing occur to him. Try it.

* * *

Confidential to CONFUSED GIRL: You've got me confused too. If your enquiry is serious, write in again enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope for a private reply.

* * *

Confidential to ASHAMED: You wrote in about excessive perspiration. I have received a suggestion from someone who had the same trouble and has used perspirants she has worked for her. If you'd like to write in again, this time supplying your name and address on a five-cent-stamped envelope, I would be glad to forward the information.

* * *

DEAR DORIS: I notice that a worried Mom is talking about the poor appetite of her three-year-old. I had the same problem many years ago.

It wasn't until I took my little son to a child specialist — when I was pretty frantic, too, I might add — that he said immediately "Why this child can scarcely swallow his own spittal — his tonsils are so badly diseased. He must have been born with them like that!" He looked at me kindly and said, "You must have had some feeding problems."

So I'm passing this on to you for what it may be worth to the mother who is so worried. Sometimes it isn't what we think it is. I think our family doctor thought I was just "fussing." — ONE WHO KNOWS.

* * *

DEAR ONE WHO KNOWS: Right. With a child who seems to be avoiding food, the doctor's verdict about his ability to swallow ought to be explored early in the game. If he is healthy and is not nibbling between meals, or being fussed over, he'll swallow anything which is put before him!

* * *

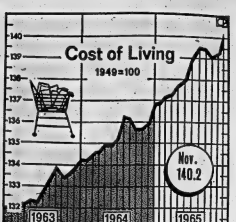
DEAR DORIS: I am overweight. I have tried to cut down on my eating and exercise but that don't help.

Could you suggest some pills or something, anything that I could take so I could lose about 20 pounds? — REAL DESPERATE.

* * *

DEAR REAL DESPERATE: What this overweight country needs is a magic wand for waving away excess avoirdupois. And there isn't any. The pills and potions do no lasting good, because they don't change eating habits.

There's no way but the hard way — faithful exercise and diet. Study your calorie chart, write for my Simple Reducing Diet (enclosing ten cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope) and join the benders and stretchers.



* * *

DEAR DORIS: Your columns are constructive. Am glad to see you plugging for World Literacy, etc. Would like to see you do same for the Unitarian Service Committee and Dr. Hincshaw-ers. They provide a wonderful opportunity for lending a hand. — BOOSTER.

DEAR BOOSTER: Gladly. Here is your boost. The work of the U.S.C. is widespread and wonderful. (Full name and address: Unitarian Service Committee of Canada: 175 St. Clair Ave. W., Toronto, Ontario.)

GOOD SEASON TO DIET? — The Dominion Bureau of Statistics says higher food costs are mainly responsible for the cost-of-living index shooting up to a record 140.2 in November. The index rose almost a full point above the October level of 139.3 and was well above the November, 1964, level of 135.9. The previous high for the Index, based on 1949 prices equalling 100, was 139.5, set in July of this year.

Susanna's Christmas Decor Ideas

OR, CHRISTMAS TREE

Stop trying to have all the fun yourself, mom, and let Junior get into the act. This little paper aized production is designed especially with tiny tykes in mind.

Nothing much he can do here, and who knows, he may come up with a way-out Christmas tree design like nothing you or I ever saw before!

What to use and how: Any number of empty cardboard toilet tissue rolls cut in half around the middle, painted or sprayed-in a happy color and glued together with some good bond glue to form a pyramid. (We have used 10 halves in ours and sprayed them gold).

Also needed are a pine bough, a small (jewelry size) cardboard box pasted in place for a base, and a dash of imagination for decoration. By this I mean that along with such help of pine greenery to be inserted in the openings, we have included shiny Christmas tree balls in red, green and blue — but bells, miniature Santas or bright candles would do — it's entirely up to junior and you. O.K.? . . . and away we go! — SUSANNA

Two other items that are easy to make are available with patterns by just sending in a handy blank.

They are a "Child's Christmas Stocking Made of Felt", and a "Holiday Card Scroll."

Please send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with requests.

Enjoy a new mellow white cocktail wine!

Nobel Peace Prize Presented UNICEF

OSLO, Norway (AP) — The 1965 Nobel Peace Prize was presented today to UNICEF—the UN children's fund—on the eve of the 19th anniversary of the fund's founding.

King Olav V attended the ceremony at which Henry R. Labouisse, UNICEF's American executive director, received a gold medal and a cheque for 282,000 Swedish crowns (about $55,000).

The other four Nobel prizes were to be awarded in a companion ceremony at Stockholm, Sweden. But Professor Shinichiro Tomonaga of Japan who shared the prize for physics with two Americans, got his at the Swedish embassy in Tokyo because he is recovering from several fractured ribs.

The other winners of the physics prize were Professors Julian Schwinger of Harvard University and Richard Feynman of the California Institute of Technology.

Three of the 4 professors, Francois Jacob, Andre Lwoff and Jacques Monod, shared the prize for medicine.

"To all of us in UNICEF the prize will be a wonderful incentive to greater efforts in the name of peace," Labouisse said in his acceptance speech.

"You have given us new strength. You have reinforced our profound belief that, each line—UNICEF contributes, however modestly, to giving today's children a chance to grow into useful and happier citizens, it contributes to removing some of the seeds of world tension and future conflicts."

Presenting the prize, Asse Lionses of the Norwegian parliament's Nobel committee, said the contrast between the riches of the West and the misery of the developing nations "creates a dangerous tension factor which threatens the peace of the world."

After reviewing the work of UNICEF for 750,000,000 children in 118 emerging countries, Lionses said:

"The aim of UNICEF is to spread a table, decked with all the good things that nature provides, for all the children of the world. For this reason the organization is a peace factor of great importance.

"UNICEF is now forging a link of solidarity between the rich and the poor countries."

Lionses said that in 1964 a total of $33,000,000 was contributed to UNICEF by 118 countries. Each dollar was matched by $2.50 from receiving countries.

He called these amounts inadequate, saying that they corresponded only to the amount used every other hour in the world for defence.

The annual Nobel awards were set up by the will of the late Alfred Nobel, the Swedish inventor of dynamite. The peace prize is awarded by the Nobel committee of the Norwegian Storting (parliament) and the other prizes by the Royal Swedish Academy.

Woman Bent On Suicide Jury Is Told

ST. CATHARINES (CP)—A woman bent on suicide killed herself and a New York minister Aug. 10 when she wrenched the steering wheel of a car from its driver, a coroner's inquest was told Wednesday.

Mrs. Elizabeth Sutak, 42, of Hamilton and Rev. Paul Wheaton, 34, of Snyder, N.Y., died in a two-car crash on the Queen Elizabeth Way near here.

Later in the day, Rusk flew to Chicago and told a business meeting:

"There's been no signal yet that the other side is interested in peace talks. The other side is attempting to achieve a military victory and this will be denied them."

THERE'S NO RESPONSE

From the Communist world, meanwhile, there was no immediate response to the latest British-U.S. peace calls.

Soviet Foreign Minister Gromyko told the Soviet parliament, the Supreme Soviet, in Moscow that the United States is "waging a bandit war against the Vietnamese." He denounced "United States aggression in Viet Nam" and the Supreme Soviet adopted a resolution criticizing U.S. operations in Viet Nam.

North Viet Nam rejected an International Control Commission charge that its troops are violating international agreements through illegal military operations in the neighboring neutralist kingdom of Laos. Canada, India and Poland are the commission members.

Forces Feeling

Officials said there is no longer any orderly flow of personnel joining and leaving the services. Many experienced men are going out before recruits can be adequately trained to take their places.

This situation has been aggravated by the large number of Second World War veterans who now are reaching retirement age at about the same time.

"Our commitments are greater than the available manpower can handle," one source said.

Many officials say they believe the only solution is a cash bonus for men signing on for further terms of service.

ing on the allegations, said "they didn't possess the necessary political fitness requisite for citizenship in that area."

NAME LAWYER

The Conservative party has appointed a lawyer to investigate the statements and Mr. Diefenbaker said that "full consideration" is being given to the matter.

The 70-year-old leader said his party will continue to press the government on the question of "integrity in government" and if certain ministers "who ought to have resigned, do resign our stand will be corroborated."

Asked who should resign, he replied: "The furniture boys."

This was a reference to State Secretary Lamontagne and Postmaster - General Tremblay, who were criticized in Parliament during the last session for buying furniture, without down payment and on generous time - payment terms, from a Montreal dealer who later went bankrupt.

Mr. Diefenbaker said that Privy Council President Favreau should also resign.

"He deceived Parliament."

COMMENTS ON PEARSON

The Conservative leader, appearing in a jovial mood a be fielded questions prior to his departure, was asked whether he thought Prime Minister Pearson should be in Ottawa at this time rather than on vacation.

"I read a great deal about the seriousness of the absence of the prime minister," he replied. "But I don't think it matters. I don't see very much difference when he's here or away."

He again gave a clear indication his party will pass a non-confidence motion against the government early in the session. "We're going to discharge our responsibilities," he said "and I are the NDP (New Democratic Party) has come around in the last few days . . . no doubt they'll be moving a sub - amendment to our amendment."

He said he disagreed with those who said the minority Liberal government should be guaranteed a certain lifespan in the new Parliament.

"I don't believe in any fixation of time. We intend to do everything we can to get the government to act."

His party would press for the elimination of the 11-per-cent sales tax on building materials and production machinery, for more aid to higher education, for $100-a-month old-age pensions and for "assurance that integrity in public life is a major mandatory need."

A NEW HAIRDO FOR THE CRUISE? — Opposition Leader Diefenbaker may look as if he is having his hair dried under a dryer, but actually he is beneath a spotlight in his Parliament Hill office during a Thursday press conference. The Opposition Leader, who left Ottawa Friday for a 10-day Caribbean cruise, said Forestry Minister Sauve should resign if alleged voting irregularities in the minister's Iles-de-la-Madeleine riding are proven. TURKEYS GRASP MARKET

EDMONTON (CP)—Advances in freezing and storage techniques have made turkey a year-round bird instead of a seasonal dish, says W. O. Skeels, manager of a local hatchery. He said it's now up to the farmer to make quality turkeys available all the year round, instead of only at Christmas and Thanksgiving.

Diplomatic Crack-up Of Commonwealth Is Seen Within Week

LONDON (CP)—Britain appears unable to block a threatening erosion of the Commonwealth with officials conceding that at least in some cases the crisis over Rhodesia may actually see diplomatic ties broken within a week.

The 26 members of the Organization for African Unity, including nine Commonwealth members, have pledged to break ties with Britain if she does not take decisive action to oust the outlawed Ian Smith regime by Dec. 15. Tanzania and Uganda have also said they will leave the 22-country Commonwealth.

British authorities mounted a quiet, diplomatic campaign to persuade its friends not to break ties, arguing this might jeopardize British aid to African Commonwealth members, estimated at some $150,000,000 a year.

However, officials indicated that some of the countries have turned a deaf ear and that at least a partial diplomatic crack-up may begin next week. The New Statesman, a weekly magazine of political commentary that supports the Labor party, said many of the Commonwealth also may begin at that time.

"It will be symbolically appropriate if the Commonwealth starts to break up in the year Churchill died," the magazine says editorially. "In any case, we have refused to acknowledge our new and reduced status in the world — and Churchill and the Commonwealth have been primarily responsible."

MOURNED THE END

"It has been shrewdly suggested that the reason why Churchill's funeral was the occasion for such impressive public grief was that, subconsciously, we were mourning the living monument to our final moment of national greatness."

The looming Commonwealth crisis is of specific concern to Toronto-born Arnold Smith, the newly - appointed Commonwealth secretary - general who took office earlier this year hoping to help turn the association into a useful, practical weapon for world peace and stability. He rejected one newspaper columnist's suggestion that he had been appointed to preside over the Commonwealth's death.

Smith, former Canadian deputy assistant external affairs minister, has pleaded with African Commonwealth diplomats to support the association. But he also believes a crisis looms mainly because, in African eyes, Britain has not shown sufficient determination to crush the Smith government.

While Africans have called for the use of British troops against the Rhodesian whites—a plea which Prime Minister Wilson has rejected—those close to the Commonwealth secretariat believe that even a British oil embargo against Rhodesia may stall the diplomatic crisis.

Wilson maintains there is no point of talking about such an embargo until all potential world suppliers agree to abide by such an agreement. A British tanker, owned by a company which is controlled by the British government, is on its way to Mozambique with 12,000 tons of oil for Rhodesia.

WHITES UNITED

Wilson has enacted a number of tough economic measures against Rhodesia but Ian Smith said in a Salisbury interview Thursday these sanctions are merely united the Rhodesian whites.

Conservatives have called on Wilson to explore the possibility of obtaining a settlement with the rebel leader. This brought an embarrassing conflict in the government's reaction. Commonwealth Secretary Arthur Bottomley dubbed Smith a liar and said the government could not deal with him in any way while Lord Gardiner, government leader in the House of Lords, said the Labor administration is willing to consider any proposal Smith may make.

Wilson plans to tell the Commons his policy lies somewhere between the two statements. He would be ready to consider a Smith move if it is done through the governor, Sir Humphrey Gibbs, whom Smith no longer recognizes.

Wilson's problem appears one of trying to remain faithful to the Commonwealth while struggling with a British public which does not seem too happy about the threat of using British troops against a kinsmen in Rhodesia.

When Wilson indicated in Parliament a readiness to supply troops and pledged Britain would not stand idly by if Rhodesia disrupted power vital to Zambia, he drew back when his top supporter, the anti-racism Daily Mirror, warned in a headline: "Watch it, Harold."

In an interview with that newspaper, Wilson said he has no intention at any time of using British forces against Rhodesian troops. Those who had jumped to that conclusion, he added, were "quite wrong."

Folk Festival Will Return To Orillia

ORILLIA (CP) — The Mariposa Folk Festival, booted out of town two years ago for being too rowdy, returns next year with an entirely new format.

It will be staged indoors in mid-February, the first time in its five - year history that the festival has not had an outdoor summer setting.

Promoters of the new festival, the Orillia and District Chamber of Commerce, made the change in order to return the festival to its birthplace. Orillia's town council banned the festival after 1963 rowdyism resulted in vandalism, property damage and liquor violations. The council said it would favor the festival only if it were held in winter, when the snows are deep and the only nip is in the air.

Plans now are to hold the festival in Orillia's opera house, which seats 750 persons, starting will be a concert Feb. 18. Other concerts will be held on the two following days. A folk song workshop also is planned.

Syd Danks, a Toronto television producer, has been hired to put on the festival, named after a mythical town created by the late Stephen Leacock, the Orillia - born humorist.

Lord Thomson Says Papers Must Face Challenge of Advent of Colored TV

PORT OF SPAIN, Trinidad (Reuters)—Lord Thomson, head of Thomson Newspapers Ltd., said Thursday that although there is room for everyone—newspapers, radio and television—in news communication, color television will be almost unbeatable when it comes.

Thomson made the remark in a speech on the prospects of journalism in competition with television, radio and news magazines at a conference of the Commonwealth Press Union in Trinidad's capital.

The Canadian-born publisher said newspapers must face the challenge posed by the advent of color television by improved to revolutionize their production.

"Production in color is vital to our business," he said.

Thomson said any newspaper that cannot in the future produce in color will be sorry about it.

PAPERS TO STAY

"I am quite satisfied newspapers will stay and to survive the challenges which must come," he said. "I have no fear at all as to the future of newspapers."

Gilla Purcell of Toronto, general manager of The Canadian Press, said the newspaper that carries out its prime job of giving the people all the news "without neglecting also to give meaning and human interest," will continue to enjoy success.

In a comparison of competitive news media, Purcell said radio could be expected to continue to be the initial source of news for most people. Television would improve but "even the best half-hour news presentation cannot match more than the front page of a first-class newspaper."

The newspaper — "it's there when you want to read what you want to read"—must continue to expand its effort to report the news fully and with explanation, Purcell said.

"The newspaper that is content to give its readers merely routine, factual news is in for trouble. So is the newspaper that pushes news aside for trashy feature content."

W. D. Barneton, representing British provincial newspapers, said the press in Britain need not be unduly anxious about competition from either radio or news magazines, but television competes ruthlessly, efficiently and successfully for advertising revenue.

Barneton said television also competes in a habit - forming way for the minds and loyalties of the younger generation.

PRAISES SPEECH

M. Chapman Walker of the British National Sunday newspaper, The News of The World, congratulated Purcell for an "excellent speech" but said he disagrees with Barneton that newspapers need to fear competition from television.

Walker said newspaper production in future will be much improved with the methods of production in TV.

Business sessions, held earlier in Jamaica, continue in Trinidad until Saturday.

FORM COTTAGE GROUP

TORONTO (CP) — A group of Ontario cottage owners, dissatisfied with the activities of the Federation of Ontario Cottagers' Association, has formed a separate organization to apply political and other pressure on the provincial government. The group, to be known as the United Cottagers of Ontario Association, is headed by L. Grieve Robinson, a Toronto lawyer.

Former Professor at Syracuse Seeks Mozambique Self-rule

Headquarters for exile independence movements in white-ruled African countries is Dar es Salaam, capital of Tanzania. The main leading Mozambique's fight is interviewed in this story by a Canadian Press reporter.

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN

DAR ES SALAAM, Tanzania (CP)—Canada and the United States seem to be losing their ardor for African independence, says the man who is leading a rebellion against the rulers of Portuguese Mozambique.

Dr. Eduardo C. Mondlane, 45, a Mozambican who once taught anthropology at Syracuse University, pleaded that North America give the same support to his movement as was extended earlier to independence movements elsewhere in Africa.

It seems ironic that Dar es Salaam, which means "haven of peace," is the official home of revolutionary movements. The African Liberation Committee—The Committee of Nine—was set up here in 1963 by the 36-nation Organization of African Unity to assist various nationalist movements.

The office of Mondlane, a sophisticate who was educated in South Africa, Portuguese and U.S. universities, is found near the dusty corner of Lumumba and Nkrumah streets.

Diagonally across the street are the offices of the African National Congress—the banned South African nationalist movement.

Putting aside his New York newspaper, Mondlane was interviewed while playing children and crying babies raised a lusty din outside the window. An officer in camouflage-type uniform had just reported on aspects of the guerrilla Mozambique war that has been in progress for more than a year.

PREDICTS VICTORY

Mondlane, predicting victory within five years, said he has about 2,000 guerrilla fighters in his hill-and-jungle army against more than 30,000 Portuguese soldiers but his force is growing monthly in strength.

He expected in time to match the Portuguese in manpower but might even be able to get arms because "they have an endless source of weapons in the North Atlantic alliance." Portugal should be kicked out of NATO because it violated the principles on which the alliance was formed, said Mondlane, a former United Nations official.

"Canada, the U.S., West Germany, Britain and other NATO members have to fool themselves by insisting that Portuguese honor the agreement they made when signed not to use the weapons given by NATO outside the NATO area.

"The moral, political and moral point of view I think Portugal is correct in using the weapons, the same way as France did in the Algerian rebellion.

"Portugal claims that Mozambique is part of Portugal. From the moral point of view, she considers herself one nation. Consequently she has to defend whatever is hers. So I think that Canada and all the NATO powers should question the whole idea of colonialism themselves with a power that holds a colonial system that is completely out of date."

(Canada stopped making NATO mutual aid shipments of military supplies to Portugal in November, 1960, and has repeatedly indicated it disapproves of Portugal's colonial policies.)

'LAND IS OURS'

Lacking weapons, "we will use the other advantages we have over Lisbon," said Mondlane, adding that Portugal's population is 10,000,000 while Mozambique's is about 7,000,000, including only 100,000 whites. Other sources put the white figure at 150,000.

"The land is ours. The population is with us. Barely 1.5 per cent of the population is Portuguese white. So we will use the resources of common ethnic background. We know we can get help Portuguese to want to negotiate or to clear out."

Mondlane said Westerners, particularly North Americans, nourish an illusion that the Portuguese — because they do not impose a color bar — are less harsh than the South Africans.

Portuguese rule had, in fact, been harsher than South African regimes in the past but now Prime Minister Verwoerd had gone to extremes and the systems could be described as about equally tough.

Since the accession to rule in Lisbon of dictator Salazar, one of the world's most durable dictators, there had never been a split of power among the judiciary, administration and ruling party, "said Mondlane.

"To make it worse this machinery is being applied in a colonial situation where the interests of the whites are paramount."

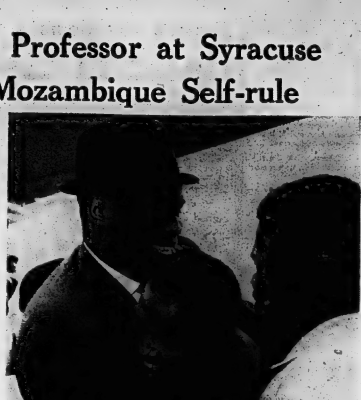
CRITICIZES CHURCH

Even overthrow of Salazar would hold no new hope for Mozambique because "we can not identify a force within Portugal that would be for our independence at is stage." Asked about the role of the Roman Catholic church, Mondlane said:

"The church has been co-operating with the Portuguese government for so long I don't think it now knows what justice is. The Portuguese church is a part of the state now. It's a national church—not an independent force."

Mondlane, who heads the FRELIMO Front for the Liberation of Mozambique, said he was puzzled by U.S. and Canadian attitudes toward Mozambique and other territories in southern Africa.

"We feel the North American people, the Canadians and Americans, ought to follow the same policies as they did through the period of the independence movement in the late 1940s, through the '50s and the early '60s.



"Then they supported the movements for self - rule which seems to have been ignored lately in United Nations and Canadian circles especially in relation to Portugal.

"We feel the North American people are beginning to retreat in connection with the aspirations for freedom of the people of southern Africa, not only of Mozambique, but of Rhodesia, Southwest Africa.

"We do not understand this. We would like them to support us in the same way as they supported countries now independent, such as Nigeria, Tanzania."

Mondlane was not suggesting a "war of liberation" but the U.S. and Canada could take a "strong and clear position at all international conferences, speaking out on behalf of the people of these countries."

He also hoped for help in technical training and education to "equip us for the responsibility for which we're fighting."

Meany After Higher Wages For Workers

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — President George Meany of the AFL-CIO pledged Thursday to improve conditions for "poor, hungry" low - paid American workers.

Meany, himself in line for a $25,000 pay increase, said the giant labor federation will help win higher wages for millions of underpaid workers in the United States.

Meany, opening the AFL - CIO's 10th anniversary convention with the promise to ask what the federation calls "the working poor," will be earning $100,000 a year if the convention approves his pay hike.

"There are millions and millions of people of this country who have jobs and do hard-breaking work, but who are not paid enough to properly feed, house, clothe and educate their families." Meany told some 1,500 delegates.

He said the first step would be to win legislation in Congress to raise the federal minimum wage from $1.25 to $2 an hour and expand its coverage to some millions of additional workers.

Mistreatment Of Boy Cost Man 6 Months

SUDBURY (CP)—A Sudbury man who mistreated a four-year-old boy by putting him outside at night in his pyjamas, locking him in a refrigerator and beating him Thursday was sentenced to six months in prison.

Rudy Allan Chartrand was convicted last week of assaulting Mark Jocko on Nov. 27.

Magistrate W. F. Woodliffe told Mr. and Mrs. Winnifred Jocko, that when Chartrand is released from jail, she is not to allow him in her home.

Evidence was that Chartrand lived at the same address as the Jocko family.

He brought the child back inside, but placed him in the refrigerator and closed the door. After keeping the boy in the refrigerator five minutes, he took him out and threatened him with a lighted cigarette, court was told.

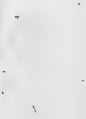
Which whisky do the Jones' really drink?

When it comes to whisky, the Jones' can afford to please themselves.



Yet they don't let price dictate their taste. They have taste of their own.

Which is why it's not surprising that so many of the Jones' drink Bonded Stock. This is a smooth, mellow whisky with a flavour you don't have to disguise.

The sensible price is an extra you get for having good taste in the first place.

One other thing: you don't have to be one of the Jones' to appreciate Bonded Stock. All you need is a taste for good whisky.

Gooderham's have been distilling fine whisky since 1832.

TRENTON HERE TONIGHT

They go by the name of Trenton Apple Kings.

And when they go, there is, apparently, no stopping them.

The Kings, led by a hot scoring combination of Al Ferguson, Andy Teeple and Terry Hutchison, have won five games, lost four and tied three so far this season.

Two of the five wins have been at the expense of the powerful and loop-leading Oshawa Crushmen. Three of the other wins, plus a tie, came against the second-place Kingston Frontenacs.

Trenton has also beaten Belleville in their only meeting and has yet to meet Peterborough.

Meanwhile at the other end of the group standings are the Cobourg Cougars, with a pair of wins and two ties in 11 games.

And in case you haven't guessed it by now, one of the wins and two of the ties were against the same Trenton squad that handles Oshawa and Kingston with such regularity.

A Trenton source says Oshawa plays it wide open and that's the Kings' style, thus the surprise wins.

At any rate the Apple Kings will be going all out to outscore the Rollins boys here tonight. It might not be too easy a task.

Rollins showed plenty of desire and comeback punch by scoring three goals in the final minute of play in gain a "must" victory in Cobourg the other night.

That victory kept the locals close on the heels of Trenton, Kingston and Peterborough.

Right now Oshawa has 28 points, followed by Kingston with 16, Trenton and Peterborough with 15 each, Belleville with an even dozen and Cobourg in the cellar with eight. Five four-point games are included in these totals.

It is hard to see Oshawa missing a playoff berth, even if the club's best players are lost to the "A" Generals early in January. And Kingston now appears to have at least some kind of drive after a slow start, climbing from a last place tie up to second spot. With scoring punch from Syl Apps and Lee Lavelley, the Frontenacs also should catch a spot in their semi-finals.

That leaves four clubs to battle for two playoff positions. Cobourg will have a tough time making it (unless they can play every game against Trenton) as we now have three.

Peterborough, Belleville and Trenton may well end up battling for the two remaining playoff spots. Somebody won't make it, that goes without saying, so every game involving these clubs is a key one.

We won't even try to guess when it comes to Rollins. They can look like world beaters one night and like a poor juvenile club on another. The club's bench is far from strong which means that the solid half dozen or so must come up with strong efforts at all times if the club is to win its share. Some of the less experienced players have started to pop in the odd goal and if one or two can develop quickly, Rollins could finish as high as third.

At any rate, tonight's tilt is a big one and we look for a real stiff battle.

* * *

Still on the junior front, a short meeting was held the other eve and team representatives decided on first vs fourth and second vs third for the semi-final playoffs.

They will be best-of-seven affairs if ice is available in the various centres involved.

A date was also set for the league All-Star game, something new this year.

It seems all teams contribute to the OHA emergency fund and last year it was decided for each OHA grouping to hold an All-Star game with the proceeds going to the fund.

The Eastern group decided to pit the defending group champions, in this case the Kingston Frontenacs, against the chosen All-Stars.

The game will be played in Kingston on Wednesday, January 19, at 8.00 p.m.

Belleville's Gordie Bell was named manager of the All-Stars at the recent meeting. Gordie selected Oshawa's Ted O'Connor to coach the club.

The whole affair sounds like a good idea and an added incentive for the players to give their best and perhaps earn a spot on the squad.

Baseball Genius Branch Rickey Dies

By HURLL E. WARREN Jr.

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP)—Branch Rickey, the front office genius who remade baseball over a span of 30 years, died Thursday night after lingering 26 days in a coma which overtook him while he was talking about courage.

Rickey had told a story of physical courage as he acknowledged his induction into the Missouri Sports Hall of Fame Nov. 13.

"Now I'm going to tell you a story from the Bible about spiritual courage," he said.

But he faltered, fell back into his seat and slipped to the floor. He never regained consciousness. His brain was damaged when his breathing stopped momentarily and he fell into a coma.

He would have been 84 on Dec. 20.

Mrs. Rickey, who had been his grammar school sweetheart in Ohio and Mrs. Stephen Adams, one of their five daughters, had just left the hospital Thursday before he died.

STRICKEN IN 1958

Rickey had a heart attack as long ago as 1958 and left a hospital in St. Louis to attend the Hall of Fame ceremony in Columbia. He had been running a temperature up to 103 and was supposed to return to the hospital in St. Louis for further study to determine the cause.

He devised the farm system and raised the St. Louis Cardinals from rags to World Series riches. He broke the major leagues' unwritten color barrier by signing Jackie Robinson into the Brooklyn organization in 1945 and put him on first for the Dodgers in 1947.

"He was like a piece of mobile armor, and he would throw himself and his advice in the way of anything likely to hurt me," Robinson said.

Baseball men called Rickey's farm system a chain gang, but Rickey contended it saved baseball.

Rickey joined the Cardinals in 1917 after almost four years as a manager of St. Louis Browns, but he put in four years in the army before he took up the reins as manager. He moved entirely into the front office in 1925. In 1926, the Cardinals won their first pennant and the World Series.

The Cardinals won seven pennants and five world championships as Rickey plumbed the talents of such as Dizzy Dean and his brother Paul, Pepper Martin, Joe Medwick, Leo Durocher, Frank Frisch and Terry Moore.

MOVES TO BROOKLYN

Rickey moved to Brooklyn in 1942 as part-owner. The Dodgers picked up two pennants in eight years before he sold out for $1,000,000. At 64, he signed on as general manager of the last-place Pittsburgh Pirates.

In five years he could not lift them and bowed out; but five years later, in 1960, his work bore fruit. The Pirates won their first pennant in 33 years and beat New York Yankees in the Series.

Rickey was ill when he rejoined the Cardinals. He quit after they won the world championship in 1964.

He was born at Stockdale, Ohio, taught school for two years, worked his way through Ohio Wesleyan University, part of the time by working as director of athletics and baseball coach at Allegheny College. He studied law at Ohio State and Michigan, coaching baseball on the side.

He was a catcher for New York americans, the Browns and Cincinnati between 1904 and 1907, when his arm went bad and 13 Pioneers stole bases on him in one game.

He practised law a year in Boise, Idaho, but was back at baseball within a year as a coach at Michigan and a scout for the Browns.

Signed Jackie Robinson

Rickey Defied The Color Line

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — In all of the late Branch Rickey's nearly 84 years no day probably was as important as April, 15, 1947—the day Rickey chose to poke his finger through a neological barrier and announced that Brooklyn Dodgers had purchased Jackie Robinson.

The ramifications were far-reaching.

By making the announcement of Robinson's purchase from Montreal Royals of the International League, Rickey had tapped Robinson as the first Negro player to enter baseball's major leagues.

"The American public," said Rickey, "is not as concerned with a first baseman's pigmentation as it is with the power of his swing, the dexterity of his glove, the gracefulness of his fielding or the speed of his legs."

Asked if Robinson had been brought up to solve a sociological problem, Rickey said:

"I brought him up for one reason: To win the pennant. I'd play an elephant with pink horns if he could win the pennant."

MAKES SEARCH

Rickey started his search long before 1947 when he decided that the breaking of the color line in baseball was inevitable. What Rickey wanted was a Negro who would be an example for his race as well as an outstanding ball player.

Two scouts made separate reports to Rickey and both came up with the same name: Jackie Robinson.

Then, one day in August, 1945, scout Clyde Sukeforth approached Robinson in a Negro hotel in Chicago and asked him that Rickey wanted to see him.

"It took me a long time to convince myself that he was not just making a gesture," said Robinson. "Until I was sure that Rickey was in earnest, I could not go into it, no matter what he offered me for signing a contract."

BECOMES FIRST

Robinson was signed to a contract with the Dodgers' Montreal farm club—becoming the first Negro in organized baseball.

Robinson later pointedly told how important Rickey had been to him.

"One of the biggest factors in my success has been the encouragement of Mr. Rickey," he said.

"Mr. Rickey was like a piece of mobile armor and he would throw himself and his advice in the way of anything likely to hurt me."

Russians Have Landed

Tour To Test Strength

TORONTO (CP) — Russia's leading hockey team flew into Toronto Thursday night and almost immediately asked to be taken 120 miles to London where they are to meet Canada's national team tonight.

Lloyd Pollock, representing the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, was in a bit of a stew for a while. His instructions were to lead the Russian overnight in a suburban hotel before going to London for a workout this morning.

After several suggestions by as interpreter that the Russians would like to go directly to London, the Soviet delegation yielded to Pollock.

Team leader Viktor Kounetsov was asked by reporters about Soviet strength in working towards the 1968 Olympic Games.

"We shall see from this tour," was the reply.

The tour ends Dec. 22 at Winnipeg.

The Russian team arrived from Montreal on the same plane as Boston Bruins of the National Hockey League. Toronto Maple Leafs here Saturday night.

Boston's Tommy Williams, who met several of the Russian players in Prague, Czechoslovakia, in 1957's world tournament, described them as "a good bunch of guys."

Later at the hotel, the Russians lost another "battle." They asked for a chicken dinner but were served turkey.

The Trots

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — An exacta of $840.20, biggest of the meeting, was paid Thursday night on the ninth and final race at Windsor Raceway.

Only 13 tickets were issued on the combination of 8 and 8—Borderview Sam at 50-to-1 and Angus at 12-to-1 for the exacta. They finished in that order with Royal R Joe third at 16-to-1.

All three were noses apart at the wire. Borderview Sam was the first horse to pay in triple figures here returning $107.80 for the win.

Wings Stretch Win Streak To Five

Whip Rangers 7-3

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

One more for Bathgate and it's 300.

Andy Bathgate of Detroit Red Wings scored once Thursday night to contribute to his team's 7-3 win over New York Rangers and move to within one goal of a goal-scoring total of 300 in the National Hockey League.

ALEX DELVECCHIO

Bathgate, 33-year-old native of Winnipeg who broke into the big league in 1952 with New York Rangers, gets a chance to reach 300 Saturday when the Wings and Rangers—only teams to play Thursday night—clash in New York.

The victory extended the Wings' winning streak to five games and tightened their hold on third place in the standings. They are three points ahead of the fourth-place Toronto Maple Leafs but well behind Montreal Canadiens and Chicago Black Hawks, who are tied for first.

In their five-game streak the Wings have picked up 32 goals. They managed only 39 in their first 15 games of the season.

The Wings were paced by Alex Delvecchio, who scored a goal and assisted on three others. The other strong point-getters for Detroit were Gordie Howe and Norm Ullman, each with a goal and two assists.

IMTH GAME-WINNER

The Wings never gave New York a chance as Floyd Smith and Doug Barkley popped in two unanswered goals in the first period.

The second period saw five goals scored. The Rangers started things off when Bob Nevin scored at 1:24. Ullman came back with a goal to cancel this effort and Howe made it 4-1. Later in the same frame Jean Gratelle scored for the Rangers and Ab McDonald for the Wings.

The final Ranger goal was netted by Garry Peters but Detroit had the last say as Delvecchio and Bathgate each scored once in the last five minutes of the game.

The weekend features a full card of six games. In addition to the Rangers-Wings match Saturday, Chicago is at Montreal and Boston Bruins meet the Leafs at Toronto. Montreal is at Chicago, Toronto at New York and Detroit at Boston in Sunday engagements.

Leafs Add Rearguard Al Arbour

TORONTO (CP) — Defenceman Al Arbour says he was surprised when Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League called him up Thursday from Rochester Americans of the American League to replace injured Bobby Baun.

Although no stranger to the NHL, Arbour said in a workout here he was "surprised to get the call . . . because the other guys have been playing very well at Rochester."

Punch Imlach, Leaf manager - coach, said he asked Joe Crozier, Rochester's general manager, to name his best defenceman. The answer was Al, a professional for 16 seasons.

Imlach said he was surprised "no other team drafted Arbour the years we left him open."

WON'T FLY

But while Imlach and Crozier both have faith in him, Arbour said he doesn't expect to do earthwelks when the Leafs meet Boston here Saturday.

"I don't skate as well as I used to . . . the NHL is the place to play, but I'm no chicken anymore."

Meanwhile, another Leaf call-up—centre Wally Boyer—said Thursday's was "the toughest workout I've ever had."

Boyer was called Wednesday from Rochester and is scheduled to play his first NHL game Saturday.

Boyer, too, was surprised at Imlach's interest.

"I stopped talking about a tryout with the Leafs long ago," said the 28-year-old centre from Cowan, Man.

Fontinato Takes Team On Tour

TORONTO (CP) — Seventeen amateur players, mostly from Toronto's Canadian-Italian Hockey League, will leave here Jan. 3 for a 25-day tour of Italy and Austria.

Coach Lou Fontinato, an Italian - Canadian and former defenceman with New York Rangers and Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey League, will pick 14 of his team members from the local league.

Three others—Mike Babando of South Porcupine, Jerry Minelli of Ottawa and Nelo Bragagnola—will fill out the team's roster.

Big Seven

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Norm Ullman of Detroit Red Wings scored one goal and assisted on two others against New York Rangers Thursday night to move his fourth spot in the National Hockey League individual scoring race.

The three points he picked up gave him a total of 26 for the season and allowed him to move past Jean Beliveau of Montreal, who dropped from fourth to fifth spot with a total of 25. But Beliveau still led the league in assists with 17.

Bobby Rousseau of Montreal Canadiens remained at the top of the standings with 28 points on 14 goals and 14 assists. Breathing down his neck were Stan Mikita and Bobby Hull of Chicago with 29 and 28 points respectively.

Hull leads the league in goals scored with 17 although he has missed four games because of injuries so far this season.

Ullman and Beliveau, in fourth and fifth spots, follow next, trailed by Alex Delvecchio of Detroit with 22 points.

Delvecchio moved from sixth place to sixth spot Thursday night thanks to a four-point performance—one goal and three assists.

Tied in seventh place were New York's Bob Nevin and Detroit's Gord Howe, each with 21 points.

Will Govern Operation of Quebec Tracks

QUEBEC (CP)—The Quebec government announced plans Thursday to establish a commission in the near future to govern the operation of race-tracks in the province.

Revenue Minister Richard Hyde said some racetrack associations now are incorporated illegally under the Companies Act. Such associations will have to present a private bill to the legislature seeking legal incorporation.

In future, Mr. Hyde said, "only associations incorporated according to the provisions of the Criminal Code will be able to hold races with pari-mutuel betting and obtain licences for this purpose."

There now are seven race-tracks offering pari-mutuel betting in Quebec. Mr. Hyde said the government intends to grant the necessary charters to permit all of them to continue.

LADIES' PROVINCIAL TOURNAMENT

This week the results of this Tournament have come to Dorothy Anderson and it is very gratifying to note that out of 15 Belleville bowlers 8 of them got into the prize money.

In the singles Jessie Hunter was 31st with 594, Gail Long was 48th with 579 and Maxine Messer was 51st with 578. In the all events Maxine Messer was 21st with 1710 and Jessie Hunter 33rd with 1706.

Congratulations to the winners and it all goes to prove you have to enter these competitions to have a chance of winning. Incidentally for those who are interested in statistics there were 147 doubles entries and 294 singles entries. It is obvious that next year's tournament here will be quite an undertaking. No doubt it is now in the planning stage.

COMING EVENTS

Monday Dec. 13 to Wednesday Dec. 22nd there will be a turkey shoot. This is a one game affair with handicap. Turkeys are awarded on the basis of one for every 10 entries. You may bowl this anytime that lanes are available and you may enter as often as you like. There is a small entry fee.

For bowlers 18 and under the holiday week will be a busy one. From the 27th of Dec. to 30th of Dec. there will be a Junior Tournament which will include singles, doubles and doubles for boys and girls and mixed doubles. This will take place from 9 a.m. to 12 noon on all these dates.

The tournament is on a handicap basis. Trophies will be supplied in each event by Brunswick Belleville Bowl.

On New Years Eve from 10 a.m. until 1p.m. will be a Junior bowling party. This is open to all kids from — to 14 years and will include bowling, hot dogs and cokes at a small cost.

On New Years Eve beginning at 10 p.m. and running through until 4 or 5 a.m. depending on how long the arm holds up will be the annual New Years Eve roll-a-way. For many of us this has become a regular event for New Years Eve. This year provisions for dancing as well as bowling will be available for revers, hats etc. No one under 21 years of age will be admitted to this party. A buffet lunch is included in the fare.

Art Pfefferle assures me no one will be able to buy a ticket at the door.

Quinte Hockey League Results

Grant Realty, who couldn't win for losing a few weeks back, chalked up their second tight decision of Hockey League victory in a row last night.

The Realty squad nipped Ter-Mar Dusters 3-2, while Legge got leading SACO trounced Stinson - Horlock Combines by an 11-4 count.

SACO jumped ahead 5-0 in the first heat, made it 7-0 in Combines 4-1 in the third.

Don Forsythe scored three of the early goals and Art Deline banged home a hat trick to pace the SACO attack. Gary Genereaux scored twice, Doug Hallam, Larry Bray and Wes Burrows once each. Ray Allen had three assists, Burrows and Gary Little two apiece, Genereaux, Harry Reid, Forsythe, Potter and Jack Gilbey single-tons.

The losers got three of four penalties assessed.

Grant's and the Daubers battled on even terms, tied 1-1 from the first period, until Bill Latimer bagged the winning goal, unassisted, in the third for the Realty.

Mike Foxon also scored on a solo effort for the winners' initial goal.

Sharp goaltending at both ends contributed toward the low score.

Cahill Says Will Return To Rifles

TORONTO (CP)—Leo Cahill says he plans to continue to coach Toronto Rifles of the Continental Football League next season and will sign his 1966 contract this weekend.

"Anything can happen in the meantime, of course, but as of the moment I plan to sign with the Rifles," he said Thursday night.

There has been speculation he would take over duties as coaching the Eastern Conference Montreal Alouettes, replacing Jim Trimble, who was dismissed.

Reds Get Pappas

Robinson Traded To Baltimore

By MIKE RATHET

Frank Robinson is going from Cincinnati Reds to Baltimore Orioles and Chicago White Sox still insist they haven't named a manager.

Those were the latest developments on the major league baseball front Thursday with the trade sending the slugging Robinson to the Orioles in a multi-player exchange that actually cost Baltimore six players highlighting the activity.

Meanwhile, Bill White charged that St. Louis Cardinals, who traded him to Philadelphia Phillies recently, had put out reports adding six years to his age in an apparent attempt to further hurt his much - discussed transaction.

And the White Sox denied a report that former infielder Gredy Hatton, currently managing one of Houston Astros' farm clubs, had been asked about succeeding Al Lopez, who resigned as Chicago manager last month.

REDS GET THREE

Robinson, a 30-year-old right-handed swinger who hit .296 last year with 33 homers and 113 runs batted in, went to the Orioles in exchange for pitcher Milt Pappas and two players recently acquired in trades—

FRANK ROBINSON

Considering that the Orioles had to give up first baseman Norm Siebern to get Simpson from California Angels and had to let outfielder Jackie Brandt and pitcher Darold Knowles go to get Baldschun from the Phillies, Robinson's acquisition left Baltimore six fewer players.

Robinson, who had been Angles' top trade bait by the Reds throughout the baseball meetings despite a 10 - year career in which he has averaged over 300 runs batted in and 32 homers a year, didn't seem upset about the deal.

"The Reds called him up and said he had been traded," Mrs. Robinson said. "We just asked them who he had been traded for."

Pappas, who had a 13-9 record and a .300 earned run average last season, said he was "shocked" because when the baseball meetings ended without a trade "I thought I was out of danger."

Petes Gain Tie For Top

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Peterborough Petes have earned a week-long rest, but their performance Thursday night gave little indication they need one.

The powerful Peterborough club, paced by Mickey Redmond's four goals, defeated Toronto Marlboros 8-4 to move into a three-way tie for top spot in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series with Niagara Falls Flyers and Oshawa Generals.

Elsewhere, Kitchener Rangers got a clutch goal from Ken Gratton with three seconds to go and tied Hamilton Red Wings 3-3.

Other Kitchener marksmen were Billy Huay and Bob Jones.

St. Nicholas Visits B and P Club Party

NAPANEE — Santa Claus was not present at the Christmas party of the Business and Professional Women's Club in Napanee Wednesday, but St. Nicholas took his place to distribute the gifts piled on the hay in a huge Dutch shoe, and Black Peter, with his switch, chastized the occasional guest. In real life St. Nicholas is Mrs. Muriel Preitz and Mrs. Harry Vine is Black Peter. Miss Eleanor Aylsworth told the story, and kept up a running comment.

The distribution of gifts was the climax to a delightful evening in the Superior Hall beginning with a delicious turkey dinner. The tables were decorated in true Christmas style. Carols were sung when the diners could be persuaded to neglect their food for the moment.

Mrs. Raymond Fretts was in charge of the program, which featured three Christmas solos by Mrs. Lorraine Hawley, now of Monroe. Her accompanist was Mrs. Burton Hudgins of Newburgh. There were songs and games for everyone, and a mock wedding which was truly hilarious.

The Napanee B and P Christmas parties are becoming increasingly popular. This year there were more guests than usual, one member bringing five.

President is Mrs. Betty Stimpson, and Mrs. Jean Pratt is secretary.

Theft Charge Brings Year In Jail

NAPANEE — Charged with theft and the possession of stolen goods, Clayton Menard was sentenced by Magistrate Ronald Jackson to one year in jail last Tuesday in Napanee. Archie Allan Aikenbrack, who had the same charge levied against him, was sentenced to three months definite and three months indefinite in the Ontario Reformatory.

Stanley Dale Wright had his motor vehicle impounded for three months and was fined $100 and costs for driving while his licence was under suspension.

Take Lead In Four-Ball Tourney

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Bert Yancey and Dudley Wysong collected 10 birdies in a nine - under - par second round Thursday and took the lead in the $125,000 PGA national four-ball championship with a 128 total.

Their score was 16 under par after 36 holes at the PGA National Golf Club. Six teams were tied for second with 130s.

The field was cut from 177 to 47 for the final two rounds.

Jack Nicklaus and Arnold Palmer made the cut by three strokes with a 36-hole total of 67-66—133.

Nicklaus said of the two, teaming for the first time in PGA competition:

"We'll have to make more birdies or everyone else will have to fall down."

DROP TO SECOND

First - round leaders Jacky and Buster Cupit and the combination of Paul Rondeson and Larry Mowry were among those in a dead heat for second. Both shot 63-67—130.

Gary Brewer and Butch Baird shot the best round of the tournament—a 13-under-par 60 —to make the second - place field with 70-60—130.

Also trailing by two strokes were the teams of Tommy Aaron and Jack Rule, 66-64—130, Jay and Lionel Hebert, 65-65—130, and Bob Gallaway and Dave Philo, 65-65—130.

All Canadian pairs were eliminated for failing to make second - round cutoff. Second-round scores by Canadians were: Al Balding - Dick Marshall 73-67—140; Al Johnston-Bob Moller 68-69—137; George Knudson-Miller Barber 69-72—141.

Dates Changed For Skating Championships

PETERBOROUGH (CP) — Dates for the 1966 Canadian figure skating championships have been changed to Feb. 5-12 from Feb. 7-12 so Canadian skaters can meet the Feb. 8 entry deadline for the International Skating Union's world championships.

R. J. Garner, chairman of the Peterborough Skating Club's Canadian championship committee, said Thursday senior skaters will compete Feb. 5-6 instead of Feb. 11-12 as originally scheduled.

The world championships will be held at Davos, Switzerland.

Griffith 3-1 Favorite

Gonzalez Looks To Jinx

By MURRAY ROSE

NEW YORK (AP) — Challenger Manuel Gonzalez of Texas hopes the recent Madison Square Garden jinx against champions will strike for the third time tonight when he faces favored welterweight king Emile Griffith in a 15-round title bout.

The betting odds, however, favored the champion from New York by 3-1. Starting time is approximately 10 p.m. EST.

Two veteran champions, light - heavyweight Willie Pastrano and middleweight Joey Giardello, were the last two titleholders to risk their crowns in the Garden this year. Both were beaten.

Griffith was the last champion to retain his title in the Garden, defeating Jose Stable in the first part of a double-header title card March 30 just before Jose Torres blitzed Pastrano.

GRIFFITH'S CONFIDENT

Griffith, making his 12th welterweight title fight, seldom has been more determined and confident.

Gonzalez a one-time cotton picker who can't read or write, has a deceiving 37-16-2 record. He hasn't lost since he moved up to the 147-pound division. His victory streak of 13 stretches over 3½ years.

Griffith has a 47-7 record. His only knockout loss was a one-rounder to Hurricane Carter Dec. 20, 1963. He has scored 18 knockouts.

Gonzalez has stopped 10 foes and has been halted once, by Larry Armstead five years ago. Scoring will be by the rounds system. The referee and two judges will be announced at fight time. The mandatory eight - count for knockdowns and the three-knockdown rule will be in effect.

PROGRESS SMALL

TORONTO (CP)—Safety inspectors employed by the department of labor to police safety measures at sites in the province have made little progress in reducing the number of accidents, the department's acting deputy minister says. Thomas Eberlee said Wednesday 220 inspectors hired during the last five or six years are making 140,000 inspections a year "yet the accident rate isn't going down in proportion."

Dave's Hideaway

By

Dave Charles

I am still awaiting a reply from Mr. X Business Man on the teen scene establishment which was proposed in my last Hideaway. The natives are restless ! ! ! And petitions are going around the city like Christmas cards.

The teens will take matters into their own hands and this I feel would be the wrong approach. I hope that organizers of such petitions will hold off until my next Hideaway ! ! !

I have been very busy at the station working "At The Top" on CJBQ. Some ideas will be materializing within the week, others will have to wait. On projects which I will put "At The Top" of my list of importance "Is Cards For Kids No. One . . . I hope that you can find time to send me a greeting card, which I, in turn can distribute to the Belleville sick children to decorate their rooms at Christmas. Once again we will be having "The Christmas Sing A Song" on the show. Every Tuesday and Thursday starting next week, you can phone in and sing a Christmas carol which will be judged by myself and Jim Wright of the CJBQ staff. I can't sing either, but don't let that stop you. Weekly winners and the grand prize winners will receive 45's from CJBQ.

Another part of "At The Top" will be the high school hitfinders. I would like a girl or boy from each of the Belleville High schools to phone me in the top three tunes from their school one of which will be played on the show. High school hitfinders will be heard every Wednesday at 7:15 p.m. starting next Wednesday. At the end of each school year a new hitfinder will be selected.

Tobogganing for several teens over the past few weeks, I have found that there is finally an acceptance of Canadian talent, especially with Vince and the Townsmen from Belleville drawing large, enthusiastic crowds at district dances. On disc, J. B. and the Playboys with "Poor Anne," Bobby Kris and the Imperials with "Dreamville Bag," Terry Black has "Little Liar," Dee and the Yeomen have No. 32 on "008 Twin Twenty Pile," this week. In a few short years the Canadian music industry will be a great one, comparable in size to American and the British ones. The industry has achieved the quality to be accepted in every major musical market in the world. Many have put down the Canadian music industry, saying "It is a baby which will never grow up." To those who think that, I have news for you. From the Quality Record Company of Canada comes this report, "More and more radio stations are becoming aware of the outstanding Canadian talent now available on records and more are doing so every week.

You should be pleased and proud, of the Canadian music scene. There are many Americans in the music scene. There are many Canadians in the music business who have said that the Canadian bands are equal to or better than many in the States.

The reason Americans rarely hear about big Canadian hit records is because of the tight American control there is on union bands appearing in the States. Once the door is open, acceptance is just a matter of time.

Don't forget to pick up your free copy of the "008 Twin Twenty File" at Roluf's or at Riteway. Also one survey will be posted at each Belleville high school.

"008 Yah Yah Club" will soon be a regular dancers in Toronto. Watch for the story in weeks to come in the Hideaway and photos of course, of the gals. Mine are not ready yet, they're still trying to fix the camera.

Vince and the Townsmen will be playing at Quinte Secondary School for a Key Club dance tonight; dancing starts at 8 p.m. Their manager tells me the boys are appearing in Brockville and Kingston for super big gigs.

How's that Christmas shopping coming? Did you take my advice about the girl friend's present ? Oh well you can always sell the house. Fourteen days until Christmas ! ! !

The Kangaroo Song this week is "We Can Work It Out" by the Beatles. "At The Top" feature album is "Rubber Boots, I mean "Rubber Soul" by the Beatles.

Dave's favorite three records are :

Lies ..... Knickerbockers
Flowers on the Wall ..... The Statler Brothers
She's Just My Style . . . Gary Lewis and the Playboys

Dee and the Yeomen, "Take the First Train Home," is steaming up the chart, this week at Number 32 . . . and right behind is another Canadian hit, "Poor Anne," by J. B. and the Playboys. I spent last Sunday with J. B. and he tells me the boys are heading States side in the new year.

The Secret Society of Karbinkle will be coming soon on most of this same stationery.

Props Differ But Same Pleasure

By LYNDY SHRINER (S.C.I.)

Christmas is quite different in Australia than it is in Canada. Here we have icy, cold snow, while in Australia the tropical greenery and colorful flowers are seen almost everywhere.

The evergreen tree is gaily decorated with yellow, blue and red ornaments and is usually set out on the front lawn. Wrapped gifts and presents are stacked under the tree in the warm sunshine. Christmas morning the children race out just as we do to see what Santa Claus has so generously brought them. Laughter and happy faces thank Santa for his hard work in making Christmas enjoyable for them. After eating, the family puts on their new clothes to go to Church. On getting home the children quickly get ready for their wonderful afternoon.

Around one o'clock the excited family leaves for their fascinating time at the park. Cunning kangaroos, furry koala bears and interesting platypi dwell in these parks. The children enjoy watching the kangaroos box for her young, the koala bear eat the leaves of the eucalyptus tree and the duck-billed platypus in search for its food under water.

When the afternoon is over, Christmas evening is spent much the same as here in Canada. A juicy, browned turkey, mashed potatoes, green peas, fresh vegetables and red cranberry sauce is the Christmas dinner appreciated by many Australians. Admiring the lovely gifts usually takes place after eating until it is time for bed.

As you can see, Christmas in Australia with the bright, green trees differs from Christmas in Canada with the glistening ice and deep, white snow but the universal pleasure remains the same.

Says China May Disrupt United Nations

By TERRY STOLIKER (Q.S.S.)

China as a nation exists; this can not be disputed. China as a nation with nuclear weapons also exists. But the answer to these should not entitle a country to blackmail others, including the United Nations.

Communist China is like a child learning to walk, but it has things a bit reversed. Instead of learning to run before it crawls. This nation under the communist regime is comparatively young and yet already it seeks world domination.

Tibet has fallen; Sikkim might as well sign. China's national anthem; India has had repeated disputes with her roaring neighbor to the north. Korea was China's first test on a large scale and Viet Nam has been the last but probably not the last. China has even turned an about face upon her once closest ally, Russia, accusing her of being too lenient with the domineering capitalists.

It is probable, despite the aforementioned, that Red China will be admitted to the United Nations. I can not help but feel this would be a great mistake if her attitude does not change drastically in the near future. Possibly, when this time comes, the child will be running at last as it can. Will this little soother pacify her? Will she sit and pout and refuse to be seated until Formosa is ousted? Will she give up all ideas of conquest?

The United Nations is a good and useful organization but even it does not have the answers to all questions. Why like it its power by admitting a nation which probably will go against everything the U. N. stands for? We may then be forced to term it the "Disunited Nations."

Quinte Keyettes Collecting for Underprivileged

By GAIL NICHOLS (Q.S.S.)

Christmas! A same synonomous with tinsel, rosy cheeks, excited kiddies and Santa. This is the time of year when everyone is bubbling over with happiness and secret satisfaction which one gets when one does something special for others — like giving a gift. I think that is the best part of Christmas — being able to give some one something, from the heart.

The Keyette Club of Quinte is asking students to give from the heart to aid those less amply provided for than they. For the last week and one-half, and until December 30, this service club has provided all home form rooms with boxes to hold donations such as canned goods, clothing or toys.

This annual campaign has been very successful in the past, and with the students help, will be again this year. Two families including 15 children, ranging in age from infants to 14, will be aided. I think they deserve all the happiness Christmas can offer.

Can you help?

A Poignant Look At Our Heritage

SCOT McCLELLAND (M.S.S.)

As he looks from his vantage point, he sees the nations of the world about him. Out of the gloom of dismal abjection and defeat rises up his genius, motion in humble offering. Torn by strife and corruption, its horizon is darkened by the pall of wars which loom ominously. Korea, the Congo, Laos, Viet Nam, Cuba are the names of far away countries where man's influence in peaceful existence are being challenged by those who tear out the guts of modern civilization. They are small moves on a giant board, a game which can never be won or lost. Closer and closer is him they come, threatening the sanctuary of peace he has come to take for granted.

The two opponents — East and West — fight a cold war of nerves and patience. In these countries — the big two — the ultimate disaster — annihilation — can be delivered. The greatest worry is the small countries of non-aligned, emerging nations in the middle, which can easily become the powderkeg of a third world war. The conflict is no longer country versus country; rather it is race against race, colored against white. This is the view of horror which he sees.

The ruin of the world before him goes farther; it reaches to all parts of society, customs, and beliefs. Society is stricken with a terminal disease; it is a hollow structure of fakes and phonies. Society has almost destroyed itself. Its people frantically like the chiken which has its neck severed.

Science and in this world have been forsaken; everyone, every country in attempting to be the greatest scientist of past ecclesias retards the growth of modernization. In the foolish attempt to come up the latest the world is trying to accomplish in a year or two what should literally take a generation. This attempt leaves the countries with no base on which to build a lasting society and plunges them into dire difficulties.

Religion, or the belief in an ethical principle, is being affected as well. Today religion by many Christian standards, is imperfect and unbelievable to the masses of the world. In an age of experiment and proof, the world finds many beliefs that are largely unsupported hard to comprehend and even harder to have any faith in. The church like society, is rotting from within because of its inefficiency and failure to serve the needs of the people.

The church has within its ranks many hypocrites who condemn its fiery hell all disbelievers and loud interpreters of their great efforts in assisting others. Their chief work is in missions where their effort is in inverse proportion to their publicity for helping others.

The ashes and ruins of the world which his forefathers have created await him. He looks down, with terror and horror in his eyes, at what he sees. This is their world, not his, and should he be damned with a world helplessly plunging headlong towards its destruction?

Slowly he turns from the realities of the world, but the anguish and suffering is embedded forever in blueprint.

Wallace's Suggestion Reasonable

By LINDA POWELL (N.C.C.)

When Gov. George Wallace of Alabama was in Toronto last week he made a statement which was surprisingly rational coming from him.

He said that Canadians condemn American southerners for their treatment of negroes, they should do something about the problem of discrimination in their country.

The Canadians are strangely apathetic toward anything from their own country. They would rather absorb American ideas, watch American T.V., idolize American performers.

The civil rights movement in the United States has aroused young Canadians to the extent that they want to express their sympathy towards it in a tangible way. Protest marches are staged and Friends of S.N.C.C. are organized in our universities, some young people even leave their jobs to work in or for civil rights organizations. Like youth all over the world, they want to be developing a social conscience. That is good. But how much better it would be if they would start their crusading in Canada.

Canadian indians are as deserving of help as are American Negroes. They suffer from the same evils — poverty, lack of education, inability to find good jobs. Young people are needed to help these Canadians raise their living standards, and adapt themselves to the society in which they have been thrust.

Let us do as Governor Wallace suggested, and clean up our own back-yard first. A cause is not less worthy just because it is a Canadian cause.

Thanks Dad For Quiet Moments

By DWAYNE ELLIS (Q.S.S.)

My life has been enriched by the blessings of having an easy father has given me the ability tremely wise father.

Today's teenagers often, without realizing it, demonstrate a pasley, frustrated drive to always be on the go and to be part of something lively and swinging and, in effect, social. It is with a great sense of failure that a teenager spends the weekend in that dreaded institution, the home, and often he will go out and roam the streets just to be away from home. Just think what would happen if someone phoned and found a teenager home on the weekend? National disaster number one!

Without my realization, my to relax. His first weapon was the comic book. From this arsenal the introduction of nature. This weapon is (more subtle than reading, contrary to that in previous paragraph, may have been his true first weapon; but the realization of this came to much later than my ability to read. Now in my quiet moments and with understanding of ones self, a basis for true and strong principles is planted deep within an individual. I thank my father for my quiet moments.

WHY?

By J. WORRELL (M.S.S.)

While we want all to love,
We hate;
While we want equal rights,
We discriminate;
While we want to be wise,
We are fools;
While we want to be kind,
We are cruel;
While we want life to last,
We die;
We know this is true,
But not WHY.

MAROONED

By ADDIE BELL (M.S.S.)

I was swindled! There is nothing I can do about it now, since I am on a desert island in the middle of the Pacific; but I was swindled!

You wonder how? Well, this is precisely how this situation came about.

Back home — Las Vegas — I won a poker game, but instead of money I won a boat, so I decided to take an ocean cruise on the Pacific.

A day after leaving port, I ran into a storm and abandoned ship, landing in knee-deep water. I fainted at the thought of drowning and awoke to find myself on this island—or what I thought was an island. New Rules Announced For "500"

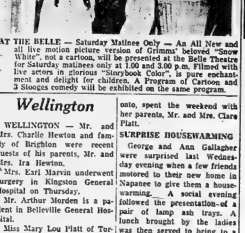
INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP)—The annual 500-mile Memorial Day auto race at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway will be opened next May to medium-size American stock car engines, possibly making them competitive to expensive special racing engines.

Speedway president Anton Hulman said Thursday, after conferring with U.S auto club officials, that new rules will include American stock production block design, single nose overhead camshaft, removable head engines" of not more than 305.7 cubic inches. The limit will be 203.4 cubic inches if supercharged.



Another rule change will reduce the fuel supply permitted each car from 400 to 230 gallons.

BALLET GOES CRIMINAL

MILAN (AP)—A ballet about a bank robbery is being written by Michelangelo Antonioni, the celebrated Italian film producer, for production in 1966 at La Scala opera house. Antonioni says Milan is an appropriate setting since there were three bank robberies within 40 minutes during the current crime wave. Now a policeman is stationed in each one of the city's 400 bank branches.

Charlie Brown and Friends Not Good Television Fare

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—Worried Charlie Brown, aggressive Lucy, musical Schroeder, lonesome Linus—all the inhabitants of the delightful, saturic comic strip by cartoonist Charles Schulz were participants in a Christmas special on CBS Thursday night.

A Charlie Brown Christmas became an explicit demonstration of the sad truth that some good things are better left alone particularly in cases when about half their charm is in the eye and imagination of the beholder.

Charlie Brown was sadder, more appealing and sympathetic when his admirers were able to fill out his personality with some of their own doubts and fears. Lucy's destructive manner and bossy ways were much more deadly when the readers were able to identify her with humans of their acquaintance.

Anyway, Charlie Brown and his friends fell on their little round faces as television stars.

The three major television networks are preparing for a second consecutive weekend when their programming is complicated by a Gemini launching—and this time it is CBS that is worried about a conflict with a football game.

The takeoff of Gemini 6 is scheduled shortly before 10 a.m. EST Sunday (Dec. 12). The difficulties come in the afternoon if and when the space rendezvous with Gemini 7 takes place. The difficulties include CBS' live coverage of the New York Giants-Washington Redskins professional football game.

All three networks plan to show animated drawings, mock-ups and other demonstrations of what is going on.

CBS will follow NBC's lead of last week, splitting its screen in order to cover two events at the same time. NBC's experiment, incidentally, drew the largest audience of the three networks, preliminary audience surveys report.

Samantha Eggar Near Top Screen's Young Actresses

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — They call her Sam Stern at Columbia Studios.

Movie audiences in increasing numbers know her more formally as Samantha Eggar. The wife of actor Tom Stern, she has quickly become one of the screen's top young actresses. In her first American film, The Collector, she delivered a stunning performance that won best-actress honors at the Cannes film festival.

It's highly probable that her name will also pop up among the Oscar nominees next spring.

Samantha is currently starring with Cary Grant and Jim Hutton in Walk, Don't Run, in which she appears fully clothed.

"It is now written in my contract: No bath scenes," she reported.

The reason for this drollery is that her last two films have dipped in the nude with rather sensational results. In The Collector she is pulled from the bath by Terence Stamp, who struggles to prevent her escape.

In Return From The Ashes, she is again bathing when Maximillian Schell enters to push her under.

The film represents another of a string of fortuitous events for the red-haired actress born in London 26 years ago. After schooling in the classics on the London stage, she gained film experience in such British movies as The Wild And The Willing and Doctor in Distress.

A more prestigious film, Psyche 59, brought her to the attention of William Wyler, who was seeking unfamiliar faces to star in The Collector. Samantha was signed, then unsigned as Wyler flirted with the notion of the more familiar face of Natalie Wood. Signals were reversed again, and Samantha was in.

The collector was a gruelling experience for her, and not merely because Wyler is a stern taskmaster.

"The physical aspects were extremely tiring," she said. "We struggled for days in the rain. The physical and mental strains were immense."

Return From The Ashes was also a rugged experience, because she was expecting her first child. She told no one. Nicolas Stern was born Sept. 12.

SWIM SUITS FOR THE WELL-DRESSED SWINGER — The name of shapely Ann-Margaret's new movie is "The Swinger," and evidently she plays the title role, wearing swim suits like these. Her studio hired designer Edith Head, a seven-time Oscar winner for fashions, to create the star's 23 "wild" outfits which include a chain-lock-and-key thing (left) and one called "Bottomless" (right), which isn't quite. Anti-Matter Produced In Germany
HAMBURG (Reuters) — A team of West German and American scientists here today announced a new breakthrough in sources of energy that could dwarf conventional nuclear power.
The 11-member team, working at West Germany's Electron Synchrotron Research Institute throughout the night, created for the first time a so-called anti-protons from light.
Professor Peter Staebelin of the institute said his team had created 18 such particles—negatively charged helium nuclei—which "explode," releasing enormous energy when brought into contact with their normal counterparts.
Scientists believe that distant Milky Ways may consist of such anti-matter.

Mr. Meltzer on Real Estate
"What's Your Problem ?"

By BERNARD C. MELTZER

When buying real estate one is purchasing real property. Items of personal property (such as furniture) normally are excluded.

However, there is large grey area covered by the term "fixtures" which even experts cannot precisely define.

A buyer should protect himself against future disputes.

* * *

Dear Mr. Meltzer: The last time I bought a house I spent a certain sum of money arguing with the seller whether the venetian blinds were included in the sale — and lost. This is my understanding that I am to get the wall-to-wall carpeting, the draperies and the storm windows and screens.

I am far from an expert and yet the agreement of sale mentions nothing about these items. I am told that they are covered in the clause "together with the improvements contained thereon." Am I heading for trouble? — Once Burned.

ANSWER: Our problems related to "fixtures" probably are the largest source of disputes between buyers and sellers.

Fixtures are items of real property (carpets for example) which, when attached to real estate, become part of the property and are normally included in the sale. Unfortunately, the law of fixtures is very complex and highly uncertain and even attorneys specializing in the field admit they cannot always be sure.

The best way a buyer can protect himself is to list all items for which he is bargaining specifically in the agreement of sale. Don't feel the least bit embarrassed if the list is long. If the seller intended to include the items, he will not hesitate to sign. If he refuses you are fully warned that those fixtures are not included in the sale.

* * *

Dear Mr. Meltzer: I recently took some of the money my husband left me and bought a small apartment house. Not only will it provide a good income but it will give me something to occupy my mind.

Three of the tenants are rather wild youngsters. They only have one to three months left in their lease. I want to replace them with mature couples. I don't relish the fight involved in evicting them. Is there an easier way? — Landlord for the Time.

ANSWER: I'll give you a tip by professional property managers. A better way to get rid of undesirable tenants, saving time and money in addition, is to notify them that at the expiration of the lease, the rent will be sharply increased. This gives the tenant a chance to move out peacefully at the same time retaining his pride and saving "face."

* * *

Dear Mr. Meltzer: I have a new house as most of the time I'm very happy. However, on some days devils seem to take possession of the heater doors. I heat and the smoke pours out. Then suddenly it all stops and you couldn't ask for a more evenly heated house. Nobody seems to be able to find the cause of the trouble. — Smoke Eyed

ANSWER: Don't blame unseen devils for your trouble — just an ignorant builder. The reason nobody has been able to find the cause of the trouble is that they have been looking in the wrong place — it is not in the basement or with the heater.

The top of a chimney should be at least a few inches above the roof and at least 2 feet above the highest point of a gable roof. Otherwise, the wind blowing in the wrong direction will cause a down draft with the results you have described. Raise the chimney height and all your troubles will disappear.

Dear Mr. Meltzer: After three marriages I want to make sure this time. My fiance has also something which makes me not so sure.

One of the conditions under which I agreed to marry him was for him to buy me a house and have it ready to move in immediately after the ceremony. He has put a deposit on a house as promised, with settlement scheduled for the week before the ceremony, but the agreement is in his name not mine. How do I make certain that this man is not quiting anything over on me. — Must Be Positive This Time.

ANSWER: You can't! From actions of your fiance I would guess that he plans to put both the deposit and his as the deed. But if you want only your name on the deed, with him putting up all the money, the only way you can make sure is to haul him off to your attorney's office and make him sign a binding agreement to this effect.

* * *

Mr. Meltzer welcomes your letters and comments. Unfortunately, he is unable to enter into personal correspondence with readers, but will attempt to answer as many letters as possible through his column.

Dear Mr. Meltzer: I am very proud of my kitchen range. It is a custom job costing more than $500. When I sell my house will I become the property of the new buyer or can I take it with me to the home I will purchase? — "Housewife"

ANSWER: The kitchen range is considered an item of real property in most areas (there are a few exceptions) and therefore it is included with the sale of the house. If you want to take the range with you, however, you can provide for this contingency by specifically so stating in the Agreement of Sale. You will then have your range but a slightly smaller sales price (the cost of the range).

School Board Chairman Asks Council to Consider Authority for the County

PICTON — A plea to get out of the home and buggy age and plan for the future school needs of Picton was made by W. W. Evans when the Public School Board Chairman appeared before town council this week.

"Grey County has already become the first Ontario county to institute a county-wide public school authority and Prince Edward County should consider doing likewise," he suggested.

There are 1,200 elementary pupils going to school in 20 classrooms in the town and he estimated an additional 17 classrooms will be needed by 1968.

The Board would like to replace Mary Street School with modern accommodations for the children going there. The available cost of the board's building program is $400,000. Mr. Evans said the program is partially based on the eventuality of annexation bringing an additional 200 children into town.

In reply to councillor Robert Whalsley he said the board would begin construction just as soon as council gives its approval. "The town can expect at least an additional 100 pupils if only half of the proposed annexation goes through." He said that "provision must be made now or we are failing the adults of tomorrow. Schooling in Prince Edward County as a whole is a hit and miss affair, and the time to start planning wisely is now. You should decide whether the County Committee Committee should make recommendations for the whole county or whether Picton should go it alone."

Mayor H. J. McFarland asked Mr. Evans to send a copy of the report to each member of council so the report can be brought in the new year.

Mr. Evans conceded that the board expects some opposition from ratepayers afraid their school taxes would soar if they had to pay for transporting their school children by bus to Picton. Mayor McFarland suggested setting up a meeting at a date convenient to all parties.

Further in council this week, applications were made in the work of three resigning town officials as Picton council appointed a clerk-treasurer to combine the offices of clerk and treasurer Douglas Perry of Napanee, clerk of Lennox and Addington County for the past four years takes over from clerk P. L. Ward, assistant clerk Harold McLaughlin and treasurer William McArthur. He will assume his new duties January 1 at an annual salary of $7,000, increasing to $8,000 after 1968. Mayor H. J. McFarland read an official motion of thanks to the three men for their work over the years.

Mr. Perry plans to move to Picton in February. He is married, has three boys and two girls, all under 10. Mr. Perry is a member of the Municipal Clerks and Finance Officers' Association of Canada.

Yacht Ready For Overland Trip on Truck

UTICA, N.Y. (AP) — A stranded Canadian yachtsman whose planned cruise to the West Indies was stalled by the closing of the New York state's inland water route, was ready Thursday to resume the journey—on the back of a flatbed truck.

Glen Carr - Harris of Kingston looked on as a state-owned derrick boat, ordered to the scene by Governor Nelson Rockefeller, plucked his 25-foot yacht from the harbor here and gently lowered it on to the truck.

The 48-year-old retired Canadian Army major said he and his family would embark today on the 90-mile overland trip to the Hudson River at Waterford.

Carr - Harris, his wife and their four children were stopped by state barge canal system Sunday when the waterway closed for the winter. They were on their way from Lake Ontario to the Caribbean via the canal and the Hudson River.

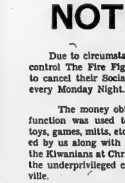
A local man donated the truck. Members of the Utica Jaycees have arranged the necessary motor escort for the exercise boat and will drive the family to Albany, where the Chamber of Commerce and a boatbuilding firm are to join in launching the craft in the Hudson.

Confidence Vote Given Liberal Head

TORONTO (CP) — Andrew Thompson, Ontario Liberal leader, Thursday night was given a vote of confidence by 38 Metropolitan Toronto area riding associations at a private meeting of the Toronto and District Liberal Association.

Association President Joseph Potts told reporters after the meeting that Mr. Thompson spoke briefly about his convention Dec. 4 at Peterborough as a charge of dangerous driving. The Liberal leader was fined $250 with $27.10 court costs.

"He explained that he had done a lot of soul-searching," Mr. Potts said.



"He feels that thing is done and is water under the bridge. He wants us to get on with the business of running the party."

Mr. Potts said association representatives met Mr. Thompson's remarks with applause.

Mr. Thompson was charged following a two - car collision Oct. 6 in Peterborough in which he and four persons in the other car were injured. A charge of impaired driving was dismissed, and charges of careless driving and failing to share the road were adjourned to Feb. 7.

Mr. Potts also said the meeting decided to urge that party finances be made a major topic for debate at the provincial party's annual meeting here Feb. 12.

Kosygin Cements Position Of Prestige in Shake-up

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

One of the illuminating aspects of the Kremlin shake-up is that Premier Alexei Kosygin appears to have cemented his own position of prestige. The first way in which he now displays a stiffer line against the West would indicate the domestic political situation is well under control.

The quiet industrial technician who inherited the seat of the volatile and unpredictable Nikita Khrushchev has gradually developed into a world tactician, sensitive to the view that perhaps a good part of the world is not keen on accepting the Anglo - American argument on Viet Nam or on the white-black crisis in Africa.

In some respects, President Johnson's policies have produced a diplomatic vacuum. Many of the developing countries appear less impressed with his offer of unconditional Vietnamese negotiations than with the reflection of the terrific pounding U.S. planes are delivering in seemingly unprotected North Viet Nam.

The Kremlin deal with reports of how the primitive Viet Con are daily slaughtering Vietnamese and how in South Viet Nam—despite the huge technological advantages of the West—and many countries could well begin to wonder whether China is right in saying that at the end of the ground the U.S. is nothing more than a paper tiger.

U.S. ON DEFENSIVE?

The contention that the U.S. is on the defensive in arguing its Viet Nam position in the court of world opinion cannot be dismissed in attempting to judge why, at this particular time, Kosygin has been in launch a strong, uncharacteristic attack against U.S. policies.

The Soviet Union wants to see the alliance broken up and West Germany neutralized. It wants to see the United States pushed out of Europe and out of Asia. The French threat to walk out with NATO may have given the Kremlin heart that this is how it may have led to dismay at the sight of the rise of German power.

In any case the Soviet leadership has appears to have solidified in the Soviet military hierarchy can concentrate more of its energy and its fire on the West, ending all hope for a detente for the immediate future.

Only Canadians To Blame Says Ont. Premier

TORONTO (CP)—Canadians have no one but themselves to blame for the fact that Canada, one of the world's leading industrial and agricultural nations, is an importer both of manufactured products and foodstuffs.

This was the message Premier Robarts carried Thursday to a gathering of more than 1,000 leaders of the food industry from both Canada and the United States. He spoke to a luncheon in honor of Norman Stepelton, president of National Food Stores.

Mr. Robarts said it is "symptomatic of the weakness in the Canadian character" that Canadians let others invest in their country and refuse to take the risks necessary to develop Canada themselves.

"The Canadian investor too often looks for security and is reluctant to take a risk", he said.

"Yet, this same investor is disturbed at the thought that someone from outside Canada is willing to take risks in a country to develop industry of our material resources."

SLAY 42

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP)—Bow- and - arrow warriors of Ethiopia and Sudan have massacred 42 Turkana tribesmen in a cattle raid on a village just inside Kenya's northern frontier, Kenya police reported Thursday. The Turkana herders later followed the raiding party, killing 25 raiders in a two-day running battle, the police said.

A King and The Book

By CLARENCE W. CRANFORD

Among the later kings of Judah, one name stands out as a shining example of integrity and loyalty to the religion of Jehovah. That name is Josiah. When he died in battle, even the prophet Jeremiah, lamented his death, (II Chron. 35:25), and reminded Josiah's son. "Did not your father eat and drink and do justice and righteousness? Then it was well with him. He judged the cause of the poor and needy; then it was well. Is not this to know me? says the Lord." (Jer 22:15-16 RSV)

That Josiah was the kind of king he was shows not only the soundness of his character, but the revival of true religion in the land. Both his father and grandfather did "what was evil in the sight of the Lord." (II Kings 21:20 and 23) Both encouraged the worship of false gods, even to the extent of human sacrifice. But Josiah was too young to remember their ways. He was only eight years old when he began to reign. It was not until the 18th year of his reign that he took positive steps to restore the glory of the temple. (II Kings 22:3-7) In the meantime, someone had instructed him well in the faith of the true God. Enough people were interested in the restoration of the true faith of Israel to encourage him to take steps to return the temple to its former prestige and beauty.

AN IMPORTANT DISCOVERY

In this he was aided by a very fortunate discovery. Since the day of Solomon, temple worship had fallen increasingly into disregard. The Passover was no longer observed. The ancient book of the law had disappeared and there were no copies to remind men of its instructions and warnings.

Then, one day, in a neglected corner of the temple, Hilkiah, the high priest, found an ancient scroll. He recognized what a rare find he had made. To Shaphan, the secretary of the temple, he announced, "I have found the book of the law in the house of the Lord." (II Kings 22:8 RSV) Shaphan was so impressed, he carried the book to the king. When the king heard it read, he was so moved by its words, he rent his clothes in penitence.

The Uniform Sunday School lesson for December 12: "Josiah", II Kings 22 through 23:30.

He demanded to know the authority of the book. Under his instructions, the priests carried the book to a prophetess named Huldah, highly regarded for her spirituality and wisdom. When she had read it, she was convinced that this was indeed a direct word from God. In the light of its words, the nation stood condemned for its apostasy. The king, however, would escape condemnation because of his penitence.

Armed with the teachings of this book, Josiah set out on a thoroughgoing program of instruction and reform. He read its contents to the people. He made a new covenant with the Lord, and set out to wipe away every vestige of false religions from the land. Pagan idols and altars were torn down and burned. The priests of false religions were slain. The worship of the temple was restored. And what is more important, the national observance of the Passover was resumed. (II Kings 23:21)) Thus after years of absence, in the bands of a righteous king, the boot of the law returned to proclaim its message in ringing tones to the people of Judah.

NEED FOR NEW DISCOVERY

That book was undoubtedly the book of Deuteronomy. The experience of Josiah shows how important it, and other sacred writings, are to the moral and spiritual welfare of a nation, and of the world. What would Judaism be without the Torah? What would Christianity be without its Bible? Men need to rediscover its inspired and tested truths by which to steer their moral and religious destinies. Without the Bible, Christians would be like a navigator without a north star. The Bible preserves from generation to generation the great unifying truths that have given men inspiration and guidance down through the centuries.

Josiah lost his life trying to stop aggression. Neco, the king of Egypt, joined forces with Assyria to invade Syria. Josiah tried to stop him at Megiddo. Neco insisted his quarrel was not with Judah. (II Chron. 35:21) But Josiah determined to stop Egypt from further conquest. In the battle, Josiah was killed. Sadly his body was borne back from the field of battle, as the people mourned. "Before him there was no king like him, who turned to the Lord with all his heart and with all his soul and with all his might, according to all the law of Moses." (II Kings 23:25 RSV)

The Bible today is not lost, but it is unheeded. Strange altars of secularism and sensualism fill the land. The times call for men with the faith and courage of a Josiah to proclaim the truth of God and to seek to restore His righteousness to the affairs of men.

CHATHAM (CP)—A five-year age limit was set on all Chatham taxis under a bylaw passed by the city police commission Thursday. Chief Constable E. Bagnall said the bylaw will rule off the streets cars manufactured more than four years before the current licensing period.

Leader of NDP Suggests Softening Bancroft Water

TORONTO (CP)—New Democratic leader Donald C. Macdonald called on the government Thursday to say whether it has considered the use of water-softening equipment to remove radiation from drinking water in the Elliot Lake and Bancroft areas, and, if it has rejected the idea, to explain to the public why.

He quoted a report of the United Nations' scientific committee on the effects of atomic radiation as saying the radium content of water can be reduced by the introduction of filtration and water softening systems.

No mention of this was made in a report presented to the government last month by a committee of four deputy ministers appointed a year earlier to investigate radioactive contamination levels in waters of the uranium mining areas.

This was an "intriguing omission," Mr. Macdonald said.

The study showed there were excessive levels of radioactive contamination in some Elliot Lake and Bancroft area waterways but concluded there was no danger to persons drinking the polluted waters over a short term.

Whirlpoolish Language At Poverty Parley Makes Reporters Envy Illiterates

OTTAWA (CP) — The conference on poverty was told th' week that more than 1,000,000 Canadians are illiterate.

Some delegates may have felt that way themselves as they slogged through sociological jargon in various studies.

Some papers were sprinkled with Latin terms such as "ad hoc" and "per se." Strange words like "scatteration" added to the confusion.

"Whirlpoolish," muttered an Anglican minister.

An Ontario delegate confessed that he understood little of what was being said. Reporters were barred from the meetings but did get hold of a few of the papers. The message left the mind reeling.

One sentence in a paper was 69 words long.

It read:

"This scattering effect of tenants in housing projects should promote also a further social stimulus in that with some families more ambitious than might be the general level of the tenants in a building, the families with both a higher standard of individual behavior and higher income (though these two characteristics do not automatically follow) should provide a leadership base which will have an 'up-lift effect on all residents.

Another went this way:

"There will be a considerable de-emphasis at the project form of development while recognizing that, depending on the size of the community, optimum dispersal of units may be substantially less than total scatteration."

Reporters guessed this means low-rental housing will be spread around rather than centred in big apartment blocks.

The papers contained everything from platitudes to beatitudes as they spoke of the poor.

"Blessed are the poor," said one aimed at wiping them out.

Another, from Prince Edward Island, said the poor should "wash not work for your country can do for you but what you can do for your country."

Federal briefs were relatively readable, except for lapses like "downward bias." This refers to a line on a graph but it could be taken to mean "sideways prejudice" by readers unfamiliar with officialese.

The conference ended with a reporter suggesting that if Paul Hellyer, top-level external affairs minister is renowned for his ability to confuse—were available, it should go to Tom Kent.

Mr. Kent, special adviser to Prime Minister Pearson, is director of a special planning secretariat on poverty. He organized the federal-provincial conference.

Mr. Kent grinned bravely and summed up the confer-

Hoffa Places Truck Drivers In Trusteeship

TORONTO (CP)—The International Brotherhood of Teamsters (Ind.) moved swiftly Friday to bring its strife-torn Teamsters-based Local 938 into line.

A telegram from James Hoffa, international president of the union, placed the truck drivers' local in trusteeship with Raymond Greene, Montreal Teamster executive, in charge.

Mr. Greene arrived in Toronto late Friday afternoon and within minutes issued orders suspending the local executive board, reinstating all but two of them on a temporary basis and cancelling a membership meeting scheduled for Sunday.

The two executive board members dropped are Secretary - Treasurer Lloyd Merritt and Business Agent Charles Thibault, leaders of a dissident group in the local.

The rebels accuse President Ken McDougall and Vice-President Gordon Newman of misusing union funds and not taking a strong enough stand in contract negotiations.

CALLS IT SCREENY

Mr. Thibault telephoned Toronto newspapers Friday to say the trusteeship was an attempt to cover up his charges.

He also laid an assault charge against Mr. Greene in connection with the local's business agents, after a fight in the local office was broken up by police Friday.

The local, which has branches in Hamilton, Kingston, Windsor and Lambton, is engaged in negotiations with 85 trucking firms on behalf of 3,500 of its 6,500 members.

A conciliation board report on the negotiations is expected early next week. Mr. McDougall has said a strike is certain, but not before Christmas.

Mr. Greene said he will return Wednesday to begin private interviews with all business agents and executive board members.

WILL HEAR BOTH SIDES

He said he will listen to both sides of the dispute in an attempt to get at its cause.

"As soon as possible I'll meet with the general membership where we can discuss the problem sensibly," he said.

Mr. Hoffa said in his telegram that he was placing the local in trusteeship at the request of five local executive board members because dissension in the executive-board prevented the union from serving as an effective bargaining agent for its members.

He said he had been advised that Secretary-Treasurer Merritt had called an unauthorized general membership meeting

Pearson To Visit Trinidad

PORT OF SPAIN (CP) — Prime Minister Eric Williams of Trinidad and Tobago said Friday the possibility of his country getting a share of the Canadian sugar quota formerly reserved for Rhodesia is a probable topic of discussion next week in his talks with Prime Minister Pearson.

An increase in the number of Canadians teaching here also is certain to come up for discussion, Dr. Williams told delegates to the Commonwealth Press Union meeting here.

Mr. Pearson and his wife are to arrive here Tuesday, following a holiday on the French island of St. Bartholemew, for a two-day visit before leaving for Canada.

Expanding in reference to Rhodesia, Dr. Williams said his people are overwhelmingly critical of British handling of the revolt of the Ian Smith administration there.

Sudbury Inco Employees' Vote Won by Steel Workers Union

SUDBURY (CP)—The United Steel Workers of America (CLC) have retained bargaining rights for 15,000 workers at the International Nickel Co. of Canada plant here with a 2,000-vote jurisdictional victory over the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers (Ind.).

Results of three days of balloting were announced Friday night as the Steelworkers maintained their position as sole bargaining agents for Inco workers anywhere in North America.

Voting was supervised by A. N. Brunskill, registrar of the Ontario Labor Relations Board, who led a team of 50 labor board representatives during tabulation in a local hotel room.

Final count gave the Steelworkers 8,194 votes to Mine-Mill's 6,009.

It was the second Steelworker win over Mine-Mill in three years—in 1962 they unseated the smaller union as Inco agents with a 3-to-1 vote victory that climaxed a year of violent union struggle and ended 17 years of Mine-Mill jurisdiction here.

Balloting, following a three-day ban on circulation of union literature, ended at 2 a.m. Friday. Close of campaigning also closed a year of bitter but nonviolent struggle as the two unions put their cases to the workers.

The Steelworkers will continue to collect the $1,000,000 in dues which the employees contribute annually.

During the latest campaign, Mine-Mill, at a disadvantage with only 10,000 members in Canada, reminded workers of its tradition as a miners' union.

The Steelworkers, 120,000-strong with nearly $21,000,000 in international assets, brought in President I. W. Abel, CLC President Claude Jodoin and the Ontario Federation of Labor president, David Archer, to Sudbury in their efforts to retain support.

Mine-Mill pressed the argument that a victory for it would pave the way for an immediate start on bargaining for a new agreement with Inco. The Steelworkers are barred by their present agreement from negotiating before next June.

In an 11th-hour bid for more support, Mine-Mill also offered to surrender the compulsory checkoff in collecting dues in return for the necessary 50 per cent of the vote.

Ninety-nine per cent of the eligible Inco workers cast ballots. Under labor law the 5% who failed to vote are considered Steelworker supporters.

Steelworkers were jubilant when the vote was announced. Their executive said the union will welcome support from Mine-Mill affiliates at any time.

Nels Thibault, president of Mine-Mill Local 598, refused to admit defeat. He said it was "merely a pause in the Mine-Mill effort to return decent union conditions to Sudbury workers."

Mr. Thibault said Mine-Mill will fall back on its stronghold at nearby Falconbridge — the only nickel mine it represents on the continent—while steelworkers were promising an immediate attempt to win bargaining rights there.

Jury Directed to Bring In 'Not Guilty' Verdict

OTTAWA (CP) — A Carleton County jury Friday returned a judge-directed verdict of not guilty in the "advantage or benefit" trial of Brig. John Baxter Allan.

Brig. Allan, 51, former vice-quartermaster - general of the Canadian Army, still faces a second charge of conspiring to accept advantage or benefit in a value in excess of $8,000 from persons having dealings with the federal government.

This charge, unless dropped by the Crown, will be heard in February.

The four - week trial ended abruptly when Judge Peter Macdonald called the all-male jury into the courtroom—it had been excluded for the last week while counsel argued a defence motion for a directed verdict—and ordered it to acquit the brigadier.

"There is no evidence, as a matter of law, on which you, as a properly instructed jury, could bring in a verdict of guilty," said the judge.

Brig. Allan, who retired from the army in August, 1964, was charged with accepting advantage or benefit arising from many paying of hotel bills, for merchandise and transfer of shares in Levy Industries Ltd., from Morris, Mark, Edward and Benjamin Levy, or one or more of them.

The stern of the freighter, stricken Thursday when it sprung a leak en route from Bremen to New York, was awash and its bow out of the water. Holds were flooded.

Early today the Atlantic took off the last of the 7,201-ton Costantis's 26 crew members in a rubber dinghy connected to a lifeline.

Coastguards at St. Just reported "the crew refused to stay on board during the night," Thursday night the Costantis captain radioed that it was sinking and four ships including the huge liner Queen Mary raced to the rescue. The Queen Mary resumed its voyage to New York after the freighter was taken in tow.

Say Nothing Will Move On Lakes This Spring As Wage Talks Stalled

MONTREAL (CP) — There is little hope of early resumption in negotiations on a labor dispute with the Lake Carriers' Association, a spokesman for the Canadian Merchant Service Guild (CLC) said Friday.

The present shipping season is virtually over, he said. "The association won't want to negotiate with us until nearer the opening of next year's season."

The spokesman, National Representative Robert Cook added: "By then, we'll have consolidate our membership in the lakes so that nothing will move."

C. E. Poirier, a federal mediator in the dispute, said he has been in constant touch with both sides since negotiations broke off Thursday.

"I am trying to get them back to talking by the week-end," he said, "but I couldn't really say what the chances are."

The strike began Thursday as a protest by the 500 deck officers in the guild who have been without a contract since last June.

Mr. Cook also said the Seaman's Union of Canada (Ind.) is not recognizing the strike. "Not only are its members not respecting our picket lines, but in some cases they are doing deck officers' jobs."

The strike now has tied up about 70 lake freighters between the Lakehead and Montreal, Mr. Cook said. But an association spokesman said many of these ships which have been laid up for the winter.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP) — Retired ship captains were being used Friday to replace striking deck officers on Canadian lakers which continued to move to and from the docks here.

The Algoma Central Railway called out two retired ship captains to replace three deck officers who left the 640-foot Roy A. Jodrey, one of its most modern lake vessels.

Officers of another ACR vessel, the 680-foot Algo-Med, are reported to be on strike, but still are aboard the vessel.

Five Slain With Axe; Hold Boy

VANCOUVER (CP) — A 17-year-old youth with a history of mental disturbance was charged Friday with delinquency in the axe slaying of five members of a family.

The youth was arrested after he gave himself up to a psychiatrist. He was to appear in juvenile court Monday on five counts of delinquency.

Police said the slaying of most of the Osborne Kosberg family was one of the most tragic multiple murders in the city's history.

Kosberg and his wife were found in bed. Their 7-year-old son Vincent was on the floor beside the bed. Osborne Jr., six months, a crib in the same room, was spared.

The body of Gayle, 11, and Marianne, who was severely injured, were in another bedroom. The body of Barry, 15, was in a den.

HAS OPERATION

Marianne underwent emergency surgery for head wounds in hospital and was in fair condition Friday night. The baby was in hospital for observation.

Blood samples were to be tested to determine if the victims had been drugged before the attack early Friday.

An autopsy said the five died of lacerations in the brain, contusions and skull fractures caused by an axe.

Psychiatrist Dr. Bennet B. Wong called police after the youth was brought to him by Robert Estergaard, a youth supervisor of Central City Mission.

THE WEATHER

Synopsis: Mild air will spread northward and eastward to cover all of southern and most of central Ontario today. Light rain and drizzle will continue throughout the day. Around the upper Great Lakes the precipitation would be freezing rain or drizzle. The more northern regions will miss out on the precipitation and the cool, precipitation there will be limited to periods of light snow.

By early Sunday the system rousing the rain and drizzle will be over the lower Great Lakes and by evening the precipitation should come to an end over southern Ontario. Somewhat colder than today mild air will likely move into the southern regions behind the disturbance.

Reports On Taxes Studied

By MICHAEL GILLAN

OTTAWA (CP)—The federal and provincial governments agreed Friday they must choose legislative priorities and work closely together to get the most value from tax money available through 1972.

The points were made in a joint communique after finance ministers studied a report on estimated revenues and expenditures by all governments between 1967 and 1972. It was prepared by their tax structure committee.

The report is secret—parts of it it took according to one delegate—but Acting Finance Minister Sharp indicated the estimates show spending rising faster than revenues.

"The tendency for expenditures to be stationary" he said with a smile at a press conference after the two-day meeting ended.

The report marks the first time the two levels of government have pooled their estimates. The committee of officials was set up by a federal-provincial premiers conference in the spring of 1964.

FORMS BASE

It forms the basis for negotiations during the next several months on new federal-provincial tax-sharing agreements that must be worked out to replace the existing agreement which expires on March 31, 1967.

Mr. Sharp said he understood there would be a series of recommendations and these would receive urgent consideration. The recommendations might affect the final form of a new tax agreement.

Before discussion of the report, the provinces raised specific points about federal plans for tax-sharing for the federal government, but said he made no new commitments.

Premier Robarts of British Columbia and Roblin of Manitoba, the finance ministers in their governments, asked that mental and tuberculosis care be included in the federal-provincial hospital insurance program.

WANTS CONFERENCE

Mr. Roblin also wanted an early conference on financing higher education. Mr. Sharp set no date for this, although Prime Minister Pearson has promised one and pledged federal help.

Gemini Pilots Are Cheerful Awaiting Big Day on Sunday

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Tiny Gemini 7 with its two cheerful pilots flew flawlessly around space today, poised for man's most ambitious space venture—a daring rendezvous with an orbiting sister ship.

Bearded, slightly hoarse and good - natured, LL-Col. Frank Borman and Cmdr. James A. Lovell Jr. hurtle past the mid-point of their 14-day flight about 11:15 a.m. EST.

Gemini 7 entered its 100th orbit at 8:58 a.m.

Sunday is the big day. Gemini 7 breaks the world's space endurance record, and the United States makes its adventurous attempt to have two spacecraft rendezvous and fly formation in space, perhaps only inches apart.

Nothing appeared to stand in

Launch teams made ready the Titan II rocket that will boost astronauts Walter M. Schirra and Thomas P. Stafford into a 100,900-mile chase course to alter Gemini 7. Enough fuel to boil out 430 000 pounds of thrust will be pumped into the towering launch vehicle tonight.

Commercial Fishermen Assert Anglers Are Unfairly Favored

PICTON — Commercial fishermen and Department of Lands and Forests officials met here on Friday night at the annual meeting of the Association of Commercial Fishermen of Eastern Ontario here.

Bruce Cooper R.R. 5 Picton, chairman of the association's board of directors, charged the department's policies in recent years have favored anglers and "lots" commercial fishing revenues through tighter restrictions and regulations and lack of action on solving decreasing production.

"Any pieces we have made to the department have fallen on deaf ears," he said.

There has been a downward trend in commercial fishing in the Bay of Quinte and Eastern Lake Ontario for the past eight years and particularly since 1961. Whitefish have not moved to their traditional spawning grounds since 1960. Yellow pickerel have become scarce.

"We feel the highest mortality is pickerel is before the spawning stage. Why not raise them to this stage then release them?" Mr. Cooper asked.

Many employees in the industry have been laid off and a number of people have had to stop fishing completely.

CAN BE SOLVED

A. S. Bray, Deputy Minister of Tourism and Information and William Smith, president of the Quinte's Isle Tourist Association agreed the problems between anglers and commercial fishermen are due to misunderstanding and lack of facts and can be solved.

Jack Christie, manager of the Lands and Forests Department's Glenora Fisheries Research Station said there is grounds for optimism regarding the experiment to plant the Kokanee Salmon in Lake Ontario, now in its second year. He said the species will be valuable to both commercial and sporting fishermen if it takes root.

He also said a section of the lake, in the Oshawa and Toronto areas, no longer fished, has yielded large quantities of what he described as "giant-sized smelt" on surveys by his department. "These are readily marketable fish," he said.

Dr. Andrew Pritchard of the Federal Department of Fisheries in Ottawa claimed the major problem is pollution — a problem on which everyone was subject. "You can't have heavy industry and concentrated populations and abundant fish and wildlife at the same time," he said. "There is no lack of water, but we haven't enough clean water for either people or industry."

A. O. Blackhurst said detergents which cause growth, and Toronto officials had been out of the water, is the major pollution factor. He called such a detergent "a diabolical compound."

About 30 persons attended the meeting held in the Queen Elizabeth Public School here.

O.S.D. Students Present Deeply Reverent Nativity

By A. HENDERSON

"When Christ shall come with shout
Of acclamation and take me home,
What joy shall fill my heart!
Then I shall bow in humble adoration
And there proclaim, my God, how great
Thou art!"

The author of this beautiful hymn, Stuart E. Hine, was looking for the second Advent; but last evening the students of the Ontario School for the Deaf portrayed the first Advent in all its great simplicity with dignity, beauty, reverence and meaning the large audience which filled the auditorium to capacity, including Sisters and priests, as well as other dignitaries noted.

THE NATIVITY

Every year at the Christmas season, during the past years, the Nativity pageant has been portrayed by the students of the school, depicting the faithful watchers. In the story of the "Babe of Bethlehem," each item there is a little difference in execution, but ever true to the Scripture, declaring that, "God so loved the world that He gave" His only begotten Son that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish, but have everlasting life."

Before the presentation, the superintendent of the School, Mr. J. G. Demeza, spoke briefly welcoming the many present, and explaining the reverent degree of hearing had by those of the cast. Those children, who had a speaking part exhibited and those who were born without ever hearing the spoken voice, had nothing to see but to copy their speech. Hence, the peculiar sound of their voice. He also said that the former teachers, who had composed the pageant in past years, Miss Helen Keeler, and Mrs. C. Mac Gordon, were now retired, and the presentation this year was under the guidance of Mr. Kenneth Graham, and Mrs. M. Vincent.

Others included: Mr. Norman Rickaby, Mrs. Gladys Lewis; Messrs. Robert Schultz and Bruce Watson and Mr. Angus MacLeod and staff members who sang the incidental music.

FIVE SCENES

The Nativity was divided into five scenes: the Annunciation, which was one of hallowed grandeur, a soft purple glow gradually spreading up over the scene showing Mary kneeling in prayer, and the approach of the angel, Gabriel, who makes the wondrous proclamation; the singing of the Magnificat, and the ever lovely "Ave Maria," by Schuber with Mrs. A. Davidson.

Scene 2 showed the arrival at the inn of Joseph who had come to pay their taxes; Joseph and Mary, clad in dark peasant costumes approach them, for whom there was no room in the inn. Scene 3 depicted the shepherds on the dark Judean Hills, huddled about a fire of coals, "for the night was cold." Suddenly the little shepherd rushed to those about the fire, pointing to the sky, as the angel, Gabriel, appears in a great flood of light, and many others with their harps, and trumpets. This scene was highlighted by music entitled "This Holy Day".

HEROD'S COURT

In scene 4, King Herod's court was portrayed in its Roman grandeur; the arrival of the three wisemen asking for the direction to the new king of the Jews, King Herod, in fitting effects most adequately displayed Herod's rising anger, jealousy, and fear of people losing control, slow, deepening in intensity as he dwells upon this announcement.

Scene 5, the Nativity, was beautiful in its simplicity, showing Joseph and Mary in the lowly cattle cave, the lowly manger, the kneeling shepherds, the approaching wise men in their "coats" and beautiful garments, bearing their gifts of gold, frankincense and Myrrh; the approaching angels down over three aisles, and the closing hymn; "O Come, All ye Faithful" with the glorious singing of the choirs, not soon to be forgotten.

RHYTHM BAND

As in all the portrayals through the years the Rhythm Band, directed by Mr. Graham, favored with a delightful number. The Shepherds Watch in which one carol followed another with almost unnoticed transition, on account of it was

Other numbers included a solo by Colin Robbins, "O Leave Your Sheep" and music "O Holy Night" by Mr. R. Ralings.

ZWEIBRUECKEN (AP)—Canadian Airman Edward Zlesmann was quoted in court in this West German town Friday as having stated he slew his 23-year-old wife last September after she told him she loved another man.

A signed admission made by Canadian military police was read to the court martial that is trying Leading Aircraftman Zlesmann, 28, of Emerson, Man., for murder of his wife and of his wife and two young daughters.

Zlesmann is regrted to have told police he killed his daughters because he "couldn't let them live with no mother and a murderer for a father."

Acquittal Brings Threat Of New Strife

By REX THOMAS

SELMA, Ala. (AP)—The acquittal of three white men charged with the civil rights killing of a white Boston minister left Selma faced with the threat of renewed racial strife.

A spokesman for Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. said the verdicts rendered by an all-white jury after 85 minutes deliberation Friday probably will touch off a new wave of demonstrations, especially in Selma."

"The (Negro) people of Selma are pretty upset about this," Rev. Andrew Young, executive secretary of Dr. King's Southern Christian Leadership Conference, said in Atlanta.

"It just means that any Negro or civil rights worker can be killed a block away from the heart of town, and those responsible for it probably will be acquitted."

Rev. James E. Reeb, 38, a Unitarian minister and father of four children, was attacked almost two hours after white clergymen the night of last March 9 on a street corner one block from Selma's main thoroughfare, Broad Street.

DIED IN HOSPITAL

The Boston clergyman, who had come to Alabama to join civil crusade for Negro voting rights, was clubbed to the ground, and died two days later in hospital with a massive brain injury. His two companions also were roughed up by a gang of white men but escaped with slight injury.

Employment News

JAMES R. STAVELEY

The local employment trend, as reflected by employers' orders for workers received by the Belleville National Employment Service Office, showed a decreased labor demand in the area during the past week. This was particularly noticeable as regards local employment opportunities for the semi-skilled and unskilled male applicant. It is to be noted that in many areas where, in Canada, there is a good demand for these types of workers.

The effect of seasonal unemployment varies from one district to another, regardless of the month which in the past has been a fundamental influence in seasonal employment variations. The following factors should be closely examined when seeking a remedy to alleviate seasonal unemployment in a community: (1) Whether it is an agricultural, manufacturing or commercial centre; (2) the diversity of these economic activities; (3) the amount and nature of the construction activity; and (4) the general economic conditions of the area.

It is easy to say, but no longer true, that there is little one can do about the weather. The truth is that advances in technology during recent years have helped to overcome many of the difficulties formerly encountered in performing various types of work in the winter.

For the past few years under the publicity and impetus of the nation-wide Winter Employment Campaign and local Employment Committees, Canadians at all levels have been approached to seek-on both realistically and constructively.

As jobs in general have to be created in the local area for the seasonably unemployed, why not support and participate in "Planning Now" to have that renovation, repair or expansion done during the winter winter months. When everybody works, the whole community benefits.

The following job opportunities represent a few of these now available at your NES office.

In the female division locally, there is an opening for an experienced cashier for a permanent position in a retail department store. Required also is a qualified bookkeeper, who will be responsible for keeping the full set of books of the main store as well as its branch store. A number of positions are available for experienced sales clerk.

An industrial plant in the Toronto area is seeking female workers to assemble communications equipment. The requirements call for a Grade 10 education, age range of 18 to 45 years, good visual and manual dexterity and right-handed. Experience is optional as company will train. A medical examination must also be passed. These positions are for permanent employment.

In the male division locally, a glass supply house has need of a glazier. It prefers a man with a definite background of skill in this trade but would consider someone with less substantial experience. Pay would be commensurate with demonstrated ability.

An unusual opportunity exists here for a man with exceptional driving ability and driving a bus on chartered experience. The job entails trips. A pleasant manner, neat appearance, demonstrated ability to meet and deal with the public and proven reliability are important requisites.

A large industry in a nearby city is offering an apprenticeship course in industrial electricity. This is a 4-year on-the-job-training plan and holds promise of a career job with this international company and the gaining of a highly skilled trade. Important requirements include a. Grade 12 technical certificate, majoring in electricity. Company will consider only applicants with top graduating marks.

A maintenance position is available with a large departmental store which would be suitable for an older worker. A permanent position is available as a stock clerk for an alert young man. He would be interested in becoming trained in the auto parts business. Another item is seeking a young man with a mechanical aptitude to work as a utility plant worker. Employment opportunities are available elsewhere for workers interested in industry, boile manufacturing and non-manufacturing.

Both workers seeking employment and employers seeking workers are invited to contact the local National Employment Service Office at 304 Church Street, Belleville, Ont. or Telephone 962-8681.

Feature items included in the script were the monthly directors meeting of the Chamber of Commerce, the counting of ballots following the election in the neighboring townships of Elzevir and Grimsthorpe, and scenes taken around the village of Tweed.

Christmas Time For Extra Care Says Fire Chief

TRENTON — While Christmas is a time for children, it is also a time of increased fire hazards, says Fire Chief Cecil Ellis, in the following seasonal message of warning to all citizens.

"More than ever, at Christmas, parents may be faced with the temptation to leave young children unattended for short periods, while they complete last-minute shopping, or drop in to visit with neighbors."

"At the same time, decorations and discarded wrappings bring an increased threat of fire danger, unless constant care is exercised. Don't leave children alone in the home even for a minute. The Criminal Code of Canada forbids such action which endangers the life or health of any child under the age of ten years. The possibility of a happy season turning in a few seconds to a time of family tragedy should cause every seinsible citizen to obey this law."

Chief Ellis reminds parents that under certain conditions a Christmas tree can burn violently be charred wood in 18 seconds. Particular care should be taken to keep butts of trees immersed in water, and to ensure that the tree itself does not obstruct access to a door or window in the event of an emergency.

Gang of Armed Men Get Big Haul in Quebec

ASBESTOS, Que. (CP) — A gang of armed men lay in wait in a bank before it opened for the day and escaped with as much as $150,000 when the staff arrived.

Georges Blanchette, manager of the branch of the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce in this town 90 miles southeast of Quebec, was herded into the vault along with his 11 employees when they arrived for work.

The vault was not locked.

The men escaped with the money in mailbags they had apparently brought along for the job. Their getaway car was found abandoned a few miles outside of town.

Outside the bank were found two empty mailbags and two of the halloween masks they wore.

Police estimated there were four to five men involved.

Blanchette set the loss at $130,000 to $150,000. The bank was able to handle the $130,000 payroll of Johns-Manville Corp. Friday.

Yacht Placed Safely Into Hudson River

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Smiles spread across the faces of Peter Carr-Harris and his family Friday as they watched their 33-foot yacht, Pendebby, ride into the Hudson River at Albany.

The post - noon launching ended a five-day detour for the Bahamas - bound family from Kingston.

Carr - Harris, 48, a retired Canadian Army major, his wife and four children, set out last week for the trip.

Carr-Harris decided to have the boat trucked to Albany.

Governor Nelson Rockefeller, the Utica Junior Chamber of Commerce and others joined to help the family.

Rockefeller Thursday ordered a state-owned derrick to lift the trade - hulled boat from the canal and on to a truck for the 90-mile trip.

University for Belleville?

The opening of the new 13-room Park Dale public school in Belleville is a reminder that education is a continuing challenge to our society, particularly in this complex age of automation and new techniques.

Automation and higher mathematics do not come within the scope of public school teaching, yet today more than ever it is necessary for even the youngsters to have at least a passing acquaintance with the subjects and problems they must tackle later on at high school and university.

Universities are playing an increasing part in the evolution of Canadian society, and it is not too much to expect that our own community may one day be a seat of higher learning.

Belleville ought to be thinking along these lines now, having regard to the anticipated development in other spheres—increased population, new industry, more housing and so on.

Universities are springing up all around us —Brock University at St. Catharines, Trent University at Peterborough, and farther afield, Simon Fraser University in Vancouver.

We are told that the University of Waterloo, where the city population is rather less than that of Belleville, the student enrolment has reached some 5,000 in four years.

If Belleville does not establish a university, some other neighboring centre will do so. Brockville, for example, has entertained the idea.

Belleville has plenty to recommend it, and we must all believe in it as a developing community. A university is one project that would be of incalculable value to the whole area. It could start in a small way (as in the case of Trent) and build up steadily. We have only to look to Waterloo to appreciate what can be done.

Towards Negotiation

The war in Viet Nam will likely get worse before it is better—that is, before each side reaches a point where they are willing to negotiate peace.

Just now, all the signs point to a long war. There are any number of precedents for such a conflict—the Seven Years War of 1756-63 was the Revolutionary War in America from 1776 to 1783. The two World Wars in this century both lasted for upwards of five years.

On the other hand, a negotiated peace in Viet Nam could come suddenly, particularly if current efforts in this direction bear fruit. Britain, for one, has renewed its attemtts to bring an end to the fighting. It has proposed a 12-nation appeal to North Viet Nam to stop fighting and negotiate a peace.

The British move was contained in a draft message sent to the Soviet government. It called upon the Russians to join in signing and circulating the message among the nine countries which attended the 1954 Indochina peace parley and the Indian, Canadian and Polish governments, which form the Viet Nam control commission.

To expect a favorable response from the communist world would be, perhaps, unduly optimistic. Nevertheless, to do nothing, to give up all hope of achieving an early peace in Viet Nam, would be a dereliction of duty on the part of these nations which may be expected to have some influence in this matter.

Meanwhile, in other spheres where conflict is still only at the "bushfire" level, it is worth noting that the political temperature is cooling somewhat. Indonesia, for example, is reported to be willing to negotiate its dispute with Malaysia. Foreign Minister Subandrio revealed his government's intentions in a statement in Jakarta.

For some time Indonesia has been infiltrating Malaysian territory, but making little headway in its efforts to absorb the latter into its own sprawling kingdom.

In Africa too, fledgling nations which have only recently obtained independence, are showing political maturity under the pressure of difficult situations. Some at least are said to be having second thoughts about a joint decision to break off diplomatic relations with Britain if the Smith administration in Rhodesia is not crushed by December 15.

President Tubman of Liberia, a nation which has been independent longer than most, has said that Britain should be given time to handle the Rhodesian crisis. And Zambian President Kenneth Kaunda has warned other African leaders about the difficulties involved in a diplomatic rupture with Britain.

These latter signs are all to the good. They are eloquent of a growing sense of responsibility in Africa, a gradual evolution which holds some promise of greater stability in the dark continent in the years to come. When all is said and done, Africa is more stable today than say Southeast Asia.

How long it will remain this way of course is a matter for conjecture. However, a policy of live-and-let live, and concentration on the the economic and educational advancement of both whites and blacks is one that should commend itself to all the countries of that vast, brooding continent.

Claims Political Pressures Form Basis of CNR Debt

By RICHARD JACKSON
From The Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — That recent offer of a Queen's University professor to buy the CNR and turn it into a money-making operation has some interesting aspects.

Not the least of them is the fact that the professor (J. L. McDougall), a professor of economics, is from Queen's, which was supposed to have been a hot-bed of Liberalism since the great thinkers' conference held there under the aegis of the Liberal Party.

For Prof. McDougall was advocating nothing less than a private purchase of a piece of public property, or a return to private enterprise from s t a t e ownership.

The fact that Prof. McDougall said he could make money with the CNR (if he excluded s t i l l points east of Quebec City) provides a commentary on the efficiency of government-run enterprises.

Mind you, the professor would have to prove his point, but he seems to have a head-start, for the government has yet to make a head out of that bi - fated railroad.

The CNR has lost money almost from the day it began — just look at the series of special debates, difficulties and recapitalization plans which have left the railroad $1,780,000,000 in debt.

Without these various helping hands, the debt would have been so astronomical that only Aga Khan would be able to see it.

As it is, the debt is of such a size that the professor does not want it, but would leave it with the government.

The annual sum the people of Canada would have to pay it off, but he argues this would save them money in the long run, because the debt would get no larger, as it has been doing annually while the railroad has been under government ownership.

Prof. McDougall contends that political pressures form the basis of the CNR debt — its management, a good one, is unable to run the line on a business basis because politicians w i l l not allow it to discontinue almost - useless and unprofitable lines because of the pressures of small groups of voters. He might be right.

And so much for that.

Another interesting aspect is the seeming similarity between the professor's offer and that of other state-owned enterprises.

Trade Minister Mitchell Sharp has proposed establishment of a system of selling shares in government companies to the general public as a means of raising revenue while giving control of Crown companies to the people.

Unfortunately, his offer is not quite the same as that of Prof. McDougall.

The professor says he is willing to buy a piece of property, at a price he thinks it is worth, and turn it into a moneymaking enterprise which would benefit, the government and the people.

This would mean buying something which has cost the taxpayers plenty, if not billions, and making a profit on it while relieving the taxpayers of any further payments except those to retire the debt.

What Mr. Sharp advocates is the sale of such enterprises as the Polymer Corporation, Eldorado Mining and Refining, Northern Transportation Company and Atomic Energy of Canada, Ltd., to the public on a shares basis — along with a money-loser like the CNR — with no guarantee on the public shareholders would ever gain controlling interest or make any money.

Most of these enterprises are making money, but it could be sunk in the one which is not.

Furthermore, these money - making enterprises were bought with the taxpayers' money (by the public shareholders) in the first place, so they would just be sold back to the people who own them anyway.

With no guarantee of profit.

Prof. McDougall's offer no guarantee of profit, either, but at least he offers an end to further debts on the CNR.

He says he is looking for a multi-millionaire to back his scheme — maybe several millionaires — and he probably needs them.

Mr. Sharp says he is looking for several millions of small investors to pay for what they already own, with little hope of any return on their investment for some years.

Somehow, it looks like the professor will find his supporters first.

"Look Dad, I'm Alive!"

Portland Oregonian

Adults have the edge on kids in so many ways the kids don't think it's funny. But they is always one consolation for the kids: No matter how bad things get, they can always stir up adults by dressing outlandishly or wearing their hair extra-long.

Anyone who doubts that this is happening now hasn't been noticing the skin-tight pants for boys, granny-length girls and bangs for both which are the current fashion.

One might think that after all their years, and having once been kids themselves, adults would know better than to fall for this hoary trick. But no, in a rather pathetic way, almost like a trained animal, an adult just can't resist twitching when the string is jerked.

Bizarre dress—or just different from acceptable adult standards—has always been the tactic of the young rebel. It exemplifies a need most young people feel more keenly than most adults—the need to be noticed.

Not necessarily favorably just noticed; almost as if to cry, "Hey, I'm alive."

So trying to look like nonconformists by dressing like everyone in their peer group, the young rebels identify with their own generation and strike out against that of their parents. Just as in ancient Egypt, Rome, Greece and possibly Atlantis.

It's the easiest bid for attention or distinction one can make. Anyone can do it. But kids keep it up, feebly they really are different, and adults continue to fall for the old trick.

Hardening of Arteries Comes in Two Ways

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: Does hardening of the arteries in one part of the body mean that the same thing is taking place in o t h e r areas? Or can this be a spotty thing? Does the process e v e r reverse itself? — H. M. D.

No.

There are two kinds of hardening of the arteries. One involves the middle of the three layers which make up an artery. The fibrous tissue accumulates calcium deposits and such arteries become "hard." They become quite rigid and can be felt in such spots as a w r i s t. X-rays depict them clearly because of the calcium.

Yet these arteries, while hard usually retain a quite adequate space inside, and circulation remains adequate. This type o f hardening is called arteriosclerosis.

The other type of hardening, called atherosclerosis, is the feared herring. The arteries don't become rigid. Calcium does not matter. Without the calcium, an X-ray does not s h o w a clear picture unless some added procedure is used, such as injecting a dye into the artery so it will show up on an X-ray film.

Instead, the problem here is not actual hardening, but rather the presence of plaques or clumps of fatty material at one or more points in the artery, just as rust or sludge may form into a deposit inside a w a t e r pipe.

But this clump or plaque becomes large enough, then it can cut off circulation somewhere, or reduce the flow of blood and cause trouble.

* * *

If circulation is completely shut off, that causes a peak problem. If it is in some part of the arteries which serve the heart muscle, the result is a heart attack. If in the brain, it is a stroke. It can occur elsewhere, of course. In the lung, the result will be gangrene. In the kidney, high blood pressure or other difficulty will result.

The calcium-type of real hardening tends to be rather general in the body, and that some arteries won't be harder than others.

The atherosclerosis, or fatty plaques, may occur more especially in one part of the body, or may occur in several areas, although real trouble may develop in one place and not in others.

If a blockage occurs, the patient may very well recover, perhaps developing some collateral circulation (enlargement of other vessels in the same area, to make up for the circulation which has been lost) and thereforth have adequate circulation for years to come.

Difficulty from hardening of the arteries in one spot does not necessarily mean that you are going to have the same trouble elsewhere.

Dear Dr. Molner: What is shingles, how does it start, What are the symptoms, treatment?

— Mrs. M. C.

Rather than repeat these answers in the column I suggest that you send 10 cents in c o i n and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to me in care of the Chicago Sun-Times Syndicate, P. O. Box 128, Dundee, Ill. for my booklet, "The Facts About Shingles."

Dear Dr. Molner: My husband claims there are vitamins in mushrooms but I disagree. — Mrs. P. S.

You're mistaken. Mushrooms, while not particularly high in calories, have very real f o o d value, and some vitamins — a modest amount of Vitamins B1 and B2, a fair amount of nicotine acid, and a little Vifamin C. They are high in potassium.

Dec. 11, 1965 . . .

James II of England threw the Great Seal of the realm into the River Thames and attempted to flee to France 277 years ago today—in 1688 —but was captured at Sheerness and brought back to London. His crown had been offered to Prince William of Orange to s a v e England from Roman C a t h o l i c tyranny and William had landed with 14,000 men a month before. James escaped from captivity Dec. 22 and fled successfully, after which Parliament declared the throne vacant and offered the crown to the Dutch prince and his wife Mary, James' older daughter.

1868—Louis Napoleon was elected president of France.

1937 — M u s s o l i n i announced the withdrawal of Italy from the League of Nations.

First World War

Fifty years ago today—in 1915—Greece and the Allied demands to remove all troops from the Greek division from the Salonika district; British casualties in the retreat from Serbia were estimated at 1,500.

Second World War

Twenty-five years ago today—in 1940 — Sidi Barrani was captured by General Wavell's winter offensive in Egypt, the first successful land action of the war for the Allies; Dr. L. S. Robson, British agriculture minister, said the food situation in Britain was as grim as that in 1917.

Dec. 12, 1962 . . .

First World War

Fifty years ago today—in 1915 — the last British and French troops evacuated defeated Serbia; the first Turkish attack on Kut-el-Amara, where the British Mesopotamian force was besieged, was repulsed.

Second World War

Twenty-five years ago today—in 1940—the RAF and naval units attacked the Italian line of retreat from Sidi-barrani to Tobruk; Lord Lothian, British ambassador to the United States, died in Washington; bad weather over the Atlantic forced aircraft to turn back.

Ten years ago today—in 1952—Canadian and British air operations to the minimum.

Costly Luxuries

Sarnia Observer

The greatest menace to the future of Canada isn't the Quebec demands, or our economic problems; or the pressure of the United States. It's prejudice and apathy. For Canadians, they are costly luxuries.

Extra School Fee Angers Parent

The Editor,
The Intelligencer:

Our son is 19 and has been attending one of our high schools.

Near the end of October we received a letter from this school saying the fee for attending it would be $27 a month because it was his seventh year in high school.

A few days later he was called to the office and told to pay or withdrew from school.

The next day I sent with him two cheques.

Two weeks ago he was again called to the office and told he either had to be paid up by the first of December, one month in advance, or leave. This meant we had an additional $54 to pay by that date.

This was impossible to do, so our son has left school.

If it is the case that the school fathers believe it is a waste of money to send him to school, why did they not inform us? On the other hand, if it is because of the money, the school is out $2.50 a day paid by the government for this pupil for the rest of the school year.

We have worked very hard in the past years to pay the taxes that helped to build this school, and to provide the extremely adequate salaries to those who are fit to make such loans.

In this day and age an average child should get his Grade 13 in one year. This means if he or she had one failure in high school he must pay this fine or drop out of school.

Every day of our lives we hear, "Give your child an education, don't let him be a dropout," but they neglect to add we will do the dropping.

Maybe there is someone who can offer a plausible explanation to the parents who have to pay this fee I am sure, along with the rest, we will be only too glad to hear it.

An Irate Parent.

Amelisburg's Offices

The Editor,
The Intelligencer.

In your news item on the election results in the Township of Amelisburg reference was made to the Official Plan and the Restricted Area By-law with the statement that the statutes of legislation have been discarded by the Ontario Municipal Board. It is to be hoped that it is not true it is felt that your readers in Amelisburg should know the actual situation.

The Official Plan for the Township of Amelisburg was prepared some years ago by a firm of consulting engineers well qualified, in this field. After approval by several years of study by the Planning Board and Council including various public meetings, the plan was approved by Council and referred to the Minister for approval. Subsequently the Ontario Municipal Board held a public hearing at Amelisburg.

At this time the Municipal Board withheld approval pending the presentation of a Restricted Area By-law to go with the plan. In 1963 a draft by-law was prepared by the consulting engineers and this document has been under study by the Planning Board and Council since that time. During this period a number of minor changes in the Official Plan have become desirable. In the ordinary course of events amendments are made to the Official Plan by by-law. However, since the plan has been approved by the Minister no amendments have been made. Under advice of the consulting engineers, recommended by the chairman of the Ontario Municipal Board, it was decided by Council to withhold the plan be rescinded so that the accumulated changes could be incorporated in it when necessary for a number of by-laws. Council officially requested this course and the plan was recently rescinded so that these changes could be made.

The Restricted Area by-law, being still in the process of revision, has not yet been finally approved by Council. It is presumed that when the necessary revisions have been made to the Official Plan and to the Restricted Area by-law these documents will be approved by Council and sent to the Minister for approval.

Yours truly,
Wm. Nightingale, Clerk
Township of Amelisburg.

Men Leave Varied Jobs To Train for Priesthood

In September, 1964, a unique seminary opened in Weston, Mass., to train older men for the Roman Catholic priesthood. One is Tom Ryder, former assistant telegraph editor with the Dubuque Telegraph - Herald. He wrote the following account of life in the seminary for The Associated Press.

By TOM RYDER

WESTON, Mass. (AP) — A year and a half ago, 35 older men, dead set in their ways and courageous, independent or stubborn enough to drop their careers and follow their conscience bumped heads on the confines of a Roman Catholic seminary.

They were the members of the first class of the Pope John XXIII National Seminary for Delayed Vocations. They will be ordained in 1968.

The youngest was 29, the oldest 59.

Among the occupations they left to train for the priesthood were airline executive, Chesbury professor, postal clerk, newspaper salesman, linotype operator, geologist and grocer.

The first few weeks were touch and go. The situation soared to the detention point.

But things levelled off. We soon learned that there is not one way—your way—of doing something, but 35 ways.

Rt. Rev. George Schlichte, rector of the seminary, said:

"The men are the really unique thing about the seminary.

"We have rules and regulations that are different from other seminaries. This is the only major seminary in the world founded exclusively for the training of men over 30 for the diocesan priesthood.

"These men have abandoned successful careers, homes and loved ones for the confinement and discipline of the seminary.

"But they have separated themselves for, not from, the world."

Bernard Moylan, 34, of Sydney, N.S.W., a former public health officer, said:

"Living in close quarters day after day was something we all had to adjust to. The first days were difficult ones.

"We were trying to mesh with each other and the schedule. We had to 'give' in the process of learning to act for the common good."

The oldest member of the class was Gunnar Haugh, 59, a former school headmaster in Cambridge, Mass.

"Frankly I came to the seminary quite concerned about how I would adjust to living with others — especially younger men," he said.

"But it worked out well. I am treated the same as everyone else.

"We live in a spirit of unsentimental Christian brotherhood. There isn't a prima donna in the bunch."

Long Run Scheduled For Nutcracker Ballet

TORONTO — When the National Ballet of Canada presents its full-length production of "The Nutcracker" for two performances at Toronto's O'Keefe Centre this Christmas, it will set a precedent in Canadian ballet.

Never before has a single production of a ballet been given an exclusive run in a Canadian theatre on such a grand scale.

"The Nutcracker" is a logical choice to establish this precedent. It has become a Christmas-time favorite in London, in New York and San Francisco. The National Ballet of Canada's $100,000 production of this children's classic is the most ambitious production ever to be mounted in Canada. With a full company of 107, more than 250 costumes and a dazzling array of moving sets, it premiered last Christmas to sold-out houses at the massive, 3,300-seat O'Keefe Centre.

Two dozen students of the National Ballet School in Toronto will appear with the company for this engagement. The fairy-tale ballet, with an opulent score by Tchaikovsky, was first given its premiere in St. Petersburg in 1892.

76-year-old Woman Aids Legion Plot

ST. THOMAS (CP)—Just before Christmas for the last 21 years, wreaths have been placed on the graves of five Commonwealth airmen killed in crashes while training in Elgin County during the Second World War.

Until Friday, the identity of the donor had been a closely guarded secret.

Reporters were on hand this year for 76-year-old Mrs. William Smith's annual visit to the Royal Canadian Legion memorial plot just south of here.

The St. Thomas Silver Cross mother reluctantly agreed to tell her story.

Her only son, Fit. Lt. Reginald S. Smith, DFC, was killed in action over Burma July 30, 1944, when his transport plane was shot down by the Japanese.

"I have no grave of my own son," she said, "and these boys are so far away from home, it's just a little bit and I'll do it as long as I can."

She and her husband came to the plot with flowers every weekend until his death 12 years ago. But she continued to decorate the graves at Christmas, Easter and when the local legion branch holds its annual Memorial Day service.

Mrs. Smith has exchanged letters with the mother of one of the five airmen—Sgt. James McFarlane of the Royal New Zealand Air Force.

But, she said, she has been unable to reach the parents of others: LAC W. T. F. Neville, LAC L. C. J. Watt and LAC C. R. Turner, all of the Royal Australian Air Force, and LAC Leslie D. Bland of the Royal Air Force.

Tree Idea

An idea that appears to be gaining in popularity is that of decorating a live tree with its roots wrapped in burlap. The tree can be kept fresh throughout the holidays, then planted outdoors.

Successful Living

Reader's Poem Stirs Forgotten Memories

DEAR DORIS: Around this time of year a poem I wrote a few years ago always comes back to my mind. I would like very much to share it with you and your readers:

DORIS CLARK

As I sit alone I think of the years,
Of all our joys and all our tears,
Of days gone by; yes, days of the past,
Before I saw my mother breathe her last.

Now, we weren't rich, in fact we were poor,
As I remember Mom standing in the door,
Counting our beads as we went by:
"Now stop that, Mat! Tom, straighten your tie."

Tom loved hockey—and Mat loved to fight,
And Ernie it seemed was never in sight.
Then there were Mary, Betty and Syl,
And there were Ella and my sister Phyl.

Or course there was me, (the last of the lot);
They used to call me the tiny tot.
But that must have been away back when!
How many years ago was then?

Well, I'd say twenty, or even more,
As I remember Mom standing at that door!
So as I sit, with a smile and a tear,
I wish you Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year!

—GLORIA.

DEAR GLORIA: And the same to you. Your poetic effort will bring back nostalgic thoughts of childhood to many of us.

* * *

DEAR DORIS: My fiance lost his right hand in a hunting accident. He intends to get an artificial hand put on as soon as it heals.

I saw a picture in the paper of artificial hands which look almost real and can be used. He disapproves of a hook. What are his chances of being able to obtain such a hand and where?

How efficient would it be? Would a hook be better? Do you think this handicap would affect our marriage in any way?—VERY MUCH IN LOVE.

* * *

DEAR VERY MUCH: Hands for draw wear are quite common, but when it comes to actual performance, better hook onto a hook.

I saw with two hooks for hands (a hand grenade had blown off the ones he was born with) play an organ. Beautifully. Each hook was responsible for striking two notes. I saw him light his own cigarette. What's more, he offered me his hook to shake hands with — without an apology.

He was a happy, rehabilitated superintendent of a factory.

The handicap will only affect your marriage insofar as you and your fiance let it.

Artificial hands are improving. Some are now being designed for women; and some thought is being given to equipping the handicapped children who were "thalidamide babies." But it takes time, and tremendous research and skill.

Lines on Life

This Is Age of Comedy

By Dr. Stuart E. Rosenberg

Turn any dial to any channel. The great entertainment is comedy. Superficial laughter, fleeting follies, hops, skips and jumps over the hard and heroic meanings of life — all of these fill our airwaves, and without letup. Ours is the Age of Comedy. The jester has been enthroned.

But the concerns of the comedians are the contours, the gleaming, plastic surfaces of life. Of deeper joys he dare not speak, for of real human pain. Yet even when he makes us laugh we have not forgotten the profundities that wrack us still. We are laughing but there are tears in our eyes.

Sometimes the jester sounds as if his mind were really deep or than his powdered skin. He tosses as a shrewd wit who gets to-the core of the matter. His delicate needle pricks inflated reality, and with neat jabs bursts the high- blown. But, what's left after all the air has been let out? Sick jokes which mock life's sordidness. We may end up laughing at ourselves and at our foibles — and still, there are tears in our eyes.

Ours is an unhappy age seeking cosmic relief for its pain. But we will never dry our tears if we are made to believe that a life is all there. To exit laughing may be clever stage-direction: it's a pretty poor life-direction.

Paradoxically, we live in an age that seeks cosmic answers to tragic questions. The questions we need most to resolve are those steeped in human suffering — in the hopeful cries of the helpless, and in the aspiring dreams of the down-trodden.

MUST FACE TRAGEDY

But significant answers come only when we are willing to face up to the true dimension of human life, and not seek transient retreats which offer pleasant but vicarious help. We are afraid of facing tragedy because we see it as a weakness leading to despair and not as a crisis which generates strength. But tragedy does have heights, and not only depths. It can produce what Nietzsche called "the affirmation of the will to live in the face of death and the joy of its inexhaustibility when so affirmed."

The Athenians and the Elizabethan English, says Edith Hamilton, were capable of understanding the true meaning of tragedy. And their time of darkness, far from becoming an age of defeat, became an hour which was seen exalted, a day of thrilling and new possibilities. "They held their heads high," she writes, 'those men who conquered at Marathon and Salamis, and those who fought Spain and saw the Great Armada sink."

What made the Greeks great was their greatness in tragedy. What makes Hamlet great is that he is made great by what he could suffer. We see their plays and know the power that tragedy can evoke in us, even heroes remain — or rather, become — heroes even in their tragedy. We are exalted by men who were not extinguished in the dark hours, who did not flee from the face of shame, hurt, or defeat. Their basic response to their tragic questions makes them awesome and large in our eyes. Their inner sources of strength which make a man walk with dignity even though his heart is aching.

LIGHTING THE WAY

By Walter S. Crone

SO YOU WANT TO RETIRE?

During the summer of 1961, an Attorney of Chester, Pennsylvania, celebrated his 101st birthday. His name was Charles Palmer. On that day, he turned up at his office, first thing in the morning, and appeared to be busy working as usual. When questioned about the test for work, Mr. Palmer replied, "I can't think of anything better to do. Working is easier than retiring."

Generally speaking, men who retire to do nothing, are unhappy guys. They give up oneself, and in the case of some at least, their decease appears to be premature. Our Maker has established labor as a law for our very survival. Nor his the law of happiness. For the best blessings in life come to us through labor. There is a Greek proverb which says, "The gods sell us all good things at the price of labor." Look around in any direction, and you'll see that the happy people are busy people. Working is easier than retiring. This is especially true when our occupations are in some way or another, strengthening the Kingdom of God.

C.G.I.T. SERVICE

The National Christmas vesper service for Canadian Girls in Training was held last Sunday evening December 5th in Tabernacle United Church.

The service conducted by the girls in their uniforms and carrying candles was most impressive. The choir was directed by Mr. C. Templer and consisted four girls from each C.G.I.T. group. The Explorers were invited to attend the service.

Those taking part in the service were: first reader, Mary Randle (Bridge St.); second reader, Nancy Dyke (Eastminster); Candlelighter, Mary Wilson (Victoria Ave. Baptist); dramatic reader, Beverly Scott (St. Andrew's); solo Gay McFarlane (Tabernacle), and Benediction by Rev. MacFarlane.

Personal Touch

In gift-giving, as in all other things, the "personal touch" is important.

Often, the most appreciated gifts are "home - made" and their value is measured by the recipient not in terms of dollars and cents but in recognition of the time and effort that went into preparation of the gift.

Few of us, however, have either the time or the talent necessary to "make something" for everyone on our holiday list. And, with the wonderful selection of gifts available in local stores, it just isn't necessary. But we can still add the personal touch by putting a little extra effort into gift wrapping.

THE OPPORTUNITY SHOP

Gamma Mu Performs Pledge Ritual

The home of Mrs. Lois Wishart presented a lovely setting on Tuesday evening, when members of Gamma Mu Chapter, of Beta Sigma Phi Sorority, met to perform their pledge ritual. Mrs. Beverly Deacon, Mrs. Beverly Findlay, Mrs. Jody Killan, Mrs. M. Anderson, Mrs. Ruth Owen, and Mrs. Cathy McPherson were welcomed as new pledges, into the sisterhood of Beta Sigma Phi.

Following the pledge ritual, Mrs. Anne Dorey showed a series of slides, complemented by discussion, of her former home in Rhodesia. This was a source of great interest to all present.

Christmas gifts were brought by members, to be given to a local needy family; and plans were also discussed for the chapter's own Christmas party.

The ways and means committee reported great success on the sale of children's Christmas toys, that had been made by chapter members at the previous work parties. Mrs. Jane McNicol received a hearty thank you from the meeting and convening this endeavor.

The evening drew to a close with refreshments being served by the hostess Mrs. Lois Wishart, and the co - hostesses Mrs. Joan Turner and Mrs. Nancy Carey.

St. Julien Chapter Holds Yule Meet

Regent, Mrs. E.C. Ellis, reported on plans for support by the Eastern Ontario Concert Orchestra to be held February 7th. This will be the Chapter's first project of the new year.

Instead of the usual exchange of Christmas gifts a donation of $14 by members was sent to the Firemen's Christmas toy fund.

A second Christmas shipment has been made to the Fox Nurseing Station. This included a large number of hand made, hand dressed dolls, which were the gift of a friend of the Chapter, Mrs. K. Lucas, of Kingston.

Acknowledgments of cards were received from Mrs. McCaw and Marg McKay. Mrs. Moffat reported that a pleasant time at this year's concert by the Eastern Ontario Concert Orchestra had been enjoyed by the last issue of Echoes, and that in the present edition a picture taken at the Chapter's 50th anniversary dinner appears.

The chapter plans to fill two Christmas baskets again this year for needy families. Volunteers are needed to assist at the Blood Donor Clinic to be held soon in December. Mrs. Macdonald reported that the junior members of classes in basic English at B.C.I. had been entertained by the chapter on the November 25th. A film shown was greatly appreciated.

Mrs. George Hume showed pictures of a recent trip to Alaska. These proved entertainment to all the members present.

The next meeting will be held on January 3rd, 1966, at the home of the Regent, Mrs. Ellis, on Dufferin Ave.

A FAIRY LAND MART

"He who gives a child a treat
Makes joy bells ring in Heaven's Street
But he who gives a child a home
Builds palaces in Kingdom come."
— Masefield (The Wimodausis Club credo.)

Imagine the lower ground floor, the entire lobby and the Mezzanine of The carpeted, softly lighted O'Keefe Centre turned into a vast Aladdin's hideaway!

That's the exact feeling one has upon attending the 12th annual Antique and Treasure Mart, where more than 60 Canadian dealers display their valuable wares, sponsored by the 38 gayly - yellow smocked members of the Wimodausis Club, guardians of the Earlscourt Children's Home.

"In former years, we've held it at the Casa Loma, but it's a boring crystal chandelier, a silver spoon, pieces of precious china or furniture of daily life; pieces of beauty as well as bearers of individuality's stamp.

parking spaces posed a serious problem and this is ideal here, as one can see . . .", explains Mrs. John Russell, co-convener with Mrs. William Parker of this fund-raising project.

"Yes, 21 pounds of scrapbooks prove our club does have a history. Started in 1902 a Sun day School teacher asked the four girls in her class to aid an Indian girl at the Pacific coast. Five friends were asked to help and a bazaar was organized to raise money.

"By 1906 there were 35 members and this number was increased this year to 38, with Mrs. F. V. C. Hewitt the president.

"Throughout the years, the ladies have continued to raise money. In 1912 Mrs. Henry F. Gooderham began the first Wimodausis cookbook. That was the year Rev. Peter Bryce suggested raising funds for the Earlscourt Children's Home. It then on the part of Dufferin Street, as Shaftown.

"It no longer exists.

"The Wimodausis Club built the present Earlscourt building at 46 St. Clair Gardens. It is the only one of its kind in Toronto where the Children's Aid houses children for the first years of age, from broken marriages until foster homes are secured.

"In 1918, the first party held to make money took place at Holwood, the Queen's Park home of Mrs. Joseph W. Flavelle, later Lady Flavelle; a dwelling that now contains the Faculty of Law at the University of Toronto.

"The Club served during both wars and worked hard through the depression. By 1928 the Junior Wimodausis was organized. Members of their children of Jewelry, says Herman Gulkarchi, with 20 years experience as a jewelry designer. The Swiss-born artist puts this down to "an increasing maturity through education and travel."

Elegant Castles of Loire Memories of a Bygone Age

By SHIRLEY and BOB SLOANE

TOURS, FRANCE — From the twelfth to the fifteenth century, the Counts of Blois and Anjou spent most of their lives trying to conquer this capital of the Duke of Touraine. The action eventually embroiled all of France, and even England, in the Hundred Years' War which really lasted 300.

It seems that Tours had a border across the Loire. Today the river is only a picturesque stream for boating, but in the Middle Ages it was a major traffic way from the Atlantic inland. Since bridges were rare in those days, the Duke made a fortune in tolls, both on the river and across it. The city was also a way stop on the pilgrimage route to Spain's Santiago de Compostela, which meant the hotel business was pretty good also. There were plenty of tours going through Tours.

The counts made war in the manner of the day; they besieged each fortified town enroute for a time, then conquered it, and built rock-ribbed fortresses where they lumped everyone who didn't like it. When gains were consolidated, say after a century or so, they would tear down the fortress and put up a castle in it's place.

FRANCE UNIFIED

By the end of the fifteenth century things had quieted down, France was unified, conditions were good, and everyone had pretty well forgotten what all the fighting was about in the first place.

By then the Loire Valley had become the heart of civilized France, flowered with a string of palaces and hunting preserves for some 250 miles, from La Baule to La Bussiere. Every king, noble, and royal mistress had one.

In subsequent years, entranced by the calm beauty of this rolling, verdant land, everyone else who was anyone built or bought himself a place on or near, the Loire — famous writers, artists, industrialists. It has come to afford a castle they'd get a manor house or even a converted old mill.

Today some 1,500 chateaux dot the Loire, about 40 of them open to the public. Some are national monuments, others privately owned for profit. Together these architecture and romantic story constitute a veritable history book, so much so that all of them, from spring through fall, are the scene of the original "Son et Lumiere" (Sound and Light) spectacular.

Many of the most representative are within an easy day's tour of Tours. To the west, amid rich vineyards and dairy farms, is Chinon, Rabelais' home town where still stands the church in which Joan of Arc prayed and waited for the fateful meeting with the Dauphin. Nearby is Usse, whose turrets and spires inspired the author of "Sleeping Beauty." And just across the Loire are the massive towers of Langeais.

MANY PERIODS

East of Tours the Loire road runs along a Medieval levee to Amboise, whose asymmetrical chateau belongs to as many different periods as there were feuding owners. Among its spiral staircase within slanting loggias, carved chimneys, and gables, great political intrigues and even an assassination took place. It was the centre of the Huguenot battles, and Catherine de Medici died here.

Chaverny, south of Chambord, still is owned and semi-inhabited by the Marquis of Bivraye, an avid huntsman — as were his ancestors — who keeps 60 hand-some English foxhounds on the grounds. The stately formal manor is unchanged from the seventeenth century, full of brilliant Gobelin tapestries, Rococo panelled and painted walls and ceilings, stinged antique furniture, petit point covered Louis chairs, Medieval armor, Persian embroidery and paintings by Raphael and Titian.

The Chateau of Amboise, between Blois and Tours, was Charles VIII's residence. In its chapel, da Vinci is buried, and across the street is the house he lived in by his patron, Francois I, where da Vinci spent the last years of his life. A fascinating Gothic house and manor, now working models, built by 1870, of many of Leonardo's inventions, including would have worked had electricity been known in his day.

Readers' Saturday Column

Question:—A week or so ago you gave a recipe for serving a cold salmon with a mayonnaise jelly over it. My family liked it but my husband said he would like to have his salmon hot. Would you give the way of serving the same size of salmon hot with an appropriate sauce?—Verna E. W.

Answer:—I sure will, with alacrity too, for by good chance I served the leftover frozen half of my salmon early this week and the method is fresh in my mind. The cold salmon with mayonnaise sagic appeared here November 25th.

BOILED SALMON WITH EGG SAUCE

Wrap a 3 or 3½-lb. piece of fresh or frozen salmon in parchment, paper or heavy cloth. Place in kettle large enough to hold it and pour over boiling water to cover. Add 1 table spoon salt. Put on lid, bring to boiling, reduce heat to simmer and simmer for 20 minutes then turn off heat and let stand 20 minutes in this hot water.

SATURDAY

Dinner Menu by Mary Moore

Chilled Tea Cactus; Toasted Rye Bread; Huge Tossed Salad with Garlic French Dressing; Deep Apple Pie; Cheddar Cheese; Coffee.

Note: If salmon is frozen increase simmering time to 30 minutes. Lift salmon from cooking water onto large tray and carefully unwrap. Deftly peel off the skin and transfer the salmon to pre-heated platter.

Hard-Cooked Egg Sauce: — (Note: this amount is generous but you want a generous amount). Over heat blend together ¼ cup butter and ¼ cup flour and ½ teaspoon salt, then stir in 2 cups milk until thick. Add 3 chopped hard-cooked eggs and 1 teaspoon lemon juice. Reheat, gently stirring. Pour hot over hot salmon and spread garnish with lemon wedges. This is wonderful and I hope other readers try it and serve it to their epicurean guests.

Mock Hollandaise

3 tablespoons butter, 2 tablespoons flour, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 cup milk, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, 2 egg yolks, beaten.

Melt butter, blend in flour and salt and add milk; cook, stirring over direct heat until thickened. Remove from heat, add lemon juice and stir into beaten yolks. Place over boiling water and cook with constant stirring, about 2 minutes, or until sauce is smooth and thick.

Small Signs of Spring Seen at Winter's Start

By REV. HAROLD E. KOHN

Winter has not yet officially arrived, and already there are small signs of spring! Scrape away the snow and leaf - litter near any maple tree and you will see next year's shoots and the next century's giants in their cradles. Examine twigs and you will find the tiny buds of next spring's leaves and blossoms already forming. Look around and you will see life hidden and asleep. Every hillside, meadow and forest, every stream testifies in little ways that spring is already on its way.

Of course, to the casual eye, there is no spring here, but only the bleakness of winter. Average minds see only the obvious. They have sight without insight. Winter trees look dead, so they must be dead.

But the perceptive observer is not deluded by the obvious into believing that winter has made a final conquest. The obscure signs of spring remind him that sap will again flow in the maples, swallows will soon return, wild flowers will bloom, and lilacs will perfume the night air with their scent. The poet in December he believes in springtime.

Faith, too, knows that things are not what they appear to be. Beneath the obvious lurk God's hidden meanings. Even the ordinary things of life but thinly disguise God's great wonders. They are gifts to the perceptive person to draw aside the veil and let the glory out. — Christmas teaches that there is something more to life than meets the eye, something that stretches beyond appearances. It was easy for the shepherds, mutual slaves of the Romans, the unemployed or military might. Soldiers who slaughtered innocents ruled the earth. What chance did the baby and Joseph and Mary have against Ceasar and his hordes?

Anyone that prattled about a baby born in a manger having any prospects of saving the world would have been considered as empty-headed and sentimentalist. The "realists" would have laughed him off the streets of Bethlehem. But after all, it was "obvious" that hatred, not love, ruled the world and conquests were made not by the sword, not by words and deeds, and never by a cross.

But, behold, what wonders lie hidden beneath simple appearances. The Baby, and not Ceasar, held the secret to the world's future. The riches and pomp of Ceasar commanded the world's attention. But Christ would claim the world's love.

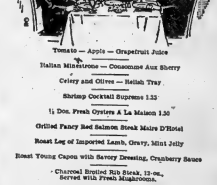
Two thousand years on the far side of the first Christmas, when Ceasar would be but a dusty cobwebbed person e.g., millions would proclaim the Christ their living Lord and celebrate His birthday. All that men thought most obvious on that Holy Night was not true at all. How God reverses our human views!

CLUES TO CONDUCT

How should we live, then, in the kind of world that Christmas reveals? The Wise Men offer us some clues. They rejected the obvious signs of power and wealth and delusions. They paused briefly at Herod, hidden in their hearts and then passed on to Bethlehem, refusing to be intimidated by Herod.

They were not overawed by Herod's pomp and show. They knew that love and zeal in a humble place, and they saw his power and glory revealed in the Child. Wonder that lay in the manger. Where do we look for God? Are we understanding enough to recognize the power in the Eternal when it appears in commonplace surroundings? Are we living in a world of wonder or are we living in a world of fear? Are we living in lowly earth, in feeble disguise? Can we be that wise?

How can we look up, as the Wise Men did, and faithfully follow such light as God gives us until we come to the Christ Child in some unexpected place.



We can think of Christ and be glad, about God, as the Wise Men did, and live in Christ — the very meaning of Christmas and of Christianity — then the world and our own little lives are governed by the Lord of Love. Our worst fears, frustrations and grief are unrealistic if the Christmas story is accepted as the Wise Men were really wise.

Christmas reminds us, then, as it did the Wise Men, that God's goodness comes to us in surprising ways. It prompts us to recall that God always has some glad springtime hidden beneath bleak winter, His bright hope for the world obscured by a cover of darkness, His gift of love concealed behind a stable door.

Men dare to believe it. And the wise know where to find Him.

Horsburgh Appeal Rejected

TORONTO (CP) — A lawyer for former United Church minister Russell Horsburgh says his client may go to the Supreme Court of Canada to appeal his conviction for contributing to juvenile delinquency.

C. E. Perkins, Horsburgh's lawyer in Chatham, said there is a possibility the case will go to the nigher court after the Ontario Court of Appeal Friday upheld Horsburgh's conviction in a split decision.

He said he had not seen the court's reasons for judgment but in view of a dissenting judgment by Mr. Justice Bora Laskin, there should be no difficulty in having the case heard in the federal court.

Horsburgh, 45, former minister of Chatham's Park Street United church, was sentenced to a year in prison last November after conviction on five charges that he encouraged sexual intercourse among young members of his congregation. He voluntarily resigned from the ministry last June.

Mr. Perkins said he has not talked to Horsburgh about the appeal-court ruling and that it would be Horsburgh's decision whether to appeal the case further.

TWO JUDGES AGREE

Chief Justice Dana Porter and Mr. Justice Gregory Evans agreed in Friday's judgment that the ever - all evidence against Horsburgh was overwhelmingly in support of the conclusions of juvenile court Judge W. H. Fox, who convicted him.

Mr. Justice Laskin said the conviction against Horsburgh should be quashed.

Horsburgh lost an earlier appeal of the conviction before Mr. Justice Eric Moorhouse in the Ontario Supreme Court June 23.

He has been in jail since the Appeal Court hearing began Oct. 25. The court reserved its decision Oct. 26.

of them, who in their capacity as directors or agents of three Toronto firms, had dealings with the federal government.

"My conclusion is that there is absolutely no relationship between the favors, if there were any and you could call them such, and the dealings of the givers with the federal government," the judge said.

Outside the courtroom Crown Attorney John Cassells said any decision to proceed with the conspiracy charge against the brigadier "must await a decision on whether we will appeal this verdict." The question of an appeal would be discussed with the attorney-general's department.

Napanee News

Frame Home Damaged By Fire

NAPANEE — The Napanee fire brigade was called out at 6.30 p.m. Thursday to fight a fire in a two-storey frame house in the Hawley district, about eight miles south of Napanee.

Damage to the home is estimated at between $3,500 and $4,000. The fire broke out over the dining room ceiling and spread along the rafters in two directions. Firemen were forced to chop a hole in the roof to release the smoke and flame, but soon had the fire under control.

The house was owned by two bachelor brothers, Lenoert and Cornelius Sonneville. Damage was mostly from smoke and water, neighbors turned in Saturday to help repair the roof and get in heat to dry out the hardwood floors.

Cause of the fire is unknown, but is believed to have been either from defective wiring, or from an overheated thimble where a stovepipe went through the floor, Chief Patton of the Napanee brigade stated.

Fire Destroys Contents of Truck Van

NAPANEE — Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Faulkner of Picton were forced to make a sudden change of plans early Friday morning. Their half - ton truck with a van built on it which contained all their personal possessions caught fire and everything in the van was destroyed. Their small daughter was with them, and were starting for Florida where they planned to establish a new home once Mr. Faulkner obtained employment.

Fire was noticed by bystanders as the truck pulled away from the service station at the clover leaf at highway 401 and the Palace Road. By the time the truck was stopped one mile east of the Palace Road the contents of the van had been destroyed.

The Napanee Volunteer Fire Brigade responded to the call at 7.20 a.m. and was able to prevent serious damage to the truck itself.

the one that was scheduled for Sunday—in violation of local by-laws.

Mr. McDougall said he has charged Mr. Merritt and Mr. Thibault with violating their oaths of loyalty to the local and the international, abusing fellow members and failing to comply with local bylaws.

He said he has also charged Mr. Merritt with refusing to return the local's account books which were reported stolen in November and were recovered last week by a private detective hired by Mr. Merritt.

The trusteeship action climaxes a turbulent fall for the local.

Trucking companies have filed damage claims totalling $2,000,000 against union members following a wave of wildcat walkouts across the province during the fall negotiations. One company fired eight men and there were 35 applications to prosecute under the Ontario Labor Relations Act.

The company retaliation stalled negotiations and Mr. McDougall said a strike is inevitable unless the company actions are withdrawn.

The union is seeking a two-year agreement with a reduction in the work week to 40 from 48 hours with compensating pay.

Members voted to reject the companies' offer of a reduction to 43 hours over 42 months with a wage increase of 33 cents an hour over the same period.

This is the second time in the local's history that trusteeship has been imposed. In 1960, after another period of turbulence under Mr. McDougall, I. J. (Duke) Thomson was placed in charge.

Mr. McDougall, president since 1956, had to go to court to get his name on the union ballot after the trusteeship. He was re-elected by 43 votes.

Many Parents Attend School "Open House"

DESERONTO — Deseronto Public School looked its shining best to welcome the parents and friends whom open house was held Tuesday evening. Each room was gay with decorations for the festive season, and bulletin boards in rooms and halls were filled with outstanding work of the pupils. Clever bits of craft work attracted much attention. On display were the art works of grades seven and eight from which the best will be selected to enter the centennial competition. Room ten displayed the essays on "What Remembrance Day Means to Me" also to be judged and the best sent to the inspector to enter a still wider competition.

Report cards had been sent home December 3, and the parent came to interview the teachers and talk over the progress of their children. Considerable interest was shown in the new equipment displayed, especially the overhead projectors, of which Deseronto has two.

Refreshments, provided by the Public School Board, were served at the close of the successful evening.

He said Quebec would not oppose any other province entering shared programs, but Quebec wanted the fiscal equivalent instead.

Widow Sinks $100 Per Month Into a New Lease on Life

By THOMAS COLLINS

She was 69, and a widow. Her children were married and far away. Old friends were passing from the scene.

Her health was failing, and so she tried to cope with her loneliness and the old home her husband had left her she was largely unnoticed.

In a period of five months this widow has made over her life, apparently regained her health, and is now virtually a queen who is referred, to as "Miss Bless-You."

She did it by spending a little of her money.

Miss Bless-You, whose actual name is Mrs. W. R. Blessing, changed her life without planning to. Her existence had finally become so miserable that, in complete resignation, she sold her home and moved into a small retirement home where she could be taken care of.

She made a $7,500 down-payment on the home under a plan which required her to pay a further $94 a month for life care. Lifetime income left to her by her husband was sufficient for that. Money from the sale of her house and from her husband's savings took care of the $7,500 down payment . . . and there was $18.00 left.

STARTS GIVE-AWAY

Mrs. Blessing, once she was settled in the home, started giving the $18.00 away to the 31 other residents . . . at the rate of $100 a month.

This is how a friend describes the development:

"She came into the home with all of her small personal possessions — jewelry, handkerchiefs, scarves, etc. She began passing some of these to other women residents as gifts.

"The reaction of the women, most of whom had virtually nothing, was surprising to Mrs. Blessing. And very gratifying. She continued giving, and as her personal items diminished she began ordering small gifts from the stores . . .

Out of all this Mrs. Blessing got the idea of establishing a monthly "Gift Day" at the home on the 12th day of each month, which was the date of the month her husband died. She decided to buy $100 worth of gifts for each "Gift Day." She figured that to continue this for five years would cost her a third of her savings, or $6,000 and in the process, she would have given out more than 3,00 gifts . . . if she lived that long.

"She worked out an unusual plan," the friend continues. "Each month she would give 45 residents a $1 gift, they would choose six gifts with the remaining $55 for special cases in the home. She made arrangements with a department store to send a clerk to her room once a month with gift suggestions. . ."

REJECTS IDEA

There are those who will certainly say Miss Bless - You, which was the name applied to her after "Gift Day" started, was out to buy friends and attention. And any fool could do that. Mrs. Blessing's friend indignantly rejects the idea. "Surely she enjoys the gratitude and attention — who wouldn't. But to attribute only selfish motives to a forgotten widow who believed she was soon to die would be cruel.

"She has the money to do with as she chooses. It's hers. She has no yearning to leave it to her children or to a eat hospital. If it gives her pleasure to distribute some of it to 31 other forgotten men and women — when she is not able to get out and spend the money on herself — who's to blame her?"

Miss Bless-You made her first distribution of "Gift Day" presents from her bed in her room. She made the second by riding down the halls in her wheel chair. She made the third by walking from room to room.

She has 31 people praying for her health.

Pinch Hitting

By GARRY ALEXANDER
Staff Sportswriter

Wally Dever, one of this city's fine five-pin bowlers, is currently hitting the lumber at a slightly terrific pace.

Bowling for the LaBelle Electric in the Major "A" League, Dever started his hot streak on November 11 and five bowling nights later, it's still going.

Two nights ago Dever turned in his third 900-plus series in the five-week period, boosting his city average up to a healthy 242. That mark is just five behind the best in the city, Glenn Hamilton and Jim McKenzie who share top spot with 250 averages.

Dever's three 900's have been compiled with consistently high singles. He rolled 305, 318 and 328 for 951 this Thursday.

Two weeks earlier he turned in a 949 with singles of 328, 313 and 308.

On November 11 Dever hit for his highest of the year, a big 957, including a single of 386.

Like most of the good bowlers, Dever played the game almost nightly in previous years, but we are told he cut down a league or two this term.

The 900's certainly prove that a little less action isn't hurting his game!

Chicago Black Hawks' Phil Esposito leads the NHL in game-winning goals. Including games of December 5, Esposito has scored what proves to be the winning marker in four games. Winners are nothing new for the Hawk forward. He had nine of them last year, second only to Norm Ullman, of Detroit, who led the league with ten.

To date this season, Hawk's Bobby Hull and Montreal's Jean Beliveau are next in Esposito, each with three.

Basketball fans of the area have an opportunity to watch the world famous Harlem Globetrotters in action next week.

The "Trotters will be appearing at the Kingston Community Centre on Wednesday next, against the New York Nationals.

* * *

To say that the two-game weekend between Montreal Canadiens and Chicago Black Hawks is a big one would be the understatement of the season.

The Hawks are in Montreal for the video game tonight and Canadiens return the call in the Windy City Sunday night.

Described by first place going into the games, each club has played 20 games. Neither team has been able to open up a lead of any sort on the other, although both have been in front alone several times.

Should either team win both games it will spring them into a rather comfortable position. On the same line, twin losses could have either team in danger of being overtaken by the red-hot Detroit Red Wings, winners of five in a row.

Then, too, the scoring leadership will also be up for grabs and could change hands several times before the two games are completed. Habs' Bobby Rousseau is tops with 20 points, followed by the Hawks' pair, Stan Mikita with 29 and Bobby Hull with 28.

Like we said, it's a big weekend.

Up Peterborough way, a rumor was published upon "Red" Sullivan's firing as Ranger coach that the same man might be moving to Toronto Maple Leafs, again to coach.

The piece claimed that Sullivan would take over from George "Punch" Imlach as coach with Imlach retaining his general manager's role, if the rumor proved truthful.

Imlach's head is open game for Leaf supporters three days as the club fails to impress. A look at scoring records and the Leafs' familiar habit in most games indicate changes are necessary somewhere, either in personnel or in the present players' lee habits.

It's hard to believe that the usually rough, tough Leafs have not collected a major penalty yet this season —and the leading "hitter" on the club has been Lady Byng candidate Davey Keon. The club's top point-getter is Bob Pulford, tied for 17th place in league scoring.

Take Over Lead

Generals Clip Flyers

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Oshawa Generals took over first place the hard way in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series Friday night, defeating Niagara Falls Flyers 3-1 in Niagara Falls.

The Flyers, who went into the game tied with Oshawa for first place, almost pulled it out of the fire as they overcame a 3-0 Oshawa lead to take a 4-3 third-period edge.

In the other game, Kitchener Rangers shut out London Nationals 5-0 to move into a sixth-place tie with Hamilton Red Wings.

Brien Morenz tied it for the Generals, and Bobby Orr fired the winner at his second of the night. Other Oshawa scorers were Danny O'Shea and Barry Wilkins.

Tom Webster, Rick Ley, Derek Sanderson and Gilles Marotte scored for Niagara Falls.

Griffith Holds Title In Boring Bout

By MURRAY ROSE

NEW YORK (AP) — Sugar Ray Robinson stole the show from welterweight champion Emile Griffith without throwing a punch Friday night.

Griffith retained his title with a lopsided 15-round decision over Manuel Gonzalez, a hitless wonder from Odessa, Tex., in a boring bout and immediately declared he wanted a shot at middleweight king Dick Tiger's crown.

* * *

EMILE GRIFFITH

* * *

Long before the unanimous verdict was announced, many of the 12,146 fans who paid $72,502 strolled out of Madison Square Garden in the time to Let Me Call You Sweetheart, as sung by the fans in the $3 seats.

They also sang Deep in the Heart of Texas and yelled for Manny to go home.

But the farewell tribute to Sugar Ray, the 45 - year - old former welterweight and five-time middleweight champion, was a rousing and heart-warming success.

SEES OLD FOES

The Garden brought in four of Robinson's middleweight title opponents, Carmen Basilio, Randy Turpin, Gene England's Bobo Olson and Carmen Basilio for the occasion. Sugar Ray and the four other ex-champions all stepped into the ring with robes over their ring togs.

Robinson remained in midring as the others went to the four corners. The crowd applauded them all and then lifted the rafters when Sugar Ray said his farewell.

"To stand here in the middle of the ring for the last time is not goodbye but farewell to a career, he said.

Then, first in French, and then in English, he said:

"I'll see you later."

It's a cinch the Garden fans won't be seeing Gonzales later.

The one-time cotton picker kept on his bicycle and rarely punched as the angered champion chased him all over the ring, occasionally catching him with left hooks to the body, and left jabs and rights to the head.

WON ONCE

Gonzalez had won a disputed, split decision over Griffith in a non-title 10-rounder in Houston Jan. 26. The fans in the Garden wondered how he ever made it close the first time.

The officials voted for Griffith this way: Referee Art Mercante 8-3-1 in rounds; Judge Al Berl 11-3-1 and judge Tony Rocci 12-3. The Associated Press had Griffith 13-0.

Griffith, in a record 12th welterweight title bout, was a 3½-1 favorite with little betting reported. He weighed 146½ pounds to Gonzalez' 146.

The champ's record is 48-7, Gonzalez' record is 37-13-6.

Including the regional television and radio receipts, Griffith could earn about $45,000 on his 45 per cent and Gonzales $15,000 on his 18 per cent.

"It's a lot better than picking cotton," said Manny.

Would Test Mexican Air

TORONTO (CP)—The Globe and Mail says the Canadian Olympic Association has requested a federal grant of $22,236 to send a team of 34 athletes, coaches and doctors to Mexico City next year.

The Canadian group, with teams from other countries, would spend six weeks in Mexico City from Sept. 4 to Oct. 15, limiting the effect of the altitude in preparation for the 1968 Olympics there. The Mexican capital has an altitude of more than 8,000 feet.

Expect Rugged Game

Colts, Packers Meet In Big One

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Don Shula has a healthy respect for Green Bay Packers' defence, Willie Davis and Willie Wood in particular, and he looks for another bruising headknocker Sunday when his Baltimore Colts meet the Packers in the National Football League's game of the year.

Baltimore, 9-3-1, and Green Bay, 8-3, will be fighting for first place in the Western Division on this next-to-last Sunday of the season.

"Just look where the ball is and you'll find Willie Davis and Willie Wood," said the Baltimore coach. "Green Bay has the finest defence in the league —real pressure defence. Look at the touchdowns scored—nine on the ground and only seven in the air in 12 games."

Shula is confident, however, young Gary Cuozzo can do the job as a replacement for injured Johnny Unitas at quarterback.

While the Colts and Packers are banging heads Cleveland Browns — already set for the Jan. 2 league championship game as Eastern titleholders—play Los Angeles Rams at Los Angeles.

Elsewhere, the NFL schedule has San Francisco there at Chicago Bears, Minnesota at Detroit Lions, New York Giants at Washington Redskins and Philadelphia Eagles at Pittsburgh Steelers.

San Diego Chargers are favored to wrap up another Western Division title in the American Football League Sunday by defeating Houston Oilers.

The Chargers, with a season record of 7-5-2, can claim their fifth division title in six years by dumping the injury-ridden Oilers in Houston.

Oakland Raiders, with mathematical shot at the Western title should the Chargers stumble, entertains New York Jets Sunday. Buffalo Bills, with the Eastern Division crown locked up, play Kansas City Chiefs and division tail-enders Boston Patriots and Denver Broncos collide at Denver in other games.

Russian Beef List

Charges Bourbonnais Hunting

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Russian coach Anatoli Tarasov lamented loud and long Friday night on Canadian referees, Canadian hockey roughness and the incessant "hunting" of Canada's Roger Bourbonnais for the scalp of Russian defenceman Vitaly Davydov.

The veteran of world and Olympic tournaments said it was a pity Bourbonnais was "the only one on the Canadian team behaving unlike a hockey player."

Ruddy - faced when angry, Tarasov did a slow boil in discussing Bourbonnais' playing Friday night, but even more so his conduct at Colorado Springs last year when he ran into Davydov and sent the Russian to hospital for 20 days with a broken jaw.

"He's still hunting," said Tarasov of the 22-year-old pivot-sized Alberta forward whose Canadians team took a 4-0 trouncing at the hands of the Russians.

"Such players would be suspended for life in Russia. It's a pity he's the only one like that on the Canadian team."

He said he would ask Father David Bauer, adviser to the Canadian team and their coach in last year's tournament at Colorado Springs, to "try and invigorate from the Christian standpoint" the behavior of Bourbonnais."

"Father Bauer believes in the church and I am going to ask him to see what he can do with Bourbonnais," Tarasov said.

Bourbonnais scoffed at the charges and said some of his own.

"The injury to Davydov wasn't intentional. He took a slap shot from the point and I just followed my check and knocked him down. I didn't know for some time later that he suffered a broken jaw.

"But don't think those Russians don't play some 'games' of their own," he added.

"You watch 'em run interference some time. One guy crosses in front of you and yells back to a guy behind him 'go Joe' and the second player just trails in your way to let the first go through with the puck.

"If you don't push im out of the way with your stick they use his on you. It's terribly irritating and you can't just let them get away with it."

POTSDAM, N.Y. (AP) — Clarkson College's hockey team passed with pin-point accuracy to an 11-2 win over Carleton University of Ottawa Friday night.

HOUGHTON, Mich. Defensive Flaws

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Russia's national hockey team found flaws in Canada's defensive efforts Friday night to score a 4-0 victory in the first game of its North American exhibition tour.

A crowd of 3,540 watched the defending world champions tally three goals in nine minutes in the second period and add another while shorthanded in the third to hand Jackie McLeod's Canadian national team its first defeat in 13 exhibitions.

The Russians did it with their top forward line sitting in the stands.

The Canadians, McLeod said later, were tired after leaving Winnipeg early Friday and arriving at London late in the afternoon.

"We were up at six in the morning and had a 24-hour stopover at Toronto," he said. "We didn't skate that well tonight and I feel it was because the trip 'tired us."

"Take nothing away from the Russians. They played well and deserved to win."

The offensive play of the Russian defence and the defensive slowness of Canada were key factors in the game.

Russian defencemen scored two of the four goals with sharp offensive moves and thwarted the Canadian attack time and again with exceptional defensive manoeuvres inside their own blue line.

By contrast, Canadian defencemen showed weakness in clearing from their own zone and apparent mental lapses before two of the four goals were scored.

The Russians survived a hard-checking first period with most of the heavy checking handed out by the Canadians.

They struck quickly for three goals in the second and turned back a strong skating third period by the Canadians.

Canadian goalie Wayne Stephenson appeared sharp on several shots and slow in reacting when two shots went by him.

Defenceman George Faulkner passed to the stick of Victor Ponomarev and the Russian defenceman slid a shot into the right corner behind Stephenson from 10 feet out at 1:11 of the second period.

Vladimir Brezhnev made it 2-0 five minutes later, moving in from the blue line to take a rink-wide pass from Igor Rozmiskvitv, and beat Stephenson from 15 feet.

Davydov skated the Russian lead to 3-0 on a play similar to Brezhnev's. He moved in from the point to snare a pass from Boris Mayorov and had his shot stickied through Stephenson's legs. Russia was shorthanded at the time.

The Russian offence showed no need for their three veterans of world and Olympic play who sat out the game. Konstantin Loktev, Alexander Almetov and Venlamin Alexandrov sat behind the Russian bench making notes of Canadian offensive plays and of Russian defensive mistakes.

Rollins Juniors Whip Trenton 10-3

* * *

PETE FLEMING

Rollins excelled in the skating, passing and shooting departments while registering their second win in a row and their third in their last four games. They climbed over Trenton by a single point but are idle now until next Friday when Cobourg visits for a "Pony Night" special.

Fleming, who has been scoring a goal a game, broke loose with four last night in a flashy performance.

He fired his first two just 15 seconds apart early in the second heat to give Belleville a 5-1 lead. Number one came from dead in front while his second was a beauty. He went outside a defenceman, cut in on the net and picked a corner with a quick thrust just before being charged into the end boards.

Fleming completed his hat trick late in the period after Hagerman carried the play, then bagged his fourth in the final heat on a perfect three-on-one passing play with Hagerman and Boyle.

However it was far from a one-man show. Goalie Wayne Brant held the club in the game during the first frame when Trenton held a 15-4 shooting margin. Overall the Kings outshot Rollins 33-30. Brant "stoled" a half dozen goals on the night's play.

Every man in the lineup skated all out. Grant Hagerman earned five points, scoring the first goal on a neat power-play backhand and later collecting four assists. Carl Boomhower, Bob Boyle and Harold Townsend each had one goal and one helper while other scorers were rookie Ray Summers and a more aggressive Steve White. Defenceman Arnie Marks earned three assists, Dave Muir two, Jim Pringle, Larry Stewart and rearguard Doug Potts, who led a number of rushes, one apiece.

Art Hampson netted Trenton's first goal while Belleville had two men off, to tie it 1-1 before Rollins opened up a 5-1 lead by period's end. Terry Hutchinson and Tom Glover added later goals with Andy Teeple helping on two, Al Ferguson and Hutchison on one each.

Summers sunk a quick backhand to put the winners ahead to stay, 2-1, at 13:24 of the first and Boomhower upped the total with a long shot at 17:01.

Six in a row sewed it up as Belleville dominated matters in the middle heat. Following Fleming's quick pair, White, Townsend, Fleming again and Boyle hit payoff. Hutchison made it 9-2 in the dying seconds. White's goal came after some great spade work by Muir with two Trenton men in the sin-bin. Fleming scored early and Glover late in the third.

Each team drew ten minor penalties and Trenton's Bob Fraser also had a misconduct as the Kings attempted to outpush the homesters.

A noisy crowd, estimated at over 500, included many from

May Fight Cooper Or Folley

TORONTO (CP)—Irving Ungerman, manager of Canadian heavyweight champion George Chuvalo of Toronto, said Friday he has received seven offers for top fights for Chuvalo.

"I dare Ernie Terrell (World Boxing Association champion) to come up with half the offers we've received," said Ungerman.

Terrell successfully defended his championship with a unanimous 15-round decision over Chuvalo here Nov. 1. Since then, Terrell has been idle, awaiting a match with Cassius Clay.

Meanwhile, Chuvalo returned to action Tuesday night by winning a 10-round decision over veteran Joe Bygraves of Jamaica in London.

Ungerman said the most important offer he has received was for Chuvalo to fight Henry Cooper of London Feb. 8 for the British Empire title.

"The Cooper fight looks like the best bet," said Ungerman, "but the financial arrangements would have to be satisfactory before we could take it."

"If we don't take Cooper, we may look to a bout with Zora Folley in Edmonton.

Folley won a unanimous 10-round decision over Chuvalo two years ago.

Two Goals Put Hall Atop AHL

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

In any other season, Murray Hall would be a top candidate for promotion to Detroit Red Wings of the National Hockey League. He scored two goals and set up another as Pittsburgh Hornets defeated Cleveland Barons 3-2 Friday night.

Hall now leads the AHL scoring race with 30 points on 12 goals and 17 assists. That's enough to earn him a whirl on most NHL clubs, but the Red Wings' problem this year isn't a lack of scorers.

They added super-star Andy Bathgate and Don McKenney to an already powerful scoring squad this season, but gave up all - star defenceman Marcel Pronovost. So, it's defencemen the Red Wings are seeking.

BEAT WEL TEAMS

Elsewhere, Buffalo Bisons defeated Vancouver Canucks 4-2 and Hershey Bears downed Los Angeles Blades 3-2 in a pair of interlocking schedule games between the AHL and Western Hockey League. Rochester Americans walloped Providence Reds 7-3.

Norm Beaudin scored the other Pittsburgh goal, while Bob Ethier and Joe Szura replied for Cleveland.

Al Caron scored two goals for Buffalo, while Pat Hannigan and Gerry Ouellette added the others. Fred Carmichael and Bob Kabel were the Vancouver marksmen.

Dick Gamble and Gerry Ehman scored two goals each for Rochester. Duane Rupp, Brian Conacher and Larry Jeffrey scored the others. Willie Marshall scored two for Providence. Doug Senior and Bob Ledue netted the others.

Combines Suffer First Defeat

OTTAWA (CP)—Morrisburg Combines Friday night lost their first St. Lawrence Senior Hockey League game of the season, 3-1 to Ottawa Carleton Maroons.

Guy Beauregard, Pete Gagne and Lucien Richard scored the goals to Ottawa three points behind first - place Morrisburg. The Combines have 18 on a 8-1 record.

Jim Forrest scored for Morrisburg. Attendance was 500.

Leaders Clash Twice

Leafs Count On Farmhands; Pilote Out

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

It's been a long wait for Wally Boyer but it looks as though he is going to get a shot at playing in the National Hockey League.

Boyer, 28, of Cowan, Man., has played 483 games including play - offs in the minors but by night he will get a chance with Toronto Maple Leafs.

Boyer, a centre, and defenceman Al Arbour were called up to Toronto from Rochester Americans of the American League for tonight's game against Boston Bruins.

The other NHL game tonight sends the Canadiens against Chicago Black Hawks in Montreal. Detroit Red Wings play the Rangers in an afternoon game at New York.

Montreal visits the Black Hawks in Chicago Sunday, Toronto is at New York and Detroit at Boston.

In 1958-59, Boyer's first season as a professional, the five-foot-seven, 160-pound centre played in the Quebec Hockey League, the Western League and the AHL.

He played for Sudbury of the Eastern Professional League in 1959-60 but since then has played in the AHL.

SAW PLAYOFF ACTION

Arbour, drafted by Toronto from Chicago in June, 1961, will be making his first regular-season appearance with the club in two years. He played in one playoff game last year.

The Maple Leafs, in fourth place in the league standings, will be without defenceman Bobby Baun, who suffered a knee injury last week.

Montreal and Chicago will fight it out for first place in the standings with their home-and-home series. They are tied for the top spot with 28 points apiece.

Chicago coach Billy Reay said all-star defenceman Pierre Pilote will not be dressed for tonight's game. Pilote suffered a leg strain when he went into the boards against New York last Wednesday.

Bobby Hull, the league's leading goal scorer with 17, will be ready for action tonight. Hull suffered a muscle spasm in his back in last Sunday's 6-2 Chicago victory over New York.

Montreal's Bobby Rousseau and Stan Mikita of Chicago will be battling for points. Rousseau leads the league with 30, one more than Mikita, last year's scoring champion.

Andy Bathgate, traded to Detroit by Toronto in the off-season, will be looking for his 300th regular-season goal against New York.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Attendance, and wagering at U.S. harness-racing tracks that permit betting soared to record highs in 1965, the United States Trotting Association board of directors was told Friday.

Attendance increased 3.7 per cent to 22,506,870 through the first 11 months of the year. The over-all figure is estimated to be 26,000,000.

Parimutuel wagering increased nearly $100,000,000 over the record-breaking 1964 season to $1,235,576,625, a gain of 8 per cent.

Officers elected were Paul Leary, Western Harness Racing Association, president; Joseph Goldstein, Roosevelt Raceway, New York, vice-president; Charles D. Stokes, Scioto Downs, Columbus, secretary-treasurer.

Directors include James Lampman, Canadian Jockey Club.

Yanks Get Friend For Mikkelson

NEW YORK (AP) — New York Yankees, hoping to regain a contending position in baseball's American League, found a friend in the National League Friday when they obtained veteran right-hander Bob Friend from Pittsburgh Pirates.

Friend, 35, had an 8-12 won-lost record last season, one of his poorest in 15 years with the Pirates.

"His pitching rates better than his record. He lost a lot of close ball games," said Ralph Houk, the Yankees' general manager.

The Pirates received right-handed pitcher Pete Mikkelson plus an undisclosed amount of cash.

Problem of the Pregnant Genie Has Been Solved

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The problem of the pregnant genie has been solved to the satisfaction of NBC Screen Gems and especially Barbara Eden.

Last winter the blonde star, wife of actor Michael Ansara, chose a pilot film for a new television series, I Dream of Jeannie. The setup seemed sure-fire: Barbara played a genie attuned to the wishes of Larry Hagman. After all, witches and warlocks had fostered all television series; why not a genie?

"I Dream of Jeannie was zapped up for the 1965-66 season. On the day it was purchased, Barbara made another discovery: She was expecting her first child.

"I called Sidney Sheldon, who had created the series for

Regals Nip Oaks To Close Gap

By "HE CANADIAN PRESS

There's no stopping Bobby Robinson. In the last four games the forward with Woodstock Athletics of the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A series has scored 14 points.

Friday night, he made it 15 in helping the Athletics to a 4-3 win over fourth-place Galt Hornets for their fourth consecutive win.

In the only other game, the first-place Oakville Oaks lost their third game in five when Guelph Regals beat them 5-4.

The win moved the Regals two points behind the Oaks with 21 points.

Ted Power, Art Sullivan and defenceman Pat Bester joined Robinson in scoring Woodstock goals.

Earl Balfour, Ron Brain and Joe Hogan scored for Galt.

The Regals had a 3-1 lead in the second period, but lost it to an Oakville drive that netted three goals in the second period from Moe Galand, Jack Price and Charlie Doucette.

Guelph won it in the third when Bob Pope and Keith Worrall scored. Other Guelph goals were scored by Pole, Butch Martin and Dave Luciuk.

Bob Bishop also scored for Oakville.

Jack Frost Can Stop Your Car

By EUGENE R. MILMOE

During the coming winter months, your car may start and run well on some mornings, but refuse to start on others. Carburetor frost or icing is often the reason in most cases. And, it's a strangely irregular trouble, because it only happens under certain weather conditions.

High humidity, combined with air temperature ranging from slightly below to several degrees above freezing, can form frost or ice on the carburetor throttle plate. The drop in temperature caused by rapid fuel vaporization when the engine is started causes this icing. After stalling, the engine can be restarted, but will continue to stall at idle speed because frost on the throttle plate strangles fuel flow — until increased engine temperature prevents icing.

Your local serviceman will simply advance carburetor idle speed a bit to prevent this happening.

T. D. asks: "In hooking up a battery charger, should it be positive to positive and negative to negative?"

Right — and the charger should carry these instructions.

From S. F.: "If brakes don't work well for the first 10 or 15 miles and then become more or less unpredictable and inefficient, could it be due to moisture which are affected by heat?"

It could — by linings which are contaminated by brake fluid, grease or oil.

M. J. writes: "Although I have had a liming check and minor tune-up, and use the same high octane gas as always, my '64 has now developed a definite engine ping."

If you've had new plugs installed, they could be too hot i.e., too high in heat range for your driving needs.

From R. McG: "We've always used regular gas in our '60 model, just as the manual says. Recently, we had some missing and stalling troubles and our local service station tells us we should use premium gas. Is the manual or the mechanic wrong?"

The engine miss and stalling troubles aren't due to the grade of gas you've been using, which incidentally, should be regular. Ignition and carburetion tune-up will probably uncover the true cause in a hurry.

Liston Gets Nickel Back

DENVER, Colo. (AP)—Sonny Liston, former heavyweight boxing champion, said in court Friday his two-headed nickel has been returned to him in the usual by-standard condition.

District Judge Mitchel Johnson said this was "a two-bit case of a two-headed nickel," and dissolved a temporary restraining order against Liston.

Judge Johnson issued the order last month after a suit filed by W. Martin, said Liston had bamboozled him about the two-headed coin.

Martin said the fighter lent him the nickel and he mislaid it.

Ann Landers

This Woman Got Real Bang Out of Life

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Your column has provided me with many a good chuckle these last several years and now I'm going to give you one.

The letter from the woman who complained about the $2.00 falsies floating to the top of the swimming pool reminded me of one of the most unforgetable experiences of my life.

Many years ago I attended a convention where all those ladies wore tall dresses with floral patterns and big hats. My best friend's aunt was being installed as president. This was back in the days when falsies were inflatable jobs balloons. Well, the outgoing president made a gushy speech and closed with: "It is an honor for me to present you with this corsage as a token of our esteem and affection." She then proceeded to pin it on the incoming president.

You guessed it. Bang went the falsies and half of her dimensions changed right there in front of 2000 people.

Naturally this was the highlight of the convention and it was a topic of conversation for several years. So the thanks for room rubber, Ann — NO TOWN TOO SMALL FOR SAKES.

ANN LANDERS

DEAR NO TOWN: If you ever hear of a contest for the most embarrassing moment, that woman has first prize right in her pocket. (And I hope it's not a medal.)

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband's little sister, Cora (age 14) spent the month of July with us. We drove 1,000 miles to pick her up so she wouldn't have to travel alone. Her parents live in a small town in Texas. She borrowed things like bermuda shorts, and bras, and brought along their son, his fiancee and their niece.

At this writing I have not had a line from any of them. Last week my mother-in-law called and asked if everything was closed with this: "Thank heavens Cora is talking normally again. She drove us crazy for weeks with that revolting southern accent and picked up all the slang and redd dialect."

Both my husband and I are very hurt that not one of them has written to say thanks. I don't want a family feud. Shall I make an issue of this or ignore it? — ICE IN THE SOUTH.

DEAR ICE: A 14-year-old girl who doesn't know enough to write a thank you note to people who have been kind to your home is so pathetically clodddish that I feel sorry for her. The rest of the tribe (including the fiancee and her niece) are also graceless slobs.

My advice is to forget it. These people are not mean nor destructive. They are just ignorant.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: One of the best things about your column is that people can ask you questions they wouldn't dare ask anyone else. Here's one that has been on my mind for a long time. Also, you don't know the person who is writing so nobody gets embarrassed.

Please tell me this: What is a girl supposed to do when she crimps lot at a funeral or a wedding or in a sad movie and needs to borrow a handkerchief from a boy. Does she return the handkerchief after she has used it or does she say "Thank you," and let it go at that? — MISS WATERWORKS.

DEAR MISS W.: The handkerchief presented in an emergency is not a gift, it is a loan. It should be laundered and returned.

Frank Clair

Gets Vote of Confidence

OTTAWA (CP)—Coach Frank Clair was given a unanimous vote of confidence by directors of Ottawa Rough Riders Friday.

Club president E. R. Emerson said in a statement that certain differences that existed between coach Clair and directors appear to be a thing of the past. "Differences have been settled to the satisfaction of everyone present." He did not say what differences had published reports said the differences go back to Grey Cup week last year.

Clair was given permission by Riders to negotiate with Toronto Argonauts and Saskatchewan Roughriders who asked to take the coaching job if Clair moved to Toronto.

Emerson agreed but Clair later rejected the Argo offer, remaining as head coach with eight games still to contest.

The meeting was attended by all the club's seven directors, general manager Ken Quinn and the two coaches.

The statement said the board of directors unanimously gave each coach Frank Clair a vote of confidence for the balance of the contract with the club.

Both Clair and Smyth have two more years to go on their contracts with the organization.

Both coaches are to leave immediately on a scouting trip to the U.S. Clair to Texas and Smyth to Cincinnati, where he will also be scouting.

Questions and Answers On Highway Travel

Ontario Motor League Eastern Ontario Club

Every year we have a winter — and every year thousands of motorists react to the snow and freezing temperatures with a sort of shocked surprise. They weren't ready, and forgetful motorists are turned into stranded, angry, frustrated pedestrians — the walking wounded in the annual battle of nature.

"We get the same faces every year," says Stewart Kerr, service manager at Trudeau Motors. "Some have forgotten about anti-freeze and everything is frozen. With others the car simply won't start. It's the same as licence plates. They leave everything to the last minute. That's why we're all tied up with the first cold snap every winter."

Mechanics, Ontario Motor League officials and spokesmen for Queen's University department of mechanical engineering agree that anyone driving an almost new car is probably ready for winter.

He might have to add some anti-freeze to the radiator and windshield washers, put on snow tires and throw a bag of sand in the trunk to give the back wheels more traction.

For the person with 10,000 miles on his car, not much more preparation is needed. But, he could have trouble starting on a cold morning unless he gets new spark plugs and points — and the carburetor should be adjusted.

Drivers of cars with more mileage can expect trouble unless they make a real effort to get ready for the Arctic breezes.

CHECK LIST

Here's what the mechanics and professors say should be done to avoid frustration, delay and possibly damage when the cold comes:

Batteries: Batteries in all cars should be checked. Batteries more than two years old should be replaced. Battery cables should be checked for corrosion.

Ignition: Install new condenser, spark plugs and points.

Cooling system: Check hoses leading from the radiator. If they're beginning to feel soft there could be trouble.

Engine: Check the thermostat valve. Re-set the automatic choke.

Visibility: Check the heating system and windshield wipers to make sure defects haven't developed. Carry a good windshield scraper in the car.

Wheels: Snow tires are a must and chains could be carried for real emergencies. The new tires with tungsten bob nails are best for ice, and snow but may not be legal in Ontario.

Chassis: Wax the car before street salting starts and paint over all scratches.

Alex Kearney, manager of road service for the Ontario Motor League, says that for a car in good condition a service station check should cost about $18 and include anti-freeze, plugs and points. The cost rises if other parts, like the battery, must be replaced.

The main thing is to get the winterizing job done now.

"People who wait until the temperature dips create havoc at the service stations. Everyone is overworked and the motorist doesn't get as good a job" he says.

Space Ship Fails To Leave The Pad

Kenya Asks UN Stop All Trade With Rhodesia

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — Kenya goes before the UN Security Council today to ask for an economic blockade of Rhodesia.

Kenyan Chief Delegate Burudi Mabwera said he will ask the council to vote mandatory sanctions "to make it impossible for anything to go in or out" of Rhodesia, the British colony in east central Africa where a white minority government has declared independence to preserve white rule.

President Jomo Kenyatta of Kenya requested the council meeting in a cable in which he said the Rhodesian situation threatened "a racial confrontation on a world scale."

Kenyatta's main objective at present seemed to be to find a face-saving pretext for postponing a diplomatic break with Britain.

The 36 nations of the Organization of African Unity voted to break with Britain Wednesday if the British government has not crushed Prime Minister Ian Smith's Rhodesian regime by then. But most of the OAU members have had large secret dealings, and only Tanzania, Algeria and the United Arab Republic have said they would make the break.

COULD BE ABORTIVE

Kenyatta told the Kenyan Parliament Friday that because of the conflicting reactions from various African states, a break with Britain "would not be effective and could in fact be abortive."

Ethiopia Saturday called on the African countries to postpone the deadline and circulated a memorandum to all 36 OAU members to that effect.

Emperor Haile Selassie of Ethiopia urged the postponement, saying that a number of African leaders feel that such a move on such short notice would not help the Rhodesian Negro majority. He urged further consultation among the heads of state.

Kenyatta's cable requesting the Security Council meeting expressed doubt that the voluntary sanctions against Rhodesia voted by the United Nations Nov. 20 would prove effective. So far the only major economic moves have been taken by Britain, Rhodesia's chief trading partner. The British government said Monday we will result in replacement of the Smith government by a cabinet that will return the colony to the British fold.

SMOKE BUT NO GO — Smoke rises from base of the Titan 2 rocket with Gemini 6 spacecraft on its cone at Cape Kennedy, Fla., but the rocket never left the pad when sensors caused a shutdown of the engines. Astronauts Walter Schirra and Thomas Stafford, aboard the Gemini 6 for their try for a space orbit-rendezvous with Gemini 7 may try again Wednesday. (AP Wirephoto)

Another Launch To Be Attempted On Wednesday

HOUSTON (CP) — The Gemini 7 astronauts sailed a lonesome orbit through space today with eyes set on a Wednesday date with Gemini 6, the troublefidden space ship that failed for the second time Sunday to get off the ground.

The Gemini 7 astronauts, Lt.-Col. Frank Borman and Cmdr. James A. Lovell Jr., blazed a record-shattering trail as they went into the ninth day of their 14-day flight.

But the U.S. Sunday space spectacular stalled in a cloud of rocket exhaust, seen from 185 miles above by the crew of Gemini 7.

The Gemini 6 pilots, navy Capt. Walter M. Schirra Jr. and air force Maj. Thomas P. Stafford, saw their 103,000 - mile space hunt and rendezvous with Gemini 7 foiled before they left the launch pad at Cape Kennedy, Fla. A faint signal shut off the launch rocket's engines.

Already - tired launch crews worked around the clock today to make ready Gemini 6 for another pursuit try at 8:37 a.m. EST Wednesday. It can be fired no later, on Saturday.

SAVE FUEL

Borman and Lovell got orders to conserve fuel to ensure them enough power to maintain their spacecraft's attitude toward the end of their space voyage. This meant an abbreviated experiment schedule and much drifting flight.

Gemini 7 entered its 129th orbit at 3:33 a.m. EST.

If it had not been for expert, split - second decisions by Schirra and Stafford in the face of potential danger—and maybe death—the chance at a repeat attempt would have vanished.

"They're cleared for takeoff," mission control advised Gemini 7, passing overhead shortly before the 9:34 a.m. blastoff time.

Flight as schedule, the astronauts proceeded. The engines ignited on schedule. Exhaust boiled from beneath the mighty vehicle, but the rocket didn't move.

"Shutdown," announced mission control with scarcely a pause.

HOLD TIGHT

By this time, under these conditions, Schirra and Stafford pilots of the craft had ordered to eject and be thrown clear of the smoldering rocket, live with fire. But they just gripped their ejection rings. Then the fuel pressure started slowly decreasing, the aerials disappeared.

Had they ejected—much like pilots do from aircraft—the damage to the capsule and seats might have been too severe to repair before the end of the Gemini 7 flight.

Gemini 6's launch vehicle probably would have flown successfully. Inspectors determined that the shutdown was caused

Nasser Suggests Parley

CAIRO (AP) — The United Arab Republic today proposed an Organization of African Unity foreign ministers meeting in Addis Ababa Dec. 21 to review the organization's plan to break off diplomatic relations with Britain Dec. 15 but there was no immediate confirmation that the U.A.R. would hold off the rupture.

The U.A.R. proposal, announced by the foreign ministry today was in response to a proposal by Ethiopian Emperor Haile Selassie Saturday for a postponement in the deadline for the projected break in relations due to the reported reluctance of several African nations to go through with the break.

More than 30 OAU member nations threatened to sever diplomatic relations with Britain Dec. 15 if the Rhodesian rebellion was not crushed by then.

Higher Posts Wanted

By RONALD LEBEL

OTTAWA (CP)—Pressure for a stronger French-Canadian role in the federal government comes from Prime Minister Pearson as he ponders his impending cabinet shakeup.

Quebec Liberals, who will account for 56 of the government's 131 seats in the new Parliament, are hungry for more influential representation in the inner circle of power.

They are bolstered by a widespread feeling in Quebec that French - Canadians traditionally have been under-represented in federal cabinets—both in numbers and in power to shape policy.

A survey since Confederation shows until 1963 French-Canadians accounted for one-quarter of the cabinet posts or less, although they usually comprised

Union Will Lay Charges Against Dissident Members

TORONTO (CP)—A warrant was in be taken out, today against persons who forced entry Sunday into the headquarters of Toronto-based Local 938 of the independent International Brotherhood of Teamsters.

A union official said about 85 members apparently held an unauthorized meeting in the building.

Raymond Greene, named trustee of the strife-torn local Friday by international President James Hoffa, made the announcement in a state next later Sunday. He said a $200 reward will be offered for information leading to identification of persons responsible for the entry.

He also said that any members who took active part in the unauthorized meeting are subject to charges under an international constitution of the union.

The men were part of a group of nearly 200 who showed up at the Queen Elizabeth building on the Canadian National Exhibition grounds for a general membership meeting which Mr. Green had cancelled Friday.

The meeting had been called by local Secretary - Treasurer Lloyd Merritt, one of the leaders of a dissenting faction in the local.

When Mr. Greene, a Montreal Teamsters executive, arrived here Friday to try to iron out the local's affairs, two of his first actions were to cancel the meeting and suspend Mr. Merritt.

In his order placing the local under trusteeship, Mr. Hoffa said Mr. Merritt had called the meeting in violation of local by-laws.

The trusteeship order was issued following internal strife between the local president and vice-president, Ken McDougall and Gordon Newman, and the faction headed by Mr. Merritt and Charles Thibault, a business agent.

Members of the dissenting faction charge Mr. McDougall and Mr. Newman of not taking a strong enough stand in negotiations and of misusing union funds.

When Mr. Greene took over Friday, he suspended the local executive board and immediately reinstated all of them on a temporary basis except Mr. Merritt and Mr. Thibault.

He made Mr. McDougall temporary business manager and Mr. Newman one of five business agents.

He returned to Montreal Friday night but said he will be back Wednesday to start interviewing leaders of both sides in the dispute.

Negro Sets Bar Fire, 13 Killed

CHICAGO (AP)—A customer thrown out of a west side tavern for showing a knife returned to the crowded place and set it ablaze Saturday night, killing 13 persons and injuring 21, police said.

Robert L. Lassiter, 36-year-old laborer, was quoted by Police Sgt. Robert Thompson as admitting he poured gasoline just inside the doorway of the place and touched it off, then told of the fire's cost, explained.

"Oh, my God! No!"

Lassiter, a husky Negro, showed no emotion Sunday when he was brought before Magistrate Lionel J. Bere in holiday court on 13 charges of murder by arson.

Thompson said Lassiter admitted setting the fire because he was being in a fight with the bouncer in the Seeley Club.

About 40 persons in the seedy tavern when the flames erupted, blocking the front door. Seven firemen were overcome by smoke.

IS IDENTIFIED

Police said five witnesses identified Lassiter as the arsonist.

Doctors at cook county hospital said most of the victims of the blaze died of smoke inhalation.

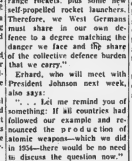
Police seized Lassiter as he was sleeping in his home shortly after the fire. Lieut. Charles Azzerello said Lassiter, a laborer, admitted setting the fire after three hours of questioning.

Azzerello said Lassiter related that he had gotten into a fight with the bartender-bouncer, who later died in the blaze.

The fire burned out the one-storey brick building. All the victims of the blaze were Negroes.

Fire officials said some of the deaths and injuries resulted were caused by panic which followed the fire and explosion of gasoline. Chaplain Robert Holderby of the fire department said many of the victims were trapped when they tried to flee through the rear door and found it locked. Some were trampled.

"The scene in the back of the tavern was unbelievable," the chaplain said. "The bodies were stacked up, one atop another."



Erhard Wants To Share A-Arm Control

WASHINGTON (AP) — West German Chancellor Ludwig Erhard says his country must be given a share in control of the West's nuclear arsenal.

In a copyrighted interview in U.S. News and World Report, Erhard says: ". . . West Germany is presently threatened by almost 1,000 Soviet medium-range rockets, plus some new self-propelled rocket launchers. Therefore, we West Germans must share in our own defence to a degree matching the danger we face and the share of the collective defence burden that we carry."

Erhard, who will meet with President Johnson next week, also says:

". . . Let me remind you of something: If all countries had followed our example and renounced the production of atomic weapons—which we did in 1954—there would be no need to discuss the question now."

"I'd like something for the guy that has nothing."

May Cut Supply Needs

By HAROLD MORRISON

PARIS (CP)—North Atlantic military authorities are working on a sharp scale-down of the supply needs of the 15-country alliance, shaping their plans to fit a 30-day war rather than the concept of a 90-day war as at present.

A well-placed informant said the scale - down plan, which would save the alliance millions of dollars in a reduced stockpile of military equipment and communications supplies, has been completed by military planning groups in the alliance and likely will be brought before the NATO ministerial council, opening a three - day meeting here Tuesday.

The new plan developed out of a British demand that the strategy of a 90-day war be revised on the basis that any East-West conflict in Europe would quickly developed into a nuclear war that would be decided in a matter of days.

Seeking ways to reduce costs, Britain has argued that it makes no sense to hold huge stockpiles of non-nuclear weapons and supplies in Europe, where infantry and armored troops would have only a limited role in any nuclear battle. Troops would be unable to advance to hold territory contaminated by radioactivity.

Roads, Airports Tied Up As Freezing Rain Hits Ont.

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Airlines will start untying knotted schedules today if freezing rain and heavy clouds hanging low over airports in Canada's two largest, cities clear enough to permit flying.

Rain falling through a layer of cold air froze on roads in parts of Ontario Saturday night and Sunday and five traffic deaths were attributed to the weather.

Freezing rain fell on Montreal Sunday night, but temperatures were expected to turn mild today.

A sleet storm hit Ottawa Sunday night and freezing rain began to fall on the capital shortly after 7:30 a.m. today. A layer of ice about half an inch thick covered the district overnight and began to turn to slush as temperatures rose toward an expected 45 today.

In Toronto Sunday, Air Canada cancelled most flights. Ten Toronto-bound flights were held at Montreal while two others from the West Indies and the United States were diverted to Montreal from Toronto.

An Air Canada spokesman in Toronto said travellers in a hurry to fly to Montreal and New York were advised to seek alternative transportation.

He said there was little chance of regular flights resuming before 10 a.m. today. No flights were expected in or out of Montreal until noon.

An Air Canada spokesman in Montreal said "this has been the worst night of the year so far."

The Toronto flight cancellations Sunday were mostly caused mostly by poor visibility when low clouds moved in after freezing rain temporarily iced over runways and roads.

Montreal got the freezing rain at night, but the weather office there also forecast snow.

Five CNR sleeping cars carrying grounded air passengers moved overnight from Montreal to Toronto.

Canadian Pacific Airlines reported Sunday night its Montreal to Vancouver flight bypassed Toronto and Winnipeg, two regular stops, because of weather conditions.

Bus lines and trains in Ontario were reported running on time. A few buses that arrived in Toronto early Sunday were slightly late because of slippery highways.

Hundreds of pedestrians were injured on Toronto as they lost their footing on icy pavements. Police reported dozens of minor collisions.

Early Sunday, many children in Toronto were skating on up to two inches of ice on residential streets.

No serious power failures were reported in Toronto although heavy ice on wires caused lights to flicker in some sections of Toronto Saturday night and part of suburban Don Mills was blacked out briefly Sunday.

In Orillia, schools were closed today as treacherous driving conditions stopped school buses. Police reported a rash of minor accidents and a three - hour power break Sunday night.

Hong Kong Plastic Ice Balls Sold in U.S. Said Germ-laden

NEW YORK (AP) — Health authorities in nearly 20 states are looking into reports that plastic drink coolers imported from Hong Kong contain contaminated water.

Sales of the coolers have been banned in six cities and three states. Many stores are removing the novelties to raise funds spent the weekend getting them back from customers.

Discovery of germ - laden coolers in Arkansas set off the flurry across the United States. Arkansas authorities quarantined 300 boxes of the novelty sets.

No illness has been traced to the novelty coolers, said a spokesman for the communicable diseases centre of the U.S. public health service in Atlanta. Ga.

He said germs causing intestinal illness have been found in the coolers, but added: "We're not alarmed about it."

A spokesman said that salmonella and shigella germs can be found in many refrigerator ice trays across the country.

The product is a water-filled plastic ball or cube designed to chill drinks. Thousands of sets of the coolers have been sold, largely by boy scouts, cub scouts, 4-H clubs and women's clubs to raise money.

W. Thomas Watson Jr., president of the importing firm, said that "ice balls" are distributed both in Hong Kong and on arrival in Chicago.

Laboratory tests of the cookers are being made or will be made in a dozen areas. First reports are expected early in the week.

Many purchasers have reported that the balls leak.

W. B. Hoge, director of the bureau of laboratories of the Arkansas health department, said the balls were found to contain coliform bacteria, enterobacteriaceae, escherichia coli and protous, all of which can cause intestinal ailments.

The Baltimore health department moved Nov. 20 to turn balls down a dozen times after getting complaints that they leaked. A preliminary analysis showed the water contained bacteria and fungus growth.

Frankford Man Fatally Injured in Car Collision

A 30-year-old Frankford man was fatally injured Saturday when his car was struck broadside as he drove onto Macdonald - Cartier Freeway just east of Trenton.

Carl Murray Hunt, R.R. 1, Frankford, died in Trenton Memorial Hospital Saturday night, several hours after the mishap.

The driver of the second car, Edward John Young, 185 Victoria Avenue, Belleville, was released from hospital after treatment. for rib injuries.

Police said Hunt was emerging from the St. Hilaire sideroad onto the freeway when his car collided with Young's eastbound vehicle.

It was the only serious accident in what could have been a disastrous weekend for drivers in the Quinte district.

Sunday roads and highways in the area were treacherous as freezing rain coated them ice.

The public however, answered police appeals to stay home if possible or to drive with the utmost care.

While there were a number of mishaps none were classed as serious by police.

Mr. Hunt is survived by his wife, Joyce, two children, Valerie and Carrolee at home, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Blake Hunt of Trenton, two brothers, Lyle of Smithfield, Gordon of Toronto and two sisters, Mrs. Ken (Marion) Gregory of Woodstock and Mrs. Harry (Ruth) Pickell of Toronto.

School Bus Drivers Irate Over Parking

District school bus operators plan to formally protest against violators of parking regulations on John Street here in the city. The operators are responsible for the delivery to and return from Belleville Collegiate Institute and Vocational School of 1,000 area students five days a week.

In spite of signs posted permanently along both sides of the street, and distinctly reading "No Parking 3.00 p.m. to 5.00 p.m. except Saturday and Sunday," school bus drivers are compelled to fight traffic bottlenecks every afternoon and some mornings. And with snow and ice in the winter the jams worsen, one Prince Edward County driver observed.

One carrier operator complains that his drivers and himself find the congestion so serious there are times when lives of drivers and students are in danger. "It is not uncommon for one driver to leave his bus loaded with students and act as a guide for another driver unable to steer with safety through the maze of parked cars lining both sides of the narrow thoroughfare," he explained.

Three Editors Give Views on 'Wall of Words'

At their December meeting, the Purchasing Agents Association of Eastern Ontario had three editors of business publications give their viewpoints on the "Wall of Words" which faces executives in all branches of business today. The motto here appropriately is "Listen and attempting to read the numerous articles published in magazines and newspapers. "All Business Personnel" poses a real problem for executives today.

Historical facts show that this media of education at the executive level has been with us for quite some time, the first recorded being a publication of the Sixteenth Century in Germany. In 1963 a publication called "A Collection of Improvements in Husandry and Trade" was printed in England. A succession have followed covering all trades and the part played by a few were discussed by Jack Watson, editor of Canadian Transportation magazine, of the Fullerton Weston Publications Ltd. George Mansfield, president of the Canadian Business Press, The Association of Specialized Magazines and Newspapers in Toronto and publisher and editor of Canadian Food and Beverage Industries magazine.

This magazine has made a research before an article is printed was very clearly demonstrated in an interview on production machinery beneficial to industry, in that, resulting from the editorial publication, industries in Canada were made aware of their shortcomings in the production capital equipment resulting in unprecedented sales of machinery and equipment in production of goods for a large section of Canadian manufacturers.

"No one can write your reading for you," places the responsibility for self education squarely in the hands of each individual.

New members receiving their certificate of membership were:

Mr. Gordon Ross, Stewart's Shipping Services Ltd., Brockville Ont.; Mr. James R. Savage, Free Press Documentation Ltd., Ottawa, Ont.; Mr. J. H. Hemingway, Ideal Vendors Ltd., Deseronto, Ont.; Mr. Campbell Schick, Vital Products, Brockville, Ont.

Quarter Inch of Glare Ice Spread Over Quinte Area

Freezing rain which settled a quarter inch of glare ice over the Bay of Quinte district Sunday forced street lights, signs and sideroads into huge outdoor skating rinks and fouled vehicular traffic to a crawl.

By this morning ice on the main travelled highways was thawed enough to turned to slush but country sideroads were still treacherous and many school buses cancelled their scheduled trips.

All schools in Belleville were open for classes but schools in Stirling, Trenton and in some other rural areas were reported closed for the day.

Highway and city street sanders were in operation for the first time this season but more than a few motorists skidded off roadways and into the ditch. In at least one instance in the city a parked car came to grief when its rear was stove in by a passing auto which skidded out of control.

But as the old saying goes, it's an ill wind that blows no one good.

For the first time this year young skating enthusiasts didn't have to pay their way into the arena to go skating.

They just laced-on their skates and skated on the sidewalks and roadways.

Jimmy Uttley Night Held at Country Club

TRENTON — A good crowd of club members and their guests were out to Friday night's 25th annual Jimmy Uttley Night at the Trenton Country Club. The familiar Christmas carols were sung to the music of the Trenton Salvation Army Band, with Capt. James Johnson and Mrs. Donna O'Neil as soloists. Chairman was James Uttley.

The money collected during the evening goes to help the Army pack 65 Christmas baskets for the less fortunate citizens of the town. The club also donates all proceeds to the Army, as well as donating the use of the auditorium free.

Congregation Says Goodbye To Minister

TRENTON — Sunday night, the congregation of King Street United Church gathered to say goodbye to their supply ministry for the months, Dr. H. E. A. Ashford. Dr. and Mrs. Ashford leave Trenton at the end of the year for an extended holiday in Texas.

In February, the permanent minister for Trenton, Rev. W. E. McDowell of Ottawa will take over; meanwhile, the pulpit will be filled by Dr. H. C. Parker, a professor from Queen's University, who is an authority on the Old Testament.

Sunday night, all-age church groups, from the youngest to the oldest, joined in various forms of farewell to Dr. Ashford and his wife. Some of the skits were in a humorous vein—others, serious and nostalgic, for the members of the congregation have come to have a high regard for the man who took over after Rev. J. T. Brown answered a call to Western Canada.

300 Attend Panel Meet At Temple

TRENTON — In spite of Saturday night's weather, more than 300 persons attended the first in a series of panel discussions at Bethel Temple, where two United Church ministers, Rev. James Payton and Frederick Love attempted to explain and defend the United Church Sunday school's new curriculum, against two fundamentalists, Rev. James McKnight of Calvary Temple, Belleville and Rev. R. A. Bombay, district superintendent of Pentecostal assemblies in Eastern Ontario.

The authorship of the Pentateuch, the first five books of the Bible was questioned, with the new curriculum view that they were written by a "Yahwist," a literary genius. Was the parting of the waters of the Red Sea a Divine act, designed to allow the Israelites to escape from their Egyptian masters? Or was it a natural phenomena? Are many of the stories in the Old and New Testaments "fables," merely designed to bring out certain philosophies of the writers...or are they fact?

These and other questions were explored by the four ministers, and questions from the floor gave rise to further searchings.

Although the new curriculum questions the Virgin Birth, both United Church ministers on the panel said they did believe in this.

Moderator of the panel was Rev. Ronald Reid, pastor at Bethel Temple and the chairman was Rev. Frederick Spring of Frankford.

British Author Maugham Lies At Death's Door

NICE, France (AP)—British author W. Somerset Maugham lay in a coma in hospital today, and doctors gave him less than 24 hours to live.

The 91-year-old writer suffered a stroke Saturday at his seaside villa at Cap Ferrat. He has been unconscious ever since. His doctor, Georges Rosanoff, told reporters Sunday night that Maugham was "in the throes of death."

Rosanoff reported that Maugham's temperature had risen and pulmonary congestion had set in.

"Medicine is henceforth powerless to save Mr. Maugham," he said. "He has entered the death agony. it is a hopeless condition, and we do not think it can last more than 24 hours. The brain is no longer irrigated (supplied with blood), but the heart is still holding out."

Three doctors attending Maugham said in a bulletin today that his condition was "stationary without aggravation." Dr. Rosanoff said reporters "The fact that we have noted no change since yesterday evening does not permit the slightest hope."

Cyprus In Cyprus Enjoy Shows

By RICHARD ANCO

KYRENIA, Cyprus (CP) — Canadian entertainers Saturday visited lonely United Nations outposts manned by Canadians in Cyprus, ending a six-show pre Christmas tour for UN peacekeeping troops.

Entertainers headlined by comic emcee Gordie Tapp of London, Ont., and singer Danielle Dorice of Quebec City performed before nearly all the 1,000-man Canadian contingent during three shows in Nicosia and three in the north coast tourist city. The Canadians also staged a show Sunday at the British base of Dhekelia.

Their eight-day visit to the island ends when they leave for Trenton, Ont., today.

At least 2,500 persons watched the shows, many of them more than once. Besides Canadians many UN troops from Denmark, Finland, Ireland, Britain and Sweden were in the audiences.

EXCHANGE GREETINGS

Merry Christmas greetings were exchanged on the outdoor Saturday but it was difficult to get the feeling of the season. There is no trace of snow on the island.

Except for Christmas cards and parcels arriving it could be midsummer for the guards not scheduled to return to Canada until March. But a little bit of home managed to come to them with informal visits into the green Nugenia hills by Miss Dorice, Tapp, lyricist Joan and Barbara Loughary of St. Catharines, Toronto actress and singer Jean Christopher and vocalist Doug Crosley of Oshawa.

A brief Christmas messages from some of the Canadian soldiers were taped and will be included with some highlights of the tour in a one-hour CBC radio network program Cyprus Showcase Sunday Dec. 26.

Spilled Fuel Causes Fire On Carrier

ABOARD INDEPENDENCE (AP)—Eleven men were burned Sunday as spilled jet fuel triggered a spectacular fire on the flight deck of this giant U.S. Navy aircraft carrier, returning home from Viet Nam.

Four others suffered cuts and bruises in a secondary explosion.

The burns of the injured were described as moderate.

The explosion came in a small storeroom and was caused by fuel seeping through aircraft catapult launch tracks.

One officer ejected from a Phantom jet fighter which had dropped a fuel tank on the deck as it was being launched. A member of the flight deck crew leaped overboard to escape the flames.

Both were plucked from the ocean quickly by helicopters. Damage to the ship was superficial.

The accident occurred as the carrier was 225 miles southeast of Norfolk. Several of the 37 airplanes that were to fly from the carrier to their home shore base had been launched when the accident occurred.

BELIEVED SUICIDE

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Leon Gradley, 45, one of five men for whom warrants were issued in a $750,000 fraud case in Montreal in 1963, is believed to have committed suicide in a motel here last week. Police said he died the day before he was to begin a five-year prison term for mail and securities fraud. He had not been extradited to Canada because charges were pending in the United States.

Accused Freed After Trial Of Four Days

PICTON (Staff) — Walter Cronk, 33, of Bloomfield, walked away from Prince Edward County Court House a free man Friday evening when a 12-man jury returned a verdict of "not guilty" on a charge of indecent assault. Cronk's trial, which lasted four days, closed after the jury deliberated over five hours on Friday.

The charge was laid after an alleged incident on April 24 involving a 13-year-old Picton district girl. Cronk, father of seven children was defended by R. E. Nourse of Picton. Reminding the jury to give the accused the benefit of the doubt, Judge Lane said, "The whole jury system is based on your plain common sense. Also don't think about the results — just the verdict. "I have to shoulder the consequenes."

Mel Begbie Deputy Chief Of Fire Dept.

PICTON (Staff) — Picton Captain Mel Begbie has been appointed Deputy Chief of the Picton Volunteer Fire Department, it was announced last week. He replaces L. Burford, who resigned from that post.

Volunteer Wilfred Courtney has been appointed to fill Mr. Begbie's former position on the Brigade.

The fire committee reported that it had considered a request from the firemen for a salary increase, but a comparison of the amounts paid to volunteers in other departments prompted the committee to recommend no increase would be granted at this time. However, the committee did recommend that the Deputy Fire Chief's salary be increased to $600 a year from $475.

Freezing Rain Leaves Roads In Bad Shape

PICTON (Staff) — Though Prince Edward County roads were completely covered with ice on Sunday the Picton Detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police reported only three minor accidents. The freezing rain which left most of the roads in an extremely hazardous condition on Sunday began Saturday night and continued throughout Sunday. There was not much travel until sanders were operating late in the day. One sander was tipped over in the Waupoos area, while proceeding to sand the roads in that area. The ice although thick enough for children to skate on in Picton Streets did no known damage to Hydro lines or trees.

TEMPLE CUT TO PIECES

The temples of Abu Simbel, threatened by a new reservoir on the River Nile, were cut into 22-ton blocks to be moved to safety.

AFL Demands Bigger Slice Of U.S. Cake

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—AFL-CIO leaders demanded today a bigger slice of the U.S. wealth for workers, a federal crackdown on the prices of some key commodities, and a 50-per-cent increase in social security benefits.

In resolutions certain to be gavelled to quick approval by some 1,000 delegates to the federation's 10th anniversary convention, AFL-CIO policymakers also rejected White House wage guidelines and called for bold federal policies to create jobs and boost consumer purchasing power.

"A faster rise in wages and fringe benefits is needed to broaden and strengthen the mass markets that are the foundation of (the) economy," one resolution said.

The federation blamed the outflow of private capital, rather than wage increases, for the U.S. balance of payments problem in foreign trade.

It said the federal government should restrict the investment of U.S. corporations overseas.

36 Fatalities Across Canada Over Weekend

By THE CANADIAN PRESS.

At least 36 persons were killed accidentally in Canada during the weekend, including 26 in traffic.

A Canadian Press survey from 6 p.m. Friday to Sunday midnight local times also showed two persons presumed drowned in Newfoundland, two drownings in Quebec and six killed in miscellaneous accidents.

Icy roads and poor vision in parts of Ontario were responsible for at least five of the 12 persons killed in traffic in that province. Another man was asphyxiated in Hamilton after accidentally setting fire to his bedding while smoking.

Quebec reported four traffic deaths, two drownings and a girl killed in a toboggan accident.

Prince Edward Island and New Brunswick were fatality-free but Nova Scotia had one traffic victim.

On the Prairies, Manitoba reported two road deaths while Saskatchewan had one and three persons killed by fire.

Alberta reported three road deaths and one fire victim.

British Columbia had three road deaths.

Higher Posts

nearly one-third of the population.

In 1963, the number of French-speaking ministers increased to nine from the customary maximum of five. There still are nine in the cabinet of 25 ministers excluding the prime minister.

CRITICISM IN QUEBEC

criticism has prevailed in Quebec that the cabinet posts men usually hold secondary portfolios and exert little influence in the formulation of long-range policies in such vital sectors as economic growth diplomacy, defence, welfare and transportation.

Since Confederation, French-Canadians never have occupied the finance and trade portfolios and rarely have been named to the health and welfare, labor, external affairs, defence and immigration posts.

The only French - speaking minister now with a post generally considered as senior is Justice Minister Lucien Cardin. He succeeded Lionel Chevrier ago after serving as associate defence minister and works minister.

The previous justice minister, Guy Favreau, was switched to the figurehead post of Privy Council president after he was censured in the Dorion inquiry report, although he stayed on as leader of the Liberals' Quebec wing.

Reports since the Liberals fell short of a Commons majority in the Nov. 8 election suggest that Prime Minister Pearson will bring in several new faces to replace some Quebec ministers who have lost prestige as a result of various scandal accusations.

Former labor leader Jean Marchand has figured prominently in the speculation.

PROMISES CHANGES

Mr. Pearson, holidaying in the Caribbean, has said he will announce the entire cabinet changes after he returns to Ottawa next week.

The French-speaking wing of the cabinet has remained largely unchanged since the Pearson ministry was sworn in April 22, 1963, although several ministers have switched jobs.

Mr. Favreau, Mr. Cardin, State Secretary Maurice Lamontagne and Postmaster-General Rene Tremblay all are holdovers from the original Pearson cabinet. Two French-speaking ministers from outside Quebec, Veterans Minister Roger Teillet and Fisheries Minister J. J. Robichaud, also were named in 1963.

Forestry Minister Maurice Sauve entered the cabinet Feb. 3, 1964. Associate Defence Minister Leo Cadieux and Jean-Luc Pepin, minister without portfolio, were appointed July 7 this year.

FOUR HAVE LEFT

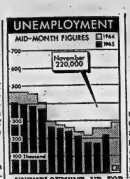
They are former justice minister Lionel Chevrier, now high commissioner in London, and former postmaster General Azellus Denis, now a senator, both 1963 appointees, and a former minister without portfolio, Yvon Dupuis, a 1964 appointee, now awaiting trial on influence peddling charges.

Former works minister Jean-Paul Deschatelets, another 1963 original, resigned last spring for personal reasons and returned to his Montreal law practice.

Amazingly-rigid patterns in cabinet-making have endured since Sir John A. Macdonald formed the first federal ministry nearly 99 years ago.

The defence department, now spending roughly one-quarter of the federal budget, has been headed by English - speaking ministers since Conservative Premier George Etienne Cartier died the post for two months in 1896.



The only French-speaking labor minister, Rodolphe Lemieux, served in the Laurier ministry from 1908 to 1911.

FILLED SECONDARY POSTS

Since 1945, the only major portfolios recently given to French-Canadians were in justice and transport. In most ministries French - Canadian filled such secondary posts as solicitor - general, postmaster - general and mines minister.

UNEMPLOYMENT

MID-MONTH FIGURES 1965 1964

UNEMPLOYMENT UP FOR FIRST TIME THIS YEAR — The number of unemployed in Canada in mid-November stood at 270,000, up 40,000 from the previous month. It was the first time this year that the number of unemployed in the country had risen. A report issued by the federal labor department and the Dominion Bureau of Statistics said the number was 37,000 below that of November, 1964. Grush shows monthly totals, including people without jobs and seeking work and those on temporary layoff. (CP Newsmap)

Deck Officers Fail to Meet With Companies

MONTREAL (CP) — The Canadian Merchant Service Guild (CLC) and the Lake Carriers' Association ended in their positions through the weekend as a strike of deck officers continued in protest against delays in negotiating a new labor contract.

Robert Cook, national representative of the guild, said Sunday night there is no sign of any further negotiations. The federal mediator, C. E. Poirier, has been trying to set up a meeting, he said, but without much success.

"We're trying to get the ship owners to resume the negotiations on the basis of the majority award of the federal conciliation board," Mr. Cook said.

As for the 170 ships involved, most of them are tied up, he said, and the mates are off. "In some cases, though, the companies are bringing in retired officers to replace the mates on strike. They brought in one officer who is 83 years old."

PROTEST DELAY

The strike began last Thursday after a protest by the deck officers, absent 500 in all, at the delay in getting a new contract with the companies in the association. The last contract expired nearly seven months ago.

The federal conciliation board that Mr. Cook referred to recommended that the association should grant a contract similar to one the guild has with Upper Lakes Shipping.

The association objected on grounds that a contract with Upper Lakes, which represents about 15 per cent of the ships in service on the Great Lakes and in the St. Lawrence Seaway, should not set a pattern for the rest of the industry.

Physical Fitness

Lloyd Percival, director of Sports College of Canada, is quoted as saying that in the last decade there appears to be a great and continual improvement in physical fitness at the Canadian high school level, but very little overall change at the elementary school level.

He was commenting on a report published by the American Association for Health, Physical Education and Recreation indicating a general improvement in the physique and fitness of U.S. boys and girls between the ages of 10 and 17.

The last major Canadian survey on youth fitness—in 1955—showed a little less than the physical fitness of Canadian and U.S. young people, compared with those of other countries. At that time 55,000 were tested and Canadian and U.S. children showed a 50 to 60 per cent failure rate on physical fitness tests, compared with a mere 6 to 8 per cent among British, European and Australian children.

If a similar comparison were made today it would likely show a similar gap. Britain, together with Australia and New Zealand have long since recognized the value of a balanced program of physical education. This is related not so much to physical education as such, but to regular sports schedules. There is no interference with the academic side of schools. Indeed, as we have noted, a proper balance has been achieved between each.

To return to the U.S. program, Mr. Percival said the reason why standards had improved there was a direct result of the testing done in conjunction with President Kennedy's Council of Fitness. The only way to promote fitness, in the late president's view, was to show parents the advantages of being physically fit, so they would demand better fitness programs for their children. Once parents were aware, they put pressure on school boards to raise standards.

Mr. Percival said when such a program is started by a school, it soon gets results. Moreover, when other schools meet the results they are encouraged to follow suit.

Physical fitness is certainly the Cinderella of school curricula in Canada. The students themselves show little enthusiasm for the programs that are laid on. If they did, and if the school authorities gave greater support to such programs there would be an all-round improvement in both physical fitness and academic standing.

Bank Holdups

Are bank robbers having matters too much their own way?

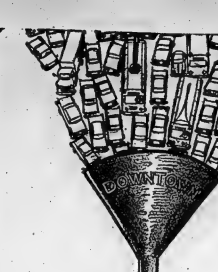
Leo Lavoie, general manager of La Banque Provinciale du Canada, thinks they are.

In Montreal last week, Mr. Lavoie said: "It seems the continued increase in the number of robberies v . . es as well as the more frequent use of firearms, can be attributed to the imposition of sentences which do not reflect the seriousness of crimes where firearms are used or brandished as a threat."

In Quebec, of course, the profession of banking is more hazardous than most. Robberies, frequently involving violence, occur with alarming regularity. It is not surprising that bank executives, not to mention bank personnel, are perturbed when they see criminals getting off comparatively lightly.

Other members of the judiciary might follow the example of Magistrate Clifford Boyd, of Sault Ste. Marie. Mr. Boyd last week sentenced Kenneth Leger, 25, to five years in penitentiary for a bank holdup last month. Another man involved was recently given six years in the penitentiary. The robbers took $10,000 from the bank.

Meanwhile, Asbestos was the scene last week of yet another Quebec robbery. Five men were involved, and three were waiting inside the bank when the staff of 12 arrived. The thieves, who carried shotguns and pistols, got away with $150,000.



Possibly the only way to put down criminal activities such as those is by imposing heavy sentences. There are no grounds for the complaint by Mr. Lavoie that in Quebec at least, sentences currently being imposed are not sufficient to deter those who terrorize the public in this fashion.

Maori Progress

The current issue of Te Ao Hou, the periodical published by the Department of Maori Affairs, affords an interesting glimpse of the progress being made by the indigenous people of New Zealand in a society that makes no distinction between its white and colored populations.

The magazine points out that many of the students at the new University of Waikato in Hamilton, a wealthy farming region south of Auckland, will be Maori.

The student body is expected to total at least 5,000 within 15 years, and Maoris in the district have pledged to raise a sum equivalent to about $100,000 as their share of the cost of a Halls of Residence.

To Your Good Health

Barbiturates Useful If Used in Moderation

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: Four years ago I was under great strain, was nervous, and had difficulty in sleeping. I was given Nembutal and took one each night and had a good sleep.

When I read in magazines and newspapers two years ago of the danger of taking this drug, and the terrible withdrawal consequences, nausea and convulsions, I went to my doctor, who is an eminent one, and asked him for something different.

He said "One Nembutal has never hurt anyone. If it relaxes you and helps you, take it." I later consulted another doctor and he prescribed a different drug, but it makes my lips swell and after a time is nauseating.

So I am writing to you to ask if you will suggest a less harmful sedative. I don't want to take barbiturates. — Mrs. M.D.

* * *

It was only a year or two ago that I was talking to the doctor in charge of the government hospital at Lexington, Ky., a man of enormous skill and stature, and we talked about barbiturates. His comment was this:

"Yes, some people use excessive amounts of barbiturates; they take so much — and they can't get that much except by buying bootleg supplies — that they become addicts, and this certainly is dangerous.

"But what bothers me is this. The barbiturates, properly used, rank among the most useful medicines known to man.

"Certainly overuse is dangerous, but normal use is not. This publicity about the danger of overuse isn't going to be heeded by the addicts, but it is going to frighten people who are using safe amounts — and they will stop, and lose the benefit of one of our most useful medicines."

* * *

Mrs. M.D.: He might have been talking directly to you. He saw what would come of that spasm of publicity. Sure, I agree we mustn't conceal the facts, even for what we regard as worthy motives. There is such a thing as barbiturate poisoning — when people go too wild.

But, one tablet a night never poisoned anyone, never addicted anyone.

* * *

You were perfectly safe, and comfortable, when you followed your first doctor's advice — the doctor you called "eminent."

You then shopped around until you found a doctor who prescribed another drug, and it upset you. This doctor, I feel sure, did the best he could for you — in view of the fact that you insisted on another drug.

You're so addict. But why don't you go back to your first doctor and stop worrying? You have worried yourself into a tizzy. You confused proper use of this drug with over use. There's a world of difference.

My friend in Lexington saw your problem coming. He was right.

* * *

Dear Dr. Molner: Is there any danger in drinking raw milk from a cow that grazes on a contaminated pasture? — W. E. D.

Yes. There is also danger in drinking raw milk from cows that have perfectly good pasture, because, just as with people, diseases can be caught from them.

Milk is such a common food that none of us should ever take chances with it. All milk should be pasteurized in case any herd or any single cow, is infected with bovine tuberculosis, brucellosis or other diseases which can be passed to people.

* * *

Note to Mrs. A. H.: That yellowness of the eyes could be a sign of some liver ailment, gallbladder disorder; therefore I suggest that you have your doctor investigate.

Favors Marks for Physical Education

Editor,
Intelligencer:
Dear Sir:

After reading a short Canadian Press article on the first page of your newspaper on December 2, concerning the giving of marks for physical education, I felt I had to present my opinion on the subject.

I disagree with Mr. Cass in that I believe physical education deserves a mark as much as any other secondary school subject. It is a subject which is just as important as, and possibly has more carry-over value than any other school subject. Whereas, mathematics, and English for example, are education of the mind, physical education is education for the mind of, the body. Marks in physical education can be valuable instruments if they are determined in an objective manner. They enable the student, teacher, and parents to assess a particular student's physical ability, and to see where the student stands in his particular program in relation to other students his age.

Possibly the physical education program is geared too much towards the good athlete, but this is for the individual teacher, or department head, to determine and correct if need be. The good athlete in relation to his P.E. program is the same as a good math student in relation to his mathematics course. He is good because he happens to have the ability to do well in that subject, and he works harder at that subject because he enjoys it, and does well in it. The person who fails math, or English, or Latin is the person who does not work hard at the subject, or, for some reason such as low intelligence, is unable to do the necessary work. A person who fails physical education is a person who either does nothing to improve his ability, or has some problem such as lack of co-ordination, or obesity which prevents that person from doing his required work.

If physical education is getting a bad name because it is marked, then why does mathematics, English, Latin, or any other subject not get a bad name too?

E. Terry,
Teacher of Physical Education,
Belleville.

'Wading in the Waters of the World'

ELEANOR C. ROSS In The Globe and Mail

"Young men and women should wade a bit in the waters of the world before succumbing to the seas of conformity and economic security."

That's the advice of Harvey Swados, American novelist and critic, and many Canadian girls are obeying the call. They go to Europe to live, as well as to travel, after finishing their formal educations. They marry and take up careers eventually, but first, they must see what lies across the Atlantic.

How can a girl possibly afford to spend five months travelling without working? First, by hard saving in Canada, and then by careful budgeting while away. Hitch-hiking is a popular way to meet the people of each country, but not at all dangerous if two or three are travelling together and use common sense.

Youth hostels and student hostels are situated in many cities and villages while inexpensive family pensions, Bureaux de Jeunesse and Kuralipaus in Canada before departure to arrange economical way to travel to Europe by rail. An estimated cost of living can be as little as $2 per day. Luggage is light, as one needs few belongings.

Responsible only to themselves, for the first time in their lives, Canadian girls find they are expanding with open minds, receptive to the unexpected, accepting each day as it comes. Their curiosity is stimulated by the variety of people they meet and the impressions they get. Often, a girl stays longer in a country than she planned, acquiring a greater knowledge of language and customs.

You meet one in Paris living with a French family as a "jeune fille au pair," studying the language at the Alliance Francaise or the Sorbonne. You meet others in Greece and Spain tutoring English. They're in Norway and Austria working in ski resorts; in London as shop clerks and stenographers, or practising such professions as nursing and teaching.

When these girls return home (and not all do, as "migrational synchesis" sometimes occur) they take part in Canadian life with greater awareness. Lectures become more meaningful. "I have an interest in current events I never had before travelling," says an Ottawa teacher.

"Now, when an item catches my eye from Bonn or Paris, I read it with increased interest, for I was there!"

History is brought up to date and comes alive. Interest in opera, great paintings, sculpture and architecture is stimulated.

"I've found the French learned while I lived in Paris most useful when I returned to work in Quebec City," says a Toronto nurse. "In France, food became an esthetic experience, when I ate slowly for taste as well as for nourishment. Imagine spending four hours over a meal! I've begun a collection of exciting recipes."

Political situations become realities. While sipping tea in a roof restaurant in Istanbul, two Vancouver nurses were told that the army was attacking the Government in Ankara. "This seemed almost farcical to us until we saw the soldiers surrounding the radio stations and had to obey the nightly curfew."

To live as a foreigner in another country brings an added dimension to life and an increased awareness of world realities. Friendships formed while away are often cherished on returning home and provide a strong link in international understanding.

These girls discover they have learned to live simply, with added self-confidence; they are able to respond more openly to all types of situations and people. Perhaps they avoided differences before travelling, now it's the differences that make life interesting. Once they have been strangers themselves, they find that on their return they are increasingly tolerant to new Canadians, to people without countries, and people from black-listed ones. Their valid passports have become their most precious possessions.

Whaling Industry Is Dying

Saint-John Telegraph-Journal

Few people have ever seen a blue whale, except in pictures. It is extremely unlikely that anyone ever will again — including those who hunt them for their valuable oil, meat and numerous other products.

The 100-foot blue whale, the largest animal known to have lived on earth, is now almost exterminated, the victim of the illogical rapacity of men.

Even now, when the blue whale is regarded as commercially extinct, as is the smaller humpback, the International Whaling Commission has found it impossible to get its 14 member nations to agree on a prohibition against hunting them to give what few remain a chance to reproduce themselves.

Because of this short-sighted attitude of four whaling countries — Russia, Japan, Norway and the Netherlands — the Commission threatens other species, such as the fin and sei whale.

The industry continues to insist on catching quotas above the levels which scientists warn will be necessary to allow the species to survive and recover.

The quotas are also well above what the hunters have actually been able to take, despite an array of modern equipment like helicopters, sonar, explosive harpoons and factory ships that can process an entire whale in half an hour.

Each year's quotas are lowered; each year the catch falls to come up to it.

The actual battle of the River Plate began 28 years ago today — in 1938 — when three British light cruisers encountered the German pocket battleship Graf Spee in the South Atlantic. The HMS Exeter was disabled but the Ajax and the Achilles pursued the Graf Spee and she took refuge in the neutral Uruguayan harbor of Montevideo, where Captain Hans Langsdorff was given 72 hours to clear the port. He took his ship out of the harbor Dec. 17 and scuttled her, later committing suicide.

Church Moves With Times

Windsor Star

The United Church plans to close 37 churches in the York presbytery by 1985. This presbytery covers that part of Toronto County north of Highway 401, much of Ontario County to the east and a bit of Simcoe County to the north. Some new churches will be built, and a few others enlarged, to serve increasingly urbanized parts.

With that kind of trend on one district one can imagine the number of churches, many built in pioneer days, which are being closed throughout this province. The process, indeed, has been under way for some time.

The original churches were usually plain, box-like affairs, assemble by horse and buggy-cutter or even by shank's mare. It was not uncommon, especially in winter, to drive more than a couple of miles. But as soon as that same area was "over-churched," largely because various denominations vied for the souls of people within a mile or so of one another. We know of one area where, within a five-mile range from a rural home, there were seven churches.

This, of course, is ridiculous in an era of automobiles and snow-plowed roads. And, also, these families are smaller in size, with the rural population aboy operating 200 or 300 acres instead of 100. There is an excess of churches and a serious depopulation. Concregations are often so small that even two or three combined cannot afford a minister.

This abandonment of old churches is always a matter of heart-burns. We know of one to which it recently happened. A particular family had been a principal supporter down through the generations. So loyal was the present family head that he just refused to go to any other church — though members of his family do. Stubborn, perhaps, but a lot of sentiment in him too.

Kaunda Caught in Middle Of Dispute With Rhodesia

By KENNETH L. WHITING

LUSAKA (AP) — The man caught in the middle of the muddle over Rhodesian independence is Zambia's ascetic president, Kenneth Kaunda.

"The crunch is on in Zambia and the president will need all the skills he can muster, plus a lot of luck, in the next few weeks," said one diplomat stationed in this capital of the former Northern Rhodesia.

Kaunda gained much of his personal philosophy, if not his skills, behind British bars. He spent almost a year in prison in colonial days for political activities.

While there he absorbed the writings of India's Mohandas Gandhi and swore to re-order his life so that prison disciplines would present little hardship.

He became a teetotaller, nonsmoker and vegetarian. A press photographer who took his picture with a glass in his hand last week was warned: "Make sure you mention this is a soft drink."

T 43-year-old president is a devoted family man with nine children, who prefers his church-oriented home life to the rough and tumble of African politics.

PUSHING WILSON

Kaunda now is pushing British Prime Minister Wilson to quell the Salisbury regime quickly and send British troops to guard the Kariba Dam.

The dam supplies electricity for Zambia's booming copper mines, but its generating machinery is on the Rhodesian side of the Zambezi River frontier.

Zambia is not ruled by one man and Kaunda is reported to have had difficult moments in the last few days in reaching a consensus with cabinet colleagues who disagree with his Rhodesia policies.

RUN BY WHITES

Zambia still is run largely by whites, more than a year after gaining independence from Britain.

Some 70,000 Europeans here dominate the vital copper industry, tobacco farming and commerce, as well as the army, air force and police. Many of these whites favor Kaunda and fear for their future in Zambia if he is replaced.

Kaunda has been fighting extremism for years but his philosophy of "We cannot forget, but we can forgive," is not reflected throughout his party.

But Zambia, a country of 4,000,000 people, probably has fewer than 100 university graduates and it had only a few secondary schools in the days before self-government.

The son of a Negro missionary of the Church of Scotland, Kaunda, like many contemporary African heads of state, became a school teacher.

He took up politics and campaigned by bicycle, carrying a guitar to attract the crowds. He advocated boycotts and other irritants to harass Sir Roy Welensky's regime in the days before Rhodesia, then known as Southern Rhodesia, was part of a federation with Northern Rhodesia and Nyasaland, now independent Malawi.

He was jailed for two months for possessing prohibited literature—magazines given to him by a British Labor parliamentarian.

FORMED PARTY

On his release, he joined a few intellectuals to launch a new party that became the nucleus of the United National Independence party, which now governs Zambia.

Britain's colonial governor described the new party as "Murder Incorporated," and imprisoned Kaunda for nine months for holding banned meetings.

Much of the outside world heard of Kaunda for the first time when he warned that his party would "make Mau Mau terror in Kenya look like a children's picnic," if the party's demands were ignored.

The remark dogged Kaunda for years.

Kaunda is clearly trying to get the Rhodesia problem solved without having to call in African troops. He warned the Organization of African Unity at its summit meeting in Accra, Ghana, in October that others are not close enough to understand his country's "Siamese-twin relationship" with Rhodesia, in which the railway service, coal, electricity consumer goods trade and telecommunications of the two countries are tied closely together.

Local Chess Team Beaten

Ottawa and Kingston scored double victories in South Eastern Ontario Chess League matches played yesterday at Calvin Park YMCA, Kingston.

Bad roads delayed start of play. An Ottawa car went into the ditch just outside of Kingston and was completely wrecked. Three players escaped with minor injuries.

Ottawa defeated Belleville by a 7-1 score and in Kingston by a 6½ - 1½ count, Belleville had only seven players, R. Snetjella, D. Payne, R. Swansburg, W. Hinderie, P. Mellon on the fourth board. Against Kingston, Robert Snetjella drew with Dr. G. Danilov on the top board, while Paul McReavy defeated J. Huber on the fifth board.

Cornwall fielded only three players, defaulting on five boards, and was defeated by both Ottawa and Kingston by identical 8-0 scores.

Fear British Frogs Near Croaking Point

LONDON (Reuters)—Wildlife officials, alarmed over growing indications that Britain's frog population may be dumping to a conclusion, have ordered a national frog census, it was disclosed today.

The census will be taken in conjunction with a scientific study of the effect of farm pesticides on Britain's wildlife.

Hundreds of amateur naturalists will be recruited in the next five years to help compile a frog distribution map.

Dr. Frank Perring, a plant specialist who will collate the frog data, expected the results to show a steady decrease in British frogs over the last 20 years because modern agricultural methods had disturbed the places they liked to live.

"Some schoolboys have never seen a real frog," he said.

Reserve Chief Re-elected for Another Term

Chief John R. Brant has been re-elected to serve another two-year term as chief of the Tyendinaga Mohawk Reserve.

The chief was named in elections Saturday with a majority of 62, defeating Albert A. Marsch.

Elected to the Reserve council were Franklin Green, already with two years service, and newcomers Carl E. Brant, Ross Brant and Karl Hill.

All are members of the same "political party" on the reserve, which follows a basic hereditary system in its election system.

The only man running as an independent, George H. Marsh, was defeated.

The election brought out more than 75 per cent of the total Mohawk vote on the Reserve.

Among issues discussed by Chief Brant were road improvements, general welfare and the possibility of employing more local teachers in the Reserve's school system.

Band Gives Competent Performance

CAMPBELLFORD — Campbellford and District High School band, under the direction of Mr. Barry Devereux, teacher of music at C.D.H.S., gave a concert in the high school auditorium on Saturday evening.

This band of about 40 high school students has been organized a little over a year. Their concert performance would do credit to a well organized mature group with much longer training. The numbers were short and colorful and played with spirit and precision.

SOLO PLAYERS

Solo passages were carried by Jim Smith, clarinet, and Adena Teal, Jim Griffith, Terry Harper and David Lackey, trumpet.

A clarinet solo was played by Bill Bennett, accompanied by his father, D. Bennett. Judy Gutelius, accompanied by Barry Devereux, presented a clar inet solo. Guest vocalist, Frances DeCarroll, sang one number.

The band accompanied the audience during an intermission sing-song of Christmas carols.

Drummer Donnie Blair introduced the numbers and thanked the audience for their appreciation and support.

Many View Colorful Santa Claus Parade

CAMPBELLFORD — Santa came to Campbellford on Saturday afternoon. Floats prepared by local citizens and organizations augmented by much outside assistance combined to create enjoyable Christmas fun and frolic.

The day was cold which may have accounted for the smaller than usual crowd on the street.

The parade included quite a number of cars of ancient vintage as well as two old steam engines mobile under their own power.

Participating bands were the colorful Army, Navy and Air Force Band of Belleville, the Citizens' Band of Campbellford as well as C.D.H.S. Band, a band from Warkworth and the 8RSW group from Trenton.

Members of parliament present were George Hees, Lee Grills, Red Webb as well as local municipal officials.

The Kawartha Shrine Club and the Shrine Camel Herders from Belleville contributed colorful addition to the parade.

WILL TAKE TIME

MONTREAL (CP) — Paul-Emile Cardinal Leger said Sunday it will take an entire generation for the Christian world to digest the conclusions of the recent Vatican ecumenical council session. "We must begin now to live the council," he said, "it will take much patience and perseverance to bring its findings to a fruitful conclusion."

Ann Landers
Readers Disagree About a Widow's Lot

DEAR ANN LANDERS: That letter signed "Outspoken" was the most vicious thing I have ever seen in print. The witch who wrote it said, "I wish you would stop telling us wives to thank God our husbands are still alive and to pick up the phone and invite a widow to a party." Her closing blast was this: "If your husbandless females would be less self-pitying and not quite so boring perhaps you would not be so lonely."

ANN LANDERS

According to the insurance companies, more and more women are outliving their husbands. I can promise "Outspoken" that if the shoe is ever on the other foot it will not feel very good. — VOICE OF EXPERIENCE.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: "Outspoken" is right. Every word of her letter is true. I know because I am a widow who had to learn the hard way that even your dearest friends will drop you after a while. A husbandless woman is a social liability, a fifth wheel and a thorn in the side of the hostess.

When my husband died my home was filled with relatives and friends. I had to borrow chairs from the neighbors. It lasted three weeks. Two months later I called the telephone company to see if my phone was out of order. I couldn't believe that not a single person would have tried to call me in five days.

In India Hindu widows used to throw themselves on the burning pyres at their husband's funerals. It sounds gruesome but perhaps they knew what they were doing. Most widows are as good as dead the day they lose their husbands. — BITTER AND WITH GOOD REASON.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: "Outspoken" is wrong. My husband's death made a woman out of me. I never realized what a clinging vine I was until I became a widow. When I was 43 I learned to drive. I enrolled in night school and got myself a splendid job. Nobody has to find dates for me because I have more than I can handle. I hate to be corny, Ann, but it's true — "Laugh and the world laughs with you. Cry and you streak your makeup." — CONTENT.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Here's how I solved the widow problem: After I overheard my best friend say to her sister, "I'd like to invite Janice but who in the heck can I fix her up with," I decided to be free of the burden of my presence. I sold everything and left town.

For 20 years I have told everyone that my husband is "permanently stationed elsewhere." (This is true. He is permanently stationed in the cemetery.)

I am invited everywhere because no one considers me a threat. — G.W.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Can a widow say just a few words to "Outspoken"?

If you and thousands of other married women only knew how many of your husbands made passes at us, you'd have eaten that letter instead of mailing it to Ann Landers.

I was 32 when I lost my wonderful husband. Within weeks of the funeral I received three poorly disguised propositions from the husbands of my closest friends and two out and out pitches. Believe it or not, my sister's husband even offered to "help me get over my heartache by bringing 'a new interest' to my shattered life."

So my advice to you smug women who feel inclined to toss us a crumb now and then is this: "Save it. Some of us could get the whole loaf."

The Right Gift

You can make holiday shopping much less of a chore with a bit of planning, and the obvious starting point is a complete list of the individuals for whom presents are to be purchased.

Once the list is completed, jot down beside each name the categories from which a gift for this individual may be selected. For example, if Uncle Fred is a stamp collector, likes to fish and is interested in Civil War history, note these facts beside his name and then do the same for others on the list. With such a list, you'll find you can complete your shopping much faster than you would if you marked only a single type of present beside each name. You save a lot of time looking and hunting for some particular item. And, if you are certain of the hobbies or interests of the intended recipient, your gift is certain to be appreciated.

4 Main Parts!

It's the long side darts that do it! They give your midriff a lean, long,streamlined look. Just 4 main parts to dress with curvy collar.

Printed Pattern 4734: Half Sizes 12½, 14½, 16½, 18½, 20½, 22½, 24½. Size 16½ takes 3 yards 39-inch.

Fifty cents (50c) in coins (no stamps, please) for each pattern. Ontario residents add 2c sales tax. Print plainly size, name, address, style number. Send order to Anne Adams, care of Pattern Dept. The Intelligencer 60 Front St. W., Toronto 1, Ontario.

After the newly decorated tickets were sold with Barbara Kleinsteuber the winner. Each member brought a gift for patients in mental hospitals for Christmas.

Centrepiece

For a dramatic and timely holiday centrepiece, arrange several cut poinsettia blooms with greens in a shallow bowl. Another effective touch may be applied by ringing the bases of Christmas candles with holly and greens. If you are having a special holiday meal, place a wreath on the back of each chair with place cards attached to the top of the wreaths.

CHOCOLATE PARTY DESSERT

For a dessert bridge party one of our press clubbers donated a Hungarian Drum Cake for which she paid one of her Hungarian neighbors $4.50. It was well worth it.

DEVIL'S FOOD TORTE, CONTINENTAL:

Batter Introduction: ¼ cup cocoa, 1¾ cups sugar (divided into 3 amts. — see below), 4 eggs (1 whole; 3 yolks and whites divided), ½ cup milk, ½ cup butter (room temperature), 2 cups sifted cake flour, 1 teaspoon double-acting baking powder (or 2 teaspoons single acting), 1 teaspoon baking soda, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 cup dairy sour cream.

Filling Ingredients: 2 teaspoons instant coffee, ¼ cup warm milk, ½ cup cold milk, 1 package Royal Instant Chocolate Pudding, 1 cup 32% cream, whipped.

Icing Ingredients: ¼ cup butter, ¼ cup cocoa, 1¼ cups unsifted icing sugar, 2 or 2½ tablespoons hot water, 1 cup finely chopped walnuts or pecans or blanched almonds.

Batter: Stir together dry ingredients (the ¼ cup cocoa and ¾ cup of the sugar. Stir in 1 egg yolk (reserving white for later) and the ½ cup milk and cook stirring until thick. Cool. Sift the sifted flour with the baking powder, soda and salt. Cream the ½ cup butter with ¾ cup of remaining sugar until light, then add 1 whole egg and 2 yolks, and beat until light and airy, reserving whites for later. Stir in cooled chocolate mixture. Add the sifted ingredients alternately with the sour cream. Beat the 3 leftover egg whites with the remaining ¼ cup sugar until stiff and fold into batter until incorporated. Turn batter into 10" (or 12") buttered layer cake tins lined on bottom with buttered wax paper. Bake at 325 deg. F. 40 to 50 minutes but do not overbake. Let cakes rest 5 minutes then turn out on racks to cool, peeling off wax paper.

Filling: Dissolve instant coffee in warm milk. Add cold milk and instant pudding and mix until smooth. Fold in cream which has been whipped until it will just hold its shape.

Slice each of the cooled chocolate cake layers in two to make 4 layers. Spread 3 layers with 1/3 each of the filling, building up evenly, straight — not leaning like the Tower of Pisa.

Icing: Over low heat melt ¼ cup butter, add ¼ cup cocoa, stir in until blended. Remove from heat and add icing sugar and boiling water to make of spreading consistency. Spread evenly over chilled cake. Sprinkle entire surface with finely chopped nuts. Chill. Later, take a bow.

For the Birds

You don't need an elaborate feeder to share Christmas with the birds. You can trim an outdoor tree and decorate it with such things as pine cones dipped in suet, popcorn, bits of apple and grated carrot, even pink and blue jays, woodpeckers, nuthatches, chickadees, warblers and brown creepers are "meat"-eaters. Cardinals, juncos, sparrows and finches like vegetable seeds.

Legion Ladies' Auxiliary Marks 38th Anniversary

Over 38 years ago a group of ladies in Belleville formed what was then known as the War Veterans' Association. On December 9th 1927 they were granted a charter and so became the Canadian Legion Ladies' Auxiliary. The prefix of Royal was granted a few years ago.

The first president, was the late Mrs. Bumstead. Meetings were held in the rooms now occupied by the Army, Navy and Airforce veterans, in the YMCA building and even Mr. O'Ferral's barbershop. They eventually settled on Bridge Street and then the New Legion Building on Pinnacle Street.

The Auxiliary kept going through good times and bad. At one point only 7 or 8 men were left in the men's branch and it looked as if the Auxiliary would have to cease its work as it cannot operate without a men's branch. Gradually the Branch gained strength, ably supported by the women who financed the kitchen equipment and also donated to the men's branch.

SERVE HAM DINNER

To mark this historical 38th anniversary, the men invited the women to a tasty supper. Chef Jack Lynch and his helpers served a ham dinner with all the trimmings to about 45.

The room was darkened and a candlelit birthday cake was carried by Comrade Everett Liddle was presented to president Mrs. Hodge who duly cut the first slice. Comrade Roy Madden addressed the Auxiliary, mentioning the important role they play in supporting the Branch.

THREE ORIGINAL MEMBERS

Present were three of the original members, Mrs. Daisy Jeffs, who has been president at various times, making a grand total of 14 years as president. The interesting pair (Mrs. Jeffs held a variety of offices. Mrs. A. Bradford also has been president and served in other capacities. Mrs. Gulliver who with other members kept in long hours, serving coffee and sandwiches to the soldiers during the Second World War. Mrs. Gulliver says the boys could get home from the railway station, Mrs. Bean who has also served as president and other offices, and Mrs. Meeks yet another untiring worker were unable to attend, and ill health prevented another worker, Mrs. Newton from being present.

PRESENTATIONS

Beautiful sprays of white and dark red 'mums were presented to the three ladies who were present.

Mrs. Jeffs replied on behalf of the ladies honored. Both President Betty Hodge and President Dick Kirby spoke briefly.

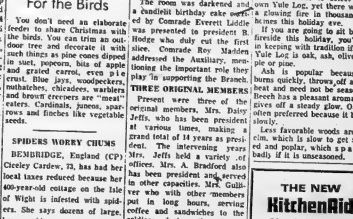
Also in attendance were Zone Commander Jack Rashotte and Chaplain of the Branch Comrade Bram Humphreys who said grace.

During the evening the ladies enjoyed the music of a newly built - in record player.

The open fireplace so popular in today's modern homes is helping to renew the popularity of the Yule Log tradition. Few moderns are likely to venture into the woods to select their own Yule Log, but there will be a glowing fire in thousands of homes this holiday eve.

If you are going to sit by the fireside this holiday, you'll be in keeping with tradition if your Yule Log is oak, ash, olive, apple or pine.

Ash is popular because it burns quickly, throws off ample heat and needs little seasoned. Beech has a pleasant aroma and gives off a steady glow. Oak is often preferred because it burns slowly.



Less favorable woods are the elm, which is slow to get started and poplar, which sparks badly if it is unseasoned.

THE LITTLE WOMAN

"Isn't there a law against a man burning his wife's credit cards?"

Successful Living

Her Fiance Becomes Avid Woman-watcher

DEAR DORIS: What should I do? My fiance has turned into an avid woman-watcher and is a connoisseur of girly magazines.

The truth is, he loves me in particular but other women (with a good form that he is in general (and this he has confirmed.) If there is a book of nude girls in exotic poses around you can bet your last dollar my little man will be sitting there drooling over it. With him it is almost an obsession.

DORIS CLARK

There hasn't been a date yet that he hasn't yapped about some shapely broad he's seen. If I raise a fuss he says that it's just the artist in him.

If this is going to go on into marriage then I'm not too darn sure any more that I want to marry him.

Got any suggestions? — OUT OF MY MIND.

* * *

DEAR OUT: A red-blooded male is likely to enjoy pictures of beautiful women, nude or clothed. But as an exclusive occupation? How boring!

In the next 50 years and he are going to need topics of conversation. Take a second look at the things you admire together. Are there any?

* * *

DEAR DORIS: I received a formal invitation to a silver wedding anniversary. The invitation, sent by their daughter, included the line: "Tickets $6.00 per couple, includes gift."

Am I behind the times regarding silver wedding etiquette or is it now considered proper to be asked to pay your way? I felt it was more of an insult than anything else!

They are Ukranian people. Perhaps this is proper "in their book," do you suppose? — SET ME STRAIGHT.

* * *

DEAR SET ME: You have been honored. It is a custom in some countries to share such costs; although it is not so often written right into the invitation.

But you are not the first English Canadian who has been jarred by this practice. Hosts and hostesses here take a pride in doing the providing.

Our new settlers from Europe are bringing us customs and skills which make life more interesting in direct proportion to our acceptance of them. 'Nuff said?

ONE MORE TIME

Dear Susanna: You may not be able to bear reading about one more use for plastic bleach bottles but my suggestion is so worthwhile I had to send it to you.

Elevate your hats on the shelf in the cupboard — or right in your hat box, by slitting them over the bases of plastic bleach bottles.

Calculate the height you need for each hat and then cut the bottom off the bottle to fit accordingly . . . and regardless of what anyone says, when these containers are rinsed out with warm water and dried, there is just no odor of bleach left at all! —Jean B.

SPRAY AWAY

Dear Susanna: Green boughs will last much longer in the house if they are sprayed with a plastic spray. — G. M. G.

So why has plastic? Most of us, probably. (Oh, I tell you, you have to watch out for me today!) A fine substitute for commercial plastic spray is a product sitting right on our makeup shelf — a tin of hair spray.

Florists say it's fine for plant. — SUSANNA

(If you have any hints for running a successful household — or any problems — write to Susanna, in care of this newspaper. Please enclose a stamped, self addressed envelope when requesting pamphlets.)

After the opening ceremonies two applications for membership were approved and Mrs. Pauline Lambert and Mrs. Katherine Heraw will be initiated at the January meeting.

A report on the children's Christmas party stated that toys are purchased, films have arrived, candy is booked after and all the kiddies will be waiting for a visit from Santa Claus at the Legion Christmas. YOUNGEST GRANDDAUGHTER—Charlene Lockwood, aged three, helps grandparents Mr. and Mrs. David Lockwood of Sulphide celebrate 65th wedding anniversary.

Sulphide Couple Celebrates 65th Wedding Anniversary

Few couples achieve the honor of 65 years married and when it does happen full credit should go to the wife.

At least this is the feeling of Mr. David Lockwood, Sulphide district man who with his wife celebrated their 65th wedding anniversary on Sunday.

"If it hadn't been for Ethel we would never have made it," Mr. Lockwood said.

The 65-year wed couple were honored guests Sunday for an anniversary dinner at the Tweedsmuir Hotel, Tweed. Attending the dinner were all eight of their children, along with approximately 35 grandchildren and great grandchildren, and a few family friends.

BORN IN DISTRICT

Both Mr. and Mrs. Lockwood are natives of the Tweed district and have lived in the area all their lives. Mr. Lockwood was born in Elzevir township, while his bride of 65 years, the former Ethel Deline, was born in neighboring Hungerford township.

The couple were married in Stirling at the Methodist Church parsonage, to which they travelled 25 miles by horse and buggy to exchange marriage vows.

After a few days with relatives in the Stirling area, the couple returned to their Elzevir township farm where their only son, Stanley, and his family now make their home.

Besides the son there are seven daughters, Mrs. Minnie Howard, and Mrs. Nettie Kleinsteaber, both of Actinolite; Mrs. Violet Marsh of Peterborough; Mrs. Rose Lott (Florence) of Plainfield; Mrs. Carl Reid (Helen) of Halloway, and Mrs. Norman Thompson (Hazel) and Mrs. Lorman (Rita) Holmes, both of Tweed.

There are 23 grandchildren, all but three of whom were present for the anniversary. Distance prevented Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Marsh and their five children of Lethbridge and Mrs. Lloyd MacEachern of Centralia from attending. There are 22 great-grandchildren.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Lockwood are still in good health despite their advanced years and are still able to do their own housework. Mr. Lockwood, now 92, worked for many years at the Nichols Chemical Company at Sulphide. Mrs. Lockwood will be 85 in a few weeks.

An anniversary cake and pink and white 'mums, gifts from their children, decorated the head table for the anniversary dinner. Neighbors Mr. and Mrs. Clarke Rawson prevented the couple with a bouquet of red and white carnations.

Cheesemaker Honored by Community

GILEAD — A surprise presentation party was given in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Huffman for the completion of 13 years faithful service as cheesemaker under the sponsorship of the Bronk Cheese Manufacturing Company on Friday evening at Gilead Community Centre.

Mr. Douglas Tummon was master of ceremonies, a singsong was led by Mrs. Harold Howes with Mrs. Lyall Martin pianist. Appreciation was expressed by Mr. Leslie McLarty, past president, and Mr. Clayton Hall, reeve of Thurlow.

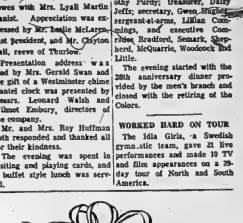
Presentation address was read by Mrs. Gerald Swan and the gift of a Westminster chime mantel clock was presented by Messrs. Leonard Walsh and Wilmot Embury, directors of the company.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Huffman both responded and thanked all for their kindness.

The evening was spent in visiting and playing cards, and a buffet style lunch was served.

Legion Auxiliary

At the general meeting of the Royal Canadian Legion Ladies' Auxiliary held Thursday, an application for membership from Mrs. June Lott was favorably received.



Plans for the Christmas pot-luck supper on December 16 were completed. Dancing will begin at 9 p.m. and light refreshments will be served. Nearly 200 children are expected to meet Santa at the children's party on December 18.

Zone Commander Jack Rashotte conducted the election of officers for 1966. They are: President, Dorothy Rashotte; 1st vice-president, Hope Bigley; 2nd vice-president, Dorothy Purdy; treasurer, Daisy Jeffs; secretary, Gwen Hughes; sergeant-at-arms, Lillian Cushings, and executive Comrades, Bradford, Semark, Shepherd, McQuarrie, Woodcock and Little.

The evening started with the 38th anniversary dinner provided by the men's branch and closed with the retiring of the Colors.

P.E.I. Liberals Pick New Head

CHARLOTTETOWN (CP) — Premier Alex W. Matheson gave up leadership of the Prince Edward Island Liberal party Saturday to Alexander Campbell, 35-year-old Summerside lawyer, at a party convention attended by more than 1,500 delegates.

Of the delegates whose ballots were counted, 963 voted for Mr. Campbell and 382 for Dr. M. Lorne Bonnell, a 42-year-old veteran of 14 years in the legislature.

May Cut Supply

ing increasingly involved in the Viet Nam conflict, which could spill over into other areas, NATO's foreign and defence ministers may show some hesitancy in approving any reduced supply plan at this stage. However, one military official suggested there is a good chance limited reductions will be accepted.

One reason for this view is that the cost of NATO defence operations, including the web of daily communications, transportation, feeding, troop payments and other outlays, is rising. Britain has made clear, even before the council sessions open, that it cannot entertain any demands for increased expenditures.

While West Germany maintains that the presence of massive armies on the continent is a deterrent to war, the United States has sought to ease West Germas fears through such moves — increasing the U.S. stockpile of nuclear warheads, now estimated at more than 3,000, by 25 per cent over the next five months; and supporting a five-country subcommittee on nuclear planning, in which West Germany has membership.

The council of ministers, over which Canada's external affairs minister, Paul Martin, will preside, is expected to study the organization and plans of the nuclear as well as the communications and intelligence subcommittees established by 10 NATO defence ministers last month.

DECISION UNLIKELY

Since these subcommittees are only fledgling groups, the council is unlikely to reach any firm decision at this time on the question of whether the subcommittees are to become permanent features of the NATO structure.

Foreign ministers of France, Britain, West Germany and the United States will meet tonight on the eve of the 15-country sessions to review world developments affecting their relations and their approach to the Soviet Union and its allies. Some of these discussions will be inhibited by the current presidential election campaign in France and by the fact that various western summit talks, taking place after the NATO conference, may result in policy changes.

French President de Gaulle, now facing a runoff battle for the presidency as demanded by the NATO structure he created, is warning that France may leave the organization in 1969 if its demands are not satisfied. Officials of other NATO countries think de Gaulle's delegates will not press their position at these sessions because of the overhanging election battle.

Another Launch

by a false signal emitted because a two-inch plug fell from the base of the rocket 146 seconds after ignition.

The plug carries electrical signals between the blockhouse and certain systems, including the malfunctioning detection system. When it disconnected, the signals ceased and an automatic command shut down the engines.

Under normal conditions, the Titan II remains locked on the pad for 2.6 seconds to permit buildup of proper thrust and to give the malfunction sensing system a chance to make sure all systems are functioning.

When the plug dropped out, a signal fired small solid-propellent cartridges in each of the two engines. This stopped the turbopumps and lowered pressure in the fuel lines. The action caused valves in the lines to close, sailing the flow of fuel.

Within 30 minutes after the abortive attempt a small crew was on the stand to assess any damage and to disarm explosive devices on the rocket. When it was safe, a service tower was raised around the rocket and the astronauts were brought down by elevator.

To prepare for the second attempt, technicians removed all fuel from the rocket and began cleaning the system. The brief ignition did not damage the pad and apparently Gemini 6 was not damaged.

Schirra, the command pilot, was praised for the decision not to eject.

But Schirra, 42, had little to say, only: "Those things happen. It could happen to anyone. No one was hurt."

The Gemini 6 crew shrugged off its second disappointment in attempting a rendezvous Oct. 25. Schirra and Stafford were only 20 minutes from liftoff when their target — an Agena rocket—failed to achieve orbit and exploded.

Borman and Lovell became the world space endurance record holders at 1:26 p.m. Sunday, breaking the mark of 190 hours, 56 minutes set by the Russian pilots, air force Lt.-Col. L. Gordon Cooper Jr. and navy Lt.-Cmdr. Charles Conrad Jr.

Deseronto Crash Victims Are in Serious Condition

DESERONTO — All six of the young men injured in an accident on the outskirts of Deseronto early Friday evening are still in hospital, with three of them still unconscious and in critical condition, John Alexander Dewar, 20, of Isabella Street, Napanee, the driver of the car, was the least seriously injured and was the only one, who did not have one or both legs broken. He is in the Kingston General Hospital. He is from the Brockville district and was employed as a welder with the Napanee Industries.

Donald Hill, 18, of Deseronto and John Bert Leslie, 21, also of Deseronto, are in critical condition in the Kingston Hospital. Both have severe head injuries and lacerations, in addition to broken legs. Both were hitchhiking from Napanee, where Hill had gone to buy some shotgun shells, and Leslie had visited a doctor to have stitches removed from a previous injury. They were given a lift by Dewar.

Robin Williams, 24, of R.R. 1, Napanee, had not yet recovered consciousness in the Belleville General Hospital Sunday evening, and is in critical condition. He suffered compound fractures of both legs, a fractured jaw, facial lacerations, and possible internal injuries, the doctor states. He is a welder with Napanee Industries. Alan Brant, 18, of Deseronto, in addition to a broken ankle, is now reported to have both hips broken and has had facial injuries. He has partially recovered consciousness in the Belleville General Hospital by Sunday evening.

Donald Claus, 28, of Deseronto, in the KGH has multiple fractures of one leg and facial lacerations, but his condition is not critical.

Progressive Mohawks Hold Post-election Party

TYENDINAGA RESERVE — The Tyendinaga Progressive Mohawks held an enjoyable post-election party Saturday evening at the home of Melville Hill. The spacious home was filled with members of the party and with guests from outside the Reserve. Among them were: A. Douglas Alkenbrack, M.P., and his brother Bruce of Napanee; Clark Rollins, M.L.A.; Dr. D. C. McVicker, public health officer; James McVicker, postmaster, and Donald Armitage, the reeve, all of Deseronto. In same cases the men were accompanied by their wives.

Although the party had failed to return any of its candidates, there was no sign of depression, and the mood for the evening was a happy one.

EXAMINE ARTIFACTS

Two upper rooms had been arranged for those who wished to play cards, and a small orchestra provided spirited music for those who preferred to dance. Guests from outside were interested in examining the many Indian artifacts which Mr. Hill has collected, to add to those which his mother had accumulated during her lifetime. His museum has attracted visitors from many areas for some years.

Among the more interesting exhibits in a century-old birch-bark canoe of Indian manufacture which is suspended from the ceiling for want of room in any other part of the home. An interesting fact was brought to light when the Alkenbrack brothers — They have its twin in storage in their mill in Napanee, made at about the same time by the same man. Mr. Bruce Alkenbrack is a student of Indian lore, and has a valuable private collection of Indian artifacts.

Bountiful refreshments had been provided by the women and everyone enjoyed a pleasant evening.

Tyendinaga Personals

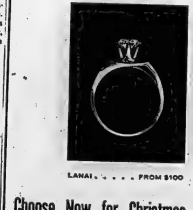
TYENDINAGA RESERVE — The Mohawk Guild of the Tyendinaga parish and the choir of All Saints Church held a Christmas party last Friday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Elwood D. Brant, which was gay with decorations for the festive season. The 35 guests sat down to a potluck supper provided by the ladies. Carol singing, several tables of euchre, and an exchange of gifts contributed to an enjoyable evening. The Rev. Canon J. V. and Mrs. Temple were among the guests at this annual event.

Robert Hill of R. R. 1, Deseronto, is visiting his daughter, Mrs. Tom Marzolf and her husband of Tonawanda, N.Y., for a month.

Mr. and Mrs. James R. Bell of R. R. 1, Selby, were recent guests of Mr. Bell's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Borden Effroit of R. R. 1, Deseronto.

Alvin Marsacle of the Slash Road injured his back when doing construction work north of Shannonville. Examination in the emergency ward of the Belleville General Hospital revealed that a ligament had been strained.

Corner Grocer Proves Friend In Feed



NAPANEE — In spite of the growing popularity of chain stores and shopping centres, the corner grocery still is an indispensable part of a small town.

Saturday, about 11 a.m., Cowling's Grocery at the corner of Dundas and Robert Streets, received a telephone order to be delivered because the customer could not get to the store to pick it up before closing time.

The customer was calling from Labrador City. Finding it suddenly necessary to leave for her Napanee home at 3.30 p.m. on a Montreal plane, the customer turned to her friendly grocer to see that a supply of food would be on hand for her arrival by car at 11 p.m.

System of Compensating Automobile Victims Fails Says Report

TORONTO (CP)—A report to the Ontario government says the system of compensating automobile accident victims in the province through civil court actions has failed to supply full economic reparation for all those injured."

The 300-page report, submitted last week to Highways Minister Irwin Haskett, was prepared under the direction of Prof. Allen M. Linden of Osgoode Hall law school and financed by the provincial government.

It is based on 580 interviews with persons injured, and with the closest relative of persons killed, in traffic accidents in York County in 1961.

"The pattern of tort reparations (reparations through civil court actions) was often capricious and uneven," the report says.

"Full compensation was less frequent in the more serious cases than in the minor ones; conversely, a complete absence of any tort recovery was more likely as the injury increased in severity."

Of those injured, 57.1 per cent received nothing at all by way of civil action recovery.

ARE OVERLOOKED

Non-paying passengers in automobiles were the most overlooked: For 68.5 per cent of the most seriously injured and in 91.7 per cent of the fatal cases, there was no recovery in damages through the courts.

Even when damages were awarded by courts, there was not always full compensation.

"The tort system in most cases yielded complete recovery to 28.8 per cent of those suffering economic losses, partial compensation to 16.8 per cent, while the balance remained without any tort reparation," the report says.

High damage awards in court actions are rare. Only 21.2 per cent of the seriously injured collected more than $5,000; only 7.8 per cent received more than $10,000.

In the fatal cases, 9.5 per cent of the families were awarded more than $5,000 — none more than $10,000, although economic losses exceeded this figure in 27 of the 57 fatal accidents surveyed.

CASES DELAYED

There was delay in dealing with these actions in the courts.

"Although the study shows that 73.5 per cent of tort payments were made within one year of the accident, most of these were minor injury cases.

"Where the need for swift preparation (of an action) was most pressing, there was a tendency for it to lag."

Twelve per cent of the serious injury cases still were awaiting trial between 2½ and 3½ years after the accidents. 46.8 per cent of the settlements in this category were paid more than a year after the accidents.

DIDN'T SEE LAWYER

Most injured persons do not start legal action, make a claim or even consult a lawyer to recover damages.

A majority, 51.5 per cent, of the injured "abandoned their potential rights without requesting any payment from the other party."

"Even more disturbing is the revelation that in 68 per cent of the minor injury cases, 80.5 per cent of the serious and 42.5 per cent of the fatal cases, no lawyer was consulted prior to making this decision."

Most accident claims are settled by negotiation, rather than in court.

"One should not minimize, however, the indirect effect which prediction of the outcome of potential litigation has upon settlement discussions."

Of those interviewed in the study, 77.5 per cent favored compulsory insurance policy clauses, providing benefits for injury or death to any occupant of an automobile or any pedestrian struck by a car.

Such a clause was recommended by a select committee of the legislature on automobile insurance in March, 1963.

"Canada's Ocean Playground" Next in Kiwanis Travelogue

A new color masterpiece by James W. Metcalf on the Province of Nova Scotia will be presented this coming Thursday evening at the Belleville Collegiate when the Kiwanis Club of Belleville presents another in its travelogue series.

Mr. Metcalf who has been in the photographic profession for almost 20 years has a background unique in the travel film field. During the late war he travelled extensively for the army ordnance corps, producing technical manuals and training films.

His photographic assignments have taken him into wilderness Canada, Yucatan, Mexico, Guatemala, El Salvador, Honduras, Cuba, Venezuela, Colombia, the West Indies and other exciting places. His familiarity with Latin America and his top rating as a photographic artist have earned for him a contract to produce a series of motion pictures for Coronet Instructional Inc.

In this, his latest color travelog film, Mr. Metcalf presents what he considers to be his most colorful technically perfect production. As a guest of the province of Nova Scotia he spent over three months there, and, due to the remarkable cooperation of the people and their government, saw and filmed the entire length and breadth of "Canada's Ocean Playground."

A sound technical and artistic background, a sympathetic interest in the peoples of all races, plus a pair of restless feet, well qualify Mr. Metcalf for his many lecture platform appearances.

Oil Company Signs Contract With Workers

BRANDON, Man. (CP)—The British American Oil Co. signed its first contract with its striking Western Canada refinery workers Saturday when agreement was reached with 43 Brandon members of the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers International Union (CLC).

Reg Hankes of Winnipeg, union representative for Local 9-307, said the terms are the same as those included in an agreement that ended a strike against six major oil companies in British Columbia a week ago. The agreement has not been signed, however, by BA refineries from Clarkson, Ont. to Port Moody, B.C.

The two-year contract provides for a salary increase of 35 cents an hour in a two-year contract.

Plant manager A. C. Morrison said the plant will be back in full production Thursday. The strike started Oct. 12.

Mitterand Has Chance To Beat de Gaulle Sunday

PARIS (Reuters) — French politicians waited anxiously for publication today of a full-scale public opinion poll on next Sunday's presidential election, following the shock results of a small sampling that showed President Charles de Gaulle running neck-and-neck with left winger Francois Mitterrand.

Sources in de Gaulle's own party disclosed the result of the small poll Sunday.

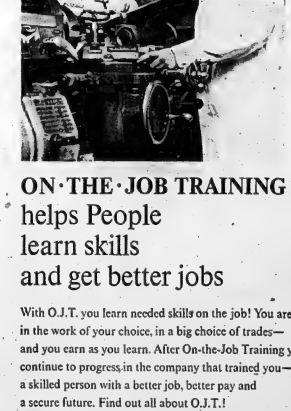
Until shortly before the Dec. 5 ballot between the 75-year-old incumbent and five other candidates, he was expected to win easily. But de Gaulle's failure to get an over-all majority in the first vote means he must face a second ballot against Mitterrand only.

CHANGES TACTICS

Signs of slipping popularity have changed de Gaulle's tactics in his fight for election to a second seven-year term as president. He is making more campaign appearances, and tonight will for the first time submit himself to a television interview by a French newspaper man.

In the Dec. 5 ballot de Gaulle got 44.6 per cent of the vote, while Mitterrand received 31.7 per cent. But the other three major candidates all have swung behind Mitterand with outright or implied support.

De Gaulle and Mitterand opened the final stage of the presidential contest Saturday night with 15-minute television speeches aimed at attracting support from the masses who backed the lesser candidates in the first voting.



Many French political observers believe Mitterand to have almost as good a chance of winning the second ballot as de Gaulle.

SPORTS SLICES

By Geo. H. Carver
Sports Editor

Nothing like a week's respite from the daily grind at this time of the year to make a personal taer of the winter wonderland of merchandising mazes and marvel at the targets set up to hustle the dollar darts.

A bit inspection of the supermarkets, clothories, colorful emporiumsteriaa, thrilling toyland and other dollar-tavelling dispensaries of holiday goodies, left the wallet with more holes than a pensioned-off Swiss cheese.

It wasn't all give-and-take. During the inspection I ran into a gaggle of city exporitiaber back home for vacation or as the bull-session would infer, to note what improvement, if any, had taken place in the make-up of the Old Lady of the Moira.

It was generally agreed the Ole Girl has put herself on the map during the past three decades, particularly sports-wise.

"In what way?" asked the libbiting "guest," here for his first visit with a friend.

A few cyebrows went into orbit as he was told about the 1955 McFarlands, a grand (100) hockey club that won everything national and was the last club to win the world title for Canada.

He said he had heard of Bobby Hull, whose puck prowess in the big time has converted the city into a suburb of Point Anne. Also of a promising younger brother, Dennis, who is headed in the right direction.

He was told that the city sent "Toots" Holway to the Montreal Maroons while a couple of current NHL'ers Westfall and Dillabough have "Belleville" inscribed as the place of birth on the official documents.

"Football-wise," said one, "this city sent players like Garry Schreiber to the pro ranks, also Jim Fallwell and Wally Hinton. Sue Hilton, a daughter of Wally, is one of the nation's top golfers.

"Ed Schreiber, Gary's father, was another outstanding pigskin punter away back when," offered another.

They probed deeply into mental mines. "We've had powerful ball and baseball champions. We sent a doubles lawn-bowling team to the national finals and another foursome won an Ontario crown. A city curling club won a special trophy.

Nancy McCredie, young Olympics star, was born on the Trent Road and John Lewis, native-born Indian, represented Belleville and Canada at the Pan-American games at Sao Paulo, Brazil and later at the Tokyo Olympics in weightlifting.

"And don't forget Ken Carr-Brainat of this city, who was named Canada's top weightlifting coach and took the national team to Teroban, Iran, for the world championships.

"Indirectly," chalmed in another, "the city was associated with the winning of the famous Harmsworth Trophy on Picton's Hayward Reach on two occasions. World motor-boat racing, the seven-litre class, will be featured on the Reach next summer."

The Bay of Quinte Country Club has brought golfing to the highest status yet attained here with its successful Festivals of Golf which is now an official tournament with the powers-that-be.

Someone nibbled on a piece of championship cheese purchased in the show-rooms of the British Empire Cheese Exhibition.

"This," he exclaimed suddenly, "reminds me of another incident, not in the realm of sport, that put this city's name in the world headlines and on global-renowned cavemists' drawing boards.

"Some years ago when the Cheese Exhibition was staged in the old market room of city hall, someone noticed a mouse scampering across the floor. This caused some concern and led to a startling decision."

"Let's bring in some cats," was suggested. It was acted upon and if memory is correct some dozen assorted tabbies were collected and turned loose in the exhibition room."

The word got around and in a short time the world press had featured the story.

Clippings came in from all parts of the globe. One famous Dunlap cartoonist pictured the scene as a small cat, back arched against a huge mound of cheese holding at bay a dozen rodent gargantuas.

After all a 90.4 per cent cheese perfection is too nice a tidbit even for the gourmets of the rodent clans.

And so on into the night. The general consensus of the gaggle-fest was that with all her faults, egoheads and other necessary ingredients that go to make a community, the Old Gal of the Moira is a mighty nice place to come back to.

LIMA, Peru (AP) — Wilf Homenuik of Winnipeg shot a final-round 69 Sunday and won the Peruvian open golf championship with a 72-hole total of 283.

Gordie Howe's age doesn't seem to be slowing him up. In fact, hockey's all-time scoring leader is one of the reasons why Detroit Red Wings have won their last seven games.

The 37 - year - old native of Floral, Sask., now playing in his 20th National Hockey League season, scored three goals Sunday night as the Red Wings downed Boston Bruins 5-3. The big right winger also collected a goal and an assist in Detroit's 4-3 triumph over New York Saturday.

In other NHL action Saturday, Montreal Canadiens edged Chicago Black Hawks 3-1 to take over sole possession of first place in the standings while Toronto Maple Leafs trounced Boston Bruins 8-3.

In Sunday's other game, Montreal beat Chicago 5-3 and Toronto and New York battled to a 1-1 tie.

GORDIE HOWE

* * *

Sunday's three goal performance was Howe's 11th of his career. His spree gave him a career total of 606 regular-season goals and 13 in 12 games this year. After 23 games last season, Howe had only four goals.

Floyd Smith and defenceman Doug Barkley scored the other Red Wing markers.

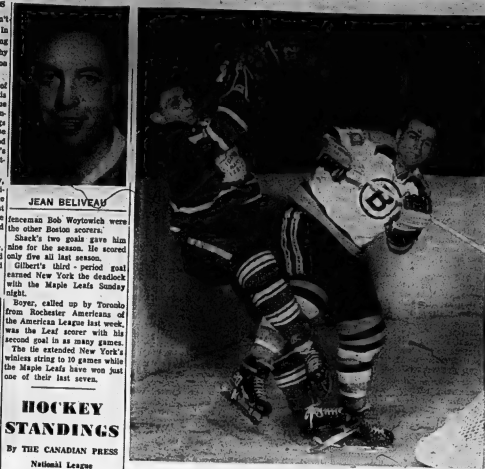
Rookie Bill Goldsworthy scored a pair of goals for the Bruins while Parker MacDonald scored Boston's third goal. Goldworthy's goals were his first in the NHL.

Howe and veteran centre Alex Delvecchio scored third-period goals to give the Wings the victory over New York Saturday. Ab McDonald and Smith scored the other Detroit goals. Harry Howell and Ron Gilbert accounted for New York's goals.

Jean Beliveau's ninth goal of the season with less than four minutes remaining gave the Canadiens the win over Chicago Saturday.

Henri Richard was the other Montreal marksman while Chicago's Bobby Hull ruined Montreal netminder Gump Worsley's bid for his first shutout of the season.

The Canadiens wrapped up the weekend home-and-home series by downing the Black Hawks 3-1 Sunday night with Beliveau again scoring the winning goal, his second of the night. Gump Worsley also had a pair of goals for the Canadiens and Ralph Backstrom got the fifth Montreal marker. Wharram, Stan Mikita and defenceman Doug Jarrett were the Chicago scorers.



Two goal performances by right winger Eddie Shack and rookie Brit Selby paved the way for Toronto's victory over Boston Saturday. Other Leaf marksmen were Bob Pulford, Wally Boyer, Dave Keon and Leonard Stanbeck.

Johnny Bucyk registered his ninth of the season for the Bruins while Murray Oliver and defenceman Bob Woytowich were the other Boston scorers.

Shack's two goals gave him nine for the season. He scored only five all last season.

Gilbert's third - period goal earned New York the deadlock with the Maple Leafs Sunday night.

Boyer, called up by Toronto from Rochester Americans of the American League last week, was the top scorer with his second goal in as many games. The line intended New York's winless string to 10 games while the Maple Leafs have won just one of their last seven.

Chargers Win Third Title

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

San Diego Chargers have wrapped up their third consecutive Western Division title in the American Football League, and there's little doubt that an overlooked factor has been Herb Travenio.

Paul Lowe became the first two - time 1,000 - yard ground-gainer in AFL history and Keith Lincoln, Lance Alworth and John Hadl played their usual roles for the Chargers. But it was Travenio who provided the crucial points with his three field goals in Sunday's title-clinching 37-26 victory over stubborn Houston.

Travenio, a 34-year-old third-year professional, was found by the Chargers working in the San Diego post office. He responded with 37 conversions this season without a miss and 17 of 28 field goal attempts for 88 points—tops on the team and fourth best in the league.

BILLS WIN

While the Chargers were wrapping up their fifth title in the six - year history of the league, eastern champion Buffalo Bills whipped Kansas City Chiefs 34-25, Oakland Raiders clinched the runner-up spot in the West by downing New York Jets 34-14 and Boston Patriots defeated Denver Broncos 28-20.

The Bills tuned up with Jack Kemp firing three touchdown passes—66 and 13 to Ron Jacobson and 48 to Ed Rutkowski—and Pete Gogolak kicking two field goals. Gogolak's field goals gave him an AFL record of 28. Len Dawson's three touchdown passes kept the Chiefs close.

Aces Miss Showdown With Oaks

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Icy roads prevented a showdown between Kingston Aces and Oakville Oaks in the Senior Ontario Hockey Association Sunday night.

Kingston, second in the standings with 23 points, was to play in Oakville against the Oaks, who are first with 23 points. But the bus carrying the Aces to the game turned back at the outskirts of Kingston early Sunday afternoon after spinning around on the icy highway, barely missing a telephone pole and car.

Major Danny McLeod of Royal Military College in Kingston, coach of the Aces, ordered the bus to return. No new date has been set for the game.

The Aces moved within a point of Oakville Saturday night by downing Guelph Regals 3-2 and Galt Hornets dumped Woodstock Athletics 5-1.

Kingston won on a goal by Lorne Ferguson at 1:39 of the first overtime period. Ferguson is a veteran of several seasons in the National Hockey League. Bob Collins and Davey Jones scored the other Kingston goals while Pete Petilot and playing coach Floyd (Butch) Martin scored for the Regals. The Aces trailed 2-0 in the second but tied the score on two power-play goals.

Canada Drops Second To Russians

Score Was 8-6

QUEBEC (CP)—Smooth passing and an eye for opportunities took Russia to an 8-6 victory over Canada's national team in an exhibition game here Sunday, their second straight triumph over Canada's squad.

The Soviet team beat the Canadian team 4-0 in London, Ont., Friday night.

But in an interview after the game Sunday, Russian coach Anatole Parasov complained about rough play.

"When two European teams meet, the game is not as rough as this," he said. The game is for bringing out the good in youth and not the bad.

Referee Frank Daigneault called a total of 15 penalties during the game, eight to the Russians, and also awarded Canada a penalty shot in the second period.

Scorers for Russia were Vesamon Alexandrov, Alexandre Almetov, Alexandre Strigunov, Vladimir Bregenev, Oleg Zaitsev, Vladimir Juniour, Constantin Loktiev and Anatole Firsov.

McCANN GETS TWO

For Canada Rick McCann scored two and Roger Bourbonnais, Bill Hargreaves, Murray Mott and Garry Begg scored one each.

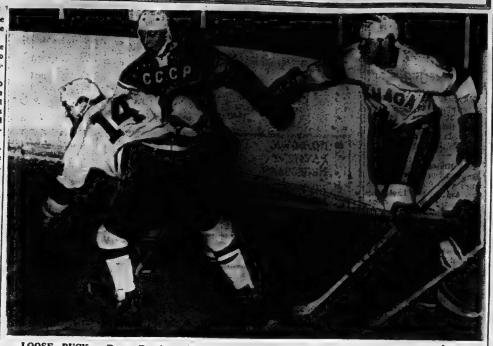
Canada opened the scoring when Begg beat Russian netminder Victor Zinger at 2:04 of the first period.

Loktev made it 1-1 when he hit one past Canadian goalie Wayne Stephenson at 14:19.

Russia surged ahead in the goal-packed second period to lead 5-4 after the first 40 minutes.

Fran Huck lost a chance to make it a tied period when he failed to send the puck past Zinger after a penalty shot was called. Igor Romichevsky had tripped him as he skated towards the Russian net.

Three Russian and two Canadian goals were scored in the second period on power plays.



FIVE THREE

Russia clinched its victory in the last period with another three goals, despite a Bourbonnais goal at 7:25 and a last-gasp goal by McCann with three seconds to go in the game.

Best men in the Canadian team were Begg and Huck. Begg worked hard and roved all over the ice with the puck, while fast-skating Huck menaced the Soviet net constantly though he did not score.

Russia plays an Ontario Hockey Association Junior allstar squad in Toronto Tuesday night and Wednesday they meet Montreal Junior Canadiens of the OHA in Montreal.

Canada's national team meets the Russians for the third time in Winnipeg Friday night.

Hornung Scores Five

Bears' Sayers Bolts For 6 TD's

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

Vince Lombardi's hunch turned Paul Hornung loose on a five-touchdown spree in Sunday's National Football League power struggle at Baltimore but it was a game guess by Green Bay linebacker Dave Robinson that turned the corner for the Packers.

Hornung, reprieved "on a hunch" by coach Lombardi after languishing on the bench for two weeks, responded with an offensive binge that vaulted Green Bay past the crippled Colts 42-27 and into the lead in the NFL's Western Division stretch run. A defensive gem by Robinson, however, provided the momentum as the Packers all but shattered Baltimore's title hopes.

The loss dropped the Colts one-half game behind Green Bay and one-half length ahead of Chicago Bears, who stayed alive by smashing San Francisco 49ers 61-20 as rookie Gale Sayers bolted for six touchdowns. The Packers can wrap it up by beating the 49ers in next Sunday's finale.

TROUNCE CHAMPIONS

Los Angeles Rams upended Eastern Conference champion Cleveland Browns 47-7; Minnesota Vikings beat Detroit Lions 36-7; New York Giants toppled Washington Redskins 27-10 and Philadelphia Eagles trounced Pittsburgh Steelers 47-13 in Sunday's other games. Dallas Cowboys walloped St. Louis Cardinals 27-13 Saturday.

In the final minute of the first half, the Colts trailed 14-13 but were driving for a go-ahead touchdown behind reserve quarterback Gary Cuozzo. With the ball on the Green Bay two-yard line, Cuozzo dropped back and lofted a flat pass in the direction of fullback Jerry Hill. Robinson, anticipating the pass, drifted to his left, reached up and plucked it off—then raced 87 yards to the Baltimore 10. Sayers shocked San Francisco with a ode-man show that set up four touchdowns.

Sayers, a single-game NFL mark of 336 yards rushing, receiving and returning kicks. His six touchdowns gave him a total of 21 for the year—one more than the league record set by Baltimore's Lenny Moore last season and matched by Cleveland's Jim Brown this year.

Palmer, Nicklaus Fourth

Four-Ball To Baird, Brewer

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Gay Brewer and Butch Baird won the $125,000 PGA national four-ball championship Saturday with a 72-hole total of 259, 29 under par.

They defeated 47 teams and collected $6,000.

The Brewer-Baird team fired rounds of 70-66-61-72—269 after ending the third round one-stroke behind.

Brewer, 33, of Dallas, Tex., won the Greater Seattle and Hawaiian Open this fall, both in three-team playoffs. Prior to the tournament here he was 36th in official money winnings with $38,125.

Baird, 29, plays out of Carlton Oaks, Calif. His only tour win was the 1961 Wken Turner Open at Burneyville, Okla. He has collected $9,210 in official money this year.

The Herberts, who led after the third round with a 20-under-par 196, carried a fourth round 66 for a total of 262.

Jack Nicklaus and Arnold Palmer, combining for the first time in a PGA competition, settled for a four-way tie for seventh place with a total of 266.

Flyers, Hawks Tie

Generals Extend Lead

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Niagara Falls Flyers had to scramble for a 5-5 tie against St. Catharines Black Hawks Sunday night in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series and fell a point farther back of the leading Oshawa Generals.

Oshawa moved three points ahead of the Flyers by defeating the last-place London Nationals 9-3 Saturday night.

In another Sunday night game, Montreal Junior Canadiens pulled into a fourth-place tie with Toronto Marlboros by crushing the Marlies 9-3.

Derek Sanderson scored on an empty net with 23 seconds left to give Niagara Falls the tie before a crowd of 2,335, largest of the season in St. Catharines. Rookie Tom Webster, a right winger from Kirkland Lake, scored three times for the Flyers and set up Sanderson's tying goal. Andre Lajeunesse scored the remaining Niagara goal. Steve Kasmirski scored twice and Paul Terbenche, Garry MacMillan and Kerry Bond once each for the Black Hawks, who led 5-3 midway through the third period.

SCORE TWO EACH

Larry Pleau, Serge Savard and Jacques Lemaire each scored twice for Montreal while Don Liesemer, Bernard Cote and Lucien Grenier added one apiece.

Brian Glennie, Mike Corrigan and Brent Imlach scored for the Marlies, who had only one shot on net in the first period and trailed 6-0 at one point in the second Glennie, Corrigan, Pleau and Richard Pumple of Montreal received five - minute majors for their part in a third-period brawl.

Billy Little scored three goals for Oshawa and Danny O'Shea had two goals and three assists Saturday night. Other Generals marksmen were Chris Hayes, Ron Duncanson, Bill Heindl and Jim Booth. Neil Clark, John Mercer and Moe St. Jacques scored for London.

Loop Okays Suspensions

YORKTON, Sask. (CP) — A Western Canada Senior Hockey League meeting Saturday endorsed the league's system of suspending players receiving two or more misconduct penalties in a season.

A player receiving two misconducts automatically draws a one-game suspension and with three misconducts a two-game suspension. The suspensions apply only to home games.

Delegates from the six member teams commended league president Clare Rothermel for assessing suspensions in several incidents of high-sticking and stick-swinging.

NHL Stars

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Frank Sinatra 50 Sunday, Expects to Swing 50 More

By JAMES BACON

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Frank Sinatra hit 50 Sunday, still making money and whoopee—and he'rready to make more of both.

"I look upon it as the halfway mark," says the skinny one from Hoboken, N.J., who has been called the top pop vocalist of his time. "I expect to swing for 50 more."

Coincidentally, it's also the 25th anniversary of Sinatra's career as a recording star. The industry calls him the best of them seller ever. He estimates his records have grossed $100,000,000. Even albums recorded more than a decade ago net him $60,000 a year.

HIRES BING

"Sinatra is so rich he even hires Crosby," cracks comedian Bob Hope. "He's as much the truth as humor to the remark. Bing, his greatest rival as a crooner, cuts records on Frank's Reprise label.

And, true to his reputation as a sharp businessman, Sinatra is using the occasion of his 50th birthday to rake in a little stray cash. His newest album, which probably will be another best seller, is called September Of My Years.

The Sinatra birthday celebration will be mostly a family affair, with his first wife, Nancy, as host and the couple's three children.

SON SINGS TOO

Frank Jr., may not be able to make it. He's on the road hanging just as his father did 25 years ago.

"For the future, I'll go on pretty much as I have in the past," Sinatra says. "I may direct more pictures and produce others but I'll let 'em.

"And, of course, I'll play the saloons. There's nothing like that live audience to keep your pipes in tune."

Sinatra now is a giant in Hollywood.

Be' he road to success hasn't been easy. Sinatra says he's happy, but sometimes he acts as a man possessed.

His moods are as varied as his songs. When he's charming, Cary Grant could take lessons from him. When he isn't, watch out.

To his credit, nowadays he is charming much more than he is belligerent.

ADMIRES RESTRAINT

"I have a Sicilian temper, but over the years I have admired people with restraint. I guess I've wanted to be more like them.

"I feel I've mellowed."

Frank drinks. Frank swings. Yet, he finds time to run a huge enterprise with a business acumen that would do justice to a Wall Street banker.

As a musician, he can't read a note but he is an uncanny editor of music. He knows what is best for him.

Sinatra's first big hand job was in 1939 with Harry James. Then came the famous early years with Tommy Dorsey.

He punctured stardom made Frank ineligible for the draft and he became the stay-at-home idol of bobby-sox set. They were divorced in 1951, but still are friends for the books.

Frank also is on good terms with his other ex-wife, Ava Gardner.

Close friends believe he will marry Mia Farrow, the 20-year-old daughter of actress Maureen O'Sullivan and the late director, John Farrow.

"But only," says one buddy, "if she gives up her career to be Frank's wife."

Mia's movie role as far as the engagement ring but chose career over Frank. No wedding rings.

The low point in Sinatra's career came during his marriage to Miss Gardner. Heartthrob singing idols no longer sang to lonely women, because soldiers were overseas and the girls weren't lonely anymore.

In his last years with Columbia Records, his average single sales dipped to 30,000 a record—hardly enough to pay the band.

Columbia dropped him, his agents dropped him and his studio dropped him.

When his career seemed at an end Sinatra sought and got the role of Maggio in From Here To Eternity — receiving only $1,000 a week for eight weeks.

It won him the Academy Award for the year's best supporting actor. It also catapulted him into tycoon status among stars.

No one knows for sure what Frank grosses a year and he isn't saying.

One business associate who should know puts it between $4,000,000 and $6,000,000 a year, depending on the box-office returns of his movies, which usually cross well.

He has a big office-bunalow at Warner Bros., which Jack L. Warner built just to entice Frank's production company.

LOOMS AS HEIR

The red-carpet treatment has led to speculation Sinatra is the heir - apparent to Warner throne when the latter retires.

One thing uncontroversial about Frank is his singing. Crosby recently paid him a compliment.

"Frank's crooner. Frank is a singer and a much better one than I. He's certainly the greatest of our time and probably the greatest entertainer, too."

The old groaner adds:

"He's the type of singer who comes once in a lifetime, but why did he have to come in my lifetime?"

Great Bird Failed to Fly Because of Loose Plug

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—Just when the smooth takeoffs for journeys into spade were beginning to assume the built-in excitement of the departure of a train for Chicago, Gemini 6 performed Sunday in a manner to remind us that it isn't all that easy.

Television viewers saw a great cloud of white smoke but, unhappily, the great bird failed to fly.

"There's no lift - off," said Jack King ,calmly at Gemini control. "They're watching the pressure lowering . . . they're asking for a read-out of all pressures. . . ."

His quiet, steady voice reassured the watching millions thinking about those two astronauts who'll spend a total of 14 days in a tube no bigger than a Volkswagen.

The networks functioned as calmly and efficiently as the astronauts in their spacecraft. It turned out to be—a loose plug.

In Search of Man, tonight's ABC special, started out with only a title, a vague idea of sponsor and a producer. Eugene Jones, the producer, had the idea of showing the similarities of man.

He talked it over with anthropologist Margaret Mead who supplied him with a list of man's five basic needs — to adapt to his environment, to have love and a family, to have a relationship to the universe, to preserve his identity as an individual, and to be a member of a group.

To illustrate these needs, Jones and his crew travelled the world, from an Eskimo village with 52-below-zero temperatures to a Pacific Island paradise where it was 117 degrees above.

Recommended tonight:

"In Search of Man," ABC, 10-11 EST.

Redmen, Queen's Move Up

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

None of the leading teams saw action in the Ontario-Quebec Athletic Association Hockey League on the weekend, but the race tightened up anyway.

University of Western Ontario Mustangs, University of Waterloo Warriors and University of Toronto Blues, all tied for first with six points each, didn't play.

But four teams are within two points of them as a result of a pair of games Saturday.

Queen's University Golden Gaels defeated Laval University Rouge et Or 4-3 and McGill University Redmen downed University of Montreal Carabins by the same score to leave all four clubs tied with four points.

Larry Jones scored his third goal of the game for Queen's late in the third period to break a 3-3 tie. Bob Pond scored the winning Queen's goal. Jones and Pond, Raynaud Dufour and Pierre Lachance scored for Laval.

John Tibbits scored two goals and set up a third to lead the McGill attack. Kerner and Hal Ilowell were the other McGill marksmen while Jacques Save, Jean - Jacques Granger and Pierre Delage scored for Montreal.

Emerson Beaten By Ashe

ADELAIDE (AP) — Arthur Ashe, the Australian tennis prestige tumbling to its lowest depths in years Saturday when he came from behind to beat top-ranked Roy Emerson 7-9, 7-5, 6-4, 6-4 and win the South Australian championship.

It was Ashe's third victory over the two-time Wimbledon winner, rated the world's best amateur, and the second Australian tournament title for the Negro Davis Cup ace from Richmond, Va.

Ashe beat Emerson in the quarter-finals of the U.S. national championships at Forest Hill, N.Y., and repeated the feat in winning the Queensland title, the first of the Australian season.

Australians couldn't recall seeing their No. 1 Davis Cup ace so humiliated.

Emerson's defeat, coupled with a series of setbacks by Australia's No. 2 Davis Cup player, Fred Stolle, has thrown a blanket of gloom over Australia's prospects in the Davis Cup challenge round against Spain later this month in Sydney.

Tony Oliva Named AL Bat King

BOSTON (AP) — Tony Oliva of Minnesota Twins has been certified as the American League batting king for the second straight year.

The official 1965 averages released Sunday confirmed Oliva's pace-setting .321 average. He led with a .323 mark as a rookie in 1964.

Carl Yastremski of Boston Red Sox, the 1963 batting champion, was runner-up last season with a .312 average. Vic Davalillo of Cleveland Indians was third with .301.

Burnley Trounces Fulham

Liverpool Whips Arsenal

LONDON (Reuters) — Formidable Liverpool continued to forge ahead in the First Division of the English Football League Saturday when it crushed Arsenal 4-2.

Liverpool, which has taken 13 points in the last possible 14, now lead the First Division by three points over Burnley which trounced last-place Fulham 3-2.

Arsenal, now ninth in the league with 8-6-6 record, played without English centre forward Joe Baker, who was injured against Spain Wednesday. They held Liverpool to a 1-1 tie at halftime.

West Bromwich Albion, third before Saturday's games, slipped when they were beaten 4-0 by Leed. Sheffield United drew 1-1 against Nottingham Forest, and Tottenham won 4-2 over Chelsea to join Leeds in third place, all three points behind Burnley.

Prime Minister Wilson saw his favorite team, Huddersfield, strengthen its grip on the Second Division with a fine 3-0 win over nearest rivals Coventry City.

Manchester City slammed in five goals without reply against Leyton Orient to join Coventry on the 27-point mark — two points behind Huddersfield.

Wolverhampton beat Ipswich 4-1 to hold fourth place.

Millwall, Third Division leaders, lost a little ground by being held to a 1-1 draw at home to Swindon.

Millwall lead by three points from Hull City who scored a 3-1 home win over Bristol Rovers.

McMASTER LOSES

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP)— In a wild, free-wheeling hockey game which saw the McMaster University goalie penalized and also credited with an assist, Michigan romped over the Canadian team 10-3 Saturday night.

Archer, Fullmer Eye Middleweight Crown

BOSTON (AP) — Both Joey Archer and Don Fullmer might be seeking a crack at the world middleweight boxing championship when they meet in a 12-round bout tonight at Boston Garden.

Archer, loser of just one bout in 49, is a 2-to-1 favorite to repeat his 1961 victory over the younger brother of former middleweight champ Gene Fullmer.

The fight is for Fullmer's American middleweight championship.

The world champion is Dick Tiger of Nigeria.

Fullmer, who recently defeated welterweight champion Emile Griffith and light-heavyweight Jimmy Ellis, is rated the stronger puncher, but while when they fought in a 15-round bout tonight at Boston Garden.

Archer, rated No. 2 challenger for Tiger's title by the World Boxing Association, is sure a victory over the fifth-ranked Fullmer will earn him a crack at Tiger.

One of the attractions of the card will be a special four-round exhibition between Sugar Ray Robinson and another boxer w a amazing longevity record, former featherweight champ Willie Pep.

Maniago Hurt Swingers Take Charge

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

The American Hockey League had a real swinging weekend with goaltender Cesare Maniago of Baltimore Clippers and referee Wally Harris on the receiving end.

Maniago was hit on the head by a hockey stick in the first period Sunday and had to leave the game as the Clippers lost 6-0 to Providence Reds.

Harris escaped uninjured as he was struck by Cleveland Barons took a swipe at his head with a stick in the second period Sunday following a verbal exchange between the two centre ice. Glover was ejected and Pittsburgh Hornets won the game 4-3.

In other Sunday games, Buffalo Bisons defeated Springfield Indians 4-3 and Rochester Americans downed Vancouver Canucks of the Western League 5-2.

Saturday, Springfield upset Rochester 8-5, Pittsburgh clipped Baltimore 5-3, Vancouver nipped Cleveland 1-0 and Victoria of the WHL tripped Hershey Bears 5-2.

Marcel Paille scored his first shutout of the season Sunday as Providence ended a three-game losing streak. Baltimore had 38 shots on goal. Jim Bartlett, Jules Bouchard, Jim Mikol and Eddie Kachuk scored for the Reds.

Jim Young Debuts With NFL

DETROIT (CP) — Halfback Kingston and a native of Hamilton, Jim Young of Minnesota Vikings had a busy afternoon Sunday when he made his National Football League debut as the Vikings defeated Detroit Lions 27-3.

He returned three punts for a total of seven yards and three kickoffs for 64 yards. He carried three times for a net gain of four yards.

Against Detroit, he was used in Canadian college football for three years as the best halfback.

Labor Congress Wants Use Of Two Tongues Expanded

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian Labor Congress is asking the federal and provincial governments to expand the use of both French and English in their respective jurisdictions.

In a brief being submitted today to the royal commission on bilingualism and biculturalism, the 1,200,000-member congress makes the following proposals:

—More ample facilities for the study of the second language, French or English, in primary and secondary schools.

—"A system of requirements and incentives" in the federal civil service and Crown corporations "so that at least senior officials would be proficient in both languages." In bilingual areas, all grades of civil servants should be reasonably fluent, the brief says.

—Support for all cultural groups and for closer communications between them by the CBC, the Canada Council and other public institutions. The CLC says true bicultural-ism must be based on equality of opportunity among Canadians, regardless of means, religion or ethnic origin.

MUST BE FLUENT

"We consider that . . . those who serve the public must be able to address it with reasonable fluency in both languages. . . . We are therefore opposed to unilingualism in any province where there is a substantial number of people speaking the second language, e.g. Quebec or New Brunswick."

The bilingual Laurentian University of Sudbury and the Association of French - speaking educationists and school trustees of Canada are urging French - language school's outside Quebec.

The educationists say that assimilation by English Canada of the 1,000,000 French Canadians outside Quebec would strengthen separatist sentiment with Quebec.

French-Canadians are being forced to use English in business, in school, in national associations and in mass communications. Their constitutional rights were being ignored. Ottawa was an English-only capital.

The association says national unity will be preserved only if true bilingualism and biculturalism are accepted sincerely by all Canadians.

A completely different tack is taken by the Sudbury and District Multilateral Association, which says it would be unacceptable, undemocratic and unwise . . . to "cater" to the "rather small minority" of French-Canadians.

Bilingualism is a costly luxury that Canada cannot afford and the use of English should be extended to the Protestant clergymen add.

They recommend a federal education department to promote multiculturalism and national unity.

American Locks Will Close Tues. Night

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich. (AP)—Despite warm weather and ice free conditions, the American locks here will close on schedule at midnight Tuesday, the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers said Sunday.

A spokesman said the reason for the rigid closing date is because of plans for continued construction of a new lock.

Vessels leaving the Lakehead before midnight Tuesday will be given lock clearance, however.

A spokesman for the neighboring Canadian locks said they will stay open on a day-to-day basis to help ships running late because of a strike by deck officers of the Canadian Merchant Service Guild. The Canadian locks had been scheduled to close at midnight Sunday.

Hon. Paul Martin Sees Danger Of Making NATO Overstrong

By HAROLD MORRISON

PARIS (CP) — External Affairs Minister Paul Martin today called for efforts to "rationalize defence planning" and improve nuclear collaboration as he opened a three-day conference on North Atlantic foreign, defence and finance ministers.

Speaking as this year's president of the NATO council, Martin urged caution in attempts to build up NATO's military strength to such a degree that the consequent hardening of East - West relations makes peace more difficult to obtain.

"As a defensive alliance intended to prevent Communist expansion in the NATO area, we have a responsibility to maintain the military force necessary for this task," he said. "We must, however, develop our defensive arrangements in such a manner as to keep open the prospects for negotiation with our adversary and to avoid and develop such possibilities as may exist for a successful outcome to such negotiations."

While Martin agreed there is a need to improve collaboration in nuclear matters among the 15 member countries, he emphasized that efforts should be made to rationalize all of force planning, ensuring that the military plans members had accepted were in fact economical and best designed for common defence.

This appeared to be a suggestion that the alliance ought to slow down a bit in its military expansion, a proposal that would likely favor Britain which believes NATO has been planning on military principles that never would be needed in a 30-day conventional war in an age where nuclear weapons decide the outcome in a matter of days.

Martin noted that the current world fighting area were outside NATO and not inside. The period of peace in the NATO area is demonstrated to be secure and provided an opportunity to put NATO's house in better order. The defence plans must be based on the assumption that members trained one another to come to each other's assistance if they were in trouble.

On this point, he called for greater consultation with it by the alliance on East-West relations so that all members would have a better understanding of Soviet objectives and tactics and of any possibilities that may open the way for fruitful East-West negotiations.

He suggested also that before NATO members commit forces which might affect the interests of other allies, they should consult before decisions or changes on world problems.

This appeared to be fingerwagging at the United States which has made moves in Cuba, Dominican Republic, Viet Nam and other trouble spots without fully consulting with its NATO allies. Now the U.S. is reported to feel that the NATO allies do not fully appreciate what the U.S. is trying to do in Viet Nam.

Trainmen Will Seek Increases

OTTAWA (CP)—The Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen (CLC) is scheduled to open contract negotiations with the CNR Thursday in what will be the first test of revolutionary proposals made last week by the Freedman inquiry into CNR crew run-throughs.

W. V. Kelly, BRT vice-president, said in an interview Monday the brotherhood's negotiators intend to make a bargaining issue of Mr. Justice Samuel Freedman's recommendation that the CNR negotiate with its unions on new working conditions brought on by technological change.

The Freedman report said there is an injustice in present labor law, under which unions are helpless against changes introduced while a collective agreement is in force. He recommended that the law be changed and specifically urged the CNR to accept the new principle voluntarily.

Mr. Kelly said the BRT demands, served on the major railways in mid-June before the Freedman report was made

THE WEATHER

Synopsis: The remnants of the weekend's big ice storm is still the dominant feature in Ontario's weather. It is bogged down near Sault Ste. Marie. No significant movement on the storm is expected but its continued weakening should bring an end to all precipitation associated with it late today or tonight.

Some rain or snow associated with a new storm brewing over the southwestern states could move into the lower lakes region on Wednesday but the main precipitation area with it will remain well south of the Great Lakes.

Kenyan Drive for UN Sanctions Hits Snag

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—A Kenyan initiative to get the Security Council to take further measures against the rebel regime in Rhodesia appeared to have run into some difficulties today.

The Security Council Monday postponed a scheduled meeting which had been set up at the request of President Jomo Kenyatta. The meeting is due to take place today but a Nigerian African delegate said "it is still in the balance."

The exact reasons for the postponement still were unclear but informed sources said many African delegates had advised against holding another council discussion at this time, only three weeks after the last round of debate.

These diplomats, the sources said, felt there was little point in asking the council to invoke mandatory measures against Rhodesia, as called for by Kenyatta, when it had made clear last month that such a course was unacceptable to the majority of its members.

The situation was further confused by the threat issued by the Organization of African Unity that African nations would sever relations with Britain if the Rhodesian rebellion were not put down by Wednesday.

President Kenyatta has made known his opposition to such a break.

British and Kenyan officials here were expected to hold further talks during the day. A usually reliable source said that Burudi Nabwera, the Kenyan delegate, had told Lord Caradon of Britain Monday that he had been authorized to act with the support of the other members of the 36-nation African group.

Six Members of Toronto Family Perish in Fire

TORONTO (CP)—A family of six died in a flaming early-morning row house early today, one five-year-old girl visibly clawing at a plastic window covering after smashing the glass.

Firemen said the winter covering on some of the windows kept heat in and turned the small house into an oven for Mr. Soniler, their parents and an uncle.

The victims are Walter Soniler, 28, his wife Gloria, 29, their children, Donna Lynn, 5, Charmaine, 2, and Lynda, 1, and Soniler's brother, Stanley, 42.

Firemen said the eldest girl, Donna Lynn, had smashed a bedroom window in her fight for life, but only managed to put a small hole in the heavy plastic outer covering.

More than 25 persons fled from adjacent homes in the street—Wright Avenue—a few blocks north of Queen Street.

When the firemen arrived the Soniler home was lit up "like a lumber yard — one great big bonfire."

Two firemen were hurt fighting the flames.

As they surveyed the gutted ruin, District Fire Chief Ed Norris said "they're tearing down better houses than these people live in."

The chief said the cellar furnace had been converted from coal to gas and heat was forced up old-fashioned furnace pipes through the front hall.

He said the windows in the children's room had aluminum frames covered with a plastic

Find Two-cent Plastic Cover Clogging Gemini 6 Fuel Line

HOUSTON (AP) — Astronauts Frank Borman and James plus Lovell circled the earth for the 10th day at nearly five miles a second and worked today to keep their Gemini 7 spacecraft in tune for Wednesday's rendezvous with astership Gemini 6.

If all goes well, navy Capt. Walter M. Schirra Jr. and air force Maj. Thomas P. Stafford, the Gemini 6 pilots, will rendezvous with Borman and Lovell nearly six hours after blastoff while 185 miles over the Philippine Islands, east of Manila.

The opportunity for a spectacular meeting in space was stalled Sunday when a tail plug on the Gemini 6 launch vehicle prematurely fell from beneath the rocket, forcing a shutdown of the engines at the moment of ignition.

Inspectors discovered "Mon-

"What if Mr. Pearson never comes back?"

dy," however, that even if the plug had remained intact, the more serious malfunction would have cut off the engines a second and worked today to avoid a repetition.

Space agency officials termed the failure to remove the dust cover a careless act. They said someone left it in place when the rocket was assembled at the Martin Co. factory in Baltimore, Md.

Designed to keep contaminants from the gas chamber during assembly, the tiny cap had been inconspicuously clogging an 8-inch fuel line for months, escaping several inspections. Officials said at least two persons signed checklists confirming the cover was removed before shipment.

That same little cover also would have caused a postponement Oct. 23 of the original Gemini 6 mission to rendezvous and link up with an Agena rocket. However, the rocket's engines never were ignited—the time when the trouble would have been detected—because the Agena did not go into orbit.

Maritimes Await Storm From Ontario

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The Atlantic coast braced itself today to receive a storm of snow, sleet and freezing rain that walloped parts of Ontario during the weekend and Monday.

Five traffic fatalities and hundreds of minor accidents were blamed on the weather.

During the night of the storm, Toronto and Ottawa airports cancelled outgoing airline flights and diverted incoming planes.

Country schools were closed Monday in the Kingston-Brockville areas and about 200 persons were treated in Toronto hospitals for bruises and broken bones suffered in falls on icy streets.

Early today, Ottawa, Montreal and Quebec City received freezing rain as the storm moved eastward. Freezing rain and snow was forecast for the Atlantic provinces.

Want Lid On Costs Of NATO

By HAROLD MORRISON

PARIS (CP) — The United States has mounted a low-keyed campaign for a five-year blueprint of North Atlantic force requirements while Britain has decided to press harder for a lid on rising NATO costs.

These two moves likely will gain momentum as the NATO council, headed by Canada's external affairs minister, Paul Martin, opens its deliberations today with a look at deterrencing East-West relations and the key trouble spots of Viet Nam and Rhodesia.

Martin, who has urged the members not to rock the boat, told a press conference on the eve of the ministerial talks that he does not believe the existing situation is ripe for any fresh NATO decision-making.

He expected that many proposals would be studied, including the costs of maintaining troops and supplies in Europe, but that decisions may be left until the next meeting of foreign, defence and finance ministers in the spring.

MEANS A CUT

One study, known to have been completed by NATO military men, would mean a sharp reduction in the concept of a future European war—shaping plans to fit a 30-day war from the present concept of a 90-day war. The "new" concept, it was learned, would be heartily endorsed by Britain, but the indications are that this plan would be merely studied at the current meeting and left over for decision next year.

The foreign ministers are inhibited by two events: The current French presidential election campaign and the coming summit talks in the U.S. between President Johnson and British Prime Minister Wilson and between Johnson and West German Chancellor Erhard.

Decisions reached at the summit talks likely would have profound impact on the council's future deliberations.

Meanwhile, U.S. State Secretary Dean Rusk has indicated he would like to see the council consider long - range military planning, preparing a blueprint of requirements until 1970.

REQUIRES DECISION

In the American view this requires getting the military chiefs to decide what forces they require until 1970 and having the NATO members provide them, perhaps on terms in which Europe would pay no more or a share of costs.

Britain believes the military chiefs should work on the basis of what is currently available to them and make better use of the forces by revising their concepts of any possible future European war.

While the existing concept is based on needs for a 90-day war, Britain maintains that any war would quickly escalate into a nuclear battle which would be decided in a day, leaving contaminated ground forces which could not hold. The majority of conventional forces could therefore be reduced.

The big outstanding issue is whether NATO will ever get a nuclear force in which West German and other non-nuclear members would have greater operational responsibility.

TAKES A STAND

Martin has maintained that the three nuclear subcommittees established by defence ministers at their deliberations Nov. 27 are "ad hoc" and that their status must be decided by the NATO council. The three subcommittees include one on nuclear planning in which West Germany has membership. Canada has membership on the two others which deal with mu-

U.S. Asks NATO Aid Viet Nam

From Reuters-AP

PARIS (CP) — The United States today asked its North Atlantic allies to send doctors, nurses and teachers to South Viet Nam, American sources reported.

U.S. State Secretary Dean Rusk, in a review of the Viet Nam conflict, told the council of ministers of NATO that there is need for more troops in South Viet Nam. But the sources said that he did not ask the NATO nations to supply them.

In calling for greater allied participation and support of the American effort in Viet Nam, Rusk warned that the fate of the North Atlantic Alliance might be decided on the distant battlefields there.

He told the annual meeting of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization's foreign, finance and defence ministers that it

B-B Commission's Questions More Revealing Than Answers

OTTAWA (CP)—Some questions are more revealing than the answers as the 10 members of the royal commission on bilingualism and biculturalism cross-examine spokesmen for various national organizations.

As a four-day public hearing here, the last in a series of 12 across the country, the commissioners seem to be testing reaction to possible solutions to what they have called the "evils" in French - English relations.

For six hours Monday, they asked precise, pointed questions about proposals for the expansion of bilingualism. The emphasis was on the possible public acceptance and practical value of the proposals.

When Ottawa lawyer John H. McDonald proposed a "truly bilingual" federal district government for Ottawa-Hull, Commission Co - chairman Davidson Dunton wondered whether local taxpayers would accept the change.

Commissioner Jean-Louis Gagnon asked whether it would not be simpler to broadcast the powers of the National Capital Commission, a federal planning agency, to promote bilingualism. Mr. McDonald stood by his proposal.

When the Candilian Association of French-language Educationists called for French schools across the country, Commissioner Paul Lacoste asked whether it would be realistic to deal in the same way with concentrations of French - Canadians outside Quebec and with other French - Canadians scattered over a large area.

Adelard Savoie, Moncton, association president, said French should be recognized everywhere in Canada as an official language, but this would not prevent differing applications of the principle.

Three university students from Quebec representing La Presse Etudiante Nationale, a group of French-speaking student newspaper editors favoring Quebec independence, were questioned closely by Mr. Gagnon, former editor of Montreal La Presse.

Why had the association imposed its separatist views on all member newspapers, he asked. Was this not an obstacle to free expression? Did association members from outside Quebec favor separatism?

The students replied that separatism had been endorsed at the last convention of their group.

Robarts Bans Two Pensions

TORONTO (CP) — Premier Robarts laid down the law on municipal pensions today: They will be integrated — not stacked with the Canada Pension Plan.

Mr. Robarts told a press conference he has asked for a legal opinion on whether the power now exists for the government to integrate the retirement plans.

If not, retroactive legislation providing the necessary powers will be introduced at the forthcoming session of the legislature, he said.

Martin Says Canada Welcomes Plan for Parley on Rhodesia

PARIS (CP) — External Affairs Minister Paul Martin says the Canadian government welcomes the Nigerian proposal for a Commonwealth prime ministers' conference on Rhodesia and hopes that "constructive" will oder African members from breaking diplomatic relations with Britain.

Martin, who held talks with Prime Minister Wilson in London Friday, also told a press conference here Monday he knows of no request that the British be asked to guard the vital Kariba dam that straddles the Rhodesian-Zambian border.

At least two British newspapers have suggested that Canadian and Australian police might be asked to guard the dam to prevent the disruption of power to Zambia and possible destruction of the huge power project.

After his talks with Wilson Friday, Martin told London reporters Canada would be ready to back any proposal made by the World Bank, which holds a mortgage on the project, for Canadian and other international observers at the Kariba but he emphasized that he could not say what conclusions the Canadian government would reach on such a request.

Monday he added that as far as he knows, the World Bank is not completed its report on the security of the Kariba and he knows of no request to use the RCMP as a police patrol.

With a number of African countries threatening to break diplomatic relations with Britain because of alleged slow British action to crush the rebel white minority in Rhodesia, Martin paid special attention to the proposal, by Sir Abubakar Tafawa Balewa to call a Commonwealth prime ministers' meeting at Lagos early next year.

Martin had written to African countries urging Britain to appealing to them not to break relations with Britain or walk out of the Commonwealth.

In view of the Nigerian proposal, which is to be discussed by Wilson and Sir Abubakar in London, Martin hoped do Commonwealth country would find it necessary to present Britain with a diplomatic ultimatum.

But even if some Commonwealth countries did break with Britain, he was convinced that such action would lead to a Commonwealth walkout.

Another Smith Takes a Hand

LONDON (CP) — Arnold Smith, Commonwealth secretary-general, engaged Monday in a round of conferences with British and Commonwealth officials in continuing efforts to reduce strains provoked by the Rhodesian crisis.

Smith said later stress on the Commonwealth remains serious but he is hopeful that "we are going to come through, as long as the seriousness of the crisis is not underestimated."

Chairman of Authority Outlines Achievements, Benefits to City Council

The accomplishments of the Moira River Conservation Authority and their benefits to the city of Belleville, were outlined to city council yesterday by Authority chairman George Wishart.

Mr. Wishart told council there had been criticism on the lack of Authority achievements with respect to the city, and although he admitted the criticism in some way was justified, at the same time Authority hands were somewhat tied, while at least one major project for the city had been turned down because of insufficient government grant.

One of the reasons for the lack of Authority achievement with respect to the city was the inequity of city representation on the Authority. Mr. Wishart said that the city had but 10 per cent of the Authority representation, while it pays 80 per cent of the levy.

MUST AWARD REPORT

The Authority chairman said he had tried last year to have city representation increased but since then a select committee on conservation authorities had been appointed and any change in representation would have to await the committee report.

One Authority project for the city which had not been obvious was the presentation of plans for an ice control dam across north of College Street.

The project had been turned down because of insufficient government grants.

Mr. Wishart said the city could now have the ice control dam at any time on payment of 25 per cent of the cost.

Authority is also philosophically having a benefit to the city were measures controlling pollution in the river, summer flow control dams and conservation areas.

WILL HAVE RESERVOIRS

Mr. Wishart said that eventually the Authority would have reservoirs which would increase summer flow right to late times that of the present, while the quality of water would be better than that from which the city draws in water supply in the Bay of Quinte.

Many people from Belleville visited the Authority conservation areas at Plainfield, Actinolite and at O'Hara's Mill, northwest of Madoc.

A fish and game preserve area at Plainfield had been created to the Belleville Fish and Game Club, while 2,300,000 trees had been planted on Authority property.

Mr. Wishart said that Authority fieldman Jack King, together with City Engineer Wilbur Purcell and city planning director P. J. Beavis were working on plans for river channel improvements and for beautification of river bank property within the city.

PROJECTS PROPOSED

Among projects proposed were plans for small dam structures to provide swimming areas in the river.

Such structures were completely removable for the winter and would thus not create any flood hazard.

The channel and river channel improvements and river bank beautification would soon be ready for presentation to council, Mr. Wishart said.

Quinte Kiwanis Club Officers Are Installed

The importance of the fellowship and service of individual Kiwanians was stressed last evening by Laurence A. Kells, Lieutenant-Governor of Division 6A of the Kiwanis Club, "Every Kiwanian has an obligation," said Mr. Kells, "not only the elected officers."

Connected with Kiwanis in Belleville since 1943, Mr. Kells inducted the 1966 officials-designate of the Quinte Kiwanis Club and reminded them of the "commitment" they had made in accepting their respective posts. Members and guests present at the Dundas St. Kiwanis Centre for the induction proceedings also heard Mr. Kells introduce the "healthy atmosphere that pervades the club" to Past President Bob Cox; Cox's successful term.

Last Meeting City Council Next Monday

Belleville city council will wind up its business for the year at a special meeting called for next Monday, Dec. 20th.

Normally the last meeting would have been two weeks from yesterday but December 27th is Boxing Day and apparently it was felt this would bring the final meeting too late in the year.

Mayor J. R. Ellis said also that he wished to hold an unofficial organizational meeting with the newly - elected councillors members before the inaugral meeting of the 1966 council on January 3rd.

Tonight at city hall a public meeting is being held to hear briefs and representations in connection with the proposal to disband the city parking authority and other similar municipal bodies.

The meeting is being called by Alderman Ken Soden as head of a special committee appointed to investigate the advisibility of disbanding municipally appointed boards.

One lonely year has passed away,
To speak my thought, I will not say.

Your smiling face in a photo frame.

He sealed your pain, and broke my heart.
You are beside me in all I do,
Your love will guide me, and see me through.
—Always remembered and sadly missed by wife Cynthia and sons.

'Serves' One-day Jail Term Just by Making Appearance

OTTAWA (CP)—Sylvio Perron, who chose to serve one day in jail rather than pay a $4 fine appeared at the country jail Monday, was booked and then released.

Perron, was sentenced Monday for illegally parking his car while visiting his son, Michael, 5, at Civic Hospital Sept. 27.

Perron said he sent a $2 cheque to the court the day after he received his ticket, but inadvertently used a cheque form from a bank branch he no longer patronized.

The cheque was returned unhonored and Mr. Perron received a summons. Magistrate C. E. Carter said there was nothing he could do and imposed the sentence.

"We feel this is ridiculous and are fighting it on a matter of principle," Mr. Perron's wife told a reporter. "We are not objecting to the ticket but think it is very bad business practice that the court clerk's office did not notify us about the cheque."

County Jail Governor Dr. R. G. Webb said Monday a one-day sentence is only formally served.

"It is quite common. The person comes here from the court, we book him in and then immediately discharge him."

"Technically he has served his day, because the day of sentence counts as one day."

Plant Workers Being Signed For New Vote

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — The 1,500,000-member Canadian Labor Congress is making a second bid to win bargaining rights at London's Northern Electric Co. Ltd. plant.

Robert McLeod, the CLC's London representative, said Monday the congress is now signing plant workers for a new certification vote.

Members of the Northern Electric Employee Association, which now holds bargaining rights at the plant, have voted against merging the independent association with the CLC by 416-340.

Opposing the CLC and also trying to sign workers is the United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers of America (Ind.).

The Northern association represents 6,000 Northern employees in Montreal and 500 in Belleville.

Liquor Store In Stirling Is Approved

STIRLING — Residents of this Hastings county village yesterday approved the sale of liquor at a government liquor store.

Eighty seven per cent of the village's 815 eligible voters went to the polls giving the liquor outlet a 63.9 per cent majority. Sixty per cent majority is necessary for the question to carry.

The last time the question was voted on in Stirling the liquor outlet was defeated by only a percentage fraction following a recount of votes.

himself was trying to reach safety.

"That was a godsend," Mr. Tuck said. "The way he ran into the house and grabbed those kids."

Mr. Tuck and his wife were awakened by the smell of smoke. They managed to arouse Sherrin Kloosterman, 20, and her two children, and carried them to safety.

One young girl was screaming into the street and was missing for nearly an hour before police found her in a neighbor's home.

The first firemen on the scene were forced back when they tried to enter the blazing Sonier house. Flames leaped 30 feet into the air from the roof.

Coroner Dr. Kono Ali said no decision will be made about an inquest until arson squad officials have investigated.

Firemen said the blaze apparently started in the kitchen and spread up a rear wall to the second floor.

The children were found in the rear bedroom on the second floor. Linda was in her crib, Charmaine on the floor and Donna Lynn near a window where she had apparently fallen in an attempt to escape the smoke.

Mrs. Soniger was found in a bedroom and her husband in another room. Mr. Soniger's brother was on a couch on the first floor.

The firemen who received injuries fighting the blaze were treated at hospital and released.

Varied Christmas Projects Are Underway in Trenton

TRENTON — Christmas is the season for giving and in addition to the hundreds of shoppers milling through Trenton stores every day now, looking for remembrances for relatives and friends, many organizations in town are working on one that not one Trenton family is forgotten this year.

The men from the RCAF fire hall and airmen and women from the base have spent several months repairing donated toys and mending and dressing dolls. Hundreds of these almost new toys were given to the Salvation Army Corps over the weekend for distribution to less fortunate boys and girls just before Christmas.

Meanwhile, the members of the Salvation Army have already started dispensing Christmas cheer, through a visit to the Trenton hospital where the band played carols and gifts were distributed.

At the hospital, the Women's Auxiliary is planning to make Christmas a day to be remembered by each patient. Small gifts will be placed on all the Christmas dinner trays and the children in the pediatrics ward will be visited by Santa.

The RCAF Women's Auxiliary will have a special gift for the first baby born on Christmas Day.

Ted Snider and the members of the Trenton Citizens Band have planned their own Christmas gift for the community with a special Christmas concert in the high school auditorium, Wednesday night, Dec. 15. Those present may sing-a-long during the second half of the program.

On Wednesday, Dec. 22, the Eastern Ontario Theatre School will present a children's program, "Topsy-Turvey Land," also in the high school auditorium.

T. S. Ketcheson to Retire As Education Board Head

TRENTON — T. S. Ketcheson, chairman of the Trenton Board of Education for the past four years, announced at a board meeting last night he would not stand for the chairmanship this year, owing to pressure of business. Mr. Ketcheson said he had enjoyed working with the boards over the years, and wished the new chairman and the 1966 board well.

W. J. Wilkinson, separate school representative od the board, thanked Mr. Ketcheson for his excellent leadership and for his "tremendous contribution" to education in Trenton. His motion was seconded by board member Ralph Weaver.

Last night, the board finally handed the draft of new rules and regulations on which the members have worked for the last 18 months. The new rules will be printed in loose leaf form to allow for easy amendments.

The board also approved a motion to integrate the non-teaching staff's pension plan with the Canada Pension Plan.

STUDENTS RAISE $1,100.

High school principal John Garrett reported the student council at the school had raised $1,100 in a recent candy bar sale. This will be used for council activity and sports. Mr. Garrett also asked the board for support with bus expenses for school sports' teams, but no decision was reached on this last night.

Louis Aziz, who recently attended an Ontario Curriculum Institute meeting with E. T. Morris, public school inspector, and A. D. Robson, principal at the Marmora Street Senior School, recommended that a full-time librarian be hired for the high school—and that the library be expanded.

New board members Georgs Greer and Mrs. Henry Hutchison attended the meeting.

KILL 15 ISRAELIS

DAMASCUS (AP) — The underground Palestinian organization Assifa claimed Monday its commando units staged three raids in central Israel Dec. 8 and killed 15 Israeli soldiers.

Scouters Put On Fashion Show at Party

TRENTON — The Trenton and District Scouters' Club held its annual Christmas get-together at King Street United Church last night. Guests of honor were District Commissioner Jack Delong and W. J. Wilkinson, chairman of the Trenton and District Scout Council.

After a hearty meal, Norman Harris played the piano while several members of the club put on a "fashion show."

CLUB READY TO ROLL

The ice is finally in at the Trenton Curling Rink . . . the tapes are to go on today . . . and regular scheduled play should start by the end of the week.

Trenton's club schedule and industrial curling has been tied up for a month and a half this year because the ice making machinery broke down in October.

TRAFFIC RE-ROUTED

Traffic on the Trenton bridge proceeded in the east bound lane only for a considerable length of time this morning when a large Smith transport got stuck as it entered the swing portion of the bridge in the west-bound lane.

CARD PASSED CENTURY

The first commercially-produced Christmas card was offered for sale in Leith, Scotland, in 1841.

30 Children Of Firemen Entertained

TRENTON — On Sunday, around 30 children of the men at the Trenton fire department thrilled to the annual visit of Santa Claus to the hall, while the daddies helped to hand out the toys around of the Christmas tree. Wee ones and their bigger brothers and sisters enjoyed cartoon and refreshments after Santa's visit.

By the weekend, shoppers will step livelier as they make the rounds of the downtown stores looking for that extra special gift, to nestle from the boll tower at the fire hall. This community service has been a project of local firemen for a number of years, and many shoppers will be heard singing the carols as they ring out from the tower.

Parking Counts Dismissed

A lengthy list of summonses charging illegal overtime parking against Belleville motorists were dismissed in magistrate's court today.

The action was something of a formality since validity of summonses already had been quashed by Magistrate T. Y. Wills in a judgment one week ago.

The ruling upheld the argument of city lawyer Robert Temple who claimed the summonses were not specifically worded, hence illegal.

In all, the magistrate ruled out 16 such counts today.

City legal authorities had to draft new legal terms of reference before any motorist could be charged with contravening the city bylaw forbidding overtime parking.

Both F. G. Chamberlain and J. Clair Hayes, justices of the peace who issue the summonses, said today they have not yet received the new charge terms.

However, motorists can exit short any heady feelings about unrestricted parking on Belleville streets.

The city's Parking Authority still has its meltermen issuing tickets.

"We're just holding them until we receive the new wording for the charges," said Mr. Chamberlain.

Cheese Show Grant Again Turned Down

A twice-around attempt—to provide the British Empire Dairy Show sponsors with the $300 grant which they customarily receive each year was defeated in city council yesterday.

Last spring city council turned down the original request for the grant and during the dairy show held in the city last week, one show official intimated that the cheese show and cheesemakers' convention might go to Napanee next year.

If it does it will be the first time in 37 years that the Central Ontario Cheesemakers' Association convention and the cheese show will not have been held in Belleville.

GRANT TURNED DOWN

Yesterday at city council Alderman Frank Murray moved that the customary $300 grant to the dairy show be approved.

He said that Belleville traditionally was the centre of the cheesemaking industry and the city should do all it could to encourage promotion of the industry.

But it was pointed out the grant had been turned down last spring and according to Alderman Ben Corke had "for good reason" been deleted from the budget.

Although he seconded Ald. Murray's motion to pay the grant, Mayor Ellis said he had not been impressed by the manner in which the cheese show is promoted in the city.

"Much more could be done to give a better public image and the city should have a part in the shows promotion," he said.

Intersection 'Flasher' Is Jury Request

A flashing red light should be installed as a traffic safeguard at a main intersection in the Hastings County Road system north of Belleville, a coroner's jury recommended yesterday.

The improvement was suggestion for the junction of the Ridge Road and the Madoc County Road at West Huntingdon, about 12 miles north of the city.

Loose gravel at the intersection should also be cleared up, the jury ruled as it returned a verdict of accidental death on four-month-old Kimberley Carrol of Steenburg, killed when her parents' car was involved in a crash November 13.

Four other persons were injured in the Saturday night accident at the intersection as a car driven by Alan Elliot, 30, of Ottawa, collided with the automobile of Delmar Carrol.

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP)—City Council here voted Monday 11-4 in support of fluoridation.

The city's residents had voted in favor of the use of sodium fluoride in their water supply in 1958 and regulating equipment installed then, but it has never been used.

Find Studs Damage Roads

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario highways department has tested tungsten-studded winter tires and found they can damage road surfaces, A. T. C. McNab, deputy highways minister said Monday.

Mr. McNab said that while sale and use of the tires in Ontario is legal, damage is caused to road surfaces when a vehicle's brakes are applied. The studs do not damage roads when the vehicle is in motion.

Ottawa Parley

An Ontario delegate emerged from a discussion group at last week's federal-provincial conference on poverty and opportunity with a dazed look on his face.

"I didn't understand a word of it," he muttered, and he shook his head sadly and wandered off down the hall.

The scene was Ottawa, though it could have been any major centre where scientists, sociologists and other professional people come together for the purpose of exchanging ideas. To the layman, they often succeed only in confusing the issues raised.

They cloak their findings on various subjects with a "scatteration" (to quote some Ottawa terminology) of words and phraseology that would make even a computer weep.

At best, this sort of abstruse thinking on important issues (and poverty is such an issue, even in the midst of our so-called affluent society) is an indication that some attention is being devoted to alleviating the lot of those in need.

At worst, it is an indication that those who are supposed to have some knowledge of the problems of the poor in Canada really do not know what they are talking about. Worse than that, they have no concrete proposals for correcting the situation.

We would like to think that beyond the "scatteration," the verbal grapeshot and gobbledegook, a way may be found to aid the underprivileged; and that for the sake of their own self-respect, they should be able to raise their standard of living substantially by themselves.

Not all the discussions and reports were couched in intelligible language. Ontario was apparently the worst offender in this respect, but not so Manitoba, which defined poverty in brief and effective terms.

"To be poor," the Manitoba brief read, "is to be old and destitute at 55 years of age with little hope and no prospect of correcting the poverty that has become endemic.

"To be poor is to fear for the future of the children, because there is little hope and no prospect of finding the money to give them education or training adequate to the demands of the 20th century.

"To be poor is to be a deserted mother, an orphaned child, a neglected child, the wife of a breadwinner who is sick or crippled, an alcoholic, a jail habitue; it is to be mentally disturbed.

"The poor are of many origins, in many regions. They are healthy or ill, old or young, intelligent or stupid, stable or disturbed . . ."

One might add to the list, but it is not necessary. Manitoba seems to have a fair grasp of the problem. And if they can attack the problem as directly as they analyze it in cold print, they may accomplish something of value that the rest of Canada may emulate.

Britain's Problems

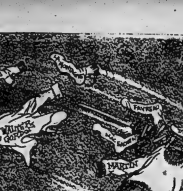
Britain has a hard time of it these days. It has its own racial problems at home, as well as trouble in overseas territories. African countries which only recently were British colonies, but now are independent, are trying to colonize. And some that on paper are still colonies—like Rhodesia—are calling the tune anyway.

In Britain, too, there is the constant fight for economic survival, as the coloured race has most cell to support an ever-increasing population.

Other nations twist the Lion's Tail. The United Arab Republic, which paradoxically, may take some of the credit for initiating the end of colonialism in Africa—any nationalization of Suez canal—has threatened to sever diplomatic relations with Britain at midnight tomorrow if it has not dealt with the Rhodesian crisis by that time.

By dealing with the crisis the UAR of course is thinking in terms of armed intervention, and this, Britain has indicated, is out of the question. A severance of relations by President Nasser will scarcely cause any profound regret in Britain. It would be merely another example of the changed climate in relations between Britain and countries it once dominated to one degree or another.

Of all the nations of the world, Britain is one which can be guaranteed to survive all crises, great or small. For all its misfortunes in recent years, they are as nothing compared with the spirit of its people, and its will to survive and still be an influence in stability and purpose in the world. There will always be a Britain.



Mr. Mikoyan Steps Down

With the resignation of Anastas Mikoyan from the presidency, the ruling circle of the Soviet Union has lost the last of its old guard.

Mr. Mikoyan, at 70, is a veteran of the Soviet administration, and one of the few to have survived the vicissitudes of internal Soviet politics without failing into disfavor.

Before he became president, Mr. Mikoyan was a first deputy premier of the Soviet Union. It was in that capacity that he represented his country at the funeral of President Kennedy.

Now failing health has compelled him to step down. In the west, where he enjoyed a good measure of respect, there may even be a tinge of regret that he will no longer be around.

Vomiting Is Common But Can Be Dangerous

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Today's remarks are in response to a number of inquiries about what to do for a child who has an attack of vomiting.

My comments will in large degree apply to adults, too, but severe vomiting, particularly when accompanied by diarrhea, can be quickly dangerous for an infant or small child. The loss of fluids and minerals, plus fever if it is present, can lead to acidosis, and prompt steps must be taken to alleviate the condition.

In adults, vomiting can result from causes — appendicitis, intestinal obstruction, kidney colic, pregnancy, gall bladder disease, viral infections (often called "intestinal flu"). Naturally such other symptoms as may be present should be noted, to indicate whether the situation requires some serious underlying cause, or is a transient intestinal upset. In children viral infections, appendicitis or intestinal obstruction are causes.

* * *

For the uncomplicated cases of vomiting, one of the simplest remedies, yet often highly effective, is a half teaspoon of table salt, dissolved in three ounces of water, or a bit less than half a cup.

The dose is one tablespoonful of this solution taken by mouth every 20 to 30 minutes. It can be surprisingly helpful.

Along with it, sipping carbonated drinks (ginger ale is excellent) not only helps to settle the stomach but replaces fluid that has been lost. The sugar that is present in the one-calorie beverages also affords some nutrition.

As the nausea subsides, salty broths or soups supply fluid, minerals that have been lost, and nourishment. Fluids also can be given in the form of ice chips, or the sucking of ice chips. Candy, if tolerated, will like the fruit juice, provide sugar to combat acidosis.

Acidosis in a child can be recognized by listlessness and fruity odor of the breath.

* * *

Once the child can start solid foods again, crackers, toast, soft egg, apple sauce, custard, milk and juices in small amounts but taken frequently, restore strength, nutrition and mineral and protein balance.

Most children, sometime or other, experience an attack of vomiting. Usually the foregoing suggestions put an end to it.

But if the vomiting persists, don't wait too long particularly if you detect the signs of serious illness. Extreme loss of fluids and minerals can rather quickly become a serious matter.

There are, to be sure, more sophisticated medicines and injections to control vomiting. They are usually found in a family medicine chest, but your doctor will have them available if you need them.

Dear Dr. Molner: Is there an illness known as coat of the car How is it treated? — Mrs. J. T.

Coat, basically, results when the body accumulates chemicals of the uric acid family instead of discharging them. The consequence is pain in joints — the big toe most often, but other joints, too.

In advanced cases, uric deposits can occur elsewhere, the ear being a frequent spot. However, these little lumps can be a cosmetic nuisance and may ulcerate. The best thing to do is to take your gout medication regularly and avoid deprivation from such diet restrictions as your doctor has stipulated. This will minimize or (as is so often the case now, with modern medications) prevent painful attacks in the joints.

Strictly Personal

Idioms Are Puzzling to The Student

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

I once had a city editor who used to get pink with annoyance when any of the reporters asked for time off to "take a haircut."

"You're not going to 'take' a haircut," he would roar throughout the whole city room. "You are either going to give yourself a haircut, or else get a haircut. But you're not going to 'take' one anywhere!"

His zeal for good grammar was commendable, but in the case of idioms like "take a haircut," there is no such thing as good grammar. There simply is no logic for many phrases in our language, or in most others.

In English, for instance, we "pay" a visit; but in the Romance languages, one "makes" a visit. In English, we "take" a walk, but in French we "make" it, and in Spanish we "give" it.

And, as Mario Pei points out in his book, "The Story of Language," in English, we "take" an examination, but in Italian we "give" it, in French we "undergo" it, and in Spanish — best of all — we "suffer" it.

Take a simple word like "take," to use it in dozens of different ways and combinations, none of which has any exact relation to reason in logic or syntax. And the only way a foreigner can learn these combinations is by listening long enough.

We "take out" a date, we "take on" a hem, we "take over" a country, we "take off" on the wing, we "take up" a dare, we "take back" a statement, we "take" a wife or food or vice, we "take a shot" at an object.

"Get" has even more variations: we "get up" a game, we "get out" a book, we "get under" a ball, we "get over" an illness, we "get with" a joke, we "get across" our point, we "get by" in our job, we "get back" a loan, we "get on" a horse.

The police "get" a criminal, the criminal "gets" a sentence the boxer "gets" hit on the mouth, the pedestrian "gets" his feet wet, the woman "gets" dinner, people "get" to be friends, we "get" someone to do, or they let us "get away."

Even within the same language, idioms vary greatly. Americans "take" a bath; English men "draw" a bath. We go to "the hospital"; Englishmen go to "hospital." Our politicians "run" for office; theirs "stand" for office. Our students "study" for examination; their "work" for one.

And dictionaries cannot help us weave our way through the world of strange idioms, for there are no true synonyms in colloquial speech. An enquiring friend of mine once went into a drugstore and asked for a pack of "feeble" cigarets. It took a long time for the clerk to realize that he wanted "mild" cigarets with a filter.

Cutback in SAC Strength

Montreal Gazette

With just one announcement, the American Secretary of Defence, Robert McNamara, has passed sentence of death on most of the United States Strategic Air Command bombers. There will be a two-thirds cutback by 1971, including all of the supersonic B-58's and 345 of the subsonic B-52's.

This does not represent any change or surprising evolution in Mr. McNamara's views. He has been known for some time that he regarded the manned bomber as virtually obsolescent, in a strategic, nuclear sense.

But by announcing such a severe reduction all at once, Mr. McNamara had involved an angry criticism from the many American politicians and officials who feel it is unwise to depend exclusively upon missiles. The criticism has already begun, and will certainly increase. Nor is it likely to be much blunted by the hint that a version of the controversial TFX jet plane will be available for strategic, nuclear roles.

In a debate such as this, no man can only admit their ignorance and hope that the experts know what they are doing. Both sides in the controversy have powerful arguments. But both sides cannot be right.

Although some strategic bombers will remain, and although some TFX planes may be added to the force, the American secretary will concentrate primarily of missiles from now on. Just as the bomber once relieved supreme, the missile now reigns supreme in the long-range strategic field.

Will Government Play Robin Hood to Combat Poverty?

By RICHARD JACKSON
From The Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — The big federal-provincial meeting on poverty here last week was an interesting study in the ability to see a problem without really looking at it.

While politicians and top civil servants from across the land gathered in the gilt and crimson, crystal chandeliered Confederation Room in the West Block, a local newspaper was printing a series of stories on real poverty within the confines of the capital city itself.

And while the top brass discussed education, training, retraining, mass movement of people and an industrial build-up in areas of high unemployment, a senior social worker was being quoted at length on the real problem of the poor.

In Canada, he said, the poor are not treated as they are in Europe — with some degree of recognition that even the poor are people.

"By this, he explained, he meant that they have a dignity of their own, or should have.

In Canada the poor are not allowed it, he stated. Instead, they are looked down upon because they cannot measure up to the middle-class morality of the nation.

It is this attitude, he suggested, which enables politicians and civil servants to treat the poor in distant fashion, as figures on a sheet of paper which can be manipulated by power and "programs" and money.

MIDDLE CLASS SYMBOL

The money, of course, is the big thing. It is the symbol of the middle class and its panacea for all ills.

An indication of the amount of money the federal government apparently is willing to put out in its "war on poverty" is evident in the salary it is paying Tom Kent, chief of the government forces.

The figure is $25,000, and you don't pay that for handling small sums.

Mr. Kent himself has said that a family of four making less than $3,000 a year can be considered to be impoverished. He has also never hear a young man say to a girl, "Let's go out and build up our muscles with light of the Moon." No, Mr. Evans, he is apt to have something quite different in mind.

Many newcomers to Canada naturally have difficulty adapting themselves to our way of life but Mr. Evans will be compounding their confusion by suggesting that swimming at the Y is a reprehensible recreation and that our young couples only go dancing because it's too cold for tennis.

A team of horses attached to a sleigh ran away on Front St. and at the upper Bridge became frightened by an approaching automobile and endeavored to jump over the side of the bridge. It took considerable effort to get the horses free and the outfit straightened out.

Swimming—Italian-style

Toronto Telegram.

Everything that you have heard about the Dolce Vita can't be true.

A recent arrival from Italy, Edward Evans, told a community relations committee that, apparently to his surprise, "swimming here is regarded as an innocent sport". He also said that he himself had seen boys swimming nude at the YMCA "which is supposed to be a Christian institution". He firmly stated that people in Latin countries would never permit their sons to frolic about in such a fashion. No skinny dipping in Italy, according to Mr. Evans.

Maybe so.

Most Canadians would admit that we do, indeed, look with a tolerant eye on swimming — although the mixed bathing, of course, the autorities regret, that sunn will be worn— but Mr. Evans seems to have got hold of the wrong end of the stick in another form of sport.

"Dancing in Italy doesn't have the same function it does for the Anglo-Saxon," he said. "It isn't just going out and having some exercise. It can mean much more".

Well, Mr. Evans, in all honesty, it can mean much more here too. It's a pity, but very few of our young people really do go dancing for the exercise.

And that doesn't mean that a young man say to a girl, "Let's go out and build up our muscles with light of the Moon." No, Mr. Evans, he is apt to have something quite different in mind.

Many newcomers to Canada naturally have difficulty adapting themselves to our way of life but Mr. Evans will be compounding their confusion by suggesting that swimming at the Y is a reprehensible recreation and that our young couples only go dancing because it's too cold for tennis.

U.S. Is Now in The Hot Seat

The Economist, London

Those pictures from the Ia Drang valley ought to jog the British mind. American aeroplane bodies, dotted about jungle clearings, are a token of the reversal of roles that has taken place between Britain and America in the last 25 years.

The Americans are now doing for Britain (and for the rest of the Western world) what the British did for the United States in 1940. They are holding the front line for us.

The pictures of Americans killed in Vietnam should stir in British minds exactly the same thoughts as we hoped would be stirred in American minds by the pictures of British dead in the Western Desert and London streets in 1940.

They are dying while we still struggle to realize that the sort of necessary war in which our interests are involved as much as theirs.

It took the Americans in 1940 another year to catch the hint properly. The British in 1965 are slow as ever to come to terms with unpleasant reality, are still bungling.

The latest turn in the Vietnam fighting should help them to make up their minds.

The communists, having failed by a hair's breadth to clinch the issue during the autumn monsoon, have refused to try a compromise settlement. They have instead sent a large part of North Vietnam's regular army into the south to have another go at winning outright.

It has become a war between the United States and North Vietnam.

The Americans can probably win; and without, one hopes, too much fuzzy dribbling from Britain.

A keen amateur scientist and supporter of social reform, his influence over the Queen was fully appreciated only after his death. Victoria went into seclusion for many years and wore mourning for the end of her life. Some historians believe her political astuteness and keen grasp of public life was a direct result of her life with the German-born prince.

No Action on College St. Bridge to Be Taken by Council Till Next Year

Despite a recommendation from the works committee calling for preparation of detailed plans for the construction of the proposed new College Street bridge, there will be no action on the matter until the new year.

Yesterday the city works committee recommended that Damas and Smith, consulting engineers, be authorited to prepare detailed plans and specifications for the bridge but Mayor J. R. Ellis moved for the matter to be tabled until next year.

The mayor said that council had its fingers rapped about 18 months ago for wanting to proceed with a project not on the city's capital works program and for which no approval had been given by the Ontario Municipal Board.

NO FUNDS PROVIDED

He went on to say that the preliminary report on the bridge had only been received by council Monday and that no funds for the bridge had been provided in any city budget.

Also, he said, newly-elected members of city council should be given the opportunity of passing on the bridge question.

Alderman Jack Allin, one of the original promoters of a new College Street bridge, replied that the bridge report had been available at the public works committee meeting last week, but the Mayor had not been present.

"I was at the Police Commission meeting, which was held at the same time," returned Mayor Ellis. "I still say that the bridge report arrived only today in council."

RECORDED VOTE

Alderman Allin said the committee was only trying to have a little time in getting the new bridge underway as soon as possible.

On a recorded vote council voted 8-5 to table the bridge matter until the new year.

Approving the tabling motion were Mayor Ellis and Aldermen Boyle, David, Deacon, Lally, Murray, Soden and Williams. Opposing were Aldermen Brown, Carruthers, Corke and Rayerott.

Color Slides Of British Trip Shown

J. C. "Pat" Houston, chairman of Belleville's Industrial Commission, recently visited England and the Irish Republic.

At yesterday's Rotary luncheon he showed color slides of his trip.

The Roman baths in the city of Bath, in the west of England; Lynmouth—a picturesque community of narrow streets and high bluffs in Devon — which was badly scarred in a landslide some years ago, and Stonehenge were some of the highlights of Mr. Houston's visit to England.

From Bristol, Mr. Houston flew to Dublin. He went south to Cork, visited the nearby Blarney Stone, then went to the west coast for a look at the spectacular Cliffs of Moher in County Clare, an university city of Galway, also famed for its Salmon Leap, and Shannon Airport.

Mr. Houston made the trip to Britain in a charter flight organized by Cobourg Rotary Club.

Learning to Smile Again

After this Associated Press photo of a stricken Vietnamese girl appeared in hundreds of papers across Canada and the United States last summer, thousands offered help. Foster Parents' Plan's Canadian-born director in Saigon located the girl in hospital and enrolled her. The photo at right shows her after she began receiving monthly aid through the Plan. Almost 7,000 Canadians give help to destitute children in the Far East, Europe and South America, on a person-to-person basis, through Foster Parents' Plan. Information may be had by writing P.O. U.C.W. Meetings

CENTRE STREET U.C.W.

The general meeting of Centre Street U.C.W. was held in the church hall recently in the form of a Christmas party at which time members entertained as guests the senior girls of the church.

President Mrs. E. Elliott opened the meeting and expressed a welcome to all. Mrs. L. Longhurst conducted the worship service using the theme "The Spirit of Christmas". She was assisted by Mrs. T. Ward and carols were sung with Mrs. D. Hudgins presiding at the piano.

During the business portion a number of reports were given and at this time it was decided to donate new hymn books to the church.

Entertainment for the evening consisted of readings and games and an exchange of Christmas gifts.

The committee in charge served refreshments and an enjoyable evening was brought to a close.

ELMBROOK U.C.W.

The December meeting of the Elmbrook U.C.W. was held in the home of Mrs. Reginald Moore, with an excellent attendance. The Scripture reading was given by Mrs. Arthur Sinnett. An interesting Christmas reading given by Mrs. Arnold Ackerman was much enjoyed by all.

The January 1966 meeting will be held in the home of Mrs. Ackerman, with Mrs. Reginald having charge of the lunch; Mrs. Orval May the program and Mrs. Gerald Norton the contest.

The president, Mrs. Moore, then read letters received from Mrs. Mulherin of Stirling; Mrs. Glassy of Hudgins, and the secretary of Picton; and Mrs. Williams of Belleville regarding further reports to be sent in. It was decided to remember some local shut-ins at Christmas, and to send a gift to Mrs. Mulherin from the U.C.W. in lieu of a shower. Seven sick calls were reported.

Each U.C.W. member is to have a "secret pal", and to remember this "pal" with a card for her birthday and wedding anniversary; and a present at Christmas (to be given at the December meeting).

The 1965 executive reinstated for the forthcoming year is as follows: president, Mrs. Arnold Ackerman; treasurer, Mrs. Arthur Stone; secretary, Mrs. Herbert Lister; assistant secretary, Mrs. Orval May; press reporter, Mrs. O. May; literature committee, Mrs. Nelson Sarles.

A thought-provoking Christmas reading was given by Mrs. Ackerman.

An inspiring Christian stewardship reading was given by Mrs. Lister, responded to by hymn "O Come All ye Faithful".

Mrs. Frank Ditchburn took charge of a brain-teasing contest pertaining to the different kinds of cakes; which was won by Mrs. May, with Mrs. Lister second and Mrs. Stone the loser.

A pleasant social period followed with lunch being served by the hostess, Mrs. and Mrs. Stone. Thanks was extended to the hostess, on behalf of those present, by Mrs. Ackerman and Mrs. May.

DESERONTO U.C.W.

DESERONTO — The evening unit of the Deseronto U.C.W. met last Thursday at the home of Mrs. Herb Aylsworth of the Deseronto Road, with the vice president, Mrs. Gladys Gould, in the chair.

The devotional period revolved around the Christmas theme, and was conducted by Mrs. J. L. Wilson, with the assistance of Mrs. Ralph Aylsworth.

Following the brief business meeting the remainder of the evening was given over to the annual Christmas party, with carol singing led by Mrs. Ross Sexsmith; an exchange of gifts, and a social hour with Mrs. Ralph Aylsworth, Mrs. Wilson and Mrs. Gould assisting the hostess to serve refreshments.

CHURCH SOLOIST

Miss Judith Robertson of Napanee will be the guest soloist for the 7 p.m. carol candlelight service in the United Church in Deseronto next Sunday evening. Choir members who will sing solo or take solo parts in the anthems will include Miss Sandra VanVlack, Miss Jeanette Higgins, Miss Marjorie Woods and Ernest Crisp. Organist and choir director is Mrs. H. T. Stimpson of Napanee.

HOME KITCHEN CONFECTIONS

Last Monday I promised to give you two more candy recipes. They are...called Sesame Snaps and Cocoanut Bon Bons.

For the Sesame Snaps a thermometer is a must. The Cocoanut Bon Bons are a cinch and can be made by amateurs but when finished are so pretty they may steal the show.

TUESDAY
Dinner Menu
by Mary
Moore

Meat Loaf; Mushroom Gravy; Glazed Sweet Potatoes; Brussels Sprouts; Tossed Lettuce - Salad with Tomato Wedge Garnish; Buttered Rolls; Top Milk; Coffee.

SESAME SNAPS

Toast in oven two 2½-oz. packages sesame seeds with 2 tablespoon butter on a tin or aluminum pie plate at 300 deg. Fahr. until a rich gold. This takes about 40 minutes and you have to stir them frequently. Remove from oven and smooth top.

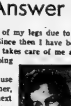
Prepare an identical tin or aluminum plate by buttering it on the bottom (underneath, not inside bottom.)

In heavy saucepan mix together 1½ cup light brown sugar, ½ cup Golden syrup (Rogers) or syrup—not corn syrup and 4 teaspoons butter. All measurements are exactly level. Put candy thermometer in pan and boil to exactly 295 deg. Fahr., stirring frequently (you can use the thermometer as a stirring utensil.) This boiling takes only about 5 minutes, so never leave it. Immediately remove from heat and pour quickly and evenly over toasted sesame seeds. If necessary and possible, tip pan to make syrup flow evenly over all seeds. Press 2nd prepared pan, buttered bottom-side down, gently over toffee to make top smooth. Let stand until cold. Pry pie plates apart with tip of screw driver and break candy into pieces with handle of butcher knife or candy mallet. This is excellent and reminiscent of peanut brittle.

COCOANUT BON BONS

1 package vari-colored (pink, green, orange, and yellow) miniature marshmallows (package holds 4 cups (divided), 1 cup corn syrup (divided), 6 cups shredded cocoanut (divided), 1 teaspoon of almond extract (divided), 1 teaspoon cherry flavoring, ½ teaspoon lemon flavoring.

Sort the miniature marshmallows into separate amounts — having 1 cup pink, 1 cup green, 1 cup yellow. Chill 1 cup each for same purpose or some other (if you wish). Put the pink marshmallows in top of double boiler with ½ cup corn syrup and stir over boiling water until melted. Remove from heat and stir in cherry flavoring and 2 cups of the cocoanut. Chill in small bowl. Roll in 1" balls with wet fingers. Sprinkle each with granulated sugar. Repeat same method for green marshmallows, flavoring them with almond extract. Repeat the same method with yellow marshmallows flavoring them sparingly with lemon extract. Store in top of refrigerator in single layers between sheets of wax paper.



Successful Living

Cripple Dreads Trip, Plane Is the Answer

DEAR DORIS: I lost the use of both of my legs due to an injury to my back about two years ago. Since then I have been living in a wheel chair. A married sister takes care of me and I earn a little money myself through doing some copy work on a typewriter.

The reason I am writing you is because we have just had a letter from my mother, who lives 400 miles from here. She says next spring they will be 50 years married, and my brother is planning a family reunion.

My sister is insisting that I should go to it with them. They want me to go by car. I get so achey and miserable from driving, that I am sure I wouldn't enjoy things once I got there.

DORIS CLARK

While I would love to be with the family and see my mother, I've really rather stay home than go through the discomfort which such a trip would cause me. Doris do you think I am being selfish? — ON THE SHELF.

*

DEAR ON THE SHELF: Why not fly? Air Canada bends over backwards to make it possible for folks like you to go places. There is even a special lift which will hoist you, complete with wheel chair, to the top of the airplane steps. You will board the plane early and a helpful stewardess will hover around to keep you comfortable.

Your actual flight will take about an hour. Limousine service at both ends will also make a special effort to ease the way for you — and I do mean ease!

Go ahead. Go! Seeing the family and having the fun can refresh you and give you new things to think about. You are only "stuck" with your handicap if you think you are.

*

(Doris can help you with that puzzling decision. Write to her, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope for private reply.)

The ceremony, conducted by Rev. Barry Day of Timothy Eaton Memorial United Church was attended by only a few family friends and relatives.

It was the second marriage for Mr. Kemp, 44, whose wife died in 1963. His daughter Sharon, 11, was flower girl.

Mr. Kemp's brother Robert of Collingwood, Ont., was best man.

The couple do not plan a honeymoon. They will live in a duplex on Walmer Road in west-central Toronto.

Polio Cripple Battles Dept. Over Taxi Fares

TORONTO (CP) — A woman crippled by polio 40 years ago battled with the department of national revenue over her taxi fares.

Mrs. Leonard Robinson was stricken with polio at five. It left her paralyzed from the hips down, able to walk only with braces and a cane or crutches.

A bookkeeper until she retired this year, she lives in a bachelor apartment on her $76-a-month pension.

Miss Robinson cannot climb stairs which means she can't take streetcars or subways.

"Taxis are my bread and butter. Crippled people can't exist without them."

In 1963 and 1964 she listed taxi fares as business expenses and deducted them from her income tax. Tax officials say she owes the government that money. They garnisheed some of her final salary in the summer. They cannot garnishee her pension but they have moved to supplement it they could garnishee those wages.

"It's a matter of principle and I refuse to give in," Miss Robinson says. "The law must be changed. There are too many crippled people who need some help. I'm no old fuddy-duddy either. I'm going to fight."

DISMISS APPEALS

Several similar cases have been before the income tax appeal board and have been dismissed.

Blind people and those confined to wheelchairs can deduct $500 from their taxable income. Miss Robinson uses a wheelchair occasionally but prefers to walk.

"I know my friends and family would prefer to push me because I walk slowly. If I ever just stuck in a wheelchair, though, I'd get flabby and my muscles would go."

Revenue Mr. Bruce Benson says he understands the problem but asks:

"Where do you stop and where do you start? How and when do you decide what degree of impairment will be allowed?

"If a man breaks his leg and has to take a taxi for a few months absences he be considered the same as a permanent cripple?

"Allowing deductions would still give no aid to a person who is impaired and unable to make a living, or someone who has a small income. This might be a problem that is better solved with grants."

Holiday Clean-up

Ann Landers

Anger, Frustration Vented in Destruction

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I know you are not a psychiatrist, but you seem to have a lot of answers. Can you please tell me what is wrong with people who destroy property?

ANN LANDERS

I am a junior in high school. All around me I see so much destruction in our school that I am dumbfounded. Last year money was raised to buy a new curtain for the stage in the auditorium. It cost almost $1,000. A few weeks ago somebody deliberately cut holes in the new curtain. I was sick when I saw it.

Yesterday the teacher announced that a typewriter had been knocked off a desk and that it could never be fixed. Kids carve their initials on desks, tables and lockers, and write on walls. They take seats apart in the auditorium and throw away the nuts and bolts.

Why are people like this? — DIZZFUZZTED.

DEAR DIZZ: People who get satisfaction out of destroying property are angry — at their parents, their teachers, the world and themselves. They are frustrated and unhappy. They feel they cannot create anything so they have an urge to destroy what others have created.

The only solution is to find constructive outlets for these rebellious and unhappy ones. And re-training destructive people to re-channel their energies is far from easy.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: This letter is to the heartbroken mother who gave birth to a mongoloid child. She is the most wonderful person in the whole world. She is the happiest, most affectionate, the sweetest child of all. We would not trade her for three normal children. She has taught us unselfishness and devotion. This little girl brought us a very special message. We would not have missed it for the world. — ANONYMOUS.

DEAR ANONYMOUS: I have come to believe that God sends exceptional children to very special people. Your letter is additional evidence that I am right.

Each child is different. Some exceptional children do far better and are much happier in an institution where they can get special training. Other exceptional children do better at home.

When I must asked what to do I always suggest that the psychiatrist guide the parents.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a divorced woman who is dating an attractive man who is also divorced. We are both big on marathon swimming and tennis. We met last year at a tennis tournament.

The problem is that this guy drinks like a fish. He can hold an awful lot of liquor before he shows signs of being crocked, but when he gets behind the wheel of a car I am scared out of my wits. I hate to insult the guy by telling him I want to drive, but I'm afraid one of these days he'll take us both off the Golden Gate bridge.

Is there a tactful way to get the point across? — I LOVE LIFE.

DEAR LOVE: You may have to decide whether you want to be a tactful corpse or a blunt (but alive) woman.

If this guy drinks like a fish tell him you will swim with him but you won't ride with him. If he refuses to let you drive on the nights when you decide he has had too much, then take a taxi—across the Golden Gate bridge, yet.

'Ma' Yawching Taking Cruise for Her Health

TORONTO (CP) — "Ma" is Caribbean - bound on vacation today. And she needs it.

In the last five years she has mothered, cooked, cleaned and laundered for 200 different girls who have passed through the Elizabeth Fry Society home here on their way back into society from prison.

But her own real family have been concerned for the health to Ma — Mrs. Raymond Yawching—since she had a bout of pneumonia last spring and have persuaded her to give up her job as house mother of the home.

They are sending her on an extended vacation to the West Indies. She's particularly looking forward to visiting her family in Trinidad, her birthplace.

Mrs. Yawching said Monday: "As soon as I get back I'm going to come here and do volunteer work for the girls."

OWN CHILDREN HELP

Mrs. Yawching has 12 children and 26 grandchildren and feels that this helped give her a real awareness of what the girls in the Elizabeth Fry home need — patience, understanding and acceptance.

"They're not hard to work with. You know what you give your own children and you give in the same way to these youngsters. The important thing is for them to show that I cared for them individually. They've never had anyone like me before.

And so she became Ma to 200 girls. It wasn't always easy.

"When a girl came in drunk or angry, she might yell or be abusive," Mrs. Yawching said. "But I would just say: 'When you're finished cursing me, I'll be here to help you.' And later she would say, 'Ma, I'm sorry.' Then we would talk."

HUSBAND GOES TOO

Mr. Yawching will go to Trinidad with his wife for a few weeks, then return to work as mailroom supervisor for an accounting firm here.

Phyllis Haslam, director of the Elizabeth Fry Society, said Mrs. Yawching has been "a mother to our girls, not only in showing that she cared for each one, but in helping to remind them of their own role as potential wives and mothers."

"Now many who have left to have their own families, call for advice on a recipe or what to do with a colicky baby—the kind of things girls call their mothers for."

THE LITTLE WOMAN

Housewives Call Law 'Unfair' and 'Nuisance'

TORONTO (CP) — "Unfair" and a "nuisance" were two often - expressed reactions by housewives Monday who learned they will have to contribute to the Canada Pension Plan for domestic help earning more than $13.54 a week.

Others questioned showed a reluctance to be quoted by name, indicating they would try to avoid deducting 1.8 per cent from employees' wages and contributing 1.8 per cent to employers' pensions.

One business woman who employs a cleaning woman for three half-days a week for $15 said she plans to have her brother act as the employer for one of those half days.

A suburban North York housewife who spends about $20 a week on babysitters expects she will spread the work among several persons.

Mrs. Arthur Jones, a speech therapist and mother of three children, said most housekeepers will not want to contribute to the plan—particularly if they don't declare their earnings on income tax forms.

IT'S MEAN

Nanta Dane, president of a business and professional women's association, termed the situation "rather a mean little thing of the government.

"They will have to pay civil servants to spot check to make sure women's employers are sending in the contributions and this extra work will cost more than they will get in revenue," Miss Dane said.

Grace Nicholls, member of a similar group, said household employees should be independent contractors and should pay their own contributions in full.

Mrs. Francis Burger, president of the Association for Women Electors, said most domestic workers don't want to contribute to the plan. "They aren't far-sighted enough," she said.

She also said domestic help should be tax-deductible.

Albert College Guild Holds Yule Meeting

The Christmas meeting of the Albert College Guild was held on Thursday. The Manor was gay with Christmas decorations; tiny colored lights encircled the mantel; a lighted Christmas tree and numerous red candles cast a Christmas glow over the surroundings.

Mrs. Davidson, the retiring president, performed double duty. She thanked the Guild members for their co-operation and introduced her successor, Mrs. G. W. Smith. She read the Scripture lesson from the new English Bible and lastly introduced the guest speaker, Mossgiegor J. A. Carley of St. Joseph's Church.

He began by referring to a Christmas that he had spent in Bethlehem. There in the narrow streets with the houses perched on the hillside, the lower storeys still often sheltering cattle. It was easy to recapture the scene of the first Christmas.

Christmas, then as now, had its spirit of faith, St. Joseph typifies this spirit superbly. In this scientific age there is a need to recapture the simple faith of the first Christmas.

The greatest of all the spirit of Christmas is one of charity and love which this troubled world needs to recapture.

Mrs. Finkle thanked the speaker for his inspiring Christmas message.

At the close of the meeting a social half hour was enjoyed. The social committee had prepared special Christmas refreshments. At a table decorated with a lovely Christmas centrepiece Mrs. A. B. Simpson and Mrs. Ola Jones poured tea.

GREAT FOR GRATING

Dear Susanna: Sometimes I read all these clever, original ideas other women share with you and your readers, and I feel like such a dullard. But not anymore! I, too, have a bright contribution to make:

A potato peeler is just darling for grating a small amount of cheese. — D. Smith

What about me? There are times when I hardly think of anything! Wait! Here's something:

A DROP OF OIL

Dear Susanna: If the crazy time you make when stitching on plastic has you upset, try this. Before beginning, rub the section of plastic along where you are going to stitch, with a little sewing machine oil. Your hem will be as straight and even as it is when sewing on cloth material.

You may need to give the needle a quick wipe off afterwards, just to make sure it is perfectly dry and clean for your next operation. — Grateful

Speedy Spiegel Spouts

So you think women are the fastest talkers in the world do you?

Well, have I got news for you buster.

Have you ever wondered how many syllables you can speak clearly in one minute? The experts say most people can do about 300 or 350 per minute.

Gisela Schlster, the West German comic, who symbolizes for West Germany's male population the screeching, sharp and long-tongued female, has long been held in esteem by fast talk experts the world over.

She can speak 440 syllables per minute.

Can you imagine coming home early in the morning after a rousing party to be greeted by 440 syllables per minute?

But before it gets around that women have the most nimble tongues, I must tell you about Peter Spiegel.

Peter Spiegel is a 62-year-old West German man. A press stenographer from the Ruhr area, he recently broke his own world record for speed talking, blurting out an amazing total of 908 syllables per minute.

Spiegel, his mouth graced by a small Meajou moustache, can reach such an enormous speed rate that the ears of listeners continue to ring a long while afterwards.

Connoisseurs of speed talking insist Spiegel has reached the utmost limit. Spiegel, however, says no.

Who knows, with more training he may reach the 1,000 syllable plateau. That is like Bobby Hull scoring 100 goals; or Mickey Mantle hitting 120 home runs; or Smokel the Bear becoming a fire bug.

Speaking did not come easy for Peter Spiegel. He has spent years in intense training and corrects himself with a tape recorder. As any speed talking buff knows, even if a person gets 400 words like a machine gun, they must be pronounced correctly in order to count.

Before speech tournaments, Speedy Spiegel lets a raw egg yolk dissolve slowly between his tongue and his gums. He says it gives him more mobility. (It would give me a stomach ache.)

Imagine the possibilities if everyone could speak that fast. All speeches would take about one-third as long as they do now. This means the usual 45 minute volalization (just showing off!) will be limited to 15 tolerable minutes.

The possibilities are endless.

With practice, speakers could limit themselves to five minutes. The five minutes to be divided in the usual ratio — two for jokes, one for drinking water (at least they claim it's water), one for clearing the throat, one-half for acknowledging thunderous ovations and one-half, if possible, for speaking on the subject.

There are other benefits.

For example, when your wife was telling you off the pain would be over much faster. And at 908 syllables per minute, who could tell what she was saying to you?

Think of how much safer it would be for James Bond. He could get his secret messages sent out and his equipment put away in a matter of seconds. Then he could go back to his other business . . . whatever it was he happened to be doing at the time. (Goose?)

Telephone conversations would be shorter too. This would be a real boon to party line customers.

Time is money. Business deals could be transacted and the materials on the way in the time it takes now to place the order.

As a reporter, I become frightened when I think of people talking 908 syllables per minute. How could a person possibly take notes on what was said?

School children would have the same problem if teachers took up speed talking.

But never fear. Speedy Spiegel came through again. He is working on a universal shorthand system to replace the old method. Spiegel's shorthand offers one decisive advantage: instead of 200 rules, it has a mere 13.

With his own shorthand method, he has also become a world champion in the shorthand field: he can take down 440 syllables of shorthand per minute. With further development of the system and more practice, a person could conceivably attain much higher speeds.

Speedy Spiegel feels the whole world is moving faster these days so we may as well talk and write faster.

He may be a fast talker, but it takes more than speed to out-talk a woman.

It takes another woman.

WANT COMMON MARKET

CHICAGO (AP)—A proposal that the Western Hemisphere organize a common market to foster trade expansion and economic development is among resolutions expected to go before the American Farm Bureau Federation at its annual convention here this week. The United States and Canada would be the nucleus of such a market, in which all trade restrictions between them would gradually be eliminated.

public, include the introduction to a contract clause providing that "no material change in conditions of employment" will be introduced without union-management negotiations

A similar item was contained in the demands made by the union two years ago. It was later set aside during bargaining which led to a five-per-cent wage increase in a two-year contract. That contract expires at the end of this month.

STANDS FIRM

"This issue will definitely not be set aside this time," Mr. Kelly said. "We will insist on this protection for our 18,000 members."

On wages, the union has asked for a 15-per-cent increase across the board for conductors and trainmen on freight and passenger service. It also seeks a revision in mileage rates.

Last year, according to CNR figures, conductors received an average of $144 a week and trainmen $130.

In the case of yard crews, the union seeks a flat 90-cent hour boost in the next two years. By union figures, yard foremen now earn $2.66 an hour and yard helpers $2.46. These categories are equivalent to conductors and trainmen, respectively, on yard duty.

The BRT's eight-member negotiating team will meet CNR negotiators in Montreal Thursday and Friday. Talks with the CPR, where the demands are similar, are to take place early in January.

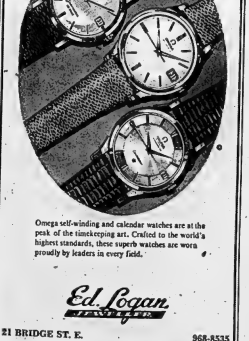
New Moves Announced By Minister

PARIS (CP) — Canada and France have agreed to intensify their transatlantic co-operation in arms production-sharing and space research.



External Affairs Minister Paul Martin announced the new moves after a luncheon meeting Monday with the French foreign minister, Maurice Couve de Murville.

Canada already buys some French military equipment, including mortars, and France now is considering the purchase of Canada's CL-15 plane, the so-called "water bomber", to fight forest fires.

Martin told a press conference that Industry Minister C. M. Drury was here a week ago to prepare for the development of a production-sharing plan.

"We likewise agreed that a possibility exists in space research co - operation," Martin said.

The two countries, he added, intend to exchange scientific and other personnel. Two Canadians are in France studying French space developments.

Funerals Should Be Cheaper Brief Presented to Committee

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario government should amend the Embalmers and Funeral Directors Act with the aim of benefiting the public rather than the funeral industry, the Toronto Society said Monday.

The society, a volunteer group dedicated to lowering funeral prices, recommended in a brief to the legislature's select committee on aging that:

—All undertakers should display in the same room as other coffins the basic minimum coffin required by law and the next least expensive coffin;

—All funeral establishments should display prominently an itemized list of services with costs, and a copy of the list should be handed to each customer;

—The prohibition on advertising funeral rates should be removed; and —There should be no increase in the price of funerals for veterans or welfare recipients.

All too often, the brief said, a well-timed sentence or even a word from an undertaker spoken to a distraught next-of-kin adds $100, $200 or $300 to the cost of the "meral."

Society Chairman Bernard McEvoy said the average person arranging a funeral is completely at sea and in a highly-charged emotional state, which makes him more open to suggestion than buyers in other situations.

The brief listed what it described as the undertakers' "appeals to human frailty":

"You wouldn't want anything but the best for your loved ones, would you?"

"Aren't you going to show a proper respect for the dead?"

"What are your friends and neighbors going to think?"

"Of course if all you want is a welfare funeral. . . ."

Malcolm Croxgon, past chairman, said a person should be able to ask for the simplest funeral "and get it, without any argument and without any sense of shame."

QUEEN'S ROLE STIRS CONTROVERSY — The Queen and Prince Philip wave to cheering crowds in West Berlin during the royal tour of West Germany in May. The visit and the Queen's part in the Rhodesian rebellion have caused controversy in Britain. In both cases the Queen seemed to be playing a more assertive part in politics. (CP Photo from AP)

Queen Seems to Be Playing More Assertive Political Role

By CAROL KENNEDY

LONDON (CP)—For the first time in many years, the monarchy is shifting subtly towards something more than a purely ceremonial role. As she approached the 14th year of her reign, the Queen seemed to be playing a more assertive part in the political sphere—a development that caused some controversy in 1965.

The trend was highlighted by the royal tour of West Germany—an event that fanned some still-smoldering ashes of anti-German feeling in Britain—and by the Queen's part in the Rhodesian rebellion crisis.

On both occasions, right-wing commentators revived the long-dormant issue of the Crown's involvement in politics, protesting that the Queen was in danger of becoming an instrument of government policy.

Other reaction, however, was to welcome the more positive image of the monarchy that emerged during the year. On the May tour of Germany—first state visit there by a reigning British monarch since before the First World War—the personal triumph secured by the Queen was seen as comparable to that of King Edward VII in cementing the Anglo - French "entente cordiale" of 1904.

During the 11-day, 7,500-mile tour, the Queen and prince Philip spent 90 minutes at the Canadian NATO base near Soest, westphalia, reviewing a military display and visiting the married quarters.

CENTRES ON QUEEN

In November, as the long-drawn - out Rhodesian crisis broke into open rebellion, the Queen became the central figure in the clash between London and Salisbury, with the breakaway Ian Smith regime still claiming loyalty to the Crown while flouting British constitutional authority.

The Queen's decision to give a personal award to Rhodesia's loyal governor, Sir Humphrey Gibbs, a gesture that went beyond Prime Minister Wilson's official recommendation of an honor, underlined the futility of Smith's proclaimed allegiance. The right-wing Daily Express criticized the award on the grounds it could be interpreted as police support for Wilson's Rhodesia policy.

Court insiders, commenting on the prime minister's frequent audiences with the Queen during the crisis, suggest that the "asset of continuity" in the monarchy — the special palace perspective acquired over the years—can exert a real influence on government.

The royal decision to send Prince Charles to Australia's Geelong...School for a semester next summer, believed to have originated with Prince Philip, marks another shift in the image of the monarchy. Britain's future king is getting a more international, democratic education than any of his predecessors.

EXPECT CLOSER TIES

In cookrt circles it is felt the monarchy in years to come will probably edge closer to the people and to the realities of everyday life — without, it is hoped, losing its essential lustre.

So far there are no plans for a similar Commonwealth-oriented training for other royal children.

The Queen's program for 1966 includes two big trips abroad—a 34-day tour of the Caribbean in February and March, visiting 16 islands and territories, and a four-day state visit to Belgium in May.

As the Queen returns to London from the West Indies March 7, Prince Philip leaves for Miami to begin a 15-day North American tour, including four days in Canada. The trip, connected with various youth projects, is sponsored by Variety Clubs International, a charitable organization of show-business people helping underprivileged youth.

Prince Philip will spend March 20-21 in Toronto, visiting as a vocational training school for handicapped youth run by the Variety Club of Canada, and then will go to Ottawa March 22-23.

PRINCESS GOES EAST

Princess Margaret and her husband, Lord Snowdon, go to Hong Kong next May for British Week, a trade promotion scheme. They attended a similar one in Amsterdam last spring and also visited Uganda for three weeks as guests of the Uganda government.

Meanwhile, their semi-official tour of the United States in November has been sharply criticized in some sections of the British press for its cost in public money — it was initially planned as a private visit.

The Queen Mother is scheduled to visit Australia and New Zealand in 1966 for the biennial festival of art. Her 1964 visit was cancelled because of an appendix operation. The Queen Mother made three official trips abroad in 1965—to the West Indies to receive an honorary degree, briefly to Canada in late June for presentation of new colors to the Toronto Scottish Regiment, and to Germany for a similar ceremony later in the summer.

Princess Alexandra, another popular royal ambassador, travelled to Tokyo in September with her husband Angus Ogilvy for the British Industries Fair. It was learned she had planned to visit Canada during the year but that the trip had to be cancelled for personal reasons. She has no major engagements yet planned for 1966.

Nova Scotia May Organize Youth Welfare Department

By NICK FILLMORE

AYLESFORD, N.S. (CP)—A committee of four members of the Legislative Assembly has begun research that may lead to the establishment of a department of youth and welfare in Nova Scotia.

The group, headed by Dr. Paul Kinsman of Aylesford, is meeting with the province's leading youth authorities to determine the problems facing young people.

Dr. Kinsman, Progressive Conservative member for Kings West, said in an interview that he has advocated the formation of a provincial youth department since elected in 1963. He expected the current research program, begun in May, would be completed by June, 1966.

"We want to talk with leaders from all fields of youth work," Dr. Kinsman said. "We already have an idea what we're going to find. Our young people need help in many ways.

"One of the biggest problems is a high dropout rate among junior and senior high school students. When young people don't want an education there's something wrong.

"Another is the social behavior of today's young people. Many waste their time with unimportant pastimes; some can't get along with other students. We want to know what the youth leaders think should be done about these situations."

TO MEET GROUPS

The committee will meet with law authorities, school supervisors, church and YM - YWCA leaders, parents and other groups. It will talk with government youth officials in New Brunswick and Quebec.

"There are indications that drinking and crime among teen-agers are on the increase in Nova Scotia," Dr. Kinsman said. "Apparently there is much more drinking in urban areas and in Halifax than there has been in recent years among young people.

"We're trying to get universities involved in our study because of the increased drinking problem and social problems on campus. At this time the provincial government can't too little assistance in the field of youth work."

Use Hatchets As Tomahawks In Viet Nam

BEN CAT (AP)—Hatchets used as tomahawks replaced bayonets in the hands of some U.S. soldiers Sunday in a hand - to - hand Viet Nam jungle fight.

A "ratchet squad" of Bravo Company, 1st Battalion, 502nd Regiment, 101st Airborne Division, routed a Viet Cong unit after a savage encounter that was more like Indian frontier fighting than warfare in a nuclear age.

Moving down a trail in the tangled jungle of D-zone 25 miles north of Saigon, an area long a Communist stronghold, Bravo Company encountered a Viet Cong unit.

The Viet Cong ran off the trail into thick jungle. A half dozen men of the American unit, some with their faces blackened, their rank insignia painted out, nothing hatchets and slipped into the underbrush in pursuit.

A grenade bounced on to the trail, wounding four Americans as it exploded.

In the hand-to-hand fight, one of the Viet Cong force was killed. The Americans said he was the one who had thrown the grenade.

The fighting men had bought the hatchets themselves, paying about 11 each for them. They were honed to a razor edge, painted black. In a jungle war, the soldiers say, bayonets get caught in the heavy undergrowth and are too unwieldy.

HAVE NEW REACTOR

MOSCOW (Reuters) — Sigvard Eklund, general director of the international atomic energy agency, said Saturday the Soviet Union has a new type of nuclear reactor that could be used as a power station in space. Eklund told the Soviet news agency Tass the reactor provides electricity "on the basis of direct conversion of heat given out by a chain reaction from nuclear fission."

Quebec's Crime-Chasers Take Aim At 'Upper Echelon' of Racket Bosses

By CY FOX

QUEBEC (CP) — Quebec's crime chasers, who focused their 1965 efforts on arson smashing and came up with several lime-covered bodies in the process, say they will be out to get "upper echelon" racketeers in the coming year.

This applies to fraudulent bankruptcy as well as to the arson rackets, the law men say. They estimate that experts in phoney bankruptcies have been bilking the provincial government and public of millions of dollars.

"As all-out war against organized crime" is how one spokesman for the Quebec justice department described that department's efforts. He said the war "will be accentuated in 1966 to the point where all crime syndicates throughout the province will be severely affected."

The findings of the 1965 crime investigations have been most sensational—and grisly—in the area of arson.

There the Quebec inquiries reached a climax with the October announcement that at least seven men had been killed in what Justice Minister Claude Wagner called an underworld attempt to throw a blanket of silence over illicit fire-setting.

During the weeks following the announcement, a flock of Quebecers began filing through the courts to face arson charges —the result of a massive fire investigation by the Quebec Fire Commission as well as by the justice department and the provincial police.

Four bodies from among the seven men known dead were found buried in desolate swamps south of Quebec City. Identified despite the corrosive effects of the lime, they were linked by police with arson but not with any cases of bankruptcy fraud.

Authorities said, however, that such fraud frequently was found to go hand in hand with arson. And it had connections, too, with crime rings beyond the borders of Quebec.

Mr. Wagner, with this factor in mind, made a trip to Washington for talks with the United States attorney - general. The Quebec minister organized a provincial fraud- and arson-fighting commission which he said would be a model for co-ordinated action by public and private agencies on a national scale.

Some observers wondered whether the government investigators would push their inquiries to cover powerful kingpins of arson and fraud or whether official ardor would cool.

As 1965 ended—and though Mr Wagner was still convalescing from a gall bladder operation—the justice department resounded with declarations that the inquiries would be followed relentlessly wherever they might end.

"There will be no pulling of punches in 1966," said one spokesman. "Not a single racketeer will be spared."

Catching the small fry was all very well, went the departmental refrain, but they were only stepping stones to the big operators who must be brought down too.

Phony bankruptcies were said by the Quebec department of revenue to have cost the province $1,500,000 in taxes every year from 1959 to 1965. Honest investors were being victimized too.

Racketeers often moved in on shaky companies which were ripe for financial backing. Once having taken over such firms, they used their good names, plus false bank statements or doctored credit ratings, to buy supplies on credit.

The supplies were sold to other racketeers. The company premises sometimes were insured after removal of the supplies. The premises then were put to the torch and the racket's takings multiplied. Finally would come the declaration of bankruptcy.

Authorities said during 1965 that they were hitting such rackets hard but the Canadian Lumbermen's Association demanded more vigorous action on the grounds that underworld inspired bankruptcies had cost the industry in Quebec $46,000,000 from 1962 to 1965.

The federal and provincial governments had been passing the buck back and forth for each other long enough, said the lumbermen, and the result was "nothing being done."

Mr. Wagner's prestige was boosted during the year by the change in his title from attorney-general to justice minister — the only provincial minister in Canada to bear the label.

With his heightened status, he lambasted those few lawyers in the province who, he said, collaborated with the underworld in the fraudulent transactions.

The arson or alleged arson hits men uncovered included fires that destroyed private homes, a hotel, a war-house and former sporting centre.

Among those charged was Moise Darabadjer, a Quebec City businessman also charged with fraud. In the company of those convicted was the former police and fire chief of Colerraine, Que.

Four men found criminally responsible in the deaths of the victims unearthed south of Quebec City also were convicted on arson counts.

QUEBEC OPENS WAR ON CRIME—Quebec's crime-chasers say they are after the top men in the province's arson and fraud rings. Earlier this year Quebec Justice Minister Claude Wagner (above, seated) held a press conference where he announced that at least five men had been killed by the arson ring to cover up their tracks. Behind Mr. Wagner are (left) Crown Prosecutor Anatole Corriveau and Deputy Crown Prosecutor Roch Lefrancois. (CP Photo)

The guide is being written by Rev. R. C. Chalmers of Pine Hill Divinity Hall — a United Church theological college at Halifax—in collaboration with a committee of three members of the United Church and three Anglicans.

The article said "before definite planning for union can be undertaken it has to be considered by the United Church General Council," which meets next year.

Income Tax Explained

A column designed for the working taxpayer who is not in a position to employ the services of a professional accountant or visit an Income Tax office.

By C. A. MILLER
Retired Supervising Assessor, Income Tax Department

EXPENSES ON PERSONAL RESIDENCE

Any taxpayer other than a farmer, is not allowed to claim as a deduction any expenses in regard to the upkeep and maintenance of his own personal dwelling.

A bona fide farmer living in a dwelling on the farm from which he makes his living is allowed to claim as a deduction from income, one quarter of the cost of all repairs to the house and a reasonable portion of all other expenses, such as light, power, taxes, telephone and fire insurance. When an additional house on the farm is used exclusively for the lodging of hired help, then the total cost of maintenance and upkeep of such house is deductible.

I received a number of inquiries last year from farmers who do not reside on the farm upon which they derive their income, wanting to know if any or part of the expenses on their house in the city could be claimed against their farm income. The answer must always be no, as it has been ruled by the income tax authorities. The deduction in this respect applies only when the farmer resides in a house on the land from which he gets his income.

A farmer who resides on the farm only during the seeding and harvesting periods and for the balance of the year resides somewhere else, would not be entitled to any deduction in regard to his latter residence, as it would not appear to be his permanent home. Before making any claim he should get a ruling from his nearest income tax office.

For a personal reply, enclose a self-addressed five cent stamped envelope, plus 25 cents for each question.

QUESTION 1: My brother is a farmer and is allowed part of the upkeep on his house as an expense. I live in town and say claim I make in this respect is disallowed. Why?

ANSWER: A farmer's house is his office for his book work and farm records, therefore it is part of the farm set up to produce income. This does not apply to an employed person living in a city or town.

QUESTION 2: I earn my entire income from farming, I ordinarily live in town but reside on the farm for one month in the spring and two months at harvest time. Can I claim any upkeep for the house on the farm?

Answer: No. It is not your permanent place of residence.

HIS ESCAPADES SHOOK THE COUNTRY — Dope smuggler Lucien Rivard stands in Montreal court after his recapture last July. The activities of persons trying to prevent his extradition to the United States and his subsequent escape from jail created a political scandal that reached to the highest levels of government. Rivard, convicted as the head of an international dope-smuggling ring, was sentenced to 20 years in an American prison. (CP Photo)

Lucien Rivard Disappears Into Limbo of Prison Life

By CY FOX

MONTREAL (CP)—A familiar beetle brow finally disappeared into the limbo of U.S. prison life in 1963, unlikely to reappear for at least a dozen years.

But Canadians won't soon forget the visage of Lucien Rivard which glared at them from the front pages almost all year. And it will be some time before the shock waves set off by his activities are stilled.

A wooden gun, a ladder and a hose—the tools with which he escaped from Montreal's Bordeaux Jail March 3—assured Rivard of a place in anyone's album of notoriety.

A judge in Laredo, Tex., assured him of a home for years by sentencing him to 20 years and a $20,000 fine as the convicted kingpin of an international dope-smuggling ring.

And the activities of a variety of persons trying to prevent his extradition to the United States in the first place assure him of a place in the memory of Canadian political historians.

Rivard, 30, has appealed both his sentence and fine. But unless he is successful—or escapes again—he faces the prospect of spending perhaps 15 years in prison, figuring one-third off for good behavior.

The Rivard story actually began Oct. 10, 1963, when 76 pounds of heroin — worth as much as $36,000,000 on the illicit market—was found in a car crossing from Mexico into Texas.

ARRESTED IN 1964

A narcotics-smuggling indictment was returned by a Texas grand jury against Rivard and seven others on May 27 1964, and on June 18 he was arrested north of Montreal where he ran a resort.

But the real fuss over Rivard boiled up from the long and involved process of getting him from Montreal to Laredo for trial.

By the beginning of 1965 his extradition case was a political storm centre and as the months went by, the loftiest politicians took notice of his spectacular doings, quaking or chuckling triumphantly according to their party.

Allegations had been made in the Commons that federal officials had resorted to coercion and attempted bribery in a fruitless attempt to get Rivard freed on bail.

A federal commission of inquiry, with Chief Justice Frederic Dorion of Quebec Superior Court its sole member, spent the winter and spring hearing and digesting millions of words about the tortuous affair that spawned the allegation.

A report was published June 29, 1965. Among other things, it criticized Guy Favreau, then justice minister, for not having consulted experts in his department before deciding against prosecution of those involved in the Rivard bail quest.

Mr. Favreau resigned his post although he took another cabinet portfolio. Raymond Dew, a former Favreau executive assistant to the immigration minister, was later charged with offering a bribe to get bail for Rivard and with trying to obstruct justice.

ESCAPED JAIL

But the crowning irony came March 2 when Rivard settled the bail question—by escaping. Working with another prisoner, he intimidated one guard with what turned out to be a wooden gun. His accomplice, Andre Durocher, duped another guard into handing over a watering hose. As the ice-skating rink had to be watered, the unwary guard was told, though the temperature was above freezing.

Up a ladder and down the outside wall on the hose and the men were free.

(Subsequent days brought letters from the notorious fugitive —first for the jail warden bearing a good word for the hapless guards; later for red-haired Mrs. Rivard, thick with declamations of hurt-but-loyal affection.

Rumors—but Rivard in New Brunswick, St. Pierre-Miquelon, Spain, Durocher in Canada caught in June—and on July 18 Rivard himself, a leisurely figure in swim togs, was carailed by a small army of police at a cottage 15 miles from Montreal.

Key government witnesses testified that at Rivard's direction the ring had transported more than $150,000,000 worth of heroin from Mexico and Canada into the United States.

On Sept. 21 Rivard and three cohorts were convicted. On Nov. 13 they were sentenced, Rivard getting 20 years, the lesser figures 10 each.

Russia Using Merchant Ships In Naval Role

LONDON (AP) — The Soviet Union is causing concern among Western defence organizations by using more and more of its merchant ships in a naval role, says Jane's Fighting Ships.

It says the United States, however, is still the world's greatest sea power and predicted that the British navy, once the ruler of the waves, will cease to exist except as a minor force unless new vessels are built soon.

Japan is described as a resurgent sea power in the Far East.

The authoritative British publication on the world's navies singles out Soviet trawlers, frequently accused by the West of carrying out spy operations off shore.

It says the "ubiquitous" Russian fishing fleet "seem to appear on every trade route and on every scene of naval activity."

The situation was developing in such a way that "Soviet navy" is becoming a term applied to Russia's worldwide distribution of ships of all kinds, Jane's says.

NEW EDITION OUT

The newly - published 1965-66 edition came out today.

It says the Soviet naval strength now is estimated at 22 cruisers, 150 destroyers, 35 nuclear-powered submarines, 390 conventionally - powered submarines, 100 frigates and 700 minesweepers.

Smaller Soviet craft include 650 escort and patrol vessels, 350 motor torpedo boats, 350 motor gunboats, 130 landing craft, 300 auxiliaries and 200 service vessels.

Jane's says that by comparison the United States navy is still by far the greatest in the world.

Jane's lists the current strength of the U.S. Navy as including 27 attack and support aircraft carriers, eight amphibious assault ships (carriers), seven auxiliary aircraft transports (carriers) 15 aircraft ferry ships (carriers) four battleships, two command ships, 40 cruisers, 90 frigates (destroyer leaders), 360 destroyers, 10 destroyer minelayers, 27 destroyer escorts, 80 nuclear submarines and 140 conventional submarines.

West Indies Holiday Trip Could Result in Dividends

By BEN WARD

OTTAWA (CP)—Interested in new overseas markets? got a yen for a winter vacation in the sunny south?

The latest issue of Foreign Trade, fortnightly magazine published by the trade department, contains some intriguing information for businessmen who would like to kill both these birds with one expense account.

Foreign trade doesn't come right out and suggest a West Indies holiday trip this winter with some sales-hunting on the side. But its special issue on trade prospects in the Caribbean Commonwealth area appears to be timed for just such a purpose.

It discusses expanding market demands on the various islands, lists the kinds of Canadian items that are enjoying increased sales and in general urges the Canadian businessman "not to overlook the promising market potential which lies in the West Indies, just beyond his doorstep."

MUCH BUYING

Some samples of the kind of buying already being done by the Commonwealth islands:

1. Jamaica bought $187,000 worth of truck tires from Canada in 1963 and bumped this to $278,000 last year.

2. Trinidad and Tobago took $281,000 in Canadian refrigerators in 1963 and $439,000 in 1964.

3. Purchases of furniture by the Leeward and Windward Islands jumped to $140,000 from $77,000 in the same period.

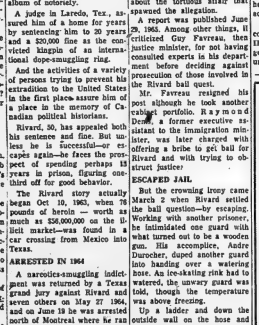
4. Barbados bought $12,000 worth of radio and TV equipment in 1963, $102,000 worth in 1964.

It's only a short hop from the Islands to Guiana from which last year bought only seven per cent of its $100,000,000 worth of imports from Canada and, in the trade department's view, is a hot prospect for more.

The hope about British Honduras which interested its Canadian purchases by 60 per cent last year and "prospects are bright" for a further increase?

25 OLD MARKET

Canada has had an active trade with the West Indies for more than 200 years, mainly supplying flour, salt fish and meat in exchange for raw sugar, molasses, spices, petroleum and rum.



In recent years, however, the growth of Canadian manufacturing has added dozens of new items to the list, among them footwear, electrical appliances, soups, prefabricated buildings, milk powder and fabrics.

Last year Canadians bought $250,000 worth of West Indies rum but sold $1,210,000 worth of Canadian whisky there.

For business executives interested in the prospects, the trade department publication lists the names of shipping lines that operate to the islands from Canada, detailed reports from its trade commissioners on each market area and tips on how to make business contacts.

If the boss needs convincing, extra copies are available from the queen's Printer, Ottawa. It could be the best 25-cent investment you'll make this winter.

Christmas Shopping Binge This Year Is Biggest Ever

By JOHN LeBLANC
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Canadians are elbowing their way to store counters with outsize bankrolls and a matching urge to get rid of them. The result is the biggest Christmas shopping binge ever.

One Vancouver store manager summed it up during a Cross-Canada Survey by The Canadian Press:

"We're feeling the effects of the Affluent Society of our times—more people with more money buying better goods. This is reflected in sales volume, and it will be better than last year which was a terrific record year."

Less lyrically and more specifically, the Retail Council of Canada translates it into an extra flow through the cash registers, by comparison with last year, of close to or a little over $200,000,000.

Last December's record spree boosted buying for the month past $2,000,000,000 for the first time, hitting $2,039,000,000. This year, individual council members are predicting rises between five and 20 per cent, and the council estimates the average at between eight and 10 per cent.

WANT EXPENSIVE ITEMS

A demand for high - priced goods is the outstanding trait of the shopper this year. Tastes are running to such items as formal wear, cocktail dresses, all types of sports clothes, lingerie, luggage, more expensive toys and small appliances. Christmas lighting and decoration sales are strong.

In some places, there's a yen for considerably higher - priced articles. In Edmonton, the trend is to "big ticket"—items such as stereo sets and refrigerators. Calgarians are going for stereos. A Kitchener Waterloo dealer reports one out of 10 sold is a Christmas present. Color TV sets are among the high-demand electronic items in Montreal and Vancouver.

The boom is bringing a pleasant sort of headache to retailers. They're having trouble maintaining a flow of merchandise from manufacturers, who are faced both with unexpectedly large orders and labor shortages.

Some high spots around the country:

Eaton's in Toronto predicts another record season and says this holds good for its stores in Hamilton, London, Oshawa and Kitchener. Lack of snow in Toronto, though, was delaying sales of winter clothing and footwear.

STARTED EARLY

The Christmas rush on the West Coast started in mid-November and has been steadily accelerating. Toy departments particularly were doing a land office business.

One Calgary store reported sealskin boots the biggest individual seller. Wheat sales to China were pinpointed as helping make a Merry Christmas at the till. The same went for Saskatchewan, where one Regina department store expected "the biggest Christmas we've ever had."

Montreal predictions were for "another record season." And pickpockets were making it big among the metropolitan crowds. Quebec City sales were heavy, with clothing turnover stimulated by an early winter.

Newfoundland was having sky-high business. Royal Stores, a department firm in St. John's, was predicting more than double last year's trade, helped by the opening of new department stores. Browsing Brothers said things were "wonderful."

Stores were crowded in Charlottetown as the best road conditions in years brought in shoppers from all over Prince Edward Island.

The news was more restrained in Nova Scotia and New Brunswick. Most large stores in Halifax reported good business, perhaps up from last year but with the point uncertain.

One large department store in Saint John, N.B., said business looked about the same as last year, though another said shoppers were out early "in much greater strength than in many years."

PUC Sponsors Competition

NAPANEE — With Christmas only a week or so away, Napanee homes and business places are taking on a festive appearance. Competition is keen in the Christmas lighting contest being sponsored this year by the Napanee Public Utilities in co-operation with the town council.

The lighting contest has five classes, Councillor Donald Reid, chairman of parks and recreation committees, has announced. Awards will be made for the best entirely scene, the best decorated home of any type, the best commercial display, the best Santa Claus with or without reindeer and the best fantasy display.

Two prizes will be awarded in each class, one for $10, and the other in merchandise.

Judging will take place between December 15 and December 20, Councillor Reid announced. The judges have not yet been selected.

Both store window displays and advertising scenes will be accepted as entries in the commercial class.

Three Churches Conduct Special Yule Services

NAPANEE — Barbara Davis, Janice Dickson and Bob Clinton took a formal part in the White Gift Service in Trinity United Church last Sunday morning, with Bruce MacLean giving the story sermon. The service was in charge of the young people. Mrs. Walter Storey, superintendent of the Junior department of the Sunday school, led her small charges in singing Christmas songs. The girls will be used for local needy folk and for the Fred Victor Mission in Toronto.

ST. MARY'S ANGLICAN CHURCH

Despite the dangerously icy street last Sunday, children of the Sunday School of St. Mary's Anglican Church and their parents and friends crowded the parish hall in the afternoon for the informal Christmas entertainment. This event is becoming increasingly popular, partly because it is so easy on both children and adults, and partly because of the freshness of the programs, which almost wholly impromptu, with the rector, the Rev. Canon Simmons, inviting any child to speak his recitation or sing his song. The program belongs to the children themselves. Santa Claus appeared at the close to present each child with a treat.

GRACE CHURCH

Two White Gift services were held in Grace United Church Sunday morning, the first at 9.30 for the Sunday school pupils and their parents, and the second at the regular hour for the members of the congregation.

The CGIT girls presented their annual candlelight service during the evening.

Shrewd Yorkshireman Displays Agility on Political Tightrope

By CARL MOLLINS

LONDON (CP)—British politics was dominated in 1965 by an agile high-wire act. Audience reaction to the performance is likely to be tested in the new year.

James Harold Wilson, the shrewd Yorkshireman who completed his first year as prime minister in October, thrilled most of his friends and dismayed his enemies by keeping his balance on a political tightrope that was perilously close to snapping at times.

The Labor party leader confounded opponents, supporters and professional forecasters alike by completing the year in a rush of popularity and setting the general election that almost everybody had been predicting through the first half of 1965. That test is expected now in 1966, possibly next fall.

Wilson, who will be 50 in March, was forced into his balancing act by a fluctuating parliamentary majority that dipped once to a single vote and hovered at about three. He was compelled at times to juggle problems of crisis proportions—a succession of economic pressures, the defiance of white Rhodesia and mutinous moves within his own Labor party.

POPULARITY FELL

In mid - summer, Britain's Labor government in 14 years was plumbing depths of unpopularity. A national opinion poll then showed only 38 per cent satisfied with the government's performance.

Prices had soared, taxes were heavier and yet austerity measures seemed to be having little effect in shoring up a tattered economy. In August, there was daily talk of devaluing the currency.

In the midst of an acute housing shortage and summer traffic jams, the government had to announce more public spending on home-building and highways.

Wilson's one serious sortie into international affairs, an attempt to organize a Commonwealth peace mission for Vietnam, had fizzled.

Deaths in August threatened to wipe out Labor's tenuous hold on parliamentary power. Labor left wing was openly denouncing Wilsonite policies as being too Tory. The Liberal party was demanding a better price, perhaps a coalition, for giving aid and comfort to the government.

The opposition Conservative party had just gained in popularity by shedding a liability in leadership, Sir Alec Douglas-Home, in favor of Edward Heath, a chief chosen as a match for Wilson in youth and "middle-classless" energy.

But in September the tide began to run Wilson's way. Within two months, an opinion poll had Labor an unheard-of 20 percentage points ahead of the Conservatives.

Sterling seemed secure. Trade figures improved. Labor's left seemed rudderless. The Liberals were apparent. Heath was making a hesitant start as Tory chief. The prime minister was gaining stature handling the Rhodesia crisis, reporting regularly to the nation on television and consulting often with the Queen.

In managing events and turning developments to political advantage, Wilson showed the common sense and an uncommon talent for persuasion.

He tamed the critics, at least temporarily, by hammering away at the facts—that economic perils must dictate the legislative program, that peace overtures in Viet Nam were prompting no response, that Labor lacked the Commons voting strength—in nationalize steel, that politics, in fact is the art of the possible.

But by respecting realities above political dogma, Wilson affronted people inside and outside the Labor movement. Success can be suspect in British and cleverness is usually a derogatory adjective.

Wilson has shown he is adept on the political tightrope, but he is still forced to watch his balance.

Final Chapter Of Churchill Book Added

NEW YORK (AP) — Winston Churchill wrote six months before the outbreak of the Second World War that the world could still "welcome and aid a genuine Hitler of peace and toleration," it was revealed Saturday.

The statement is in the final chapter of a proof copy of Churchill's book, Step by Step, which was published minus that chapter in June, 1939. The chapter had been written in March, six months before Hitler invaded Poland, setting off the war.

The proof copy is part of a collection of Churchill's writings presented to Columbia University by Daniel Longwell of Neosho, Mo., formerly an editor of Life and Time magazines and an executive of Doubleday and Co. He said the proof copy had been mislaid and was only recently found.

Longwell said he thinks the chapter expressed a common Conservative party opinion that England should stay out of the war and let Hitler and Stalin battle it out.

But by the time the book was published, it had become clear that Hitler was a mortal threat to England, Longwell said.

The chapter also suggested that Hitler might make the same mistake as Napoleon by invading Russia, which he did on June 22, 1941.

DRAFT CARDS PHONEY

SKOKIE, Ill. - (AP) — Two Northwestern University students have been accused of making and selling phoney draft cards. Skokie police said Barry Perelgut, 19, of Skokie, and Robert Jans, 21, of Evanston, were arrested Monday after selling two cards to a high school youth. Youngsters wanted the cards, police said, as bogus proof that they were old enough to purchase liquor.

No Complaints On Plastic 'Ice Cubes' Made

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Dr. A. R. Boyd, medical officer of health for Toronto, said Mon' ay that plastic "ice cubes" have been on sale here "for at least three years and we have never received any complaints about them."

Six United States cities and three states have banned sale of the drink coolers after reports that some contain contaminated water and that some leak.

The "ice balls" are re-usable ice cubes. They are plastic spheres or cubes containing, water, meant to be frozen in the refrigerator, used to cool drinks and then re-frozen.

Some of the cubes are made in Canada. The complaints in the U.S. were about cubes made in Hong Kong and Japan, also available in Canada.

WILL ORDER TESTS

In London, Ont., the medical officer of health, Dr. D. A. Hutchison, said he will order tests of the cubes. If they contain polluted water, retail outlets will be ordered not to sell them.

In Sudbury, health department officials said a sample of cubes, including some of the Canadian-made cubes, had been sent to Toronto for laboratory tests.

At least two Belleville stores reported having the cubes on their shelves.

The Montreal health department is also testing sample cubes.

Dr. Roland Lamquin of the department said the cubes could be contaminated by handling in transportation. Not even washing would clean the cubes' rough exterior completely.

He said that in Montreal it would be safer to use ordinary ice cubes made from local water which is known to be pure.

Crude Oil Sales to U.S. To Continue

By ARCH McKENZIE

WASHINGTON (CP) — President Johnson's determination to resist price increases where possible has assured Canada of another good year in crude oil sales to the United States, informants here say.

This is the interpretation put on the announcement Friday of the long-awaited new oil import control program.

There was little change and none for Canada's exemption from import controls other than having regard to a measured increase in shipments to the U.S.

Higher domestic prices could have resulted from cutting down on imports from Canada or elsewhere, it is argued.

APPLIED PRESSURE

Therefore, as Johnson has done directly with copper, aluminum and wheat—and by attempted persuasion for general commodity and labor cost increases—as much pressure was applied to the petroleum industry as possible.

The reaction from the independent American oil interests —those most opposed to Canadian and other imports — has been harsh, as expected.

Events had led them to expect a little more of the market for themselves, although the mounting cost of the war in Viet Nam and inflationary threats had dimmed their hopes perhaps.

Canada had been forecast to export to the U.S. at the rate of 323,500 barrels daily in the last half of 1965 but these estimates are usually on the low side.

Canadian crude oil accounts for about 15 per cent of all U.S. imports.

Line Between Employed, Self-employed Becomes Distinct Under Pension Plan

By STEWART MacLEOD

OTTAWA (CP) — That thin grey line between the employed and the self-employed is going to become more distinct when the Canada Pension Plan comes into force Jan. 1.

Until now it didn't matter a great deal. But under the pension plan it will matter to the extent of 1.8 per cent of one's income.

Starting Jan. 1, each employee earning at least $600 a year must contribute 1.8 per cent of his pensionable income to the plan and this is matched by the employer. The self-employed contribute the entire 3.6 per cent.

So, on the face of it, the employee has something to gain by being employed, and the company would obviously enjoy an advantage by not being an employer.

This is where the difficulties arise. Is a salesman who works strictly on commission an employee if the firm does not provide tools he sells? How about the writer who sells all his material to one outlet? Or the actress who is under contract to one production company?

LIST IS LONG

There is a long potential list.

The revenue department, responsible for collecting the pension contributions, is faced with these difficulties early in its study of the situation. It has established many boards in every district tax office to deal with this and similar problems. Each board has an organization of the salesmen are employees or self-employed. In this case, the department rules them employees.

"It's a question of the degree of control exercised by the employers," said a department official.

For example, he said, a commission salesman whose hours are controlled by the firm or whose other potential income is restricted by the company could be counted employee. Another salesman with unrestricted movements could be considered self-employed.

"There is no simple rule," the official said. "But basically it comes down to the question of control."

WILL SETTLE IT

In most cases the problem is likely to be settled by the firms and individuals involved. The department couldn't care less, so long as the 3.6 per cent comes in on behalf of each individual. The department steps in when no agreement is reached.

Some officials say it's possible that a company might be tempted to have employees declared free-lancers, but they doubt whether the potential rewards are great enough to encourage widespread upheavals in this respect.

And, while individuals would save 1.8 per cent of their income by being classed as employees, they would also lose some tax advantages enjoyed by free-lancers.

Under the plan, some housewives will suddenly find they are employers—provided they employ someone, such as a cleaning woman, and pay her more than $11.34 a week.

Such a housewife will have to deduct 1.8 per cent of the cleaning woman's salary, contribute another 1.8 herself, and send the combined 3.6 per cent to the revenue department.

The $11.34 works out to $600 a year — the point at which wage-earners enter the Canada Pension Plan. A cleaning woman earns $11.50, no contribution is necessary and no pension is received.

HOUSEWIVES INVOLVED

There is another interesting problem that could develop. Say a cleaning woman is employed by four housewives in one year. Three of the housewives pay salaries of $15 a week and the fourth pays $10. This means that the first three must make out birthday cards, matched by the woman, but in the fourth case no one pays into the plan.

Yet when the yearly income is added up, the $10 weekly wage is found to be the same as the pension plan contributions have been 3.6 per cent of total pensionable income.

This problem has been minimized by the department. It will allow the employee to let the matter rest, or else she could contribute the 3.6 per cent herself on the $10 weekly earnings.

The housewife who paid the $10 salary would not be asked to cough up. So far as the pension plan is concerned, each employer is on her own and if wage rates are less than $600 a year she pays no contributions regardless of what the employee may earn elsewhere.

This works both ways, of course. The employer gets nothing back if he pays someone $100 a week for five weeks, deducts 1.8 per cent for pension, and then the employee quits working for the rest of the year and is not eligible for the pension plan.

Amid all the complexities of the plan there is no machinery for making refunds to employers, although in some cases employees can get money back.

Votes Go for Fresh Faces in Civic Votes

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Voters in Ontario cities, towns and townships went for the fresh faces in Monday night's civic elections as they elected new mayors and reeves in at least four municipalities.

Of the six communities that reported returns, only the city of Barrie and Louth Township returned incumbents.

In Barrie, Mayor L. E. Cooke was returned by acclamation, while Reg Rittenhouse was reelected reeve of Louth by a 77-vote margin over Fred McKenzie.

In North Bay, with 46 of 48 polls reported early today, former Mayor Magic Dickerson made a successful comeback against incumbent Cecil Hewitt and Deputy Mayor Jim Kelly. Mr. Dickerson, who was mayor for seven years before leaving office, had more than twice the vote cast for Mr. Hewitt.

In St. Edmund Township, Daniel Wyoosh ousted J. P. Johnstone by 13 votes in the battle for reeve, while in the town of Mattawa, Derek Atkinson was elected mayor over former mayor Salem Turcotte. Mr. Atkinson replaces incumbent Dr. S. F. Monestime, who is resigning because of ill health.

A fire during the ballot counting in Oakville's new municipal building didn't prevent former councillor Mc Logan Andet- son from defeating incumbent Mayor Allan Masson.

Mr. Masson had already conceded the election when the fire broke out.

North Bay and Lindsay Township voters both accepted liquor in plebiscites held Monday. FAVOR LIQUOR

The vote was 5,096 to 1,569 in favor of liquor in North Bay dining rooms and 82 to 54 in Lindsay Township.

It was the fourth time in less than 12 weeks that North Bay residents had to decide whether liquor should be sold by the glass.

The town of Blenheim decided to remain dry. The sale of liquor in dining lounges was turned down 648 to 474, short of the required 60-per-cent majority by 25 votes, while the sale of liquor under a lounge license was turned down 830 to 465, 15 ballots short.

Shares Bought For Wife Over Market Price

TORONTO (CP) — The preliminary hearing of John Campbell, former director of the Ontario Securities Commission, on two charges of breach of trust by a public officer opened Monday with a stock promoter telling of buying stock owned by Mr. Campbell's wife at 18 cents a share over the market price.

David Winchell, president of Winchell Corp. Ltd., a firm which deals in mining and oil securities, said he bought 5,000 shares of Chesterville Mines Ltd. for $1,837 last May 18. This is about 32½ cents a share.

Later evidence from Lester Lower, assistant secretary at the Toronto Stock Exchange, showed the shares sold on the exchange at a high of 32 cents and a low of 20 cents on May 14 and 15, 1964.

Mr. Winchell said he bought the stock because he was asked to do so by his stockbroker, Harry Richardson, a partner in the firm of Tom and Barni.

Mr. Richardson testified that the shares were owned by Mrs. Campbell and he felt some responsibility because the shares had dipped in price after they were purchased.

James Goad, partner in the firm of Goad and Goad and sold the hearing that Mr. Campbell's wife opened an account at his company in April, 1964.

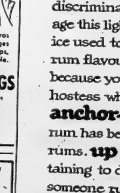
BOUGHT SHARES

Mr. Goad, who said he had known Campbell for about 20 years, said Mrs. Campbell bought 2,500 shares of Windfall Oils and Mines Ltd., 2,000 White Star Copper and 5,000 Chesterville last April.

May 15 the shares were delivered to the offices of Tom and Barni in exchange for payment. The transfer, he said, was on the instruction of Mrs. Campbell in exchange for the shares J. L. Goad received a cheque for $3,683.

Arthur Barni of Tom and Barni said a charge of $4,074.50 was made against an account in the name of Mrs. B. Campbell and $1,837.50 was charged against Winchell Corp Ltd.

Both Mr. Barni and Mr. Richardson testified that the shares were later sold out of the account on the instructions of Mr. Campbell.



Mr. Campbell was appointed director of the Ontario Securities Commission at a salary of $14,500 a year in November, 1961. He was suspended by Attorney-General Arthur Wishart for possible conflict of interest in August, 1964 and resigned a month later.

The hearing continues.

Distinctive National Anthem, More Distinctive Paper Money Is Requested in Jaycee Brief

OTTAWA (CP)—A distinctive national anthem and more distinctive paper money are requested in a brief the 8,500-member Canada Junior Chamber of Commerce is submitting today to the royal commission on bilingualism and biculturalism.

The brief says more Canadian symbols like the new flag are needed.

The Jaycees, without referring directly to the Queen's photograph on currency, suggest that pictures of "prominent Canadians of both cultures" be used in future; such as the Fathers of Confederation and past prime ministers.

"We have great faith in a country based on a duality of language and culture."

Other proposals in the Jaycee brief:

—Compulsory instruction in fesiors from Kingston headed the second language, French or English, in all primary and secondary schools.

—Merit or financial incentives for bilingual teachers.

—A bilingual federal district in Ottawa-Hull.

—Teaching such subjects as history and literature in the second language, perhaps using personnel from the proposed Company of Young Canadians.

—Bilingual broadcasts and student and teacher exchange programs.

HOPES FOR UNITY

The Jaycee group, which split with its Quebec affiliate two years ago in a language and organizational dispute, says it still hopes to restore unity to the movement.

A group of 18 university pro- by Dr. John S. Ellis of the Royal Military College calls for an extension of bilingualism to all provincial legislatures, courts and schools.

—A bilingual federal district in Ottawa-Hull.

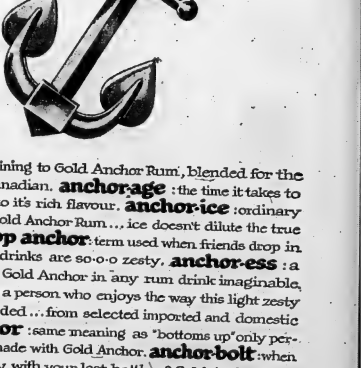
"We believe that every Canadian child should have the right to be educated in the English language or in the French language, at the parents' choice, anywhere in Canada," the brief says.

"The withholding or the explicit denial of such a right by several provinces in the past has probably done more than anything else to cause French-Canadians to feel that they do not stand on an equal footing with English - Canadians throughout the country."

The professors also propose higher tax equalization payments to the provinces, extension of the CBC French networks and more provincial educational committee to coordinate school programs.

The Canadian Welfare Council, representing 480 social agencies and associations, says it is completely bilingual in its operations and that French-Canadian participation has increased in recent years.

The Co-operative Union of Canada and le Conseil Canadien de la Co-operation, two autonomous bodies grouping 1,600 co-ops, say in a joint brief that their relations have never been more harmonious.



The Canadian Museums Association, professional body of museum curators, calls for bigger federal grants to train museum staffers and step up translation of publications.

Curling buffs and "buffeeses" of the modern era would never be taken for the famous "village blacksmith with bread and sinewy hands."

The current brame and stanees come in assorted sizes—but it was not the same back in the old days when the Ifleland clans strode down from the mountains to do curling battle.

The brawny chiefs and clansmen of those brawling, boisterous eras would make a present day pro wrestler look like a half-starved pygmy. They had thighs and biceps that would turn a prize-winning Clydesdale green with envy.

No wonder. No puny little 42-pound "stan" for the kilted teasers of those days. The original curlers developed their physiques by "cranning" chunks of rock, the heaviest of which weighed 117 pounds.

According to an article in a recent issue of a national curling magazine this "baby" was called the "Ushilee Scone" and was one of many of its kind and weight that were taken from the Ericht Channel and Scottish riverbeds.

Shaped by water action the big stones came in assorted shapes, weights and sizes and "some were like ducks, others three-cornered, and others flat as a frying pan."

But the doughty chiefs inserted handles of a kind and used them in the days when curling resembled quoit pitching. But some crafty men of the day used smaller flat stones that developed out of distance pitching.

So far as is known, the story says, the oldest curling stone in the world is one bearing the date 1511. It is of the "kettle" type with a nearly oblong shape with top and bottom rounded and sides straight. It weighed about 26 pounds.

Next came the channel-stones, used like a temple bowling ball with finger and thumb holes. Later, handles were added. From these emerged the rounded circular stone, the forerunner of today's symmetrical, highly polished piece of granite.

It was only when handles were added that any degree of accuracy could be given the delivery. Before, the player gripped the underside of the stone, swung it from behind and gave it a mighty throw.

The channel-stones were a fascinating lot. Each moved in its own way. One of them "The Cockit Hat," a triangular terror, unless hit dead on would not move but rotate in "great perfection."

"The Cheese," another 76-pound horror was last used in 1846. They were plentiful at the time so the laddies used to leave them on the ice after the curling scenes and they would sink when the spring melted the ice.

The hardy Scots gradually brought the stones to some degree of perfection with the result curling began to attract other countries. Scottish immigrants brought the sport to Canada.

Early garrison officers here improvised stones by filling metal-rimmed hubs of gun carriages with molten metal and inserting iron handles. These became popular and in many cases were preferred to the Scottish stones. Other curlers fashioned "stones" from hardwood weighted with lead.

Today the curling stone that counts is the granite rock. Until recently virtually all the granite for these stones came from Scotland and from a wave-lashed island thrusting out from the Firth of Clyde, 10 miles west of Ayr. Ayrshire natives, Alba (long) and Wales are the principal sources of the world's curling granite.

"Cutting" a curling stone is a work of art requiring great technical skill and extraordinary patience. You just don't take a chunk of the granite, fit it with a handle and go curling. Sometimes over 100 tons of granite must be "felled" to get 100 tons of usable stone.

The story says that even when the blocks are ready for transformation into curling stones there is considerable waiting. A core at least the diameter of a curling stone is cut with diamonds from the block and if the surface reveals hairline cracks, the core must be rejected—such a stone would split or chip in play.

Announce New Healing Substance... Shrinks Piles, Checks Itch

A renowned research institute has found a unique healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids painlessly. It relieves itching and discomfort in minutes and speeds up healing of the injured, inflamed tissues.

One hemorrhoidal case history, after another reported "very striking improvement." Pain was promptly and gently relieved . . . actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

Among these case histories were a variety of hemorrhoidal conditions. Relief even occurred in cases of long standing, and most important of all, results were so thorough that this improvement was maintained over a period of many months.

This was accomplished with a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne) which quickly helps heal injured cells and stimulates growth of new tissue. Bio-Dyne is offered in ointment and suppository form called Preparation H.

In addition to actually shrinking hemorrhoids, Preparation H lubricates and makes elimination less painful. It helps prevent infection which is a principal cause of hemorrhoids.

Just ask your druggist for Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H Ointment (with a special applicator).

Abel put Norm Ullman at left wing with centre Alex Delvecchio and Gordie Howe at right wing and in seven consecutive victories since Nov. 28, the line has scored 18 of the team's 41 goals and has picked up 29 assists.

Ullman, who played at centre in his 10 previous seasons with the Red Wings, leads the line with six goals and 12 assists.

Statistics released by National Hockey League headquarters today show that in three games last week, Ullman had a goal and six assists, giving him 30 points for the season, including 18 assists. That is one assist less than league-leading Bobby Rousseau of Montreal Canadiens. Ullman is third in the scoring.

Says Russ Could Ice Pro Team

TORONTO (CP) — Sam Pollock, general manager of Montreal Canadiens, said Monday that the calibre of hockey in Russia has reached the point where a professional team could be formed in that country to play top pro teams in North America.

"It always comes up about "who's best—them or us," he said. "They're good enough now to have a pro team play our best pros and leave their amateurs play our amateurs."

He said that in the next five years a world pro league could be formed but that to remove national restrictions, Russia's political approach to hockey must be broken down.

Pollock said professional teams would be happy to play the Russians now, but under National Hockey League rules.

The Russians play under International Ice Hockey Federation rules which, unlike the NHL, prohibit body checking in the opposing team's zone. Shooting the puck in the direction of the ice during a penalty is also prohibited under international rules while allowed in the NHL.

Split Decision
Fullmer Scores Surprise Victory

BOSTON (AP)—Don Fullmer scored a surprise 12 -round, split-decision victory over Joey Archer Monday night to defend his U.S. middleweight boxing championship.

The generally listless bout resulted in only the second loss for Archer in 50 fights.

Fullmer, fifth-ranked by the World Boxing Association, played catch most of the night, trying to get the elusive Archer. But Archer, second-ranked contender for the world crown, kept a speedy left jab in Fullmer's face, keeping him off balance and unable to land solid punches.

Fullmer lost the early rounds until he began to get Archer in clinches on the ropes. Then he was able to do some damage, cutting Archer three times—under the right eye, over the left eye and on the bridge of the nose.

Fullmer, younger brother of former world middleweight champion Gene Fullmer, first got to Archer in the seventh round, cutting him over the left eye while the two were battling on the ropes.

Both judges gave the fight to Fullmer, but referee Jimmy McFarland voted for Archer 117-115. The Associated Press card had Archer in front by a similar margin.

Judge Harry Sundberg voted 119-114 for Fullmer and Alex ander Siroli voted 117-114.

Generals Lead Loop By Five

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—First-place Oshawa Generals increased their lead to five points in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series Monday night by dumping London Nationals 6-0.

Wayne Cashman and Bob Black led Oshawa with two goals each. Bobby Orr added a goal and two assists. Bill Heindl also scored.

The Nationals, winless in their last 13 games although they've had two ties, are in the league cellar, five points back of St. Catharines Black Hawks.

Led by Orr, Oshawa scored twice in the opening 71 seconds and added a third late in the first period. The Generals also scored once in the second period and twice in the third.

Will Name Five-Man Board

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice-President Hubert H. Humphrey today names a five-man board to try to arbitrate the disputes that consist of amateur sports in the United States.

A leading arbitrator is expected to be named to head the efforts to reach agreement between the Amateur Athletic Union and the National Collegiate Athletic Association.

The dispute, centered mainly on track and field, threatens to wreck the U.S. team in the 1968 Olympics at Mexico City.

The arbitration board is scheduled to report back by Feb. 15.

Lacroix Tops Juniors

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Centre Andre Lacroix of Peterborough Petes has opened up a two-point lead in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A scoring race despite a handicap of two games to his closest pursuers.

Lacroix picked up two goals and four assists in the one game played by his third-place team last week to move ahead of Dan O'Shea and Bobby Orr of Oshawa Generals.

Lacroix has 16 goals and 37 assists for 53 points. O'Shea and Orr both have 51 points.

Lacroix led the league for most of last season before a late injury forced him to surrender the scoring title to Ken Hodge, now with Chicago Black Hawks of the National Hockey League.

THE "WINTER EXPRESS"—Problems gone and gone, bad traction and good service go on and on. That is the story of the "Winter Express" tire. Its tread design and rubber compound were borne cause to know, and kindly refer to on "Old Faithful" . . . a tire with a 9 year proven record as a snow-shoveler. As with all other winter tires, the performance of Winter Express on ice and wet wood-packed snow left room for improvement. And so "Old Faithful" has been redesigned to assume a wonderful ice grip—and at no extra cost! Check the cost of the tire, then add another 10 per cent for the cost of 10 per tire tax for small sizes, more for heavier sizes. Study the tread design of the Winter Express and you'll see why it's a tire which no rubber trend parlour alone can provide.

Juniors Will Play It Russian Way

Tonight in Toronto

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Hockey Association Junior A All-Stars will try to beat the Russians at their own game when they play the touring Soviet team in an exhibition hockey game here tonight.

The OHA team, with Toronto Marlboros forming its nucleus, will stress positional hockey against the Russians, winners of the first two games of their eight - game Canadian tour.

"It'll be tough for these juniors to adapt themselves after playing a wide - open game" said Gus Bodnar, former National Hockey League star who will coach the OHA team. "But that's new Windsor Bulldogs beat them a few years back and no Canadian team has beaten them since.

"The Russians check closely and when they're on the offensive you never see them shoot the puck in and chase it. They carry it in and they have tremendous puck control."

"And if we shoot the puck into their end we may never get it back," he said. "So we'll try it the way they do it."

The Russians ran through a one - hour drill Tuesday at Maple Leaf Gardens, scene of tonight's game which begins at 8 p.m. EST.

"We don't play it rough at home," he said, "but when we come over here we have to. An actor has to change for different scenes."

The OHA squad had its only workout as a team Monday night at Maple Leaf Gardens. The only player joining the team who is over junior age is Joey Bamford, goaltender with Fort William last season.

Marlboro players with the junior all-stars will be Barry Watson, Jim Keon, Gerry Meehan, Mike Byers, Brian Glennie Jim McKenney, Doug Dunville and Mike Corrigan.

Players from other teams include Bobby Orr and Danny O'Shea of Oshawa Generals, Andre Lacroix and Danny Grant of Peterborough Petes, Steve Clanderman and Ted Snell of Niagara Falls Flyers, Neil Clark of London Nationals and Serge Savard of Montreal Junior Canadiens.

Women's Ski Ratings

BERN (AP)—Ski aces from Canada, France, Austria, West Germany and the United States dominate the FIS ratings for women published Monday.

The ratings, worked out by the International Ski Federation on the basis of last year's performances, determine the starting order in the major races at the forthcoming season.

Canada's Nancy Greene and Jean Saubert of the United States were given top billing in the shorter races on the basis of their victories in last year's events in North America over some of Europe's best.

Both tied with Europeans girls with the ideal mark of zero points in the slalom. Nancy, from Rossland, B.C., led the giant slalom ratings.

Juniors Tie

NORTH BAY (CP) — North Bay Trappers of the Northern Ontario Hockey Association Junior A Series and Kitchener Rangers of the OHA Junior A series played to a 5-5 tie in an exhibition game here Sunday.

Randy Prior registered two goals for the Trappers with the others going to Ron Ringler, Ike Fiebe and Randy McArthur.

Bob Jones scored a pair for Rangers while John Beechy, Bob Cook and Bill Elway had one each.

Bears Have Chance

Packers, Colts Eye Crown

NEW YORK (AP)—It takes little mathematics expert to figure out all the permutations and combinations in the National Football League's Western Division race but Green Bay Packers can make it simple by winning Sunday at San Francisco.

Baltimore Colts also can win if they beat or tie Los Angeles Rams Saturday and the Packers lose Sunday.

The only chance for Chicago Bears to get into a tie situation is for the top two teams to lose. Here are the tie possibilities:

A. Green Bay loses 10-4 Chicago wins 10-4 Baltimore loses.

B. Green Bay ties 10-3-1 Baltimore wins 10-3-1.

The championship game will be played in the home park of the western champion, Jan. 2 with Cleveland Browns as the visitors and defending champions.

The tight second-place races in both conferences heighten interest in the Playoff Bowl at Miami, Jan. 9. Each player on a winning team in the Miami game gets $1,200 and each loser $500. In addition, each second-place team member will get about $1,000 as his cut of the championship game.

The New York Giants-Dallas Cowboys game Sunday at Yankee Stadium will decide the eastern second-place team.

The American Football League will have a replay of the 1964 title game with Buffalo Bills defending against San Diego. However, this time they will play at San Diego and the Chargers will have Lance Alworth in the lineup. Buffalo is the crippled team with its top receivers banged up.

ROMA BANNED

LONDON (AP) — Roma soccer team of Italy Monday was banned from the Inter - Cities Fairs Cup for three years because of misbehavior by its fans Oct. 6 when Chelsea played in Rome.

Hornets Lead AL Race

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Two Pittsburgh sharpshooters and Rochester veteran Dick Gamble have broken the Quebec log-jam atop the American Hockey League's individual scoring race.

Murray Hall and Norm Beaudin of the resurgent Hornets have moved into the first and third spots in the point derby, latest AHL figures reveal, while Gamble has jumped to second. A week ago, Quebec Aces led three of the top four positions.

Hall, with 14 goals and 20 assists, has a one-point edge over Gamble, whose 25 assists make him the leading playmaker. Beaudin is next with 30 points on 15 goals and 15 assists, followed by Ed Hockstra of Quebec Aces, 19-13—32.

Alain Caron of Buffalo Bisons leads the league with 19 goals but has only six assists for a share of 10th place. Rochester's Jim Pappin, tied with Caron and Ray Cullen of Baltimore Clippers at 25 points, has fired 14 goals in 14 games with the Amerks.

Tributes Paid To Rickey

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Branch Rickey, one of baseball's dominant figures for a half century, was eulogized Monday at his funeral as the man who opened baseball to players of all colors and creeds.

In the crowd of almost 300 persons in Grace Methodist Church was Jackie Robinson, the first Negro to play the major leagues. Rickey brought him up to the old Brooklyn Dodgers' organization when baseball was its general manager in 1947.

Rickey died last Thursday at age 83 in Columbia, Mo. He suffered a heart attack Nov. 13 in Columbia while accepting membership in the Missouri Sports Hall of Fame.

The body was taken to Lucasville, Ohio, near Portsmouth, where graveside services and burial in the Rickey family plot are planned today.

DEATHS ARE VIOLENT

Deaths from accidents, alcoholism, suicide and homicide in Alaska outnumber those from any other group of causes.

Kickers Breaking Records

NEW YORK (AP) — Pete Gogolak of Buffalo Bills has booted his way into the record book and his American Football League kicking colleagues are following suit.

The Bills' soccer-style placekicking specialist smashed the AFL field goal mark last Sunday with a pair of three-pointers. That lifted his season total to 28, one more than the previous record set by Gene Mingo of Denver Broncos three years ago. It also boosted his league-leading point total to 115.

Meanwhile, AFL place-kickers, including Gogolak, have gone through 52 league games with a perfect record for extra-point boots. With one weekend remaining on the schedule the kickers have converted 244 times in 244 tries. Tommy Brooker of Kansas City Chiefs hasn't missed in 130 attempts as a pro.

Gogolak has hit on 28 of 44 field goal attempts and added 31 consecutive points - after - touchdown for his 115 - point total. Gino Cappelletti of Boston "patriots trails the Buffalo booter by 11 points.

Arbour Injured

May Move Kelly Back

Barks Get Bite!

WINNIPEG (CP) — Football coach Bud Grant was fined $10 and court costs last week when he pleaded guilty to a charge of being the keeper of barking dogs contrary to an anti-noise bylaw in suburban Tuxedo.

The charge against Grant, coach of champion Winnipeg Blue Bombers of the Western Football Conference, was placed after neighbors complained.

Grant, an ardent hunter who keeps two retrievers, had pleaded not guilty to the charge. The case was scheduled to be heard Monday in provincial magistrate's court.

However, it was revealed that Grant and Tuxedo town solicitor Walter Ritchie quietly appealed before Magistrate G. L. Cossley Wednesday.

Grant changed his plea to guilty and was fined with the alternative of 10 days in jail.

PICK MANAGER

NEW YORK (AP) — Baseball's New York Mets announced Monday the appointment of Danny Menendez as general manager of their Jacksonville farm club in the International League.

TORONTO (CP) — Defenceman Al Arbour will be lost to Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League for two weeks with a knee injury, manager - coach Punch Imlach said Monday.

Arbour, called up from Rochester Americans of the American League to replace the injured Bob Baun, hurt the knee Sunday in New York in a 1-1 tie against the Rangers.

Arbour was outstanding in both games he played before his injury. He claimed he stepped on a stray puck at centre ice" when nobody was near him. My feet went one way and my body the other."

Imlach said he will announce today who will be brought up from Rochester to replace Arbour.

Rumors said centre Red Kelly may be moved to defence. Kelly, an all-star defenceman with Detroit Red Wings for 13 years, hasn't played the position for four- or five years.

Leafs now have only three healthy defencemen — Allan Stanley, Tim Horton and Kent Douglas. Marcel Pronovost is playing but is suffering from pain in his chest, where he had a cyst removed last week.

SEEKS RELEASE

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Jack Molinas, a former Columbia University basketball star convicted in 1963 of trying to fix a basketball game, applied Monday in federal court for his release from prison. Molinas is serving a 7½-to-10-year term.

Will Enter Big Ones

Palmer Plans Comeback

NEW YORK (AP) — Arnold Palmer plans to step up rather than slow down on his tournament schedule next year in an effort to regain his former position as the No. 1-man in professional golf.

"I'm going to give it a real run," said the golfing capitalist from Latrobe, Pa., Monday.

"Whereas I played in only 15 tournaments last year, I'll probably play in 20 during the coming season.

"I plan to go for all the big ones: The Masters, the National Open, the PGA and the British Open."

Palmer, tanned and looking fit, was in New York to receive a plaque Monday night as a member of the 1965 all-American golf team, picked by Golf magazine.

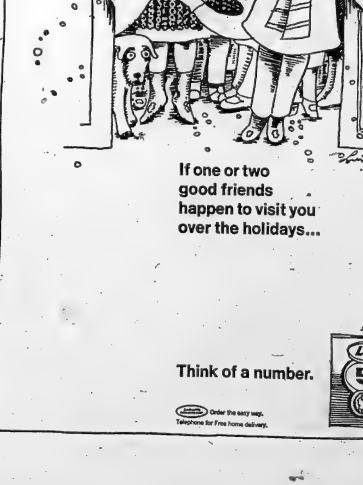
The general of "Arnie's Army" was picked for the second straight year for his proficiency with the long irons.

Palmer acknowledged he was disappointed with his performance in 1965 when he won only one tournament and earned $57,777.71, officially, little more than one-third of the amount grabbed by leader Jack Nicklaus.

Palmer refuses to panic over his slump, which he insists is temporary.

"I know I've got a lot of good golf left in my system," he said.

Cuozzo Due For Surgery



BALTIMORE (AP) — Gary Cuozzo, injured replacement quarterback of Baltimore Colts, will undergo surgery today, the National Football League club announced Monday.

Cuozzo, filling in for the injured John Unitas, suffered a slight separation of his left shoulder Sunday as the Colts dropped a 42-27 decision to Green Bay Packers and lost their Western Conference lead.

Halfback Tom Matte, a former quarterback at Ohio State, will replace Cuozzo as the Baltimore signal caller.

Old Pep And Sugar!

BOSTON (AP)—Their ages were similar and their championship backgrounds easily recognizable Monday night as two former ring greats, Willie Pep and Sugar Ray Robinson, engaged in a fun-filled, nostalgic boxing exhibition at Boston Garden.

Willie, 43, a former featherweight champion who lost only 10 of 241 pro fights, and the incomparable Sugar Ray, 45, donned the gloves after being honored as "all-time kings of the ring" by New England boxing fans.

They were presented trophies by the Massachusetts Boxing Commission chairman Eddie Urbed, and were saluted by such former fighters as Jack Sharkey, Gene Fullmer, Kid Kaplan and Bat Battalino.

Robinson, former welterweight and middleweight champion, called Willie "the greatest boxer I saw in my time."

In 1938, Pep and Robinson, then aspiring young amateurs, met in a three-round bout. Sugar Ray, then a featherweight, won a decision over Pep, who weighed a mere 112 pounds.

Monday night's fight was strictly for fun and laughs in four one-minute rounds. Pep was more business-like than Robinson, even using a mouthpiece.

Curling Champions Clash

TORONTO (CP)—Champions from three countries will be among eight rinks entered in the 1966 Tournament of Champions Bonspiel at Maple Leaf Gardens, scheduled for Jan. 11-14.

Bud Somerville's world champion foursome from Superior, Wis., has entered the annual curling event along with Scotland's championship rink skipped by Chuck Hay of Perth and Terry Braunstein's Canadian champions from Winnipeg. They will be joined by Ontario champion Jack Polylank's rink from Kirkland Lake and three returnees from the Ernie Richardson rink of last year's event — defending champion Hec Gervais of Edmonton, runner-up Doug Cameron of Charlottetown, and Richardson rink of Regina.

ONE HECK OF A TIDDLYWINK CUP — This group of Hamilton youngsters enjoys a game of tiddlywinks with a somewhat special cup — The Grey Cup. The cup, symbol of Canadian professional football supremacy, was residing in the home of Peter Karcz, 3, (left.) Peter's father, Zeno, was voted outstanding Canadian player of the year and is a member of the Grey Cup champion Hamilton Tiger-Cats. Also in on the game (from left) are: Gerald Gauvreau, 10; Gary Jacklin, 11; Danny Gauthier, 7; and Stephen Karcz, Peter's seven-year-old brother. (CP Photo)

The Trots

WINDSOR, Oct. (CP)—David Hal B., owned by John Pratlas and Jim Foxlee, both of London, Ont., won the featured eighth race Monday night at Windsor Raceway.

David Hal B. was driven by Gary Crowe of Elmvale, Ont., and covered the mile in 2:10 2-5, finishing two lengths ahead of Irish Blue.

BACK FLUORIDATION

KINGSTON (CP)—City Council voted 11-4 Monday in support of fluoridation. The city's residents had voted in favor of the use of sodium fluoride in their water supply in 1958 and regulating equipment was installed then, but has never been used.

PHILLIES BALK

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Philadelphia's proposed $25,000,000 sports stadium ran into unexpected trouble Monday from its major tenant—Philadelphia Phillies, National League baseball club. Mayor James Tate said the Phillies have refused to sign a lease. The Phillies argue that the stadium was designed primarily for football and that the National Football League's Eagles got the best from the proposed rectangular design.
